When the Westerly boxers make their appearance at the Duwell amateur boxing show at the state armory on Tuesday, March 13, they will be fighting for the first time as members of the Duwell boxing team. This announcement was made last night after Duwell officials had returned from Westerly where arrangements had been completed whereby Earl Champlain (Big Boy Burlap), Joe Russo, welterweight champion of Rhode Island; Joe Bruno, Young Chape, Frank Vicillo and Young Luzzio became members of the Duwell team.

The addition of the Rhode Islanders is the first step towards making the Duwell team the strongest in this section of New England. Further reinforcements will be made as soon as plans have been completed. Although the Westerly boys will be of no help to the Duwells at the state championship tournament to be staged in New Haven in April, they will add considerable prestige to the local club's representation in the boxing field. As a result of the new acquisition, the Duwell A. A. will be represented by two men, Joe Russo, welterweight, and Al Koziol, featherweight, at the New England championships, to be staged in Boston Monday. Regardless of how they make out the two R. I. champs will appear here in Norwich on the following night.

When seen last night, Big Boy Burlap inquired if an opponent had been secured for him for next Tuesday. He stated that he was sick of coming to Norwich merely for the sake of making the trip and would expect some action for his next appearance. According to present indications, the big colored boy will be accommodated next week.

The Bristol Endees have always proven a tough customer for the Plainfield Pros and tonight they come to Plainfield with strong hopes of beating the Pros for the third time this season.

The double-official system has been inaugurated in the church leagues. Joe Balcone is the new man, calling them as umpire, while Jack Murphy continues to show fine work as referee.

The Bearingmakers hold two decisions over the Plainfield club, but both by close scores, 19 to 17 and 28 to 27, to be exact, and are aching to take this third meeting and clinch supremacy for the year. However, the Pros with their strongest front are figuring strongly on upholding the supremacy of eastern Connecticut.

The preliminary brings together the Stonington All-Stars and the Plainfield Buddies.

N. Y. COMMISSION STILL FROWNS ON JOE DUNDEE

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission continued to hold thumbs down on Joe Dundee, the welterweight champion, today, and prepared to take steps to bar his manager, Wax Waxman, from New York rings for life.

The commission, through William Muldoon, 82 year old static savant, charged that Waxman was the direct cause of Dundee's failure to go through with a match against Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, in Los Angeles, last November, despite the recent collapse of charges of false advertising, brought against Dundee and Waxman in California courts because of the fiasco, the titleholder will not be reinstated here until he is cleared of all blame by the California boxing commission, Muldoon said.

"If I have my way," said Muldoon, "Waxman will be barred permanently from operating in this state."

The stand of the commission came as a surprise following a recent announcement that acquittal on the California charges would result in Dundee's immediate reinstatement here. It spiked for the time being, Tex Rickard's hope of promoting a match between the titleholder and Ace Hudkins before the close of the indoor season. Dundee has been under contract for the match here since last November.

The commission refused to rate Tom Heeney, conqueror of Jack Delaney last week, above Jack Sharkey in the list of challengers for Gene Tunney's heavyweight crown. Heeney's check for $2,500 to bind the challenge was turned down.

KOLEHMAINEN MAY FINALLY RUN INTO "BIG MONEY"

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—C. C. Pyle's transcontinental foot-race, popularly known as the "bunion derby" has brought back into the limelight one of the greatest marathon runners of all time, Willie Kolehmainen of the well known Kolehmainens of Finland.

If his bunions do not succumb to the long grind Willie may find the end of the big-money rainbow some 16 years after he started out in quest of it.

Back in 1912 Willie turned "pro" at a time when there was much hub-bub over professional long-distance running. Tom Longboat, Alfred Shrubb, Johnny Hayes, St. Ives and others were in the public eye. It looked like a chance to "clean up," for Willie was the fleetest of the Kolehmainens. He collected world's professional records for distances of 12 miles up to the standard marathon route but didn't collect much money. No promoters were offering $50,000 purses for grand tours in those days.

Now Willie has put down his spade, hammer, trowel, or whatever laboring implement he was using and is setting the pace for the Pyle pack.

LEO LERMOND ENTERS MANHATTAN COLLEGE MEET

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)— Leo Lermond, the winter's outstanding distance runner, has entered the two mile handicap race at the Manhattan college meet, to be held at the 102nd Engineers armory March 14.

The young Boston A. A. distance star has had a winning streak this year equalled only by that of his clubmate, Lloyd Hahn. Lermond has won more than a dozen two mile races, including the national indoor championship. He lost only in the miss-and-out race at the Millrose games, when he was caught napping in last place and forced to drop out.

Opposing Lermond in the Manhattan meet will be Eddie Kirby, of Newark A. C., and Mel Dalton, of Seton Hall college, who finished second and third in the K. of C. two mile race.

BABE RUTH REPORTS TO YANKEE CAMP; "DAZZY" VANCE SIGNS WITH BROOKLYN

ATLANTA, Ga., March 6—(AP)—Photographers bobbed up from every side and autograph collectors besieged Babe Ruth today as the home run king took his first real baseball workout of the season with the New York Yankees at St. Petersburg.

In fact, the clamor worried the bambino to such an extent that he hurried to his hotel as soon as the workout was completed but not before he had driven the ball out of the park twice in batting practice. He indulged in a short fielding practice session along with batting a few.

Eight Teams Ready for Games

Bill McKechnie, St. Louis National pilot, proved the first to use his pruning knife in Florida, sending Jimmy Bivens, infielder, to Houston of the Texas league.

The regulars and Yannigans continued play in the camp of the Boston Braves, a five-five score resulting, in six innings.

Muddy Ruel has officially signed his Senator contract and Washington now has its full squad intact.

Al Simmons Due Today

The Athletic Yannigans showed the regulars how to win ball games by trouncing them 11 to 5 in a nine inning tilt, despite Speaker's double and triple. Al Simmons is due in camp tomorrow.

President Barnard will honor the Detroit Tigers tomorrow with a once over at San Antonio, officials said, later announcing that the squad will play Minneapolis at San Antonio Saturday and Sunday and Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday of next week. Texas league squads were also placed on the exhibition schedule.

The workouts of the Cleveland Indians were extended to three hours daily at New Orleans.

Vance Signs

TAMPA, Fla., March 6—(AP)—Dazzy Vance, strike out king of National league pitchers, signde his 1928 contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Clearwater today. Unofficially it was said that Dazzy's demand for a two year contract at $20,000 a year was met although no official statement could be obtained.

Cubs

AVALON, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—Pilot Joe McCarthy turned his Chicago Cubs into trackmen during the morning workout today, putting them through a series of relay races to get their legs in good running order.

In the afternoon, although the field still was heavy from rains of the last two days, the Cubs leader sent his charges through a batting and pitching workout, with a little base work.

McCarthy had Guy Bush on the mound, for he is far from satisfied with the work of the hurler. Bush went through some heavy work. Following him on the mound was Sheriff Blake, who is blossoming out in good shape.

Hack Wilson, outfielder, and Gabby Hartnett, catcher, had to wear the old rubber shirt, used for taking off weight. They are the only players overweight.

Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 6.—(AP)—Clearing skies today brought out the Pittsburgh Pirates. National league champions, for a stiff two and a half hour workout. Rain held them indoors yesterday.

A short batting session was followed by a long infield workout for the regulars and a shorter one for the recruits. Manager Donie Bush said that time lost because of rain would necessitate that he give most of his attention from now on to the conditioning of the regulars. He postponed the opening Yannigan game to Thursday.

Jim Lindsley, a pitcher from San Antonio, threw a sharp drop which had the hitters driving the ball into the ground. The lancing of a boil on the neck of Pitcher John Miljus did not prevent his participating in the workout.

'BOUT SPORTS

Taftville and Danielson are preparing for the third game of their basketball series. When that happens, they usually prepare thoroughly for there is little love lost between these two communities. With the date of their game but two days hence, these two teams have eresorted to secrecy for the most part and little information is being given out as to their lineups.

One rumor the early part of the week had it that the Crescents would have three Original Celtics in their line-up, but that seems a bit far-fetched and well nigh impossible. However, Taftville, it is fairly safe to say, will have an addition or two as Danielson did for the second game.

WILLIMANTIC A. C. TO CO-OPERATE WITH DUWELLS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Both Willimantic A. C. and the Duwell A. C., are chartered under the Connecticut A. A. U.

ERICKSON TAKES LEAD IN TRANS-RACE

VICTORVILLE, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—Another flying son of Finland came in for laurels in the Transcontinental Foot derby today when Neeter Erickson showed his heels to the dwindling field of runners and walkers by covering 45.4 miles of the 3,400 mile course in six hours, 47 minutes and 20 seconds.

Erickson flashed into the lead in the third lap after a thrilling race with the Hopi Indian runner, Quamawahu, which took them past a trying up-hill desert course over the summit of Cajon Pass, 4,250 feet above sea level.

Honors in the first two laps of the race, 16 miles from Los Angeles to Puente, and 34.4 miles to Bloomington, had been won by a fellow countryman, Sturdy Willie Kolemainen of New York city. The long hard course from Bloomington to Victorville had its effects today and more than a dozen entrants dropped from the running, including Paolo Bruno, walking mate of Umek, the Italian entrant.

A checkup revealed that the Indian, Quamawahu, from Oraibi, Ariz., took the lead today for the total of elapsed running time since the racers left Los Angeles, despite the fact that Erickson outraced him into victorville.

Quamawahu overtook the Finn at the top of Cajon Pass and raced on even terms with him for several miles, but the Finn spurted away and was never headed in the last 20 miles. The Indian finished a few minutes after Erickson.

Quamawahu's elapsed time since the race started Sunday is 13:35:15 for the total of 97.1 miles. His time today was 6:55. Erickson's elapsed time was 13:39:20.

Arthur Newton of London, the 100-mile running champion of England, finished third today with a time of 7 hours, 10 minutes and 30 seconds; and a total elapsed time of 14:15:30. Newton, who is 44, passed half the field of 186 who started from Bloomington this morning to jump into third place on the Cajon grade.

The difficult course took heavy toll among the runners competing for the $48,500 in prize money for the five to reach New York. Long, steep mountainous grades sapped their strength and some barely were able to stumble along.

Kolehmainen, the Finnish runner, who was yesterday's leader, finished in 39th place in today's stretch. A sprained tendon suffered shortly after leaving Bloomington caused the Finn great trouble and he required 9 hours, 12 minutes and 30 seconds to finish today's grind. His total elapsed time since leaving Los Angeles is 15:03:-29.

JURY FINDS TURANO GUILTY OF RECKLESS DRIVING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 6—The second day of the trial of the reckless operation of automobile case, State vs. Charles Turano was continued in Washington county superior court this morning, Judge Arthur P. Sumner on the bench. Assistant Attorney General Louis V. Jackvony concluded the cross examination of defendant. The last witness for the defense was Frank Cozzolini, who testified that just previous to the collision, Dec. 14, 1927, involving three automobiles, at the junction of High and Pleasant streets, Turano had passed him driving the Pucci Chevrolet truck about 10 or twelve miles an hour. Defense, represented by Attorney C. E. Roche rested at 11.20 a. m. The pleas of the attorneys and charge of judge followed and the jury retired at 12.05 noon. It was 1.55 p. m. when Foreman Lippitt declared that the jury had found Turano guilty as charged. He will come before court for sentence Wednesday morning.

With the jury out, Prosecutor Jackvony arraigned Rosaria Tasco and Louis Salimeno for pleading to the charge of obstruction of police officers when the store of Pasquale Salimeno was raided for liquor. They changed their plea to nolo. Both cases were continued to Wednesday for sentence.

Mr. Jackvony stated that he was not ready this term to try the case of the state vs. William Minchen, charged with passing a red traffic beacon at the junction of Elm and School streets, and the case was passed.

Spare jurors were excused until Wednesday morning when Judge Sumner announced civil cases would be called and if not ready when reached would be marked passed. Court adjourned for the day at 2 p. m.

Judge Edward M. Burke Tuesday afternoon in Westerly probate court disposed of the following probate matters:

Estate of Irvine O. Chester. Petition received from Miss Bertha M. Brown stating that the testator died Feb. 3, 1928, a resident of Westerly, leaving a will in which she was named as executrix, and requesting that the estate be probated and letters testimentary be issued to her. Annie L. Edmond, Frances C. Dutton and Bertha E. Brown appeared as witnesses. With no objection, the petition was granted and will was admitted to probate. Bertha E. Brown was confirmed as executrix and bond fixed at $30,000 without surety. Thomas Perry was named appraiser.

Estate of Edna H. Rogers. Petition received that the estate of the deceased who died Nov. 16, 1912, intestate, be probated. Petition granted and C. E. Roch and T. E. Perrault of the Moose lodge of Attleboro, Mass., was present and spoke on Mooseheart, the Moose home at Mooseheart, Ill., for the little children of members, also the mothers, sons, daughters and wives of deceased members. He said that the home was a city in itself with schools, also churches of every denomination. Moose have located in northern Florida, is the home for elderly members of the order. A social and dance followed the meeting with the serving of refreshments. The committee in charge was Francis K. Gent, James McCormick and Leo Dunham.

An order was voted Monday by Westerly council that no dog shall be allowed on the public ways of the town unless muzzled or on a leash. On Tuesday morning under direction of the law enforcement officer of the town, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown the police officers started on the war path—or rather dog path. Patrolman Robert M. Kessell brought in the first dog, a small collei, which was not living up to the expectations of the town fathers. From then on they came, unwilling, at the end of a rope with the other end in the grasp of an officer. At noon six were incarcerated in one of the lattice cages in the cell room of the police station. They ranged from large to small also presented a variety of colors and dispositions. Some appeared to be cast down at their ignominious fate and appeared melocholy in their unnatural surroundings while others grew morose and growled at the approach of anyone, usually the smaller the dog the bigger the growl.

Connecticut dogs on crossing the Pawcatuck river boundary line lost the protection of the sovereign state and this thought must have been uppermost in the mind of a large airedale which six times was seen to approach the dead line by the watchful officer on duty in Dixon square armed with concealed rope. On the seventh try the dog got by when the back of the fastest officer on the force was turned—but his victory was as short as his liberty proved to be. A friendly youngster pushed open a second-floor business block door with the cry of "Here Rex!" as he saw the officer. The officer mounted the stairs and at the end of the long hall collared the quarry and he was soon on his way to the calibooose. At 1 p. m. nine dogs were tail-wagging or growling in the station and at 5 p. m. the number had grown to fifteen. Chief Brown has requested owners of missing dogs to report at the police station to claim their dogs which will be held for twenty-four hours before being executed or otherwise having their cases disposed of according to dog laws.

Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, the funeral of Mrs. Mary DiPietro was held from her home, 11 Pearl street. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated at 8.30 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., with Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M., deacon and Rev. J. F. Quinn, sub-deacon. STONINGTON

AMERICAN VELVET MILL FIRE DOES $5,000 DAMAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, March 6—At 4.30 a. m. today an alarm was sounded from Box 14 for a fire in the dye-house of the American Velvet Co. plant. Three companies answered. The fire was a difficult one to fight on account of a blaze in a barrel of sulphur. Three of the firemen were overcome by the fumes and required medical attention Superintendent Simonson of the velvet mill said that a barrel of black sulphur dye had been received yesterday afternoon at the plant and when opened spontaneous combustion occurred. The chemical action of the dye in the same barrel this morning became so hot that the wooden barrel burned, and clouds of black smoke from the smouldering sulphur poured from the building. The heat generated was not sufficient to start the automatic sprinklers.

Water damage to the dye stock of the room was estimated at $5,000.

The joint committees of the Community Fair held a meeting in the fire company rooms Monday evening. The treasurer, Miss Margaret McGrath reported net proceeds of $1220.84. GENERAL MOTORS REACHED NEW HIGH RECORD OF 150 IN SPIRITED ADVANCE

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—General Motors led another spirited advance in prices in today's stock market, touching a new high record at 150, up 8 1-2 points net, on a total turn-over of more than 450,000 shares. Gains in most of the other active issues ran from 2 to 8 points although U. S. Steel common, Consolidated Gas, Paramount Famous Players and a few other recent favorites showed small recessions on profit-taking. Business was not in as large a volume as yesterday, although the day's sales ran well above 2 1-2 million shares.

Except for the continued ease of money rates, there was nothing in the outside news to explain the rise in stock prices. The sluggishness of the market last month had resulted in the creation of a large short interest in many issues which was taken advantage of by "bull" pools plentifully supplied with funds to carry on their operations. The rapidity of the rise resulted in the touching off of a number of "stop-loss" orders placed by "short" interests, putting them in competition with the fresh buying which poured into the market from all sections of the country. Customers' rooms in the principal commission houses, which were practically deserted a week ago, have been crowded during the past few days, testifying to the increase in public interest.

The general market suffered a temporary sinking spell around mid-day when weakness developed in several of the rubber shares on rumors of large inventory losses as a result of the recent drop in crude rubber. U. S. Rubber common and first preferred touched new low levels for the year at 42 1-4 and 88 3-4, respectively, selling of the last-named reviving fears for the safety of the dividend. Goodyear lost 2 points and Kelly-Springfield 1 1-4. U. S. Steel common closed fractionally lower at 142 1-4 after having touched 143 3-8.

Trading in General Motors started off at a fairly slow pace, compared with the two preceding sessions. In the noon reaction, the stock dipped down to 145 3-4, but started up by early afternoon and closed right at the top with a gigantic outburst of buying in the last few minutes, one block of 23,000 shares changing hands at 150. The daily turnover in steel was less than 40,000 shares. Hudson, Hupp, Packard and Willys Overland common also reached new high ground, but failed to maintain all their gains.

Among the specialties, gains of 4 points or more were recorded by the American Tobacco issues, Bayuk Cigars, Calumet & Arizona, Cluett Peabody, Dupont, Greene Cananea Copper, International Harvester, Liquid Carbonic and Warren Bros. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe ran up 5 points on talk of a 10 for 1 split-up. H. K. Mallinson issues mounted to new high levels on buying influenced by the relief that the silk industry had turned the corner, and that current earnings were running far above those of the corresponding period last year.

Railroad shares held firm in rather quiet trading. Seaboard Air Line common, which touched 11 5-8 a few days ago, rallied 1 1-2 points to 15 and Canadian Pacific closed a point higher at 208 1-4 after having sold 1 1-2 points above that figure.

There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

Except for a drop of 10 points in Spanish pesetas to 16.79 cents, there were no changes of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Sterling Cables ruled steady just under $4.88.

Commodity markets were irregular with no changes of importance in either wheat, cotton or sugar.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Love Overcomes Fear

A mother puts aside all fear
When danger threatens those most dear.

—Old Mother Nature.

If ever there was a frightened Wood Mouse that one was little Mrs. Whitefoot when Farmer Brown's Boy pulled her nest out of the beehive. But, frightened as she was, she didn't run until she had all her babies. Such a a sight as little Mrs. Whitefoot was as she struggled along over the ground, while four babies clung to her and she carried the fifth.

Farmer Brown's Boy followed her. Now to little Mrs. Whitefoot Farmer Brown's Boy was simply a terrible giant. You can readily see how it would be so. Never in all her life had she been more frightened. She could have dropped all those babies and run. That would have been a simple thing to do. But such a thought never once entered the head of little Mrs. Whitefoot. Her babies were helpless and she must protect them. She must get them to a place of safety.

So she struggled on toward the old stone wall. Oh, how far away it seemed! If only she could reach that she would feel safe. She was so intent on watching this great giant following her that she didn't see another danger ahead of her. She didn't see Black Pussy the Cat. But Black Pussy saw her and Black Pussy's eyes gleamed as she crouched close to the ground and began to crawl swiftly toward that helpless little family. She was so intent on what she was doing that she didn't notice Farmer Brown's Boy at all.

But Farmer Brown's Boy saw Black Pussy and he saw what she was about to do. With a wild yell that frightened little Mrs. Whitefoot so that she dropped the baby she was carrying in her mouth, but which also frightened Black Pussy, Farmer Brown's Boy jumped forward. Black Pussy took to her heels. For just a moment little Mrs. Whitefoot forgot the baby she had been carrying. With the four others clinging to her she ran faster than she had been able to run before. Then she remembered the baby she had dropped. She stopped and looked back. The great giant was just picking up that baby. Little Mrs. Whitefoot's heart pounded in her breast pitifully. She looked toward the stone wall. She still had four babies. What should she do? She must save those four babies. Sorrowfully she turned back toward the old stone wall and hurried on.

Farmer Brown's Boy stood still watching her. The baby she had dropped was in his hand. It was a tiny little thing and he stroked it gently. It cuddled down in his hand without fear. You see, it was too young to know fear. Farmer Brown's Boy was watching to see just where Mother was going to take the four babies. He intended to follow her with the other one. Finally he saw her disappear in the old stone wall. He stopped to study the little mouse in his hand before carrying it over to the old wall. It was the first time he ever had so small a mouse in his hand.

When at length he was ready to move on and carry the little mouse over to the stone wall he looked up to get a great surprise. Little Mrs. Whitefoot was returning. Yes, sir, she was returning. She had left the four babies and she was actually coming back after that baby she had dropped. Farmer Brown's Boy squatted down and put his hand holding the baby down on the ground. The plucky little mother came on. He could see just how terribly afraid she was. He knew that he must look like a terrible great giant.

Nearer she came and nearer. She was running back and forth now, from side to side, looking for that baby. At last she discovered it in his hand. For a moment or two she hesitated. She ran forward and back. She stopped and looked up in Farmer Brown's Boy's face with such a look of love and fear mingled that it brought a lump into the throat of Farmer Brown's Boy. Then love won. She put her two forepaws on his hand and, reaching over, picked up the baby mouse. Then, holding her head high and carrying the baby by the back of the neck, she partly carried and partly dragged the tiny mouse over to the old stone wall. Love had overcome all fear.

(Copywright, 1928, by T. W. Burgess.)

The next story: "Whitefoot's House Is Scorned."

NOANK

VILLAGE FEATHERWEIGHT NOT TAUGHT FROM COOK BOOK

Kid Sherman, featherweight boxer of the village has kept out of the public eye for over a month. Nobody has heard from his training camp and people are wondering how Sherman is getting along in the boxing game. He was caught training by fellow workmen at the Sea Sled company and with only his manager, Tex Duncan McDonald showing him a thing or two about a pair of gloves, Monday morning. Up at the usual hour at 5.30, he was out for a short run of three miles along the road with Deer Butson, Noank's fast man. Then taking a rest for 40 minutes, Kid Sherman said "I am going to try a new trick—to take a short swim in the cold March water!" But Manager McDonald kicked over it and was afraid he would take cold. "If Sheriff Brown can do it I guess that it wouldn't hurt me!" So jumping into the harbor for a swim, he had a good rub-down by Howard Brown for a short while. To make his T. N. T. left busy with a 100-lb. dumb bell, putting it over his head a half dozen times. Then comes breakfast. Pancakes made as large as a fatman's vest and Karo to go with them, then milk from Rogers' cow Daisy to wash them down. Soon he was back to the training room and in his red suit was groomed for fourteen rounds of boxing. Lightfoot Deveau, a bad man from Shipyard avenue, with a right hand punch was the first to take on Sherman for five rounds. The men going at each other like a cat would tackle a mouse. The pride of the Fishing village caught Lightfoot Deveau on the chin that put him to the floor but getting up as Referee Abate counted five, Deveau stayed until the fifth round when a hard left hand bay-maker found Kid Sherman on the right side of the champ's head for a knockout. It was a mistake of the featherweight boxer that the blow was put over; but after a rest of ten minutes, the Kid was ready for the next fighter, Turk Brown, a hard-bitten steam fitter from Mystic was entered for three rounds. Sherman had fire in his eyes, using all his ring tricks to knock out Turk but he was tough as iron, staying out the three rounds, taking some hard blows. Kid Sherman won by a wide margin. The last fight was Dancing Dave Long of Buffalo, N. Y., who is here for a visit and claims he has sent many boxers to the floor, with the one two punch. It was for six rounds and Dancing Dave sprang from the ropes at the man in the red suit, put over the Buffalo hooks, but coming back with that T. N. T. left and right hard, upper cut, it sent Dancing Dave to the land of many dreams for five minutes. "So bring on any fighter my size and weight for a doughnut or a steamboat." Kid says, "and I will stay with them!" And I want one more chance at Buck Shea; He will find out that Kid Sherman did not learn fighting from a cook book, when we meet again."

The dance given in Unity hall recently by the Smoke Eaters of the fire company attracted another record crowd. Hanney's Noble five, music hounds of Niantic, played for long dances. The hall was set off with blue crepe paper. Floor Manager Sam Carson sprang a new one on the dancers, by having an old-fashioned prize waltz with only a violin playing. The judges were Edward Ashby and Frank Burdick. So going around the waxed floor for ten minutes were 30 couples. The judges picked Raymond Sistare and Miss Nellie Starr as winners. She was given a red apple as a prize, but found a $2.50 gold piece in it and her partner received a lemon as his reward and found a $2.50 gold piece inside. The crowd gave them a big hand. During intermission Carl Ashcraft was at the piano while Merton Beebe did a soft shoe dance. His new steps were snappy.

A. Rugg of Westville, Mass., was at Groton Long Point Monday looking over his new cottage being built there.

Several Menhaden steamers have been at the local shipyard for over a year. Good news came to the village Monday when Hayes and Anderson company reported that the steamers are going to be fitted over by painting and carpenter work. This will take several months meaning work for many. Mr. Latham of Long Island and Mr. Rose of New London will be in charge of the work. It will seem good to see about 50 men coming up from the shipyard again.

DESTROY WHISKEYS WORTH $45,000 AT NEW LONDON CUSTOMS HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 6—One more cargo of valuable liquor has been destroyed by the local customs house authorities. Yesterday afternoon 5,500 bottles of whiskey that had been in storage at the Bank street depository of contraband were emptied into the yard in the rear of the federal building. The liquor, valued at $45,000, was the cargo of the Eleanor IV, which was seized several months ago by the United States Coast Guard. Since the seizure the cargo had been in storage; the boat was sold at a marshal's sale. A force of customs officials were started on the task of the destruction of the liquor and it required several hours to accomplish the job. The bottled goods were taken to the steps leading to the basement and there smashed, allowing their contents to pass over the steps and to the ground where the booze was absorbed. Throughout last night and today visitors to the customs house were greeted by the strong odor of the liquor, the odor finding its way to every office.

Jack Ferreria, United States Coast Guard, was charged in the city court today with reckless driving and driving without a license. He was fined $10. Ferreria was detected driving his motorcycle recklessly on State street Sunday night by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin. The officer held the driver up and the latter said his name was Jack Davis. He was ordered to present himself in court on Monday and he did not do so. It was then ascertained that Ferreria had given a fictitious name. Prosecutor Daniel M. Cronin issued a warrant for Ferreria's arrest; he was taken into custody yesterday, with the result that he was fined today.

WOMAN JUST FROM NORWICH STATE FARM GIVEN CHANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 6—William Carter, colored and employed as a barge hand, and Viola Mayo, alias Brewer, also colored, were arrested last night charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. Carter was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $15 for his appearance in the police court today, but the woman was compelled to occupy a cell throughout the night. Carter went to the home of Edgar Graves, 66 Douglass street about 10:30 o'clock last night and during his stay there the Mayo woman entered. Carter claimed he was in a room in conversation with Graves and while there he further claimed that the Mayo woman stole a small sum of money with which she purchased a shoulder. When the woman refused to give Carter the money which he alleged she had taken, Carter went to police headquarters and made a complaint against her. Patrolman John Sullivan was assigned to investigate the complaint and his investigation resulted in both Carter and the Mayo woman being arrested. In court Carter failed to present himself and his bond was declared forfeited. The Mayo woman was sentenced to jail for ten days, but execution of the sentence was suspended for six months. In suspending the sentence, Judge Prince gave the woman sound advice as to her habits in the future, especially her partaking of strong drink because of the fact that the woman was but recently liberated from the Norwich state inebriate farm at Brewster's Neck. She has promised to enter the employ of a family here as cook and to abstain from liquor.

GEORGE WEAVER ADMITS BREAK AT BARN, STORE AND COTTAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 6—George Weaver, 30, of Poquonoc Bridge, was arrested today by Sergeant Henry Albright, of Groton state police charged on three counts with burglary. He is locked up at the state police barracks and will be given a hearing in the Groton town court tomorrow morning. The arrest of Weaver followed the investigation of Sergeant Albright into the robbery at the barn of Gilbert Smith of Poquonoc Bridge, last Thursday when a sharpie, several tools and saws were stolen. The officer secured the description of a man seen loitering about the Smith Barn Thursday and Weaver was arrested on suspicion, for he tallied with the description. After Weaver had been grilled at length, he finally admitted the theft. Weaver also admitted breaking into the small store at Eastern Point owned by Mrs. Grace Fauntleroy recently, also to robbing the summer residence of Mrs. Charles A. Muller at Eastern Point. Cigars and cigarettes were stolen from the store, but no plunder was obtained from the Muller residence.

MAYOR MAY A GOOD LOSER—ACTED FROM CONVICTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 6—Mayor James A. May today is still of the opinion that he has previously maintained the wishes of the merchants of Bank street are that the one-way traffic be in a southerly and not a northerly direction. Although defeated in his attempt to gain a change in the traffic rule at the meeting of the council last night and further claiming that Council Malcolm M. Scott made a false statement, he contends that he was absolutely justified and right in his effort to secure satisfactory conditions of traffic for the merchants Mayor May this afternoon declared that he has not receded from position and that he acted entirely on his own opinion and not those of others. In furtherance of the council meeting last night Mayor May stated as follows:

"It is not my policy to be arbitrary in matters concerning public affairs, such as rescinding previous action on Bank street traffic, as voted last evening; the vote of confidence in the city manager and the withdrawal of the resignation of the city manager

"My stand on these matters was that of a conscientious disposition in principle; was expressing the vote and sentiment of a large number of taxpayers, including 66 petitioners.

"The only regret I have in this matter is that Councilor Scott should have made use of a misstatement to win his point, when he said: 'The mayor circulated the petition.' His statement was a false one and it is probable that he now regrets his misstatements.

"While I do not retract from the stand that I have taken, on principle involved, either expressed in council meeting or press, I am still of the opinion that I was right in my views.

"I will do the same as heretofore and acquiesce to the vote of the council and treat this matter as that of a closed book."

Mrs. Stephen Cornell and twin daughters of Noank; Samuel Lebardivitch, Montville; Mrs. Fred Boell and infant daughter, Groton; Mrs. James Proctor, 32 Center street; Mrs. Everett Hartley and infant son, Quaker Hill, Waterford; Fred Damon, Groton and Irving Fandler, 79 Garfield avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were recently discharged.

The New London County Bar association will tender Federal Judge W. S. Burrows a testimonial dinner at the Hotel Mohican next Friday night. All arrangements for the event have been completed by a committee composed of Judge Charles B. Waller and Attorney Morris Lubchansky, Thomas E. Troland and Charles B. Whittlesey. The principal speakers will be Judge Christopher L. Avery, superior court and State Attorney Arthur M. Brown, of Norwich, although other members of the bar will be called upon to make brief addresses. Judge Burrows, formerly prosecuting attorney of the Groton town court was recently appointed a federal judge by President Coolidge.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bellefleur of Ocean avenue have had as their guest for a week the Countess de Kermeno and de Gourallion of Arena, France. Madame de Kermeno is of distinguished ancestry, her forbears for centuries having served the kings of France in positions of high rank.

In her possessions are numerous, rare and precious documents signed by Louis XIV, Louis XV and Louis XVI of France. Written in old French on flexible goatskin, they are perfectly legible in spite of the years which have passed since they were inscribed. The signatures of the kings are distinct.

Madame de Kermeno possesses also a china service of old Sevres, the gift of Louis XIV to an ancestor of her husband, as well as several pieces of French furniture which belonged originally to personages famous in the history of France.

Madame de Kermeno visited Mr. and Mrs. Bellefleur for several days en route to Montreal in Canada, where with her husband, she lived for many years before the latter's death.

At a meeting of the zoning commission of the city council of New London, held last night, property owners were furnished an opportunity for making inquiries regarding the restrictions and zone rules in different sections of the city. At the meeting, Lucius Whiton presided. Details regarding the proposed building zone ordinance were furnished by City Zoning Expert Swan, representative of the company that has drawn plans for the contemplated ordinance.

The main change that will be made by the proposed ordinance will be in the restrictions placed on different types of business houses. Business zones will be divided into two classes, class 1 and class 2. Class number one will govern the founding of neighborhood business houses such as drug and grocery stores. The latter class will apply exclusively to those in the downtown section. Altogether the city will be divided into six zones, as follows:

1, "A" residence zones; 2, "B" residence zones; 3, "C" residence zones; 4, business zones No. 1; 5, business zones No. 2, and 6, industrial zones. This last class will govern in a very rigid manner the erection of new enterprises of a manufacturing nature, the types of which are clearly enumerated in the ordinance.

The zone boundaries are, unless otherwise indicated, either street lines or lines drawn parallel to and 100 feet back from one or more of the street lines bounding the block. Where two or more zone designations are shown within a block 200 feet or less in width, the boundary of the more restricted zone shall be deemed 100 feet from its street line.

Considerable attention is paid to the discrimination between detached and semi-detached houses. In all cases the size of the lot in different zones is placed in proportion to the type of dwelling that it holds.

Advertising signs and billboards too, come in for restrictions and considerable discussion arose at the meeting regarding these. Numerous property owners made all sorts of inquiries regarding the why and wherefore of the manner in which the different residential and business zones were scheduled.

The wreckage of the New Haven railroad freight train, OB-4, at Groton last night, when the locomotive, one of the 3300-type, and three loaded freight cars were derailed at Groton power, was not cleared up until after daylight today. Wreckers were summoned from Midway and New Haven, because of the cars having overturned and causing a blockade of both the east and west-bound main line tracks. After the cars were placed back on the iron the task of repairing the roadbed and tracks occupied much time but long before the cars were gotten back on the rails the west bound tracks were opened so that traffic could be resumed. The locomotive was one of the largest types of the freight hauling engines on the New Haven system.

The work of widening Bank street, between State and Tilley streets, will probably not be completed before summer. A large force of laborers is doing the work.

The police were given one more easy night of work tonight. At 10 o'clock there had been but one arrest made, that being a simple case of intoxication. Notwithstanding the fact that yesterday was pay day at the Submarine base, not a solitary bluejacket was arrested, indicating that the sailors are on their good behavior. There are several hundred of the sailors absent from the city because of their boats cruising in summer waters, but these boats will return to port within a few weeks when the personnel at the base will return to normalcy.

Henry C. Chappell, who has been confined to his home on Federal street for a few days, ill with grip, is able to attend to business again.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre.

"Mistaken Orders" is an astonishingly virile and thrilling railroad photoplay, starring fearless Helen Holmes, first and forever foremost of railroad heroines. Jack Perrin himself a star in his own right, plays the leading juvenile masculine role. The story tells of a rich man's son, who after being released from jail, at the behest of his only sister, takes a job as telegraph operator at a lonely post. How Helen Holmes saves her brother and a locomotive from dashing off of a raised drawbridge, and wins herself a sweetheart, is told in this thrilling rail road drama.

"The Flying Horseman" is an exciting and thrilling western feature with Buck Jones in the leading role. The supporting cast is splendid and there is both pathos and comedy woven into a good action story. There is plenty of variety, with airplanes, steamships and locomotives playing an important part in the plot. This picture is without a doubt one of the best western thrillers, which Fox has lately presented.

Palace Theatre.

At the Palace on Wednesday an unusually fine double feature program will be presented. In "Rich Men's Sons," the main feature, Ralph Graves earns for himself commendation—on his maiden effort as a director, as well as on his pleasing characterization of the masculine lead. He competently proves his versatility behind as well as before the camera.

The entertaining story moves along quickly and logically, and the many humorous situations and highly dramatic moments show a deftness of handling that augurs well for Graves' directorial career.

"Rich Men's Sons" concerns itself with a railroad magnate's disinherited young son, who meets romance in a steel mill, wins his way as office boy to the girl's heart, and proves his manhood. A thrilling race between the boy in a racer and the father in an express train makes a forceful high point in the action.

Shirley Mason gives a charming interpretation of the girl, while George Fawcett is once more thoroughly at home as the railroad president father. Robert Cain, Frances Raymond, Scott Seaton, Walter James and Johnny Fox complete the well-chosen cast.

Surrounded by an exceptionally good cast, and appearing in an excellent story, Tom Tyler, F. B. D.'s great western star with the flashing smile and dynamic personality makes a notable hit in "Tom's Gang," the feature. The unique theme of the production seems to label it as probably the most thoroughly interesting picture the popular star has ever appeared in. "Tom's Gang" promises to greatly accelerate Tyler's rapid rise to the leading place among western stars.

Several unusually thrilling scenes are introduced by the intense action of the story. Tyler rescues beautiful Sharon Lynn from a runaway car, while diminutive Frankie Darro, seven-year-old film star, unropes the hero from a hand car, where he was bound and sent down a grade to crash with the onrushing express train.

The story of the production is a decided departure from the old stereotyped western form, and to Frank Howard Clark, the author, goes the credit for the innovation. Robert De Lacy directed the picture, the last of several in which he has handled Tom Tyler.

Wednesday night is gift night and twenty-five dollars in gold and ten valuable and useful gifts will be given away free.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patents.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Breed Theatre

Anna Q. Nilsson, featured player in "Lonesome Ladies," the First National picture which heads the double feature bill at the Breed theatre today and Thursday, is sure of it.

"If women in the home could find enough interesting things to do while their husbands worked," says she, "the great army of divorce-seekers each year would be greatly reduced in number.

"Keep your housework from becoming routine," is her advice to wives. "Keep changing the settings in your home, move pictures here and there, put the divan in another corner of the living room—all that sort of thing—it keeps alive the interest in domesticity."

When women are too self-centered and introspective with their little problems, their husbands are inclined to seek other companions after nightfall. This does not necessarily mean other women, but they have enough troubles, earning a living, without listening to minor woes of the household.

There would be fewer "Lonesome Ladies" if women learned to amuse themselves and keep interested in the world affairs outside the range of their kitchen stove, Miss Nilsson declares.

"The Frontiersman," starring Tim McCoy and co-featuring Claire Windsor, is the added feature for today and Thursday.

St. Mary's Players

Great interest is already manifest in the forthcoming play—Nothing But the Truth. Many have inquired about tickets. There is no reason why the theatre should not be filled on March 21. There are plenty of tickets and the prices are within reach of all. Theatregoers always look forward to the productions of this organization, for they know that they will see a good show. A fine one is nearly ready for them. A splendid play, a capable cast, a competent director. This combination is hard to beat. Make it your business to be at the Palace theatre on the above date.

William Wohlleben was elected janitor of the club for the coming month and after other routine business had been disposed of, the meeting was adjourned.

JUDGE AND JURY HEARING $15,000 SUIT AGAINST GROTON BOROUGH

The re-trial of the $15,000 suit against the borough of Groton for injuries sustained by Maurice O'Donnell, Jr., an electric welder, of New London, was begun in the superior court at New London on Tuesday before Judge C. L. Avery and a jury. In a previous trial of the suit, when the superior court was sitting in this city, the jury disagreed.

O'Donnell was injured in the accident on May 21, 1927, when the boiler at the plant of Groton water and electric department blew up and the superintendent, William R. Jacobus, was killed.

Attorney Arthur T. Keefe is representing the plaintiff, while the defense of the borough is being handled by Attorneys Morris Lubchansky and Harry C. Brogan.

It is O'Donnell's claim that on May 21, 1927, he was engaged in the business of welding at the plant of the water and electrical department in Groton, where he, as an independent contractor, had been engaged by the defendant, and under the direction of the superintendent was welding plates on the end of an old steam boiler, which the defendant was converting into a tank for the storage of compressed air.

O'Donnell claims that he had concluded his welding upon the boiler and was picking up his tools and welding apparatus, preparatory to departure in the late afternoon, when without any warning, the boiler or tank was "negligently and carelessly permitted and allowed by the servants, agents and employes of the defendant, to explode with tremendous force and violence."

The plaintiff alleges that the explosion was caused by the negligence of the defendant "in permitting and allowing compressed air to flow into and be forced into the tank to an amount and at a greater pressure than the tank could withstand."

O'Donnell further claims that the defendant was negligent in that it had "caused all of the tubes and stay rods in the boiler to be removed thereby greatly weakening the boiler, all of which was known or should have been known to the defendant in the exercise of ordinary care."

Further negligence is charged in that "testing the boiler by the use of compressed air rather than by the use of other known methods, all of which was known or should have been known to the defendant."

O'Donnell also claims that the defendant was negligent in "failing to maintain a pressure gauge in the tank, or on the compressed air lines running to it, and a safety valve," and for also "failing to warn the plaintiff of attendant danger to which it had subjected him by attempting to test the strength of the boiler by compressed air and in negligently failing to accord to the plaintiff while on the defendant's property, ordinary and reasonable care and a reasonably safe place in which to work."

O'Donnell claims that he was thrown to the basement floor, rendered unconscious, permanently injured and suffered wounds, burns, contusions about the head, limbs and body. He claims that his left arm was so injured that atrophy of the muscles set in and a nerve degeneration set in. He claims that his eyes were permanently injured, and that he will never again be able to follow his occupation.

A plan, drawn by Mr. Crandall and offered in evidence by Attorney Keefe a number of times, was excluded by Judge Avery, following objections by Attorney Lubchansky, who said that it did not contain a full picture of the condition of the tank at the time of the explosion.

The following are serving on the jury which is hearing the case:

COUNTY FRUIT GROWERS GIVEN EXPERT ADVICE

About 40 fruit growers of New London county attended the second annual fruit meeting held Tuesday at the Buckingham Memorial under the auspices of the New London County Farm Bureau. The meeting opened at 10:30, luncheon was served at 12:15 o'clock by members of Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, and the afternoon session convened about 1.15 o'clock.

The morning programme opened with a talk on Spraying for Better Fruit, by Prof. William H. Thies, extension pomologist at Massachusetts Agricultural college. After his talk, Prof. Thies answered a number of questions in connection with the subject of his talk.

Ernest H. Mills, southern New England representative of the United States department of agriculture told of results secured in controlling deer damage. The opening speaker at the afternoon session was Prof. Sherman H. Hollister, head of the pomology department at Connecticut Agricultural college, who spoke on Pruning for Profit. Prof. Thies and County Agent Walter T. Clark spoke on the fruit programmes for the New Elngand states and for New London county.

Among those present were fruit producers from Mystic, North Franklin, Norwich, Montville, Baltic, Waterford, Oakdale, Norwich Town, Lebanon and Stonington.

BODY IDENTIFIED AS YOUNGER WHITAKER BOY

The body of the boy found Monday afternoon in the Thames river, lodged among some rocks at the southerly end of Dawley's lumber yard dock, was identified Tuesday morning as that of Herbert Whitaker, Jr. the three-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Whitaker of Corning road, who were both drowned with their entire family of five children on the night of Jan. 23. When the body was found Monday, Medical Examiner C. C. Glidersleeve considered it probable that it was the body of the older boy, Allen, aged 10, but a relative of the family, Herbert Houston, identified the body Tuesday as that of the little boy Herbert.

The body of Allen is yet to be found. The entire family lost their lives in the tragic accident on Preston bridge when the automobile Mr. Whitaker was driving plunged through the railing of the bridge and into the Shetucket river after it had been in collision on the bridge with a motorcycle driven by Harris Preston, a young man of 17, who later died of the injuries he received at the time.

SEIZED 5 GALLON CAN UNDER RESTAURANT BAR

When a squad of local police visited Alex Solbroski's restaurant at No. 6 North Thames street, early Tuesday evening, armed with a warrant, they discovered evidence that the liquor law was being violated. The evidence discovered was a five gallon can filled with alleged alcohol and two glasses such as are used for drinking liquor. Solbroski, who is 38, was arrested and the five-gallon can and glasses were taken to the police station. Solbroski was booked on a charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell. It is understood that he has been in trouble before over liquor law violations. He will be presented in the city court this (Wednesday) morning. The raiding squad comprised Sergt. Matthew Delaney, and Officers Frank Gwiczdowski, Joseph Gendron and Patrick Shahan.

It was understood that the can of alleged liquor was delivered at the restaurant not much more than half an hour before the arrival of the police. The can was taken from under the bar at the restaurant and was still enclosed in a burlap bag when it was seized by the officers, this being the usual method employed by bootleggers in transporting the cans.

Jolly Eight Played Pinochle

The Jolly Eight Pinochle club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. William Walker. Mrs. Charles Hamblen won the first prize with a score of 7,020 and Mrs. Ethel Hoelck won the consolation prize with a score of 7,740. The club is to meet with Mrs. William Farrell of Grant court next Tuesday afternoon.

Fined for Reckless Driving

Charged with reckless driving, Matthew Garvey, of Taftville, was arrested at Montville Sunday by State Policeman John H. Smith of the Groton barracks, who charged him with carelessly operating his automobile on the Norwich-New London highway. Garvey was arraigned at Montville Tuesday morning before Justice of the Peace J. Y. Miller, who fined him $10 and costs.

STATUTE REVISION COST LIMIT TO BE $66,500

In providing for the compensation of the members of the commission on the revision of the statutes, the general assembly at the last session took good care to stipulate the maximum amount to be paid for the work, says the Hartford Times. The sum of $66,500 was appropriated to meet the entire expense, and it was specifically stated how the money should be divided. The division is as follows: Six members of the commission, $45,000 or $7,500 each; clerk, $7,500; expenses $14,000. But these items were not made absolute. The board of control, in authorizing the payment, is not obliged to pay the maximum amounts. The statute says that only so much of the appropriations as may be authorized by the board shall be paid. This gives the board power to reduce any of the items which make up the total of $66,500. Under the act passed at the last session, the board of control may reduce the amounts appropriated but it cannot increase them. It is recalled that the revising commission of 1902 were each paid $5,000 for their work in addition to a similar amount stated in the act providing for the revision. When the bill to give them the additional $5,000 each came before the committee on appropriations, the chairman of the committee, Senator Alexander T. Pattison, of Simsbury, opposed it and based his opposition on a statute which stated that no person shall be paid for services rendered the state any sum in addition to that stipulated as compensation.

Senator Pattison rendered the state an important service when he resolutely stood for the observance of the law. Nor could he be moved from his position by the arguments that were made by members of the commission. He insisted on the statute being observed to the letter and he pointed out that any other course would not be sound public policy. Finally the proposition was made that it should be left to a judge of the superior court to determine if the six members of the commission should be paid the extra compensation. Senator Pattison assented to this proposal. It involved an interpretation of the statute and he realized that a judge of the superior court was the legal authority to determine the issues raised. The necessary legislation was enacted and received the approval of the governor, Judge Frederic B. Hall, afterwards chief justice, tried the case in the superior court in Bridgeport. When the counsel had made their arguments Judge Hall formed an opinion favorable to the granting of the extra allowance to the members of the commission.

At the last session of the general assembly there was more or less talk on the advisability of creating a permanent clerk of bills whose work would be continuous instead of having, as at present, the duties of the clerkship terminate with the closing of the session or shortly afterwards. The matter was discussed when the measure for the creation of a commission to revise the statutes was under discussion. The merits of the proposition were recognized, but it was thought better to let the matter hang over until the session of 1929. If the permanent clerkship is created it will not be necessary in the future to appoint a revision commission periodically. The changes in the statutes will be noted from session to session and when it is decided to have a revision the data will be on hand and arranged by clerk for the printers. Two years will at least be saved in getting out the revision. This, however, will not be the only work which the clerk will be required to do. He will have permanent quarters in the capitol and in business hours will be always accessible to the public particularly to those who have bills or resolutions affecting prospective legislation. By this arrangement the delay which is experienced in the early part of the session will be prevented.

CONDUCTED AUCTION SALE OF MADDEN CIGAR STORE

Fixtures and the remaining stock of the George P. Madden company, tobacco and sporting goods dealers, at 243 Main street, which has gone out of business, were sold at auction at the store Tuesday under the direction of Gilbert S. Raymond, trustee. A ten-year lease of the store, which had until November, 1932, to run, has been relinquished to the owners of the building, Samuel Goldberg, Harry M. Land and Michael Levin. When the lease was taken out by the Madden company, the late Maria Fay was owner of the property. The papers surrendering the lease were signed by James J. Madden, of this city, acting for himself and acting for Mrs. Mary E. Madden, doing business as the George P. Madden company of this city.

By an agreement made between Gilbert S. Raymond and Mrs. Madden, which has been filed with the town clerk, Mr. Raymond is appointed custodian of the Madden property at 23 Cliff street, which was formerly used as the factory where Nugget and Avant cigars were manufactured.

According to the agreement, Mr. Raymond is to hold the property in trust, and to sell or dispose of the real and personal property, etc., and to apply the proceeds in the following manner:

1. To pay the costs and charges of these present and the lawful expenses of executing the trust hereby created and the wages or salaries actually owing to employes of the said Mary E. Madden or the George P. Madden company.

2. To distribute and pay the remainder of the proceeds to creditors, for all debts and liabilities which may be owed, provided hower, that if there shall not be sufficient funds with which to pay all the debts, then the debts are to be paid ratably and in proportion.

The residue and remainder of proceeds, if any there be, after paying all debts in full, is directed to be paid to Mrs. Madden, her heirs, etc.

EXPECT STATE ROAD TO WEST OF GARDNER LAKE

First Selectman George O. Avery and Second Selectman Edgar J. Standish, of Salem, motored to Hartford Saturday to confer with Highway Commissioner Macdonald about the earliest possible date the new state aid road which the town of Salem voted for last summer could be started. Mr. Macdonald was absent but his assistant, after looking over the plans, appeared very optimistic as to its construction in the near future. Mr. Macdonald is expecting to pay a visit in Salem this week and look over the proposed new road. Approximately two miles are expected to be built from Dolbeare's corners along the western end of Gardner lake. In the early spring and even after rain storms in the summertime this road has been a bugbear to the many people who travel over it. The New London Scout camp, the New London Y. M. C. A. camp, Camp Laurel, other private camps and summer places, as well as the numerous farms along its course, will be greatly relieved when it is completed.

GOLF CLUB REORGANIZATION IS TO BE VOTED UPON

When the annual meeting of the Norwich Golf club is held Friday evening at the Wauregan hotel, three governors are to be elected to succeed E. LaRue Bliven, Edwin A. Harris and J. E. Roantree, but the matter of special interest which is to come up is a proposed plan for reorganization of the Norwich Golf Land company and the Norwich Golf club. It is proposed that the name of the merger organization will be The Norwich Golf and Country club, which will be incorporated with capital stock of $100,000, consisting of 1,000 shares, par $100. Membership in the new club will be conditional upon the ownership of stock, and the classes of membership, under the proposed plan, will be family, $500; active, $400; associate, tennis and plazza, $100 each. The golf club had a membership of 255 at the close of last year.

WITHDRAWAL OF SUIT OVER PROPERTY OWNERSHIP

Withdrawal without costs from the superior court has been filed with Clerk George E. Parsons in the suit of Daniel Noonan of New London, against James P. Newman, John H. Newman, Margaret Moran and Elizabeth Harrigan, all of New London and heirs at law of the late Daniel Newman.

The suit was brought on the ground that Noonan gave a quit claim deed to Daniel Newman on March 23, 1893 of New London property on Jefferson avenue, under an agreement which, it is claimed, Newman did not keep. The agreement claimed was that Newman was to sell the property within a reasonble time, apply the proceeds to wiping out a mortgage to Newman and to paying a claim of Nichols and Harris against Noonan and turn over the balance to Noonan. In the meantime, rents from the property were to be Newman's and his notes were not to draw interest.

The plaintiff asked that the defendants who are in possession of the property sell it and turn over the balance to him or deduct the amount of the mortgage and turn over the balance to the plaintiff. The suit was brought in January.

STATE TO PLANT TREES ALONG SIDES OF HIGHWAYS

As part of a project to shade and beautify the highways of Connecticut which was started two years ago, shade trees will be planted along newly completed roads about the state this spring by private contractors, under the direction of the state highway department.

Bids to be submitted by March 15 have been called for by the highway department. The bids call for 363 elms and 120 sugar maples for New Haven, Fairfield and Middlesex counties, and 395 sugar maples and a smaller number of elm, white oak, pin oak and white ash, in the other five counties.

The Milford turnpike, Branford-East Haven highway, and the Guilford post road cut-off are among the roads in New Haven county along which the trees will be planted. The elms and maples will be interspersed along the highways.

Later this spring, the state highway department workers will be sent out to plant shrubbery at the side of the same roads. Plantings are made each spring and fall.

The work is being carried on under the direction of H. A. Bauer, landscape architect of the department. It began in January, 1926, with the appointment of Mr. Bauer to his post.

The last general assembly passed a measure which gives the highway department greater powers in the beautification and shading of the highways. Under this act, the department can plant trees and shrubbery within two years after the completion of the road. A year after they have been planted, the trees are put under the care of a tree warden, whose position was created in the act, and whose duty it is to see that they are properly trimmed and tended.

ASSERTS THAT WOMEN WILL ENFORCE PROHIBITION LAW

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Mass., Ridicules "Silly Drivel About the Prohibition Law Being Nullified"——Admits That Men Are All Right in Their Place, That They Make Many Laws, But Too Often Are Prone to Go Off and Forget About Them Afterward—Declares That Women Must Do the Things That Men Don't Do Well Enough

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., March 7—(AP)—Men who say that the constitution of the United States can be annulled are forgetting that half of the electorate are women who intend to see that it is not, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of Beverly, Mass., general chairman of the woman's national committee for law enforcement, told the southeastern prohibition convention of the Anti-Saloon league here today.

Appearing as the first woman speaker of the four day convention before an audience made up chiefly of women that all but filled the First Baptist church, Mrs. Peabody declared that the women of the country "see why the law is not being enforced now," and that they intend to take part in the next election to "put things in shape so that it will be."

"Why all this silly drivel about the prohibition law being nullified?" she inquired. "The women are the natural law enforcers and they will see that this is taken into account, who enforces the law in your family?"

"When father takes too much about personal liberty, leave him with six children to care for a week, then come back and you'll find that he has forgotten that there ever was such a term.

"Women have a conspicuous place in the law enforcement program, because they have been enforcing the law down through all ages. They are the mothers back of their children, teaching law observance to save those children, who are the future citizens of the world, from breaking laws. Men, too, have their place in the law program. They make many laws but too often are prone to go off and forget about them afterward.

"It is the women who must act as a checkmate to these dangerous habits.

"Women must do the things that God intended her to do when he made her. She must first of all make her home and all that goes with it, but she was not put here primarily to do only the things that are not intended for the men. She has a greater responsibility, she must do the things also that men don't do well enough.

"And thus led by the ten great national volunteer organizations that have to do with every sphere of woman's field, the women intend to take part in the next election to see that the laws are enforced and the constitution respected."

SETS STANDARD FOR PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 7—(AP)—Dry forces of the south and nation regardless of party affiliations were called to arms to defeat all candidates for office who either are negative or silent on the question of prohibition enforcement in resolutions adopted here tonight at the closing session of the southeastern prohibition convention of the Anti-Saloon league.

Declaring that political leaders of both major parties would be held responsible for the "proper representation at the nominating conventions of the views of religious and moral forces of our country," the pronouncement said that the determination of the prohibition issue lies with the dry citizenry, and added:

"If they speak unitedly, promptly and positively they can prevent the nomination of such men as Butler, Longworth, Wadsworth, Ritchie, Smith and Reed, and can secure the nomination by both parties of candidates who by their utterances, acts and records are thoroughly committed to the effective enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and statutory legislation pertaining thereto."

The resolutions were passed without a dissenting vote by the convention. The league's southeastern district embraces the states of Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

TO START THURSDAY ON TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT

LONDON, March 7—(AP)—The Daily Express says that the Honorable Elsie Mackay, third daughter of Viscount Inchcape, well-known shipowner, intends to start at noon tomorrow (Thursday) with Captain Walter G. R. Hinchcliffe in an attempt to fly to America.

The start will be made, weather permitting, from the Cranwell airdrome, Lincolnshire. Hinchcliffe will pilot an American Stinson monoplane, similar in type to the plane used by Lindbergh in crossing the Atlantic. It was brought here from New York on the Aquitania in January.

Preparations have been in progress for some months, says the Express, and rumors have been current, but the closest friends of Miss Mackay and Captain Hinchcliffe have been unable to confirm the report owing to the extraordinary precautions for concealment.

Captain Walter Hinchcliffe last fall was associated with Charles A. Levine and was granted leave of absence by the Imperial Airways, to which he was attached, for the purpose of piloting Levine's plane Columbia back to the United States from England.

Friction developed and the prospective flight was delayed from time to time and finally abandoned. Eventually a flight to India was begun, but it ended in Europe.

The Honorable Elsie Mackay is a qualified air pilot, having received her certificate about five years ago. She is a member of the British Air Legion and was elected to the advisory committee of Pilots of the Air league in 1925.

HUSBAND AND WIFE WERE ELECTED TO COMMONS

PENZANCE, England, March 7—(AP)—The first woman liberal in the present British parliament and the first husband-wife combination in the house of commons have resulted today from Tuesday's by-election in St. Ives.

Mrs. Walter Runciman, wife of the liberal member from Swansea West, not only became the first woman liberal in the present house, but succeeded in capturing the St. Ives constituency from the conservatives.

The district formerly was a liberal stronghold, but returned a conservative at the last general election in 1924. This was J. A. Hawke who was recently elevated to the bench leaving the seat vacant.

The vote was: Mrs. Runciman, liberal, 10,241; Sir Andrew Caird, conservative, 9,478, and F. J. Hopkins, labor, 4,345. Although Mrs. Runciman picked up more than 300 conservative votes, the labor candidate picked up the remainder of the 3,881, which the conservatives lost over the figures for 1924.

YOUNG COUPLE ARRESTED FOR LARCENY OF SHOES

QUINCY, Mass., March 7—(AP)—Miss Alice Hayes, 20 year old daughter of a Randolph shoe manufacturer, and her boy friend, Wilton H. Peck, of Brockton, 23, pleaded guilty in Quincy court today to charges of larceny of shoes from the factory of the Hayes Shoe company in Randolph, owned by the girl's father. Each was sentenced to nine months in the house of correction but sentence was suspended on condition that they would make restitution.

The two were arrested after Randolph police had investigated a complaint of Frederick L. Hayes, owner of the factory that the plant was being robbed systematically. The police said the girl told them that she and Peck had stolen cases of shoes in order to raise funds for entertainment. She confessed, the police said, that she took the factory keys after her father went to bed at night, drove to the plant with Peck, and carried away a case of shoes at a time. The shoes were sold in Brockton at low prices as "factory rejects."

PARENTS OF 14 CHILDREN FIGURE IN DIVORCE SUIT

LENOX, Mass., March 7—(AP)—Herbert A. Buck, 76, of Winter Haven, Fla., formerly of Lenoxdale, has filed suit for divorce from Mrs. Amber Snow Buck, 60, whom he married more than 47 years ago when he was 29 and she only 13. The couple are parents of 14 children, 12 of whom are now living, the eldest being 45 and the youngest 20. They also have 31 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Word of this unique observance of the couple's 48th year of married life was received here today, but failed to state on what ground the action was based.

The couple were married August 25, 1881, in the Congregational parsonage at Canaan, N. Y., and for 37 years lived in the same house in Lenoxdale, taking up winter residence ten years ago in Florida.

MEXICAN CHARGED ONLY FIVE PESOS FOR MURDER

MEXICO CITY, March 7—(AP)—A price of only five pesos for a murder, which modest figure attracted a considerable clientele, was charged by Gregorio Sanches, a professional assassin, who has just been wounded and captured near Cholula in the state of Puebla.

A dispatch to El Excelsior says Sanches has no occupation except assassination and was ready to kill anybody at any time provided the five pesos were forthcoming. He had enough customers to enable him to earn a good living. The police said they found in his pocket "a sheet of paper half filled with names of persons he had assassinated." The dispatches neglect to give an total.

ZERO MADE NO SALES IN HIS LABOR AUCTION

In an effort to help 200 unemployed patrons of his cafeteria where a soup and roll meal may be had for a nickel, Urbain Ledoux, better known as Mr. Zero vainly waved the hammer of the auctioneer and ballyhooed the talents of his army.

A giant Negro was first placed on the block, and a client bid $75 for his services as a combination bricklayer, plasterer and plumber. Mr. Zero refused to sell. Two other men were offered but no bids were received, and the auctioneer adjourned the sale until tomorrow.

TAXES AND UNEMPLOYMENT DEBATED IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—Taxes and unemployment became intertwined here today in senate debate with Chairman Smoot of the finance committee expressing "hope" for a tax revision bill at this session and denying that there is any unusual unemployment in the country, as has been asserted on the democratic side of the chamber.

Smoot's statement about taxes brought insistent demands from the democrats to know when the country would know whether there is to be tax reduction. The veteran Utah senator guessed at March 15, when the first tax returns are received, and predicted that revenues this year would be from nine to ten per cent lower than those of last year.

AGAINST WITHDRAWAL OF MARINES FROM NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—The senate foreign relations committee went on record today against withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua until after the fulfillment of the agreement entered into with the contending factions there for a supervision of the presidential election next October.

With but two or three dissenting votes, the committee, after weeks of hearings and discussion, ordered an adverse report on the Heflin resolution which would declare it to be the sense of the senate that the marines be withdrawn immediately to prevent the loss of more American lives in the conflicts with the Sandino forces.

Speaking for a majority of the committee, Chairman Borah issued a statement saying that the agreement to supervise the elections "places an obligation upon us that we cannot at this time escape."

"I think the entire committee would like to see us get out of Nicaragua," he added. "If we could hold a fair election and recognize the government resulting from that election, there would be some chance of getting out and staying out."

Senator Borah expressed his own view that if a fair election is held the liberals will win because they constitute from 75 to 80 per cent of the population.

PRESIDENT LEWIS TELLS OF COAL FIELDS CONDITIONS

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP)—Depicting deplorable economic conditions in the central competitive bituminous fields, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today laid the situation primarily to what he termined a conspiracy among the railroads.

This conspiracy has a two-fold purpose, to reduce coal costs to the carriers and to keep down the level of wages for miners and railroad men, Lewis charged as he presented the opening statement for the now unemployed union miners in the senate investigation ordered under the Johnson resolution.

On the stand before the interstate commerce committee all day, Lewis read into the record a 50 page statement of conditions and wound up with suggestions for remedies for some of the ills of the industry and the workers. Chief among these was the curbing of the power of the federal courts to issue injunctions in labor disputes and an amendment of the interstate commerce act "so as to prevent the railroads from practicing methods designed to exploit the bituminous industry, further depress wages and destroy the miners' union."

BREAK IN THE RUBBER MARKET IN GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, March 7—(AP)—Bears had a field day in the rubber market, knocking several points off rubber stocks on the stock exchange and in Mincing Lane forcing the price of spot rubber down to an even shilling. This is the lowest level for the commodity since 1924.

The market was steadier towards the close. Experts said the selling was overstimulated by reports from Singapore that there was a strong sentiment among producers in the Straits Settlements favoring the removal of restrictions on rubber exports.

Belief that similar opinion is held by the rubber industry in Ceylon accentuated this situation.

Mayor Walker Was Late, But Successful

WASHINGTON, Mar[illegible]—Mayor Walker of New [illegible] to his reputation of being [illegible] for engagements today at the expense of President Coolidge and three cabinet officers, but he got a tentative agreement for the tearing down of the old federal building near city hall in Manhattan.

He was 35 minutes behind schedule in calling on the president, whom he never had seen before. At noon, when he was due at the White House, he still was in conference with Secretary Mellon, Attorney General Sargent and Postmaster General New. He had kept them waiting half an hour to begin a discussion of the federal building question, which has vexed federal government and New York city officials for years.

It was to work out a plan for the razing of this structure, which stands in the triangle between Broadway and Park Row, that Walker, accompanied by his close friend, Paul Block, the newspaper publisher, and Joseph Johnson, commissioner of public works, for Manhattan borough, came to Washington last night for his first visit to the capital since becoming mayor. Before returning to New York late today he went to the capitol at the invitation of Senator Wagner, of New York.

The youthful mayor went back home with some assurance that the federal building which he considers an "eye sore," won't be standing much longer. The cabinet officials, who talked over the proposition with him from many angles were said to feel that arrangements could be worked out whereby the federal government would get a site from the city in its new civic center for a court building, and another location in the vicinity for a sub-postoffice. In this event, the old structure which now houses the courts and postal sub-station, would be levelled, and its site converted into a plaza in front of city hall.

Details for the acquisition of land remain to be worked out, but Walker and the cabinet officers all were hopeful that a definite agreement could be reached soon. The mayor said he expected to hear from Secretary Mellon shortly on the proposition.

Delayed in leaving the conference with cabinet members, Mayor Walker reached the White House just before the president went to lunch. Senator Wagner had been waiting 40 minutes to introduce him to the president.

On leaving the executive offices for luncheon, Mayor Walker was besieged by photographers and reporters.

"What did you talk to the president about?" he was asked.

"About three minutes," he replied.

"Did you explain why you were late?"

"I wasn't asked. I'd be busy all my life if I answered that question."

Before he left the capitol, Carew, one of the picturesque members of the Tammany delegation, asked the mayor if he would like to "look over congress and see where the laws of the nation are made."

"No," Walker told him, "I want to think well of the country."

DEATH OF THE FAMOUS COMEDIAN WM. H. CRANE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 7—(AP)—William H. Crane, known around the world as one of the stage's greatest comedians, died here today at the age of 83.

A general breakdown, apparently brought on by his advanced years, laid low the veteran actor of more than half a hundred seasons, a little more than a week ago. Since that time Crane had gradually grown weaker until the end came shortly after three o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Crane, who since their marriage in 1870 had been the actor's constant companion and helpmate, was at the bedside. So peaceful was the veteran's passing that those near him hardly knew that death had come.

A career of 53 years of stage starring was ended in 1918 after Crane toured the Pacific coast states in a comedy called "The Very Idea." Prior to that he had revived "The Henrietta," dubbed it the "New Henrietta" and with Amelia Bingham, Douglas Fairbanks, Thomas Ross, Macklin Arbuckle and others, toured the country.

For ten years the veteran comedian has lived at the Hollywood hotel, working for the most part on a book recently produced which he called "Footprints and Echoes."

Funeral services, which had not been definitely arranged tonight, probably will be conducted here. The body will be taken east for burial.

General expressions of regret were heard over the country at the passing of the old time favorite, often described as the last of the great actors of the spoken stage.

EGYPT RESENTFUL TO THE BRITISH EDICT

LONDON, March 7—(AP)—The stern note which Great Britain presented to Egypt, stating in effect that the British will not grant full independence to that country at present has been coupled with the "holy war" in Arabia to create a situation which may affect British relations throughout the near east to the borders of India.

Egypt is without a cabinet, but the nationalist leader, Nahas Pasha, after an hour's audience with King Fuad, declared that constitutional government would be formed as long as the constitution exists.

The British note, which apparently dropped like a bombshell in Cairo political circles after the breakdown of negotiations for an Anglo-Egyptian alliance, makes it clear to the Nile country that Great Britain will not tolerate any legislation that is likely to hinder English power in protecting foreign life and property in Egypt.

ARRESTED ON CHARGES OF THEFT AT WILLIMANTIC

WILLIMANTIC, March 7—The recent disappearance of two gum machines from store fronts led to the arrest today of Wilfred Bellevance, 18, of Maple avenue on charges of theft by breaking and entering which he faces in police court Thursday morning. The youth, upon being apprehended by Day Officer Arthur Hurlbut made a confession of his depredations. On the night of February 21 he took the gum machine from the store front of the grocery establishment conducted by Celia Chasen on Union street. The next night, February 22, the youth broke into the Chases garage on Union street and gained access to one of the Frisbie company bread and pastry trucks stored in the garage overnight. Seven pies were taken. In connection with this attack the police are holding Ralph Thompson, 17, as an accomplice on a charge that he acted as guard. The other boys, one 21 and the other 17 years of age, were questioned and admitted having eaten some of the pies but as they had no part in the break they were released. Last Friday night, March 4, Bellevance took a gum machine from the exterior of the Frank Press grocery store on Jackson street. Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady stated today that the local department, cooperating with the Hartford police, was bending every effort to recover about $800 in diamonds stolen in a robbery at the Jordan-Buick company garage here some three weeks ago. The mounting of a bar pin which was owned by Miss Helen Sweeney, an official of the automobile concern, is now in the hands of the police having been recovered from a jewelry store where it was taken by the alleged sweetheart of Emil Bersig. The stones from this pin which was valued at $125 had been removed, however, and another pin, owned by Fred M. Little, manager of the garage, is still missing. The recovery of the mounting and the identification of Bersig through fingerprints which he had left on the door of the Gem theatre which was also entered on the night of the break into the garage, leave no question of doubt in the belief that Bersig is now recovering from a bullet wound received in Hartford, was the perpetrator of the robbery.

King of the hardware company testified that his concern opened an account with Hardy last October under the name of the Hardy Trucking company while it was learned that he held a sub-contract from Miller Bros., a construction concern. A second charge of passing a fraudulent check, held against Hardy, was withdrawn upon recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Gaucher when it was made known that Hardy had deposited money to meet the check at the time of issuance.

New Energy for Boys in Two Weeks!

When children are weak and ailing, you can't drug them back to health. A boy or girl who could eat a whole pound of figs every day would soon be the picture of health—but children won't diet. California fig syrup is the solution. No girl or boy has ever tired of it yet. If you start giving this delicious, fruity syrup they will never let you forget their daily treat. Within two or three weeks you will realize what Nature and natural aids can accomplish for children. You'll have a boy who's hard as nails, or a girl who is fairly blooming. Look at their tongues only three or four days after this fruity, rich syrup has sweetened-up the system; no coating, even in the morning; no hint of fetid breath, no matter what things are eaten. All the tonics in the world can't energize and stabilize a child like genuine California fig syrup. Nor will you ever have to give anything else for the bowels. Regular elimination commences with the first spoonful of this perfectly natural regulator; if the harsh cathartic habit has already fastened on your child, fig syrup will soon end all need of stronger measures. A few drops will do the same for a bilious baby. Two weeks or less will tell the story, and sixty cents buys a generous bottle. Just be sure it is the genuine product; in asking for it say "California."

POSSIBILITY OF NEW HOTEL AND THEATER HERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 7—Today there again loomed the prospect of Danielson getting a new hotel and theater this year. Here is a proposal that has been talked of, pondered over and partly promoted on several occasions in the past two or three years. Whether this newest set of negotiations will be more productive of actual accomplishments than those that have gone before remains to be seen, but it may be definitely stated that negotiations are on, and if a satisfactory agreement is arrived at construction of the combination hotel and theater will be undertaken as early as June.

Attorney Arthur G. Bill said this afternoon that he had discussed the plan to construct the hotel-theater with a representative of the interests that must finance the purchase of the site and construction of the building. Attorney Bill also indicated that only the agreement of one man in Danielson is necessary to have the plans go forward.

No information is at present forthcoming as to details of the plan, other than at least as much as $150,000 is to be invested in the site and building. The cost might run materially higher than that figure.

The interested parties have picked Danielson for their building venture for several reasons that appear good and sufficient. Two of these are that Danielson has neither a modern hotel nor theater. This fact has been generally recognized here for several years. The assumption is that a combination hotel and theater would keep the construction costs down, make the overhead lighter and the prospect of good earnings brighter, as opposed to the proposition of building separate hotel and theater buildings.

It is contended Danielson would rate a good hotel town of it had the proper facilities to attract business from the vast amount of motor traffic that rolls through this town over state highways radiating north, south, east and west, the Providence-Hartford route being one of the most popular in southern New England with tourists. The promoters also are of the opinion that a modern, finely appointed theater would easily be a money-maker.

In a word, the combination theater-hotel looks like a very good investment. Negotiations have reached the stage where a definite decision as to building may be reached within 60 days. Danielson will await that decision with an unusual degree of interest.

CHAMBER MEMBERS HEAR INSPIRING TALK ON N. E.

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 7—Those who heard F. L. Gerety of Shelton address the chamber of commerce at the monthly meeting of the organization in the Attawaugan hotel last evening sat in on a treat, and learned, above all other things that New England has not slipped, is not slipping and is not going to slip. It was as fine a thing inspirationally, as effective a bromide to restore confidence in those who falter over the prospect of New England's future as anyone has heard in this town in a decade. Mr. Gerety happens to be the secretary of the Connecticut section of the New England council, which council is made up of 72 men representing the six New England states and engaged in promoting New England's interests throughout the nation. Quoting statistics from government agencies, Mr. Gerety showed how pre-eminent New England remains in the industrial life of the nation. It is not the decadent, crumbling area that propagandists in western and southern states have been engaged in making the world believe it is. It remains virile, progressive and supreme in many lines of industrial endeavor. No other section of the nation can boast such quantities of highly skilled and specialized labor. Its man power excels in high degree of production. It asks no favors of anyone. It still pays 8 per cent of the internal revenue of the United States and takes back in federal aid projects only 1.70 per cent, evidence of its stability and independence. In great detail Mr. Gerety set forth New England's high place in the nation's industrial affairs, and predicted it would never lose that place.

Dairymen throughout this section of the county, and poultrymen, too, are interested in the agricultural institute that County Agent F. L. Davis has announced to be held at Guilford Smith hall in South Windham next Tuesday. It is to be an all day meeting, opening at 10:15 a. m. The Connecticut Agricultural college, the Connecticut Dairymen's association and the Connecticut Poultry association is co-operating with the Windham County Farmers' association and the Windham Farmers' club.

H. L. Hamilton, Ellington, former president of the State Poultry association, is to be the first speaker, his topic Timely Poultry Pointers for the Spring Season. He is to be followed by John T. McKnight, Ellington, president of the State Dairymen's association, talking on Providing Forage for the Dairy Cow. Forage Crops as Affected by Bacteria will be the subject of Prof. Eaton of Storrs in the closing talk of the morning session.

There is to be a lunch period from noon to 1:30, with the Windham Farmers' club as hosts.

Opening the afternoon session W. R. Dean, president of the Windham Farmers' club will talk on the subject Something Different. Wideawakes and Jolly Cookers of Windham will be the subject of a talk by Miss M. E. Standen, county club agent. R. L. Hahn, an instructor at Windham high school, will give the closing address of the day, speaking on Vocational Agricultural Work in High Schools.

Danielson is to have an information bureau for the benefit of tourists the coming summer. It is to be established by F. O. Plummer and has the sanction of the chamber of commerce. As long ago as last spring Mr. Plummer volunteered to establish and conduct such a bureau, but the proposal lacked official sanction and the matter has languished until now. Mr. Plummer has made a study of information bureaus and methods of conducting them and is fully qualified to undertake the establishment and operation of one. The bureau will be in a central location in the business section, and marked to attract the attention of tourists.

Business interests here are to request the Connecticut company to give a later bus service to Atawaugan than is now provided. The last bus out of here evenings for Attawaugan is at 8.10. There is a later bus running north as far as Dayville, and it is this late run bus that the company will be asked to continue on to Attawaugan, a distance of little more than a mile.

For 30 minutes this afternoon the fire department was out giving attention to a chimney fire at the Hotel Green place on Hutchins street. An alarm called out the department—33. The fire caused no damage.

The feat was all the more remarkable because none of the firemen were on duty at the station.

PUTNAM

W. B. CARROLL RESIGNS FROM PUTNAM CITY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 7—At the monthly meeting of the common council held Tuesday evening in the council chamber on Church street the mayor and members of the body heard the resignation of Willis B. Carroll, democratic alderman from Ward 4. The resignation was read at the opening of the meeting and came as a surprise to the councilmen. Mr. Carroll did not state any reason for resigning, but asked that the council take immediate action on the statement. The council voted to accept it at once, upon a motion made by Alderman-at-Large Ames.

After the resignation was accepted by the council, Frederick Dumas, chairman of the democratic city committee asked the mayor to grant him time so the committee could draw up plans for the naming of a successor to Mr. Carroll.

The council voted to call a special city meeting on April 3rd at 7:15 p. m., to elect a democratic councilman from Ward 4.

A petition signed by fifty taxpayers on Providence street was presented asking the council to install a better system of lighting on Providence street. They asked that a street light be installed on every pole. The council voted to refer the matter to the street lighting committee for report at the next meeting. The next matter brought before the body was the resignation of Alderman Carroll.

Question Legality of Vote

Mayor Richard then brought to the front a question that was expected and one that has slightly faded from the public eye, that of the water tanks. The legality of the vote was questioned, and as the city is without a corporation counsel, the mayor stated that he is undecided as which way to move. Alderman Dean moved that the mayor appoint a committee to asek legal counsel. The motion was approved and voted. The mayor appointed Aldermen Chadwick, Dean and Ames, with himself as chairman of the committee to seek legal advice on the water situation.

The water question led to another, and when the mayor appointed the committee for the legal advice, Alderman at Large Ames moved that the council appoint a man to succeed the late Charles L. Torrey, who was corporation counsel for the city. The mayor agreed that the council should appoint someone to succeed Mr. Torrey, but he refused to take action, because he did not feel that he could get a lawyer to fulfill Mr. Torrey's position, who had not formed an opinion on the water question. Ames's motion was laid aside until the meeting of the council in April.

Resents Statement on Posters

Alderman Dean asked the council what they intended to do about the handbill that was placed about the city by supporters of the cement tank project quoting the mayor and council as not telling the truth about the steel tanks when they placed their figures in a printed flyer. Alderman Dean stated that he did not know whether the council was going to stand up before the people and be branded as "liars" by the author of that bill, but he said "I certainly was not telling a lie when I signed the mayor's flyer and I would like to know what action is to be taken on it." Mayor Richard stated that the man, who was the author of it could not be found. Alderman Ames stated that the controversy grew so warm that it was a step the opposing side took to increase their chances for a victory. He told the council that the flyer was outrageous and that the author should be found and be made to offer the mayor and council a public apology.

The report of the captain of police for the month of February was read. The report showed that there had been a total of nine arrests for the month. The arrests were made as follows: Drunks 6, motor vehicle law violation 2, violation of state game laws 1. The cases were disposed of as follows: Paid fines and costs 3, discharged 1. Fines and costs for the month amounted to $88.92. Lights were reported out for 340 hours, giving the city a rebate of $1.80. The report was accepted as read.

The city property that has been neglected for a long time was voted fixed Tuesday night when Alderman Dean opened up the republican batteries and started to direct the center of his fire on the police and fire stations. Alderman Dean recommended that the police station be painted, and that a cell that is no longer of any use be sold to the state police. The council authorized the city property committee to secure bids on the painting of the police station, and dispose of the cell to the state police.

It was voted to install a new braking system on the No. 1 chemical fire truck and to place new tires on it. The council also voted to install the new tank on the No. 1 truck, known as the "booster" tank, for fighting small fires. Alderman Dean then moved that the council authorize the fire committee to purchase the new foamite extinguishers, for fighting oil and gasoline fires, he also moved that they purchase two large searchlights. The council voted in favor of the alderman's motion. Alderman Dean then moved that the council should appropriate money to repair the Central Fire station so it could be made presentable for the men to sleep in. The No. 2 station was mentioned, but both were referred to the fire committee to investigate.

The council voted to add three new boxes to the fire alarm system this year instead of two. These were voted to be purchased at once.

Alderman Vadnais brought up the question of fire insurance on the fire station and recommended that the policies be increased to higher amounts. This was referred to the city property committee. The bills for the expenses for the current month were read and voted to be paid. Adjournment was taken to April 3.

Boy Scouts of America Troop 1 Putnam held a highly successful whist party in the scout club on Tuesday evening. Twelve tables were in play. The womens first prize went to Mrs. A. L. Joslin, while the second prize was won by Mrs. John H. Bulger. The women's consolation was awarded to Miss Mary Hannifan. The men's prizes went to William Winslow, 1st, and to Arthur Tourtellotte, 2nd. The consolation was awarded to George Gifford. The boys realized a large sum from the party, which will go to the summer camp fund.

Officer Joseph Page of the Putnam police has been transferred to day duty to fill the place of Officer Alpherie Sponcey, who has been on leave from duty, caused by sickness in his family. Captain Jarvis has appointed Special Officer Alphonse Dubriel to fill Officer Page's place on night duty.

The "Bridge Widows" met at the home of Mrs. L. T. Champlin on Grove street Monday evening and played their regular weekly bridge games. This week the first prize was won by Mrs. Edward H. Burt and the consolation was awarded to Mrs. Eben Holden. Next week the widows will be the guests of Mrs. Frank D. Thayer of Eden street for the evening.

Wednesday afternoon snow squalls at short intervals started to drive away the hopes that spring had arrived. The high, cold, March breezes combined with snow squalls gave many the idea that New England was to get a taste of the winter, that has so far skipped the heavy snows. Local ice men are through with the ice harvest, so now instead of praying for the cold they are hoping for the early warm weather period, when they can put the product on the market.

Francis W. Holland of Jamaica Plains, Mass., and Miss Ruby M. Falcon of Brookline, Mass., were married at the Congregational church parsonage Monday by Rev. James F. English, pastor. Their wedding was followed by another, that of Albert Lemery of Danielson and Miss Dian Guibault, also of Danielson.

The school health authorities have been on the lookout for contagious diseases, during the last few days. Cases of mumps and measles have been reported in the schools in Danielson and since that report was confirmed the authorities in Putnam have been checking up on the schools in Putnam. Health Officer Peter Gardner said Wednesday that he has not received any reports of any such cases in the schools or elsewhere in Putnam. Mr. Gardner said that although no cases of these diseases have been reported, the people should be on guard to prevent any such epidemic gaining circulation through the district this time of the year.

Mrs. Annette Googins, head of the millinery department at the Bussee corporation, is seriously ill at her home on School street.

At the weekly meeting of the Rotary club held Wednesday afternoon at the Putnam inn, Howard Sheriff, designer and agent of the Waterman Worsted company, gave a very interesting talk

Department stores send their clever buyers to Paris, to select the imported things women love

FASHION EXPERTS

who buy for 112 great Department Stores

insist on Lux for their own things

MILLIONS and millions of dollars every year are entrusted to these clever women—the department store buyers of frocks and blouses, hosiery, underthings, gloves—the wardrobe of American women.

From the fashion centers of the world—New York, Paris, London—they select the season's most successful styles—the latest things in colors, in fabrics.

More than any other women—because they buy for all women—they must know how lustrous silks and soft woolens and lovely colored cottons will wear—how proper washing will keep them looking like new.

They know how easily every-day things, as well as exquisite flower-like garments, can be spoiled by wrong methods of cleansing.

In 112 of the most important stores in America—doing over three-fourths of all the large department store business*—women buyers told us just how they take care of their very own things. And we discovered that for washing their own silks and woolens—

92% of these experts use Lux.

They insist upon Lux for their own things—for stockings and gloves and lingerie, negligées, sweaters and frocks. And they buy it in the familiar blue package found, investigations show, in 8 out of 10 representative homes in cities from coast to coast.

Over three-fourths of all the large department store business in the United States is done by the stores of the following 26 cities, where 92% of the buyers interviewed use Lux:

Boston	Indianapolis
Providence	Chicago
New York	Milwaukee
Newark	Minneapolis
Philadelphia	St. Paul
Baltimore	St. Louis
Washington	New Orleans
Pittsburgh	Kansas City
Buffalo	Denver
Cleveland	Los Angeles
Akron	San Francisco
Detroit	Portland
Cincinnati	Seattle

Lux keeps things new-looking, makes them last far longer! The rich, safe Lux suds cleanse without rubbing—give silks a lovely sheen, keep woolens soft and unshrunken, gaily colored cottons and linens beautifully new.

Lever Bros. Co. Cambridge, Mass.

Leading American department stores do a business of 2½ billion dollars annually. Like the great movie studios in Hollywood and the gorgeous musical shows of New York—department store buyers use Lux to keep clothes new-looking twice as long! And millions of women; customers of these very stores, use Lux—to save clothes and save money. Investigations show that 80% to 95% of the women interviewed in the cities listed above are Lux users.

USE YOUR OWN POSTOFFICE

What must be looked upon as a fair plea is that which is being made to the people of Waterbury by Postmaster Colgrove of that city in urging them to make use of their local postoffice at all times.

The business of a postoffice has come to be regarded as a business barometer for the community. Unless the postoffice gets the business to which it is entitled it fails to properly reflect what is being done there in the use of the mails by individuals, business houses and industries. Under normal conditions it is to be expected that each year will show a gain over the previous year and when the Waterbury postmaster sets a goal of $500,000 for this year it is only such a figure as a proper growth should reach. That it is should be accomplished if the Waterbury office gets the full benefit of the postal business that is done by the people of Waterbury.

The plea that is being made in Waterbury is probably no different than that which is voiced from time to time by postmasters in both larger and smaller cities. They feel the effects of the same practices as those which have caused the Waterbury postmaster to direct the attention of the public to a condition which might not otherwise get much thought. The idea of having mail matter sent from other cities instead of from the postoffice located in the community being served means the deprivation of the latter office of business to which it is entitled and the giving of it to an office which has no claim upon it.

In the belief that by calling attention to this situation, and the effect it has upon the business conditions of such a city when postal business there is compared with that in other offices, Postmaster Colgrove looks for a public response that will place Waterbury where it belongs. After noting the results of the Waterbury effort other postmasters might do as well or better if they pursued a similar course if an appeal to use your own postoffice for supplies is fully justified.

THE NAVY BILL

Now that the house committee on naval affairs has made its report calling for the construction of 16 ships and the expenditure of $274,000,000 it is evident that it stands a much better chance of adoption than the plan for spending nearly three quarters of a billion. And yet the fact that but about a third is being advocated in the way of expenditures at this time does not mean that the entire building programme cannot be carried out by subsequent congresses. There is in fact nothing to stop them from going even further.

Instead of the present congress going ahead with the authorization of a plan which must extend into and perhaps through the life of several congresses, even though appropriations were not actually made at this time, it is proposed that it meet the pressing needs now and leave other legislators to meet the situation later on when, under changing conditions, different requirements might be in order.

By this plan as reported by the committee it is perfectly evident that this country will not be building as many naval vessels as it is entitled to under the ratio which has been fixed. Neither can it be said that it is engaged in naval construction on such a scale as to make other nations suspicious and cause them to indulge in a heated race to keep up with or outdo the others.

No doubt much opposition to the naval building plan as first recommended was caused by the lack of understanding concerning it. There has been much said against it, quite the same as there is always opposition to anything which has a bearing on war, but through the piecemeal method it is possible to carry out the same additions to the navy as if they were all authorized at this time. For that reason it should be much easier to get action upon the bill. The committee isn't undertaking to meet requirements which it believes will be necessary five or ten years from now but it is seeking what is necessary now. Even though the same results may be obtained in the end the opposition of the small navy advocates can be met without disturbing the efficiency of our of our first line of defense.

THE ESCH CASE

Commissioner Esch of the interstate commerce commission has been recommended for reappointment. Because the commissioner has participated in certain decisions by the commission he was made the object of attack at a hearing by the committee considering the nomination.

Back as long ago as when the Esch-Cummins transportation act was passed he got the opposition of certain radical members of congress because as a sponsor for that law the railroads were guaranteed a fair return on their valuation. They have never forgiven him for it. Possibly they were the most disturbed because he took this attitude while a representative of the state of Wisconsin. He was convinced it was just and he supported it quite the same as he did other legislation during the more than a score of years he represented that state in the lower house of congress.

More recently he has aroused opposition because of the interstate commerce commission's rates to lake ports for coal. This was another matter where he voted with the majority. There was a differential rate which made it possible for the southern coal mines to compete with the Pennsylvania mines in serving lake ports. It was later that the commission changed the differential to equalize the opportunities in the two fields. The southern mines appealed for lower rates but they were denied.

These matters have all been brought up in the hearings by the interstate commerce committee of the senate with the result that the committee by a vote of 10 to 7 has recommended that the nomination of Mr. Esch be not ratified. Ordinarily a committee report is accepted by the body to which it is made. There are times when it is not. Intimations are that there will be a fight on the floor of the senate for the confirmation of the Esch appointment with a rehearsal of the whole matter and the question now is whether the senate will abide by its committee report or whether it will disregard it and insist upon confirmation. The vote in the committee did not divide on party lines.

CANADIAN COMMUTERS

Another step has been concluded in determining whether persons residing in Canada can continue to come into this country daily to work without being regarded as immigrants. Because it was believed that the immigration law included such as immigration the department of labor adopted a ruling in accordance therewith. Naturally it was opposed and the matter was carried to the courts, while the state department indicated that there was no desire to cause an affront to Canada. It was a case of carrying out the provisions of the law as interpreted.

The matter has found its way to and through the United States circuit court of appeals with the result that this court holds that naturalized Canadians crossing the border daily in their employment are not immigrants, pointing out that an immigrant changes his domicile but the commuter does not and that the latter can come in under the immigration act as visitors inasmuch as they do not intend to make their home in this country.

Possibly this matter will be carried to the court of last resort, not because there is the desire to exclude such Canadians, but for the purpose of having the matter definitely determined. It is claimed that congress had no idea of placing such a restriction upon Canadian commuters, and it seems probable that such an application of the law was never intended when it was enacted, else it would have been more positively asserted. It is to be remembered that there is a decided difference between the commuter and those aliens who are sneaking across the border. The law intends unquestionably to cover the latter.

GENEVA'S TASK

Now that the league of nations is engaged at Geneva in investigating the carloads of machine guns that were found in Hungary in violation of the treaty provisions the hope may be expressed that the matter will be sifted to the bottom and all the facts brought out in regard to it. That is desirable in order to know just how much treaties amount to and where the responsibility lies in regard to the attempts to go contrary thereto.

Just how far the investigation will go and how much will be broadcast about it is a question. If the guns were found in Hungary they must have come from somewhere. If Hungary received them someone must have sent them. It doesn't seem possible to escape the fact that the guns were in Hungary but whether all the details in connection with the transaction will be brought to light is a question. Still if there are two parties to the affair both should be included in the probe and in the report.

Either treaties like the one which was violated amount to something or they amount to nothing. If the machine gun affair furnishes evidence of what is going on quite generally in violation of treaty terms the quicker it is brought to attention the better. Little is to be gained in the way of treaty support by making a onesided job of the investigation, or by keeping under cover activities which show an utter disregard for solemn treaty provisions.

When those machine guns were discovered in Hungary, that discovery cleared for the throwing of real light on what has been the respect given the treaty in the past and likewise on what may be expected in the future. It might be well to know how many other shipments have been made that were not discovered and whether the shipping point is going to continue its efforts to supply arms in violation of the treaty.

TIT FOR TAT

Mrs. Tittleworth took up her husband's spare nightshirt to mend, and Mr. Tittleworth turned to the sporting page with a sigh of content.

"I heard something about a fight to be held in Chicago," began Mrs. Tittleworth.

"Have they been trying to keep it a secret?"

"They haven't succeeded. One of the neighbors told me. Seems it's to be a fist fight between two men. They call it a prize fight."

Mr. Tittleworth continued reading. If one word leads to another, it was plain he would not voluntarily supply the one word.

"What is the prize?" asked Mrs. Tittleworth.

"A smoked herring," was the reply, "a base on balls when there's none out and two on bases——"

"What is the prize?"

"The whole world?"

"The total, whole world."

"Including Asia, Africa, and —and the Sandwich Islands?" No answer.

"When is that fight held?" Mr. Tittleworth counted ten under his breath. Then—"Most any time."

"But when do you think?"

"How should I know?" with dignity. "I'm in the meat market business and business is terrible. We must keep expenses down at home. Please to remember that. In the third inning with a man on first and a man on second, the pitcher cracked——"

"Has each of these men fought all the other fat men in the world?" asked Mrs. Tittleworth, as she took up a summer undershirt lacking its full quota of buttons.

"They aren't fat men!" was the protest.

"You said a minute ago they was overweight."

"Heavyweight, I said."

"What's the difference?"

"If an ordinary fat man hit you and then one of these heavyweights hit you, why, then you'd know the difference." Mr. Tittleworth continued to read about the happenings in the fourth inning.

"It says here that in the last half of the fourth inning, the right fielder and the center fielder ran after a fly and hit each other keramack!"

"What became of the fly?"

"They dropped it like the butterfingers they was."

"That was lucky for the fly."

"Lucky?"

"Yes, then it could fly away. Goodness knows I don't like flies, but I should think two great, big men would have something better to do than to run around trying to catch flies!"

"Well, they get paid for it."

"Generally, it is."

"When I was a little girl I was the best fly catcher you ever saw. But it takes practice."

"Maybe, that's what is the trouble with the team."

"Is there a team of flycatchers?"

"I wouldn't go so far as to say that, but they are trying to be?"

"Anyway, the flies will be gone before long, so it don't make much difference. Are all prize fighters supposed to be heavyweights?"

"No, some are supposed to be flyweights."

Mrs. Tittleworth put down the undershirt.

"Herman Tittleworth," said she, coldly, "I am aware of what you are trying to do to me."

"That's more than I'm aware of," avowed her spouse

"Now, listen to me."

"I'm listening," said Mr. Tittleworth, uneasily.

"Do women go to this prize fight?"

"Well, yes and no."

"Have you asked me, your lawful wife, to go?"

"No, not yet I haven't asked you."

"And you didn't intend to ask me. Mrs. Snorf next door told me she heard you and Mr. Snorf planning to go to this fight without saying anything about it to any one. So—"

"We was just talking—"

"Not very much."

"How much?"

"Ten dollars."

"Oh!" moaned Mrs. Tittleworth. "What a mistake was this tit for tat!"

"Tit for tat?"

"Yes, slow joke. Mrs. Snorf said she thought it was a $5 bill you gave Mr. Snorf. What a mistake I made! I should have taken the blue hat. That darling blue hat. So much more becoming to me than the hat I did buy. And it was only $15 instead of $10!"

"I think I'll take a little walk," said Mr. Tittleworth.—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

The Undignified Foot

By Edward A. Rich, M. D., Tacoma, Wash., Member Gorgas Memorial.

It seems to be beneath the dignity of most medical men to stoop to the common foot disorders.

During the war one shipment of foot powder in barrels, sent to France to ease the feet of our soldiers, is said to have found its way to a field battery and was made up into bread. Probably some medical officer was ignorant of its value as a lubricant for chapped and blistered feet and was trying to find a better use for it.

For many a year I have made the statement in public addresses that folks suffer as much pain with the despised static disorders of the feet as they ever do from such internal abdominal conditions as an infected gall bladder. If the latter, they seek and secure relief; if the former, they grin and bear it or are commiserated with.

Any painful static foot defect and almost all deformities in the foot region, when properly treated, can be relieved of pain and can be functionally cured. True, it is not possible to cure a bunion radically and have resulting an X-ray-normal great toe, but what matter, if the toe functions and is painless?

We have high lateral arches and low arches. An arch in between is a normal arch and a normal height is essential to provide spring, mechanics, and utility. If this arch is too high we have the so-called aristocratic high instep, supposed to be a sign of blue blood, but in reality cavus, as the condition is called, was the curse of our army days. In the southern army camps many more men were incapacitated by high arches than by low arches or flat-feet. If the arches are too low, the strain of weight-bearing and the abnormal mechanics produce the disabling results of flat-foot.

There is another arch across the foot at the base of the toes known as the anterior or metatarsal arch and in this locality appear such agonizing conditions as Morton's disease, Metatarsalgia, enlarged bones in the tendons, bunions, weeping eczema, often called soft corns, and several other less common maladies. Mention should be made of ankle valgus, or turning out of the foot at the ankle with the resulting prominence and lowering of the inner aspect of the ankle. This is the most common of all foot defects found in children. It is often supposed to be a fallen arch, but is in reality only a weak and loose ankle joint.

How does the orthopedic surgeon tackle his job of correcting the foot defects? In the young the defects are corrected, in the old it is better to modify the shoes and adapt the footwear to the defect. This can be done skillfully and will accomplish the same thing as correction of defects.

The time has come when the economic loss and personal suffering from the many foot defects should be frowned upon. They are comparable with malaria twenty years ago—they are disorders with specific treatment that eradicates them.

Stories That Recall Others

Lucky

A discussion concerning income tax was ensuing.

"I have a family and besides I don't earn enough to pay income tax," asserted Mr. X.

Martha, the youngest, who had been listening intently, spoke up:

"Well, you sure are lucky, aren't you, daddy?"

Trying to Help

Mrs. Blank had returned home one afternoon after consulting a physician with the announcement she had been advised to reduce the amount of carbohydrates in her diet. A few hours later the family assembled for dinner prepared by the cook, when all at once Mrs. Blank looked up to see the cook lifting some of the vegetables off the table.

"Why, Mandy, what's the matter? Don't we get anything to eat?" some one asked the cook.

"No siree, you don't get this. It's got too many hydrophobias in it," she answered quickly.

Fellowship of Prayer

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

"The Joy of a Good Conscience"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "I have lived before God in all good conscience until this day." (Acts 23:11.) Read: Psalm 15.

MEDITATION: A good conscience is a great joy. One may suffer materially for the course that he has conscientiously taken; public opinion may not approve and friends may criticize; but the heart is filled with an incomparable peace. There is no greater source of inner satisfaction than to be able to say: "I have done what I think is right." Truth and right reward their faithful followers by the sense of inward peace. Out of experience came the familiar simple creed of a distinguished man: "I know it is right to do right." Goethe remarked on reading some memoirs: "We learn from this what a splendid thing truth is when anyone has the courage to speak it."

PRAYER :O God of truth, may we be loyal to the truth we know and faithfully follow the way which commends itself to our conscience, so that we may find our wills in harmony with Thine and know the peace that passeth understanding. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Pointers For Parents

A mother who is prepared for the normal development of her boy's emotional nature will not nurse a secret sorrow when small son, aged 11, thinks kissing a painful duty. A father who finds himself a somewhat distant acquaintance of his small daughter's will stand by, knowing that if he proves worthy he will have his wellnigh perfect innings.

Children delight to play in water, and small daughter can very well learn to wash out her own socks each morning. A little clothesline in the yard low enough for her to reach will please her. From that job she can assume tea towel washing, rubbing and rinsing the towels after the breakfast dishes are washed.

Fruits and fruit juices should have a daily place in every child's diet. For the child under 1 year orange juice should be the staple fruit. Between the ages of 4 and 7 raw fruits may be introduced cautiously, provided the child chews them well. Begin with apples, pears, berries which are not too seedy, melons and peaches. It is wisest to use only cooked fruits for supper at this age. After the 8th year all fruits, fresh or cooked, may be introduced gradually, provided they are sound and perfectly ripe. It is well to postpone somewhat the use of strongly acid fruits, except in diluted form.—Children.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Do As Others Do

Dear Mr. Editor: With all the talk about the age limit for police officers, why not settle it by having civil service and real physical examinations? Why not get out of the hick town class and do the thing in an up to date way as they do in cities, and have a civil service examination and appoint officers according to their standing?

Zagreb

"Zagreb's new Dalmatian marble bourse, whose huge Ionian pillars and interior finishings suggest a Greek temple rather than a financial exchange of a modern city, is an important addition to the imposing group of buildings which the Croatians have built in an attempt to have their city included among the list of world capitals," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Zagreb, or Agram, as the city was known when the Hapsburgs claimed it, lies in one of nature's garden spots among the foothills of the Agram mountains. At its back door rise peaks of varying heights, while to the south the city overlooks a broad fertile plain where, for centuries, the Croatians have tilled their well kept, highly productive farms and tended their vineyards.

"Even the railroad approach to the city is attractive," continues the bulletin. "Instead of the usual unsightly railroad yards of many cities, Zagreb's right-of-way is bordered by the Botanical gardens and numerous parks. And from the station to the center of the city one passes a series of parks for several blocks which resemble, on a small scale, the Mall of Washington, D. C.

"The Jelacic trg, or great square, a block beyond the head of the parkway, might be called the melting pot of Zegreb and neighboring Croatia. It is adorned with a statue of Josef Jelacic, Croatia's most famous banus, hero of the Croatian revolution of 1848.

"On market days Jelacic looks down upon a teeming mass of humanity, urban, suburban and rural. Shortly after daybreak long lines of tables are set out on the cobbles until every available place is occupied. They even cramp the coffee shops on the southern side of the square, but the proprietors, whose business is increased by the market day crowds, endure the temporary discomfiture for the extra day's receipts.

"Peasant women, arranging their produce for the brisk trade to follow, wear white waists and their skirts are emblazoned with colored embroidery down the front, around the waist and across the apron. Voluminous knee-length skirts and soft, moccasin-like shoes complete their costume. More colors of a brilliant variety are displayed in their head shawls, so tightly wrapped that despite their high cheek bones, their faces are softened to pleasing ovals.

"While the women predominate in the aisles, the sturdy, ruddy-skinned husbands often are on hand. In full white trousers strapped around the ankles and heavily embroidered shirts showing through bright yellow vests studded with buttons of another color, men vie with their wives as Croatian fashion plates. The soft black hat worn by the men is a sort of abbreviated derby whose halsized brim curls inward toward a band whose color outshines a Christmas necktie.

"An occasional gypsy maid, with head shawl of turkey red, and massive red flowers on her waist, strides among the throngs in front of the vegetable and fruit filled tables. She wears bright rings of base metals and perhaps a necklace of huge silver cart-wheel currency of the defunct empire.

"At noon the market closes, unsold merchandise is quickly packed, and the peasants begin a round of fun until evening, when they return to their rural homes. Some go to the coffee shops, where the white tables are as spotless as the dresses of their patrons while others go to the amusement park to eat, drink, sing and dance. Meanwhile, the square is given a thorough cleaning. By nightfall the stones have been polished until they shine and even the minutest piece of lettuce leaf of pear stem cannot be found on the cobbles.

"Running east and west from the square is the Ilica, Zagreb's 'Main street.' It is the shopping district, industrial district and promenade. The Palace of Justice, the picture gallery, library, theatres, the museum and other important buildings border it. Nearly a thousand years ago Zagreb was divided into Upper Town and Lower Town, with the Ilica as the dividing line. Frequently the two sections came to blows.

"The university, with more than 3,000 students, is in the old town, while the Zagreb cathedral, a beautiful fifteenth century Gothic structure, is about two blocks from the trg in the Upper Town."

INCOME TAX TIPS

A bonus paid by a state to its residents who served in the military or naval service during the war with Germany does not constitute taxable income.

Benefits paid by a labor union to members while on strike are to be included in the income, subject to tax, of such members.

An allowance paid a retired clergyman by the governing body of a religious denomination is taxable income.

Annuities paid retired civil service employes of the federal government are subject to the tax to the extent that the aggregate amount of payments exceed the aggregate amount withheld from the salaries of the employes.

Little Talks on Thrift

Do the Thing for Which You Are Best Suited

While not reducible to statistical form, one of the most prolific sources of waste is misapplied human effort.

Countless persons are not living up to their possibilities because they are not doing the things to which they are best suited. Many absolute failures in life may be attributed directly to this cause.

It is well worth while to make a careful and honest study of one's personal talents and then direct one's course of life accordingly. To make a vocation of the things for which one is not fitted, is a type of thriftlessness which involves waste of time, energy, opportunity and substantially every other personad resource.

We are created with certain abilities—certain gifts of mind and heart—certain possibilities of progress. If we adjust our plan of life so that we shall be devoting our energies to the form of activity for which we are suited, we cannot fail to attain great success, provided we have the gift of health and live sensible lives.

Instances are by no means uncommon where men and women have saved carefully, only to have their savings swept away through unsound business practices or injudicious investment. The same may be said of those whose work lies along ill-advised lines.

Neither hard work nor careful economy by any means constitute the entirety of thrift. The dollar saved from waste must be put to work for your in the right way. The days, months and years must be invested not only industriously but with efficient industry.

Study yourself carefully—courageously. Let neither pride nor timidity warp your judgment. After you have made a just appraisal of your qualifications, shape the course of your life to these ends. To do so is to emulate real thrift. — American Society for Thrift.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Hot cabs—sudden draughts—muscular strain

But no rheumatism for these 249 locomotive firemen and engineers

"ONCE a railroad man—always a railroad man," they say. There's a fascination about the life that holds a man, once he's started on it.

No easy berth either—whether you drive the engine or fire the boilers. It's a tax on the strongest muscles, and you're always in danger of catching a chill from the extremes of heat and cold going in and out of the cab.

What do these hardy men do to keep their muscles strong and supple for their work? How do they ward off colds, chest congestions, rheumatism?

We went right to some locomotive firemen and engineers and asked them these questions.

249 whom we asked said, "We use Sloan's."

The standby of workers everywhere

Ask any group of active men or women these same questions and two out of three of them will give you the same answer. Sloan's is the best thing you can use to keep muscles supple under the hardest work, to kill the pain of overstrain or small injuries, to prevent colds and rheumatism.

Read this letter from a fireman on the Union Pacific:

"I am a fireman on Union Pacific R. R. I was taken sick in Maryville, Kansas, and I worked back to Kansas City with pains shooting all over my back. As soon as I got to Kansas City I got a bottle of your wonderful liniment and started to put it on. It did me a whole lot of good, and, for me, I wouldn't be without a bottle at any time. I carry a bottle in my grip all the time on road. After each trip I put some Sloan's on." C. R. Ellis, 3250 Gillham Road, Kansas City, Mo.

The minute you apply it you begin to get relief. And it doesn't just deaden the pain temporarily—it gets rid of it. It stimulates the circulation, breaks up congestion, clears out germs and poisons, and the pain stops because the cause is removed.

Get a bottle today and have it on hand. You never can tell when it may save you hours of agony—days of lost time. A bottle that lasts a long time is only 35 cents and you can get it at all druggists. Use it for:

Rheumatism, Lame muscles, Sciatica, Stiff neck, Lumbago, Colds and congestions, Neuralgia, Sprains and bruises

This locomotive engineer is one of 249 railroad men who told us of the protection that Sloan's gives against rheumatism, colds, muscular pain

Here's what the company doctor of one of the big railroads says of Sloan's: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

MALDEN PASTOR SPEAKS UPON HEARTHSTONE ETHICS

The Everyman's Bible class of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church entertained members of men's organizations in Norwich and throughout eastern Connecticut at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday evening. The attendance numbered about 150 and included a number of women who had been invited to accompany the men at the gathering. The feature event of the evening was a stirring and instructive address by Rev. John Nicol Mark of Malden, Mass., who recently addressed a supper meeting of the Norwich chamber of commerce. Unfortunately the musical programme arranged for the evening had to be omitted as the church organ was unexpectedly put out of commission through motor trouble.

Guy B. Dolbeare extended a welcome to the men and their guests. He called attention to the fact that this was the third annual event of its kind held by the Everyman's Bible class as a yearly contribution to the welfare of the community. Rev. E. C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church, opened the programme by reading a scripture selection after which he offered prayer. Mr. Dolbeare introduced the speaker of the evening.

Rev. Mr. Mark, after relating a number of humorous stories, launched into his address which was on the subject, Ethics of the Hearthstone. President Coolidge said the destiny of America lies around the hearthstone, said the speaker. Look well to the hearthstone, he continued. The home has been emphasized for centuries in character building. I wish every political leader today would take interest in this doctrine. It is time for us to give up our quackery if we expect social, moral and economic welfare.

Is the destiny of America receiving an impetus or a setback by our hearthstone ethics? The main difficulty with our American home is that it is becoming too much anartmentized and delicatessenized. The home occupies the greater part of our thought and activities. To the man who has lost his grip on life the influence of a good home is never lost.

Are we fitting our young people to be the hope of America? We've got to face these questions seriously. If our young people are to become the hope of America we've got to teach them to be courteous. We've got to train them to be unselfish. We've got to train them to obey. We've got to teach them to believe in pluck, rather than in luck. We've got to teach them not to despise the might of little things. Trifles sometimes make all the difference between success and failure. In closing Rev. Mr. Mark spoke of the importance of religion in character building. He was heartily applauded at the close of his address by the audience who were deeply impressed with the masterly manner in which he handled his subject. The gathering was brought to a close shortly before 9:30 o'clock.

William A. McCabe, friend and confidential adviser of Gene Tunney, has purchased the property of Clara Louise White on Erskine road in the Long Ridge section of Stamford.

FRANKLIN FARMER IS FOUND DEAD SITTING IN CHAIR IN KITCHEN

Peleiah L. Mabrey, 75, was found dead from acute heart disease in the kitchen of his home in Franklin about 9 o'clock Wednesday morning by his neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rodman, who had gone to the house to investigate the failure of smoke to issue from the chimney. His body was found by them in a sitting posture in a chair in the kitchen.

Mr. Mabrey had been in failing health for some time, having been cared for by a Willimantic doctor, and was in the habit of sleeping in the kitchen chair near the stove, having found that place more comfortable than in bed. The bed was found in an orderly condition and had evidently not been occupied Tuesday night.

Medical Examiner Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve of Norwich was called, pronounced death due to acute heart disease and gave permission for the body to be removed to the undertaking rooms of George G. Grant of Taftville. Death was sudden and occurred in the early morning, possibly in sleep.

Mr. Mabrey was born in Franklin and is survived by several nieces and nephews. A sister, Miss Amelia Mabrey, who had lived with him, died about a year ago.

REINDEER MEAT IS COMING TO NORWICH

Shades of old Kris Kringle! What will the old boy do when his reindeers are being sold over the counter at so much per pound? Apparently the time is not far distant when this will be an actual fact and it will be just as common-place to go into a market and say "Gimme a pound o' reindeer" as it is now to say "Gimme a pound of beefsteak."

Yesterday hundreds of people who passed the Mohican store on Main street stopped, looked and felt of the shaggy gray coat that covered the carcass of some strange animal. Many were the guesses made as to what manner of beast it was. Sans horn, sans head and sans feet it swung in public view and attracted no little attention. To some it was a moose, to others a caribou, while others claimed it was a deer and still a few insisted that it was a bear. But the percentage that said reindeer was negligible.

The reindeer was received Wednesday by the Mohican company and Manager Frank G. Aubrey said that the cuts from the animal would go on sale on Friday and already orders are being received for steaks and other choice cuts. What reindeer meat tastes like is not at all certain from personal taste, but from hearsay it is difficult to tell from venison. It is dark meat and has that delicious game taste which makes venison so popular. If this shipment of reindeer meets with ready sale it is Manager Aubrey's plan to keep it on hand all the time.

Reindeer meat is now becoming very popular. One firm recently shipped from Alaska 800,000 pounds to Seattle, Wash. One-third of this amount comes east. The soaring beef prices are increasing the demand for reindeer meat and prospects for this northern industry are increasingly bright day by day.

There are 650,000 reindeer now in Alaska and they are increasing at the annual rate of 30 per cent. By 1930 this will number in excess of 1,000,000. The pasturage in the north will care for about 4,000,000 reindeer, it is said, so that in a few years 1,000,000 animals must be marketed to keep the range available for the herds' existence. By that time the meat is expected to have made a place for itself on the American tables.

The average weight of the reindeer is about 120 pounds. The industry, of course, is in its infancy. They are serving reindeer meat in a great many of the hotels in New York. The meat is dark with wonderful flavor. The reindeer feed on moss and never get very fat because they get very little grain.

PERSONAL ELEMENT IN RELIGION IS NECESSARY

Rev. Dr. Henry Howard of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church in New York continued on Wednesday evening in the United Congregational church the series of addresses under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association. Rev. C. H. Ricketts conducted the devotional exercises at the opening of the meeting.

Rev. Dr. Howard spoke upon the value of the personal equation in religion, or the importance of the personal note in salvation, and declared that although there is a universality to the gospel it must be brought down to the particular individual. There can be no escape from personal responsibility, he declared, and if the man is rightly related to God he will be right in his relations to his fellow man and all his surroundings. God's care and thought and love are for each individual and Jesus is longing to prove Himself the private, personal, specific saviour of each, private, personal, specific soul.

Dr. Howard's final address will be given this (Thursday) evening. mem-church. dn now is the time for

Lawrence, for his design of the famous Wright air-cooled whirlwind motor, which was used by the great trans-ocean flyers, Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd, Maitland, Hegenberger, Brock, Schlee, Smith and Bronte. Lawrence, a modest man, was once asked why he had not received credit for the great flights, and he returned, "Who ever heard the name of Paul Revere's horse?"

CHARTER OAK TEAM OF HARTFORD SIGNS FOR NEXT DUWELL AMATEURS

The Charter Oak club of Hartford known as one of the strongest supporters of amateur boxers in Connecticut will furnish the team of high class talent for the Duwell amateur show to be staged at the state armory on Tuesday night, March 13. Having within its ranks over 90 amateur boxers including two state champs and a flock of contenders for the titles to be passed out in New Haven next month, the Hartford club is recognized as one of the two largest organizations of its kind in Connecticut.

Hartford Heavy to Fight Burlap

Most prominent of the Charter Oak men are Ray Strong, Conn. bantamweight champ and Johnnie Angelo, king of the featherweights. In addition to these, there is Charlie Stevens, colored welterweight champion and last but not least, Henry Bell 185 pounds, the next opponent of "Big Boy" Burlap of Westerly.

In answer to the Duwell's request for a team of good boys at certain weights, the manager of the Hartford club sent a list of names that would compare with a city directory. The local authorities have been advised to take their pick and the result is that five of Connecticut's high lights will do their stuff in Norwich next Tuesday night.

Although the five have not all been picked as yet, the appearance of Bell the heavyweight is certain. "Big Boy" Burlap has had to remain idle for some time because of lack of competition, but he sure can depend on having a busy night next week. The Hartford hefty packs a mean wallop and is just as anxious to "rough it" as the Westerly lad is.

Any of the 1500 fans that saw the final Duwell outdoor show last summer will surely vouch for Hartford boxers. It will be remembered that on that occasion a team from the Insurance city came here and carried away the lion's share of the honors after a night of hard fighting.

Duwells to Furnish Opposition

The opposition for the imported team will be furnished by the new members of the Duwell team. The Westerly men who joined the local outfit Tuesday will be making their first stand under Duwell colors next Tuesday night.

In addition to the Hartford and Westerly entries, boys representing Norwich, Taftville, Danielson, Stonington, Jewett City, New London and South Manchester will be seen in action. The entry list will close Saturday night, and no other boys will be registered after that.

RUDOLPH AND ASSOCIATES OFFICIALLY GET BRASSCOS

WATERBURY, March 7—(AP)—The Waterbury baseball club officially passed into the hands of Dick Rudolph, James V. Giblin and Phil Troy of Boston here today, when the new owners paid their first visit to the city and completed the deal. President-Manager Rudolph inspected Brassco park and awarded a contract for repairs on the stands which were damaged by the storm last fall.

The new owners announced that the players will report at a Virginia training camp, April 1, for two weeks of spring training. Secretary Troy will leave tomorrow for southern climes to select the site. Roanoke, Va., is mentioned as the possible camp. Rudolph will leave Boston Friday night to visit the southern major league training camps. He expects to have a favorable squad in camp on reporting day.

BRUCE FLOWERS WINS DECISION OVER SPUG MYERS

DETROIT, March 7—(AP)—Bruce Flowers, New York Negro lightweight championship contender, won the decision over Spug Myers, of Pocatello, Idaho, in a vicious ten-round bout here tonight. Flowers won nine of the ten rounds.

WEIGHT VS. SLENDERNESS AT Y FRIDAY EVENING

Weight and brawn, the only real assets of the Fatmen of the senior class of the Y, are expected to triumph over the speed and elusiveness of the Slimsters, in the game at the Y Friday evening. The Fatmen, under the astute dual leadership of Chick Stanley and Gus Mullen will endeavor to prove that a perfect 36 or a sylphlike form is not necessary to successful basketball. However, there is more or less consternation in the camp of the those afflicted with obesity, due to the fact that Stanley is suffering from a reported affliction of the cardiac organ. The reason for all this uneasiness on the eve of this crucial contest is that in a workout with the gloves between the two leaders, Mullen let lose a haymaker that nestled close under Chick's left floating rib. When interviewed last night, Manager Stanley denied the rumor and labeled it as malicious slander and propaganda put forth by the Slimmen. He says he will be in there for all he is worth —whatever that means, if anything.

Goldblatt has been named manager and this team plans to campaign among the leaders.

Games are especially desired with the New Britain Phantoms, Glastonbury Rovers, etc.

LOW SCORES AT BOWLING CONGRESS AT K. CITY

KANSAS CITY, March 7—(AP)—Low scores predominated among today's five-men teams competing in the American Bowling congress and the score of 2,397 hung up by the A. B. C. Cleaners of Kansas City withstood the assaults of more than 150 other local quintets. Cook Paint No. 4, had 2,395 and Richards-Conover 2,372, for second and third place. Local contestants will give way to out-of-town entrants on the alleys Friday.

SCHAAF SCORES 18 POINTS AS PENN. BEATS YALE

NEW HAVEN, March 7—(AP)—Penn defeated Yale in an intercollegiate basketball game here tonight, 39-33. Schaaf brought his total points to 122, scoring 18 in tonight's contest. With one more game to be played, that with Princeton, he needs four more goals to break the present record.

'BOUT SPORTS

Bulkeley's young basketball team, like the Academy's, is having it demonstrated most every start that it takes years of experience to produce a strong high school court team. These teams are not usually built in a year or even two or three. The Academy and Bulkeley, two of the strongest in the state in other sports, are floundering around far down in the ranking of state high schools.

The Red and White has done better this year; they have won a few scholastic clashes, but that is to be expected in view of last year's seasoning for most of the squad. Bulkeley has not won a game with another high school this year, getting a lacing every time out. Even the Academy was able to wallop this zealous club, 38 to 10, while other defeats were administered by Stonington (twice) and Bacon academy once.

Naugatuck, which seems destined to be state champion this year, is an excellent example of the reward of hard work to make a basketball team. In order to compete with the clever floorwork and fast passing that high school quintets now show, the students over in the little town in western Connecticut are drilled from the sixth grade in grammar school. Not only in basketball but in all major sports is this training given, so that when a boy gets into his varsity years, usually the third and fourth, he should have a fairly good knowledge of his game.

The Academy has had less than two years of basketball an dalthough the material seemed to be good, still something is missing. Bulkeley, of Hartford, is another team in the same class as the Red and White, which after two years, is still showing a scarcity of victories. It takes Father Time's help in matters of this kind.

RISKO ARRIVES AT NEW YORK FOR STIFF TRAINING

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Johnny Risko, baker boy heavyweight of Cleveland, opened his training here today for his heavyweight elimination match of 15 rounds with Jack Sharkey, of Boston, in Madison Square Garden, Monday night.

Risko worked four rounds each with Frankie Lennon and Jesse Bauinight two light heavyweights who came into town with him this morning from Cleveland. Sharkey is expected here late tonight. The New York state athletic commission ruled recently that both heavyweights must work here at least five days before the match.

The Cleveland rubberman did five miles of road work this morning and completed the day with two rounds at the heavy bags. He exerted himself little during the workout, scaling 193 when the day was done.

Risko is extremely confident of victory. "I'll beat Sharkey and possibly knock him out," he said. "He can't punch hard enough to hurt me and I know he can't outbox me. After this fight I'll be in a position to demand a shot at Gene Tunney's title."

Sharkey Arrives

MULLEN OFFERS McLARNIN $50,000 FOR MANDELL BOUT

CHICAGO, March 7—(AP)—Promoter Jim Mullen, determined to outbid Tex Rickard for the prized lightweight championship match between Sammy Mandell and Jimmy McLarnin, today dangled a record-breaking bid of $50,000 before McLarnin as inducement for him to sign for the match here June 21.

Mullen added just $20,000 to the previous guarantee offered McLarnin —a record-breaking figure for a lightweight challenger. Rocky Kansas, when lightweight champion, received only $50,000 for the match with Mandell, in which the "Sheik of Rockford" won the title here two years ago.

Today's offer was revealed by Mullen over long distance telephone from Detroit, where he is seeking future boxing talent.

Mullen intends to stage the match in Soldier field and believes it will set a record gate for lightweights, exceeding the $367,000 record established when Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler met at Jersey City in 1922.

BILL KENNEDY AND DE MAR IN BOSTON-PROVIDENCE RUN

BOSTON, March 7—(AP)—With entry blanks for the Boston Athletic association's annual April 19th marathon run already in the mail, 25 long distance runners, including several of the nation's foremost hill and dalers, are entered in next Saturday's 44-mile "go as you please" race from Providence to Boston.

Clarence De Mar, perennial marathon winner, and Bill Kennedy, New York veteran of long distance racing, are two of the top notchers who have entered the run as a training preparation for the B. A. A. grind which this year carries the A. A. U. title and final Olympic selection berths for the winners.

Leon Yuell, of the Wakefield Y. M. C. C. who headed the field that raced from Providence to Boston last year and Tom Bury, of the Lynn "Y", who won the Providence end of the run in 1927, are again entered. About 75 starters are expected when the gun is fired at ten o'clock Saturday morning.

HEAVY ENTRY LIST FOR N. E. CHAMPIONSHIPS

BOSTON, March 7—(AP)—Enough amateur boxers to produce 75 bouts have entered the annual New England A. A. U. championships here next Monday night, with indications that before closing time at midnight tonight another dozen or two aspirants for fistic honors would have entered the lists.

Announcement by Manager Tom Kanaly, of the Boston Athletic association that the winners will go to Detroit for the national junior championships on March 23, and will be entered in the national championships and Olympic tryouts here next month is believed to have helped produce the top heavy entry list.

Only one 1927 champion will be defending his title. He is Gene Bianco, 112 pound battler from East Boston. Seven other former champions turned their backs on Olympic year probabilities and are now chasing fame and a possible fortune in the professional ranks. Their defalcation will leave the way open for new titlists in the 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, and 175 pound classes, as well as in the heavyweight division.

PLAINFIELD PROS BEAT BRISTOL ENDEES IN IMPRESSIVE FASHION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, March 7—In a one-sided rough and tumble game, the Plainfield Pros gave the highly touted Bristol Endees a beating by the score of 43 to 23 at the Community house here tonight. Rough and tumble it was, but practically all of that can be credited to the Endees, who were losing and took every means to keep from being trimmed. Bernot came in for most of the fouling and at the same time played a great game, shooting five fool goals out of seven tries and making several nice shots for field goals. Manning of the Bristol club was the chief offender, time and again being penalized for his rough tactics.

Endees Miss Many

The Endees must have been off their game as the team individually is composed of some of the best players in the state. However, they missed baskets often, their team work was ragged and even their floor worn was far below par. This should not detract from the excellent playing of Plainfield, however, as they outplayed the Bristol lads in every department of the game and were in the game to win, which they did, with quite some to spare.

Feldman started the scoring for the Endees with a foul goal and after Bernot had the first foul made on him by Crowley, he proceeded to shoot the foul. Benson, on a fast play, dropped the ball in for the first field goal for Plainveld and from then on they stretched their lead until the end of the half.

Benson and Bernot took the brunt of the punishment from Bristol, each having five tries at foul goals in the first half. Brusso, dropping the ball in from any direction, was the star with four field goals in the first half. Goals by the phantom Kasper, the Plainfield addition, Bensom and a nice shot by Dessinger ended the first half with Plainfield leading, 25 to 5, Malcolm and Crowley obtaining the only two field goals for the Bristol aggregation. Benson was taken out with about five minutes to play in the first half, owing to a slight injury, and was replaced by Madden.

Benson returned to the lineup for the second half and both teams settled down to a slightly less hectic game. Field goals by Malcolm, Feldman and a pretty field by Malcolm boosted the Endees' score, while Brusso, Bernot and Benson, firing away, continually increased the Plainfield's points. The three B's, Brusso, Bernot and Benson, made brilliant shots and the consistently fast floor work of Kasper had the Endees quite at sea. Dessinger made the last field goal just as the final whistle sounded.

Buddies Win

The Plainfield Buddies won their 20th game out of 25 played, when they trimmed the Stonington team by a 40 to 20 score. The latter team couldn't seem to do much against the fast floor work and spectacular passing of the Buddies.

TAFTVILLE AND DANIELSON READY FOR "RUBBER" GAME

Both the Taftville Crescents and the Danielson Town team are practically ready for the third and deciding game of their series Friday night at the Plainfield Community house to decide which will meet the Plainfield Pros for the eastern Connecticut championship.

Each club will be strengthened over its usual lineup, that is practically certain, although neither lineup will probably not be announced until tonight, at least.

Both have made heavy inroads into the Purple Collegians and Bristol Endees, it is said and if this is the case, some high-grade basketball can be expected.

The Plainfield Community house has been selected for the game as it is deemed a neutral spot and also one of the best playing surfaces hereabouts. Present indications are that there will be a capacity audience.

AL KOZIOL HAS GRAND TIME IN PROVIDENCE

Al Koziol, local amateur lightweight who recently won the title of Rhode Island was the guest of Providence sport writers yesterday afternoon. Al, through virtue of his four consecutive knockouts to win the title, was a much-photographed boy, each newspaper taking several pictures of the lad. He was also snapped in the championship group, which will defend Rhode Island's honor in the New England championships at Boston next Monday night.

Barney Keenan, Koziol's pugilistic mentor, said last night that he wished to correct the impression that Koziol is violating A. A. U. rules in fighting from Cranston. Mr. Keenan said that Koziol had been registered as a member of the Cranston team for over a year. All business relative to Koziol's service is being done by John E. Martin, 257 Pontiac Ave., Cranston, R. I.

WINDHAM MAY LOSE RIGHT TO COMPETE AT YALE TOURNEY

Should the protest that Rockville high has filed with the State Interscholastic council be upheld Windham of Willimantic will in all probability lose its chance to enter the Yale tourney. The trouble started about a month ago in Rockville when Windham went there to play the first game of its series with the school there. Before the game Coach Callaghan of Windham called attention to the fact that two Rockville players had played the night before with an independent team. One of these players was not in uniform while the other one, who was, was kept out of the game.

However, the Rockville coach or somebody found out that Heller and Nichols, Windham, forwards, the latter the captain had played in Rockville earlier in the season with the All-Hellers. Rockville is protesting this and the protest is to be acted upon Saturday in New Haven.

KOLEHMAINEN FORCED OUT OF TRANS-U. S. RACE

BOXING JABS

Danielson's team of boxers that has appeared here several times, will be busy next week, fighting here Tuesday at the Duwell show, Thursday in Willimantic and Friday in Putnam.

Rene Peloquin is expected to join his club shortly, after an absence due to an injured hand.

No shows in Norwich this week but next week, Tuesday, the Duwells and the Pastimes Friday.

Jack Sharkey and Johnny Risko fight next Monday so that the coming days will produce quite a bit of action.

Lew Hirsch, who was at George Schiller's camp at Lebanon about a month ago and who seconded a few boys down at the Pastime show, won his fight Tuesday night in New York, beating Tommy Jerval of Shenandoah, Pa., in a six round semi-final to the Burns-Phil McGraw bout.

The New Haven card for next Monday night, scheduled to feature Mike Esposito of Stamford against Corporal Izzy Schwartz, world's flyweight champ, has been cancelled. The Stamford fighter is said to have balked at making 118 and rather than produce a substitute the show was called off.

Al Beauregard is sure going at a high rate of speed right now. He took the bout with Mickey Connolly at the Boston show Monday night on less than 12 hours' notice but still was able to win on a knockout.

Kid Kaplan meets Georgie Day at the New Haven Arena, March 20.

Quinn asked for permission to fight in the New England tournament but was denied this privilege because Conn. is not in the New England A. A. U. association.

AETNA ROAD TEAM BEATS LAWRENCE JRS.

The Aetna Road team took a close one from the Lawrence Juniors of New London Wednesday night at the Aetna alleys, winning by the scant total of 1607 to 1599. Tony of the losers produced plenty of excitement when, needing three strikes to win, he made two, but to lose by eight pins.

In another match at the Aetnas last night the Norwich Woolen Mill beat the Yantic Woolen Co. 1393 to 1361.

ACADEMY STARTS BUSY SPELL TONIGHT

The Academy starts its second last week of activity tonight, strongly determined to make some amends in the four remaining games, three of them this week, for the poor record so far in its second year at the sport.

Tonight the Red and White meets Plainfield high at Plainfield Community house in the second game of the year between these two schools. The locals opened their season by severely trouncing this team at the Y in January, having little trouble at that time in winning. Tonight, however, Plainfield is a much different team, for in the interim the boys from that thriving village have run up quite a respectable record.

Another thing, too, they are regarding tonight's game as being most important and when a team gets into a "crucial contest" it usually makes it fairly hot for the opposition.

Both teams expect to use their strongest lineups.

Les Pingree, stellar center, will in all probability be in the Academy lineup, returning after a wrenched ankle which he received in the Windham game last Friday. Les, when he is right, is a big help to any team and tonight the Academy is banking considerably on his ability to sink them in old time form. Lloyd Jarvis and either Joe Viau or Dave Tigar will go to the forwards with Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix at the guards.

The Plainfield Buddies will meet the Putnam Silk Sox in the preliminary, which starts at 8 p. m.

CARDS AND A'S WIN FIRST EXHIBITIONS

ATLANTA, Ga., March 7—(AP)—Florida's so-called "Grapefruit league" baseball season was on in earnest today with four of the ten major league clubs training in the state engaged in exhibition play.

Meanwhile the others bided their time, continuing routine drill and pepper games in preparation for regular exhibition contests to come before the end of the week.

The Phillies and Athletics met in the first of the season's exhibition contests at Fort Myers, while the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Americans tied up at Bradenton.

All workouts today were pointed to training games with recruit hurlers in general being primed for action. Veterans are expected to come in for only a small share of the playing this week.

The Brooklyn Robins today had probably the hardest day's drill since reaching Clearwater. Batting and fielding practice consumed the morning program and a practice game was staged in the afternoon. Doak, Petty, Elliott, Vance and McWeeney all participated in the play. Statz arrived in camp today.

Bucky Harris, Washington manager, announced today the names of several rookies to be used tomorrow against the Cardinals. Barnes, Gillis and West, all recruits, will get in the game.

Meanwhile, the Giants with two selected teams went through a full nine inning game at Augusta. Ty Cobb worked out on the field after the McGraw squad had retired and "The Peach" seemed in good condition.

President Barnard of the American league visited the San Antonio camp of the Detroit Tigers during the day, watching Manager Moriarty's charges romp through a practice session.

The Cleveland Indians had a light workout at New Orleans which was cut short by unfavorable weather.

CUBS WORK OUT WITH TWO COMPLETE INFIELDS

AVALON, Cal., March 7—(AP)—A light rain starting at noon, cut short today's workout of the Chicago Cubs. However, Manager Joe McCarthy was able to send his charges through a general workout during the time they were on the diamond. Batting, fielding and base running were crowded into the abbreviated session.

The National league pilot worked two complete infields. One, Butler, English, MacMillan and Kelly, fielded, while the other, Yoter, Beck, Maguire and Grimm, was at bat. It has been evident so far that Kelly, who has been playing around first, will be an understudy of Charley Grimm. English looks to be a sure shot at short, while second and third are still in the fire.

ATHLETICS WALLOP PHILS FOR EASY WIN

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 7—(AP)—The Athletics pounded three Phillies pitchers for a total of 15 hits in winning a 14 to 8 victory in the first clash today between the two Philadelphia teams in the spring training exhibition games.

The Athletics amassed eight runs in the first three innings while the visiting Phils gathered but a lone tally.

Phillies	8	11	1
Athletics	14	15	3

CARDS TRIM RED SOX IN EXHIBITION TILT

BRADENTON, Fla., March 7—(AP)—With an outfield of recruits and two young pitchers working, the St. Louis Cardinals today defeated the Boston Red Sox 8 to 1 in the first game of their long exhibition schedule.

John Berly, 23 year old right hander, held the Red Sox to four hits and one run in five innings. Hal Smith, who relieved him also pitched well. The Cardinals pounded four Boston hurlers for eleven hits. Only Wiltse was effective.

The score:

St. Louis	8	11	1
Boston	1	8	5

WESTERLY

SALIMENO AND TASKA GIVEN TEN DAYS IN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 7—Criminal sentences were imposed in the morning session of Washington county superior court today by Judge Arthur P. Sumner in cases continued for sentence. At the conclusion of the consideration of the criminal docket, the civil cases on the Westerly trial calendar were taken up and a jury was empaneled in the first action at law.

Louis Salimeno, and Rosario Taska, 21, both of Westerly, were presented, the former for obstructing Officer George L. Madison, of Westerly, and the latter opposing Officer Frank E. Knight, when the store of Pasquale Salimeno, corner of Canal and Pleasant streets, was raided in a search for liquors. The prosecutor said that they had changed their plea of not guilty to nolo, and had been found guilty by Judge O. H. Williams in the Third district court, where they were sentenced to 15 days in Providence county jail, from which sentence they had appealed. A special plea for leniency was made by Mr. Dunn and Judge Sumner shortened the sentence, imposing a term of ten days in Providence county jail.

Demetrio Servidio, under indictment for assault with dangerous weapon and nolle prossed and arraigned on simple assault charge, was declared by his attorney to have put a complaining witness three times out of his place of business, and the last time the man was wounded in the neck by a knife, the thrower of which was not observed by anyone. He was given a 60-day sentence in Providence county jail. Mr. Jackvony declared this closed the criminal matters for the term.

The civil case, Gladys Rose Nye, of Narragansett, R. I., vs. John P. Kelley, of Providence, was called. It was an action of trespass and ejectment. Suit was brought for the ejectment of Kelley from the Revere hotel at Narragansett Pier, which property was owned by Mrs. Ethel M. R. Rose and at whose death the property on Ocean road adjoining The Breakers on the Atwood property at the Pier came by her mother's will into the possession of her daughter, the plaintiff, Mrs. Gladys Rose Nye. The latter claimed a contract was broken for the lease by the non-payment of rent at the times specified in the lease. The following jury was impaneled: Joseph H. Rockwell (foreman); Albert H. Lindeman, William J. Curran and Joseph V. Nelson, North Kingstown; Albert G. Barber and Arthur H. Coy, Westerly; Henry Slocum, Christopher N. Clarke and Charles E. Franklin, South Kingstown; Charles F. Kenyon, Richmond; Robert Browning, Jr., and Charles S. Brightman, Charlestown.

On cross-examination, it was brought out that Mr. Kelley had an account against Mrs. Nye for C. O. D. packages, money loaned and for her board at the hotel. When in September, at the close of the season, he visited Mrs. Nye at a cottage being occupied by her, the disagreement over accounts began and ended in the suit being brought.

At about 4 o'clock, Judge Sumner directed a verdict for the plaintiff for possession and costs. On the respondent's exceptions, the case will go to the supreme court. As no other civil case was ready, court adjourned to Thursday morning at 10:45 a. m.

WINNAPAUG GOLF CLUB REPORTS 143 MEMBERSHIP

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 7—The annual meeting of the Winnapaug Golf club last evening resulted in the reelection of practically all officers. At his sixth annual meeting and dinner, held at the Inn, Samuel H. Davis was re-elected president. Other officers re-elected were: Vice-President, A. R. Stillman; secretary, Karl G. Stillman; treasurer, David Robertson. Dr. Edwin Whitford, Howard M. Barber and Robert Drysdale, Jr., were elected directors for three years.

Reports of the officers show the club to be in flourishing condition. The charter membership has reached 143 with only seven vacancies remaining. Revenue of 1927 exceeded those of past years by $2,000. The second nine holes of the golf course has been cleared. Seeding will begin in May with the first play possibly next fall or early in the spring of 1929.

The committees appointed comprise: Tournament—James McCormick, A. R. Robertson, Delmore Kenny; green—Samuel H. Davis, H. M. Barber, C. Leo Higgins; house—Frank G. Ahern, Frank Furniss, Miss Katherine Foster, Mrs. Samuel H. Davis, Mrs. Karl G. Stillman; executive committee—Samuel H. Davis, H. M. Barber, Robert Drysdale, Jr.; financial committee—F. M. Robertson, H. M. Barber, A. R. Stillman, A. L. Perry, Charles E. Sherman, Arthur P. Trotman; membership committee—Frank Furniss, H. D. Rogers, H. D. Bailey, Edmund P. Hyde, W. H. Browning, George Phillips. A dinner preceded the business session.

The following transfer has been recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk: March 7. Stephen G. Rathbun to Henry R. and Robina Wills, land containing by estimation 10 1-2 acres with buildings, on the southwesterly side of Woody Hill road, adjoining land of Henry L. Mitchell and wife.

During Wednesday, structural iron workers raised the second 13-ton steel span on the site of the new Westerly Central fire station building on Union street. Tuesday, the span nearest the Westerly courthouse was raised into position by block and falls secured to a heavy wooden mast, motive power being supplied by two motor truck engines. Some delay was caused by the steel upright beam being just touched by the iron framework, a two by four wooden joist at the base splitting and causing the upright to topple. The delay was but temporary as the plates had arrived for the base and the span was guyed in position and braced to prevent falling. The completed trusses weight about 13 tons and will support the second floor and roof. An opening is allowed in the cross-pieces of the span for a connecting doorway opening on the second floor. Cross iron beams on the second and roof levels will connect the two spans to present a rigid steel framework, about which will be built the side brick and tile walls and roof.

Excavation work to reduce the old Union street level to the lowered foundation of the new fire station was nearly completed along the front of the basement foundations of the fire station, Wednesday, and the steam shovel moved back to the front of the Frank Coy dwelling, adjoining the Jewish synagogue. The ground in front of this property will be taken away entirely to permit the present basement of the four-family house to be about on the level of the new Union street grade line established for the rebuilt street.

A move was started at a meeting of interested citizens Tuesday evening in the assembly hall of Westerly library, for the formation of a Westerly Y. M. C. A. and a Y. W. C. A. About $100,000 is available to begin the work from bequests by the late William D. Hoxie. The meeting was attended by 150 prominent citizens. It was voted to include the Y. W. C. A. in the new organization, and a committee comprising Willard H. Bacon, William C. Clarke, Clifford W. Cambell, Mrs. Samuel H. Davis and Mrs. Walter S. Price was appointed to draft by-laws and secure tax extension privileges. About 50 names were secured as organizers of the new association. While no decision was reached regarding a building, the property of Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, at 92 High street, was suggested as the most desirable site available, and its purchase was advocated by several speakers.

Pawcatuck fire alarm whistle was blown about 11:10 Wednesday morning for Box No. 43, Mechanic street, for a chimney fire in the Cedar street extension home of Mrs. J. Foley. The P. S. Barber Hose company firemen responded and by fast work prevented the blaze from doing damage. The members of the company responded Tuesday to a telephone call and put out without damage a chimney fire in a house on the Stonington road.

Narragansett commandery, No. 27, K. T., Robert Hazard, eminent commander, held a regular conclave Wednesday evening in the asylum on High street. Reports were received on the recent commandery inspection observance and the question of the holding of the next triennial conclave of the grand encampment in Boston.

Mrs. Mary Dennehey, 54, died Wednesday morning at the Westerly hospital. She had been receiving treatment for a fractured hip sustained about a month ago in a fall at her home, 73 Liberty street. She was born in Westerly, the daughter of William and Margaret Keane Higgins. Her husband, Thomas Dennehey, died several years ago. Three sisters survive her, Mrs. Lawrence Delaney, Mrs. John A. Sullivan and Mrs. John H. Murphy, all of this town.

In Traveling 25,000 Miles in Less Than 23,000 Minutes The Commander Demonstrates Studebaker Speed and Stamina

TO the ear, only the swish of the wind; to the eye, only a speeding flash . . . as three stock Studebaker Commanders hurtle through space at the Atlantic City Speedway to travel 25,000 miles in less than that number of minutes.

But within each powerful motor, a fusillade of explosions . . . 6830 per minute . . . over 156 million during the run. Pistons plunged up and down with lightning rapidity—more than 104 million strokes. Valves, red-hot, opening and closing 1,100 times each minute . . . more than 26 million times during the 25,000 miles. And all this in a raging inferno of flaming gases!

Never had a motor been called upon to stand such an ordeal. Never had man or machine traveled so far so fast.

And these were not cars specially built for prodigious feats of speed, but strictly stock, fully-equipped Studebaker Commanders alike in every detail to those driven by owners all over the country. The run was made under the supervision of American Automobile Association officials who certified each car to be a strictly stock model.

To you, the fact that The Commander holds all the highest official endurance and speed records for fully equipped stock cars, regardless of power or price, is highly significant. Not only can The Commander travel at high sustained speed, but it can stand the hardest driving and still retain its youth for thousands and thousands of miles. Only engineering genius, combined with the finest materials and workmanship, could produce a car of such endurance.

Drive The Commander today and experience the thrill of the lithe, untiring power that made it the World's Champion Car. Just telephone and say when and where.

Peter Does His Friends a Good Turn.

A good turn done for others will
Your heart with satisfaction fill.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter knows. Peter has tried it and so he knows. Just the knowledge that you've done a good deed is pretty sure to make you feel good all over. I don't know of any better feeling, and Peter the Rabbit says the same thing.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse had finally persuaded Mrs. Whitefoot to go back with him to the new home he had built in one of Farmer Brown's beehives on the edge of the Old Orchard where it joins the farmyard. Mrs. Whitefoot was doubtful at first. She was doubtful because she was fearful. She had never been out of the Green Forest in all her life. No, sir, in all her life she had never been out of the Green Forest. To her it seemed like a very terrible journey. Two or three times she backed out, so to speak.

"You stay here, Whitefoot," she begged. "We have a perfectly good home here. There is no sense in going away over there. You don't know when you are well off."

"Oh, yes, I do," replied Whitefoot. "It's because I do know when I am well off that I want you to go back there with me. That would be no place for us in the summer, but it is the most perfect winter home that ever was. I've come away over here after you and I'm not going back without you. But just the same I'm going back."

"Where are you going?" inquired another voice. It was so unexpected that it made both Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot jump. But they didn't run. They recognized that voice in an instant. It could be the voice of no one but Peter Rabbit. Sure enough, there sat Peter only a little way off, peeping out from behind an old stump. Whitefoot wrinkled his nose at Peter.

"I don't know that it is any business of yours where we are going," replied Whitefoot.

"Of course, it isn't," replied Peter. "Of course, it isn't any business of mine. By the way, Whitefoot, I thought you were living up in the Old Orchard."

"I was and I am," replied Whitefoot.

"Then I know what you are doing," cried Peter. "You are trying to get Mrs. Whitefoot to go back there with you. Isn't that so?"

"Yes, it's so," spoke up little Mrs. Whitefoot. "I'm afraid to go."

"Pooh!" said Peter. "The idea! As a matter of fact, you will find fewer enemies over there than you will find here in the Green Forest."

"That may be true," replied little Mrs. Whitefoot, "but think of the dangers along the way."

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said Peter. "I'll go ahead with you. That is,

"Then I know what you are doing," cried Peter.

I'll go just ahead of you and if I see any danger I'll give you warning."

So finally Mrs. Whitefoot agreed and off they started with Peter in the lead. Now, of course, Peter is so much bigger than Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot and he can cover so much more ground when he hops that he was soon out of sight. Then he had to sit down and wait. They had almost caught up with him when Peter's wabbly little nose was tickled by a wandering little night breeze. This wandering little night breeze brought with it the scent of Reddy Fox.

For a moment Peter held his breath. He knew just where Reddy was and his nose told him that Reddy was coming nearer all the time. Peter tried to make up his mind what to do. He could steal away and get a long enough start to reach the old stone wall without trouble. But there were Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot. They would walk almost into Reddy's mouth. Suddenly Peter thumped. He thumped with those stout hind feet of his. It was the danger signal. Then Peter took to his long heels and after him came racing Reddy Fox. Peter had done his little friends a good turn and they took advantage of it. They hurried on while Reddy chased Peter.

PATRONIZE THESE WELL KNOWN CONCERNS

HIGH GRADE GROCERIES ARE SOLD BY A. T. OTIS

For years A. T. Otis and Son of No. 72 Franklin street, has enjoyed the reputation of carrying nothing but high grade groceries. In carrying only high grade groceries this company has still maintained prices which are reasonable.

It is only in home stores such as this store that service can be rendered. In the local store the owner must face his customer day by day, his men must wait on the customers week after week. All this goes to make the conscientious store owner particular about what line of goods he carries.

Only through courteous service and giving quality for a moderate price has this store maintained its enviable position in these hurried days of selling.

We invite you to come in and see us, note the quality of our goods and the reasonableness of our prices. One trip would convince you that here is a store built on service and quality, possessing lasting friendships and with a force instantly ready to serve your wants.

THE MOHEGAN RESTAURANT IDEAL FOR EATING

When one is away from home there is always the problem of finding an eating place that comes somewhere near satisfying that craving for home cooked foods. The Mohegan Restaurant of 271 Main street, Norwich, is just that type of restaurant and hundreds of people have come to make this their haven for good eating while in Norwich.

Situated but a short distance from the railroad station and within a minute's walk to either the bus terminal or trolley terminal, the Mohegan restaurant occupies an ideal location for this type of business.

For years this restaurant has prided itself on serving only the best of foods at current prices. Through this kind of service we have built up one of the largest restaurant followings in eastern Connecticut.

Our special dinners, with even more special mention of our Sunday dinners have for several years attracted the attention of the public and a steadily increasing patronage has been the reward we have received for our work along these lines.

Where Quality and Service are the Watchword

WHY NOT TRY THE PROVIDENCE BAKERY FOR YOUR PASTRY

If the problem of finding a suitable bakery has been bothering you let us show you the answer now. The Providence Bakery of 82-84 Franklin street, Norwich, ranks among the very best of bakeries and the baking done here is as near like that of the home as one could desire.

Cleanliness is also a watchword of this bakery and a trip through our establishment would readily convince you that this is no idle claim. Cleanliness makes for efficiency and efficiency makes for good business. Perhaps this is one of the many reasons why this bakery has become recognized as a leader in Norwich.

Hundreds of Norwich people now secure their bread, cakes and pastry at this bakery, knowing full well that they are receiving only the best of materials in our products.

Rendering service for parties, weddings and all types of social events has always been a specialty with the Providence Bakery and the fame of our cakes and pastry has spread far and wide. If you have not already tried the Providence Bakery on some such special occasion we invite you to give us a trial the next time you are to entertain.

Relieve yourselves of this additional burden in preparing to entertain. Devote your time to things that you must personally attend to and leave the proper preparation of cakes, pastry and other dainty bits to this bakery. We will never fail you and you may rest assured that your food prepared here will win praise and satisfy the desires of even the most particular guest.

A loving memory should prompt all who have dear ones asleep at neighboring cemeteries to erect a monument over those graves as a lasting symbol of love for the deceased.

The Charles A. Kuebler Co. of 39-41 Franklin street has for years cared for the wants of Norwich people in preparing for them such lasting memorials. Each and every memorial may be different, but, regardless of price, be it the small headstone or the largest memorial, the Kuebler Co. will take that same amount of care to see that every detail of the memorial is perfectly worked out. At this season of the year we would recommend that you give us your orders for Memorial Day. By selecting your memorial well in advance it gives us every possible advantage of time, thus making it certain that your memorial will be well finished.

If you desire impressive dignity expressed in a memorial we are sure that we can provide you with just the design you want. We suggest that you do not wait until the very last possible moment before Memorial Day, but urge you to come and see us now. This will give you time enough to talk the matter over with the family, select the tribute and also give us ample time to carry out your desires in making the memorial a thing of last beauty of design and craftsmanship.

If you are not already aware of the fact that one Norwich company makes house to house delivery of kerosene then this may be the means of notifying you that Smith Bros., of No. 863 Boswell avenue, phone 2159, has cared for Norwich families in this line for years.

This type of service makes it easy for you to always have kerosene on hand, to keep it in a container that is always out of the way, and never have to worry of running short some night or day when stores may be closed.

Our regular deliveries insure you against this danger of being without kerosene. It is our business to provide this necessity and for years we have provided it for Norwich and vicinity.

The next time you need kerosene think of the Smith Bros. and give us a ring—we will do the rest. House service is our specialty and our prices are extremely low. Let us quote you on kerosene service by the day, month or year.

AETNA BOWLING ALLEYS PROVIDE WINTER SPORTS

Bowling is always a pleasure at this time of the year and at the Aetna alleys you will find seven of the finest alleys in eastern Connecticut fairly tempting you to roll them down the alley to beat the 100 mark.

For years the Aetna alleys have been conducted in a manner which makes it possible for the men of Norwich to bring their wives and daughters with them to enjoy a game or two. Alleys at anytime may be reserved for women, excepting of course specified alleys which are held for tournament games now underway.

Besides the bowling alleys there are over a half dozen excellent billiard tables. Here again is a game which is as suited for the ladies as for the men.

The policy of the Aetna alleys has always been that of allowing only gentlemen to use its alleys and tables for pleasure and because of this policy has established the reputation of being an ideal place for winter games for the entire family.

WHY I ADVERTISE?
I believe that seven-tenths of all headaches have their origin in strained vision. I also know that correctly fitted glasses will entirely relieve the headaches by removing the cause. Scarcely a day passes but I relieve some sufferer through my knowledge of making and fitting glasses. I am anxious that all sufferers should know there is a remedy so simple. This is one reason why I advertise.

UPWARD MOVEMENT OF STOCK PRICES CHECKED BY HEAVY PROFIT-TAKING

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Heavy profit-taking checked the upward movement of prices in today's stock market, but not until after General Motors and nearly a score other issues had attained record high levels. Final quotations disclosed a preponderance of net declines, many of which ran from 2 to 6 points, interspersed with a sprinkling of gains, few of which exceeded 3 points. Trading showed a further contraction in volume, but the day's sales were well above 2 1-2 million shares.

General Motors touched a new record top at 150 7-8 in the first half hour of trading, sold down to 148 and rallied back to 150, unchanged on the day. Heavy realizing in this issue had an apparent lessening of pool activity had a cooling effect on speculative operations in other sections of the list. Two of the interesting disclosures in the 19th annual pamphlet report of the corporation to be issued tomorrow were the statements that motor car operations provide only about half of its tremendous profits, and that there was an increase of 68 per cent in export business last year, compared with the year before.

Outside the stock market, chief interest centered in the further collapse in rubber prices to record low levels, which was reflected in the weakness of the rubber shares; the increase from 35 to 36 in the annual dividend on Rock Island common, and the report of weekly steel trade reviews that operations are being well maintained and promise to carry through April, as contrasted with a decline in that month of last year. Call money again held steady at 4 1-4 per cent, with loans available below that figure in the outside market. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Some of today's selling was inspired by the belief that the market's technical position had been weakened by the recent spirited advance in many issues, and by fears of another large increase in brokers' loans this week.

U. S. Steel common sold down from a high of 142 5-8 to 140, closing at 140 5-8, off 1 5-8 net. Colorado Fuel dropped 3 points, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe 2 and Bethlehem and Gulf States, 1 3-4 each. International Harvester broke more than 6 points on the traditional "selling on the good news" following publication of an unusually favorable 1927 earnings report. Selling pressure also was quite effective against Collins & Aikman, Coty, Dupont, Electric Boat, Lorillard Tobacco, Universal Leaf Tobacco, White Sewing Machine and Woolworth, all off 2 points or more.

Several of the public utilities attained new peak prices for the year, including Commonwealth Power, American & Foreign Power, Electric Power & Light and American Power & Light, but all of the gains were not maintained. Greene Cananea Copper soared 9 points to 133 1-2, broke to 125 and rallied to 129 1-4.

Rails failed to make much response to the Rock Island dividend, which appeared to be offset by another drop in weekly freight car loadings. Most of the declines were held to fractions although New York Central, Chicago & Northwestern and Western Maryland common dropped a point or two.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with no important changes in rates. Sterling Cables ruled slightly lower around $4.87 13-16.

The break of 2 1-2 cents a pound in rubber, followed by a partial recovery, and the rally of 1 1-4 to 2 1-2 cents a bushel in wheat prices divided speculative interest in the commodity markets. Cotton and coffee prices reacted moderately and an easier undertone was apparent in the sugar market.

BROOD SOWS FED BY TESTED RULE

Exercise is essential for the brood sow during her gestation period if she is to produce strong and vigorous litters, and it is much better for the sow to take this exercise voluntarily than to be forced to take it. In this connection desirable results have been secured at the federal experiment farm at Beltsville, Md., through a system of management based on a special three-year study of feeding and handling brood sows during the gestation period for spring-farrowed litters. The study was under the direction of John H. Zeller, assistant animal husbandman in swine investigations.

A convenient way to feed the grain ration is in the cornstalk field, according to Mr. Zeller. When the sows are bred they are placed in a stalk field and given free access to a self feeder containing 60 per cent tankage and a simple mineral mixture. Good-quality alfalfa hay is made available in racks and water is kept before them at all times in an automatic waterer. Wheat middlings is fed dry at the rate of 1 pound of middlings per sow per day. From 1½ to 2 per cent ration of corn is fed daily, depending upon the condition of the sows.

We try to have the sows gain in weight at the rate of 3-4 to 1 pound per day from breeding to farrowing time," says Mr. Zeller. "Seven days supply of shelled corn is scattered thinly with a scoop shovel from a wagon onto the field. In this manner the sows do not obtain any great amount of corn in a short interval but are compelled to take plenty of exercise while searching for the grain through tramping in the snow or mud. Results of such management show that tankage consumption is about 13 per cent of the total feed consumption, which is about right for sows developing litters.

This system of feeding, says Mr. Zeller, tends to eliminate poor results with thin, timid sows; such sows can obtain their feed unmolested by others. As many as 70 sows have been handled in one field at the government farm with good results, coming to farrowing time in good physical condition.

AMINO ACIDS ARE ESSENTIAL TO BALANCED DIET

The discovery of vitamins by scientists interested in nutrition has proved of wide public interest. One of the reasons for popular interest lies in the improved results in health and well-being which housewives can obtain from the food they prepare for their families, if they follow the advice offered by science, and make sure of a proper supply of the various vitamins. The chemical knowledge of vitamins is limited, and their constituents are more or less a mystery.

Less familiar to the public are the amino acids, which the food chemists have found of prime importance in the diet. These amino acids, of which there are nearly a score known to science, are constituents of the proteins present in various foods, and in different foods. Some of the amino acids have been found essential for the normal growth and for proper nutrition of man and other animals. The protein of corn, for example, has an inadequate amount of certain amino acids. Peanut protein, on the other hand, has a surplus of these particular acids. A large part of the peanut crop is used in making peanut oil, the remaining press cake which is rich in protein being ground into meal for animal feeding. As a consequence, when animals are fed a ration including one part of this peanut press cake meal with three parts of corn, the ration is better balanced, and the animals grow more satisfactorily than when fed on corn alone.

Chemists in the United States Department of Agriculture are studying these problems, striving to gain exact knowledge of the chemical constituents of the various vitamins and trying for the secrets of the vitamins. These studies are checked by feeding experiments with small animals. Albino rats have proved most useful as test animals, as they mature at an early age and eat a great variety of food products. After the growth of rats has pointed the way, undesirable combinations of foods can be eliminated, and desirable combinations can be recommended for trial on livestock at the experiment stations, and the information passed along to dietitions for trial with human beings.

EARLY HATCHING GIVES HIGHER POULTRY PROFIT

Surveys by the department of agriculture reveal the decided benefit of hatching the year's supply of pullets early in the season.

Poultrymen have found that 100 early-hatched pullets will lay in a year about 16,000 eggs, valued at more than $450, while the same number of late-hatched pullets will produce only about 11,000 eggs and leaving receipts in the seasons of lower prices only about half as large as the early layers.

March 1 is recommended as a good date to begin hatching, and May 15 is as late as it is deemed profitable to hatch.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER.

Galvanized sheet iron may be allowed to weather a year before painting. Usually there are no injurious effects, and this gives the paint a better foothold.

If the roof of the poultry house is too high there may be some difficulty in keeping hens comfortably warm. The fault can be remedied by putting enough cross boards overhead to hold a layer of straw a foot to 18 inches deep. The straw will help keep the house dry, also.

While snow is on the ground in an orchard, particularly if it is deeper than usual, there is danger of damage from field mice. They work above the surface. If the orchard is small, trapping is possible, but if a considerable area is to be covered, poison is desirable.

An effective windbreak for the protection of buildings and feed yards may be obtained by planting two rows about two rods distant. The intervening space will serve as a trap in which the snowdrifts will form rather than to the leeward of the break.

The horse that bolts grain fed to him does not get from it the same supply of nutrition he would if he ate it at a moderate rate. He can be forced to eat less rapidly by spreading the grain over the bottom of a large flat box, by placing several smooth stones about three inches in diameter in the box, or by mixing the grain with bran, cut hay or some similar feed.

Watermelon planting begins early in February in southern Florida and advances northward with the season. A hill of watermelons should have about 140 square feet on which to grow. Rows may be checked 12 feet each way or 10 feet one way and 14 the other. Watermelons never should be raised on the same ground without a long rotation between crops. About 10 years is advisable.

THE ART OF SEED SOWING.

In connection with too much moisture, never sow seed when the temperature is so low that it can only retard or even prevent proper germination. Do not be in a hurry to get seed into the ground on cold spring days. Wait until the sun is warm.

Another important factor is good tilth of the soil, that is, the soil must be sufficiently broken up to admit air to the seed to assist in germination. It should be finely pulverized in the open ground and sifted in a seed box.

All these cautions apply to seed sowing either indoors or out. A seed box set too close to a window in which drafts come through a loose casement may not give good germination because of too low temperature on the box. It is better to set it a little back from the glass unless the window is tight.

Overwatering is the greatest fault of inexperienced gardeners in endeavoring to raise plants from seed. It destroys many promising crops of seedlings and encourages damping off a fungus disease that causes seedlings to shrivel at the ground and topple over and die. Damp but not wet is the watchword for conditions of moisture.

Sowing thinly cannot be too much emphasized. Just as the crowding of human beings in confined quarters stunts growth and causes diseases through lack of sufficient light and air, the growth and health of plants are affected. Speedy transplanting should be done if the seedlings are crowded. It is only by this means that plants can be saved and made healthy.

The most important factor in seed sowing is not to sow the seed too deeply so that the baby plant cannot get through the surface of the soil. The second factor that must be observed in successful raising of plants from seed is never to sow in muddy soil. The only reasonable expectation under such a condition is that the seed will rot before it germinates. Moist, but not wet, is the proper condition for the germination of seed.

U. S. At A Crisis, Mrs. Catt Warns

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, active in the woman suffrage movement, who declared in an interview in New York that "an insufferable superiority complex—a nouveau riche arrogance—characterizes this country, and it is a very dangerous state of mind." With the new found wealth of the United States, this country has turned from debtor to creditor, spending without judgment and indulging in whims and fancies.

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—The Chrysler corporation earned $8.55 a share on the common stock in 1927, against $5.07 a share in 1926. Net profit rose to $19,484,889 from $15,448,386. The regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common was declared, together with quarterly dividends of $3 on the class "A" preferred were declared on March 15. N. F. Brady was elected a director to succeed the late J. S. Brady.

Frank Alfred, president of the Pere Marquette, says gross revenues for February will be about $232,000 less than the $8,534,947 for February, 1927, due to a decrease in automobile shipments and coal. Owing to smaller gross and an increase in payrolls of about $60,000, he expected surplus for the month, after charges, to be somewhat under the $592,248 for February last year.

February sales of S. H. Kress & Co. rose to $4,174,652 from $3,534,634 in February last year, a gain of 18.1 per cent.

Net profit of Otis Steel for 1927 was $1,338,880 compared with $1,907,814 in 1926.

Bradstreet's reports a total value of $246,012,216 for new building permits in February at 142 cities, compared with $185,321,400 in January and $229,177,[illegible] in February last year.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The first week in March saw a number of local building projects reach the completion stage while others advanced with commendable speed. A number of new projects have been started in Norwich and although the weather has been more or less severe the work has gone rapidly ahead.

The cottage house for George Dolbeare on West Thames street has been completed and is now occupied. At East Great Plain on the New London turnpike two cottages under construction have reached completion and are ready for occupancy. Much building has been done in this section of the town during the past year and a number of new dwelling houses have been planned for the coming spring and summer.

On the Norwich Town-Taftville road highway the house being erected for Dr. J. J. Donohue is practically complete with the exception of the grading of the grounds and a few interior finishing jobs. In this section also a number of new houses are being erected and a number have been completed.

Contractor P. F. Sweeney has started work on remodeling the store formerly occupied by William Harrington in the Young block. The partition in the store has been removed and a doorway cut through into the fruit store.

At the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton during the first week in the month only three applications for building permits were received and these will be granted within a week.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were four sales of real estate as compared to seven sales for the corresponding week in 1927. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $15,655 and $22,964.

There were five sales of real estate in New London during the past week, a decrease of three sales from the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $5,228 and $70,547.

Building Permits

A greater amount of building construction work was started during the first two months of the current year than was the case in several previous years. The gain for the past month over February, 1927, amounted to 151 permits and nearly $1,300,000 in the total of estimated expenditures. This increase, together with a material increase in January over the like month in the preceding year, represents a large volume of construction activity. There are indications that the spring will bring a further increase in these figures and that the first half year will be reported in building totals of record proportions. The demand for new work seems about evenly divided between the three classes of residential, institutional and commercial construction.

New London

Building permits issued for February were brought up to a total of 39 with the six which were issued by the council Monday night. Of the six permits issued this week, two were for new dwellings and two were for garages. For the month there was a total of six permits issued for new dwellings and 13 for new garages. The figures compare favorably with those of a year ago, in fact, indicate an increase in building activities for the past month over a year ago.

Work is nearing completion on the construction of a new dwelling being erected in Cape Ann court for Frank Kalka. The new dwelling is of frame construction, with a concrete block foundation. The front is enhanced with a broad, closed-in porch. Work is being done by the day from private plans.

Work is rapidly nearing completion on the construction of a new semi-bungalow in Briggs street for A. C. Miller. The new structure is 24 by 28 feet, of frame construction, with a stone foundation, designed with a bay window projecting on the south side. A large front porch has been enclosed in the front. The peak roof, at right angles to the street, is shingled in the natural wood and the sides are of clapboard. Work is being done by the day from private plans.

Work has been completed on the second of two new cottages built for Silas Maxson, Jr., in Ocean avenue. Ten new cottage rests on a stone foundation, has a peak roof parallel with the highway and also has a wide side porch. Siding is of wide colonial clapboard and the general architecture is a blend of modern design and the popular colonial design. The interior is handsomely finished and well appointed, having hardwood floors, and modern plumbing, heating and electrical fixtures.

Augusta W. Miner, steel, residence, $12,000.

A Citation for Mechanical Excellence from the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

MANY thousands of the most intelligent readers in America and throughout the world depend upon the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN for reliable information about the progress of science and invention—for over eighty years its opinions have carried the highest authority.

Yet the nature of the work in which SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is engaged—the production of a great publication—is such that it does not often require the use of this vast fund of mechanical knowledge in solving its own problems.

It is a most significant tribute therefore that ROYAL TYPEWRITERS constitute more than ninety per cent of all the writing machines now used by the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

Exclusive mechanical features found in no other typewriter, such as the roller trip escapement, the drop-forged steel carriage rails and the accelerated type bar action, have made the Easy-Writing Royal Typewriter preferred the world over. Royal Typewriters DO run easier—phone the Royal Representative and prove it in your own office.

THIEF SURPRISED AT NEW LONDON HAS AN EASY TIME GETTING AWAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 7—A thief was surprised at his work early this morning when he was discovered attempting to rob the coal office of the City Coal company, 410 Bank street and the store of the New London News company, adjoining the coal office. If the discoverer of the thief at work had had the nerve to seize him, or had even notified the police, there was a chance of his being apprehended. As it was the crook succeeded in getting away and without his description having been obtained. At 3.30 o'clock and but a half hour after the police who patrol Bank street had reported off duty, Charles Glassenberg, proprietor of the news store went to his place of business for the purpose of preparing to go to the union station and load his truck with papers for distribution at the numerous news stands. When Glassenberg lighted the store he observed a shadow in the rear, and although the shadow moved, Glassenberg did not investigate. Instead he extinguished the lights and going to the street, he peered through the window to observe whether he could see anyone moving about at the rear of the store. He didn't for the fellow had fled through the entrance he had made to get into the building. Neither did Glassenberg notify the police of what he had observed. He went to the union station and returned to his store about four hours later. There he informed Michael Donohue, an employe of the coal company, what he had observed. Donohue made an inspection of the coal office, but failed to find anything disturbed. A further scrutiny of the office revealed however that a slide in a window beside the weighing scales, which window is used for giving orders to the drivers, had been forced. The thief had forced the slide and then inserting his arm through the opening, was able to unfasten the lock, so that the window could be opened. The crook, once inside the coal office went to a toilet, which provides an opening into the news store and it was by means of this door that the fellow entered the news store and near where his shadow was observed when Glassenberg entered. The crook realizing that Glassenberg had observed him made a successful getaway. Glassenberg had a sum of money secreted in a cabinet and had he not appeared at the store when he did the crook would probably have secured the cash.

NEW DETECTIVE BUREAU HAS HAD A BUSY QUARTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 7—The detective bureau of the New London police department has been in operation since Nov. 1, 1927 and with the completion of the work of the bureau for the first quarter of the fiscal year, Detective Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith today rendered the report as follows: Complaints received 208, complaints withdrawn 18, boys turned over to probation officers 25, persons extradited 3, automobiles stolen 14, automobiles recovered 13, fingerprinted 40, photographed 22, arrests, assault with intent to kill 1, assault 1, arson 1, carrying concealed weapons 2, disorderly house 4, driving under the influence of liquor 2, frequenting disorderly house 4, house of ill fame 3, indecent assault 7, violation of the liquor law 15, missing persons found 2, non-support 2, robbery 2, runaway boys 3, reckless driving 2, theft of automobiles 3, tampering with electric wires 4, theft 20, shoplifting 3, suspicious persons 22, violation of the rambling law 2, pickpocket 1, total 110. Total amount of money received from fines imposed in the police court $5,570.

Mrs. Mary Davis, colored, 914 Redman street, Philadelphia, has communicated with the New London police in an effort to reach Samuel Richardson, colored, 31 and five feet four inches in height, for Richardson's brother is dead in Philadelphia and the former is wanted at his home. Richardson was known to have been in this city recently and is believed to be employed in New London, although he is not known to the police.

Councilor Malcolm M. Scott vehemently denies that he has any idea of prolonging the Bank street controversy, and that the charge of Mayor May in this respect is absolutely unfounded. Mr. Scott states that Mayor May made a misstatement when he said that Scott had misrepresented conditions merely to win his point.

The controversy is over a statement alleged to have been made by Scott to the effect that the petition asking a change in Bank street traffic was gotten up by Mayor May. Scott denies the statement and feels that an apology from the mayor is due.

As a result of the widening of Bank street changes are necessitated in the fire alarm system of that thoroughfare. City Electrician Irving Labensky today began the work of changing the wires in anticipation of the installation of three new fire alarm boxes on the upper section of the street.

John Wilbur for several years an employe of the National Bank of Commerce has resigned to enter the importing business in New York.

The funeral of Mrs. Harriet I. Rose, wife of Frank M. Rose, was held at her residence in Waterford at 2 o'clock this afternoon with a private service for relatives and intimate acquaintances. Prentis, Hartford and Joseph G. Darrow of Waterford. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Henry J. Dixon was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at his residence, 381 Pequot avenue and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester E. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. The bearers were Henry Appleton, Harry Meadie, Alfred Burr, George Marsters, Adelbert Burr and George Stillman. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Harriet F. Danielson, 56, widow of Charles Patterson, late of 6 Starr street where she was the proprietress of the Central house, died this morning at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, after a brief illness. Mrs. Patterson, who was born in East Lyme, had resided in New London many years and is survived by a son, a brother and a sister. Mr. Patterson died last November.

There was no session of the police court today. There was but one arrest last night, a stone cutter being found drunk on Colt street, but as he is not a frequent offender against the law, he was not presented in court.

Marguerite Borgess, was ordered to present herself in the police court tomorrow morning by Patrolman Philopena this evening when she was detected driving an automobile without a license to do so. The car which carries markers, N-4068, was observed driving in a peculiar manner and when the machine was stopped it was discovered that the woman did not have a license. She was ordered to appear in court.

Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty was unable to perform duty tonight as he was confined to his home suffering from a severe cold.

Thomas Miller, 13 Tilley street, formerly stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy, was committed to Norwich State hospital, tonight for observation. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theater.

"Mistaken Orders" is a thrilling railroad drama starring the fearless Helen Holmes in her greatest dramatic screen triumph. The leading male role is capably filled by Jack Perrin, a star who is noted for his clever acting. The story deals with a boy who tries to make good by giving up a gay life and taking a position as a telegraph operator at a lonely post. Some of his enemies try to remove him, and in the struggle he is knocked unconscious, thereby holding up an order from the train dispatcher and almost causing a serious wreck. How Helen Holmes handles the situation and saves an engine from dashing to destruction with her sweetheart is told in this thrilling drama of the roaring rails.

"The Flying Horseman," starring Buck Jones is a thrilling western picture, crammed full of action. There is pathos and comedy woven into a dandy story. Bring the children to see Buck do some daring riding, and enjoy a real livewire western photoplay, with trains, airplanes and steamships playing an important part in the story.

"Aesop's Fables" complete this interesting double feature program.

Palace Theater.

Norma Shearer, whose latest starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "The Latest from Paris," comes to the Palace theater on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, is one jump ahead of all the other screen stars in Hollywood!

One of the breaks of the film gave Miss Shearer the role of a young traveling saleswoman in the new picture. The fact that she is on the road for a New York wholesale house, showing the advance spring styles of women's coats, suits and gowns, made it mandatory that Norma have access to advance models which even the general trade is not yet in touch with.

According to Miss Shearer, skirts are definitely going to be longer this spring. The uneven hem line will not only be confined to afternoon and evening frocks but will also be seen in sports and other street wear, as well. In the latter types the line will be formed by a novel use of heavy drapes and side panels.

Hats will continue to be small, but they will be elaborately trimmed with braid, hand painting, novelty stitching and flat jewels.

The most startling innovation of the spring season is the novel use of color. Miss Shearer says practically all of the spring frocks in her line combine such shades as bright yellow with bright blues, cherry red with navy blue and green with pale pink.

The vaudeville offering for this week at the Palace is unusually fine. The Royal Revue is a snappy song and dance number with pretty girls and beautiful settings. Kramer and Cross have a comedy novelty act that is sure to please. Harry March in Laugh Bits gives ten minutes of real fun. Mahoney and Cecile appear in a sketch entitled "A Day At the Beach," that is a comedy riot and Frank Meleno and Co., in "Monkey Shines," is a sure fire hit.

Bread Theatre

It takes women to devise the spiciest, most intimate and most human domestic comedy—for fiction, stage or screen! That seems to be a feminine field, like pie-making.

"Lonesome Ladies," a First National comedy-drama of marital difficulties and romance, closing tonight at the Breed theatre, was written by Lenore Coffee, famous film writer, and adapted and scenarized by the even more celebrated screen authoress, Winifred Dunn.

That, as well as the able work of a fine cast headed by Lewis Stone and Anna Q. Nilsson, accounts for the popularity of the offering with both men and women. Vying with Miss Nilsson in the display of feminine charm are Jane Winton, Pritizie Ridgeway, Doris Lloyd, De Sacia Mooers and Grace Carlisle. Ray Rockett produced the film for First National Pictures and Joseph Henaberry directed it.

The other feature on this bill is "The Frontiersman," a thrilling western story of Indian war days, starWindsor in the feminine lead. ring Colonel Tim McCoy with Claire

SEVEN MEN ARE OVERCOME BY SMOKE AT MACGOWN FIRE

Tuesday night at 11.15 Night Cop Elmer Barker saw the parlor at Mrs. Thomas MacGown's house afire, making his way toward the church to ring the bell he met Roy Scaplan on his way home and told him to ring the alarm. For 20 minutes it rang and the firemen were running to the fire house with socks in their pockets and one fireman in his bare feet. At first the engine would not start, but soon the driver, E. Foster, arrived and once behind the wheel he made good time to the fire. Smoke was coming out of various places also from the roof so the line of chemical was taken from the truck in charge of Foreman Walter Palmer and his smoke eaters. A window was kicked in to get at the blaze but the smoke was thick so to enter the house the men had to crawl on the floor. Hastead Brown with a lantern and several firemen made their way to the second floor and came across Ladderman George Deveau on the floor, overcome by smoke. He was carried out by Stretch Morrison and sono came to. Hoseman H. Bracci cut his foot with an axe. It was a hard fire to handle on account of no water supply near and to conquer it took 70 gallons of chemical with pails of water. The house inside was well gutted as in back of the walls the blaze was eating its way for a little while. The smoke eaters got it well under control but it took over two hours and 30 minutes before everything was all right to leave.

The heat even cracked the windows Chief Park looked it over and finally took his men back to the room. It is the worst fire Noank has had in several years. It is reported that about $5,000 damage was done, covered by insurance. A cross circuit of an electric light is thought to be the cause of the blaze.

If the wind was blowing several house might have been lost. The fire company returned to their rooms at 1.45 a. m. Several firemen were left on duty in case the flames broke out again. The outside of the house was not much damaged. About seven firemen were overdome by smoke.

E. Sherman has returned from a short visit in Essex.

When the fire company held its regular meeting this week in their rooms with Foreman Walter Palmer in the chair, 30 members were present. A new pinochle committee was put on with George Deveau chairman for the month. A house committee of three was named for March, Chairman Albert Banks, H. Bracci and Eddie Ellis were elected. Putting on a moving picture to help raise money for the siren was talked over. One man is to see Manager Wurlaine who has charge of the movies in the town hall and make a report at the next meeting. Foreman Palmer gave a heart-to-heart talk to the smoke eaters for fifteen minutes. He also told how to fight a brush fire. Every meeting the members are coming back stronger, more old timers make Chief Park glad to see them. Two years ago only seven used to attend with their foreman. Manager Bracci of the pinochle team is trying to arrange a series with the Mechanics sharps, the loser to pay for a New England supper, but no word has come yet from Manager Sam Fish. The fire company sent flowers for the late Mrs. Palmer, who was buried in Noank cemetery. She owned the land where the fire-house now stands. After the meeting Assistant Steward Hoot Gibson, had a real lunch for them. Sardine sandwiches with jello and cake, and cocoa.

Flash McDonald and Ben Chesebro saw that a low tide was due Tuesday night, getting out pails and hoes they started for Mumford cove before the rush of clammers got there. Before the sun went down the two young men had 700 clams—never saw them so thick, like picking apples from a tree. Many other clammers got enough for a few days. It was the lowest tide this winter. This was a record catch of clams in an afternoon's work.

Coach Billie Crane has given the Crescents basketball tossers a week off to get ready for their old rivals the Shamrocks from Mystic. A series of three games will be played for the championship of Noank and Mystic.

The cheering section for the green 1 spelling tuned up with new yells, while the Crescents' cheering section will have fish horns and rattles and red bands around their arms and will be led by John Bracci. They will spring some new songs with heavy cheers.

Brown read Matt. 26.6-13, the story of the stewardship of the woman with a valuable gift. Several brief prayers were offered. The reports of secretary and treasurer were read. The following officers and committee who have served the society the past year were unanimously re-lected: President, Mrs. A. M. Brown; vice president, Mrs. S. F. Brown; secretary, Mrs. B. R. Gardner; treasurer, Mrs. Martin Davis; committee on programs, Mrs. G. H. Prior, Mrs. J. P. Post, Mrs. B. R. Gardner, Mrs. Mary Brewster; committee on White Cross work, Mrs. E. M. Gray, Mrs. A. M. The annual report of the secretary gave evidence of the continued interest of the women of the church in the cause of evangelization. The meetings have been held regularly, with an average attendance of twenty for the year. Boxes and barrels have been sent out, appropriations have been made toward the expenses of young people at summer conferences and valuable White Cross work done. The treasurer's report showed a satisfactory balance in the treasuries of both the society and White Cross. At the close of the business session, Mrs. Post presented "Aunt Elizabeth's Tea," an entertainment full of humor and with a thrilling story of Chinese rescue work on the Pacific coast. Mrs. Scates took the part of Aunt Elizabeth, Miss Florence Quinby of her niece, Marian and Mrs. Gardner was Miss White, a visiting missionary. Mrs. Gray assisted by Mrs. Wade Gray, served tea and cakes.

HIGH STREET BUILDING IS GUTTED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 7.— The frame structure, at the rear of 224 High street occupied on the third floor as a garage by its owner, Manuel Bonin, and on the second floor in the residence of Louis B. Barbero, was completely gutted by fire about 9:45 o'clock tonight. The cause of the fire is not known. A still alarm sent in to Engine Co. No. 1 was followed by a bell alarm. Box 23, corner of High and Prospect streets. Under the direction of Acting Chief Michael J. English, the hose connection was made but the stubborn blaze had practically eaten out the center of the small structure before it was under control. Mr. Bonin suffered the loss of an Overland car which he had jacked up in the garage for the winter and which he valued at $800. There was no insurance on the car. The building was valued at about $1,000 and was partly covered by insurance on the furniture. The fire drew a fairly large crowd.

POETRY

Brownstone Fronts

Where are they now, those erstwhile bronzed facades
That once with touch of beauty and of grace
The city's form adorned; where Fashion's face
Was turned as to a mirror? Long decades
Their way have gone since gay and bright parades
Before them passed. Now limestone fronts displace
Their balconies intime; and crinolines and lace—
Such dreamy loveliness in dimness fades.

Huge monoliths, man's toys of brick and steel,
The symbols of an age of speed and power—
The restive strivings of the soul reveal;
And high and higher must these masjids tower,
Muezzins would in vain exhort to prayer.

—Benjamin Collins Woodbury.

The Bibliomaniac's Prayer

Keep me, I pray, in wisdom's way,
That I may truths eternal seek;
I need protecting care today—
My purse is light, my flesh is weak.
So banish from my erring heart
All baleful appetites and lusts
Of Satan's fascinating art,
Of first editions, and of prints.
Direct me in some godly walk
Which leads away from bookish strife,
That I with pious deed and talk
May extra-illustrate my life.

But if, O Lord, it pleaseth Thee
To keep me in temptation's way,
I humbly ask that I may be
Most notably beset today:
Let my temptation be a book,
Which I shall purchase, hold and keep.
Whereon, when other men shall look,
They'll wail to know I got it cheap.
Oh, let it such a volume be
As in rare copperplates abounds,
Large paper, clean, and fair to see,
Uncut, unique, unknown to Lowndes.

—Eugene Field.

GREENEVILLE

The regular Lenten services held Wednesday evening at St. Mary's Memorial church at 7.30 o'clock were largely attended. Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor, said the rosary and litany and gave the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The sermon was delivered by Fev. John Finn on the topic, Faith. Father Finn said in part:

Cardinal Newman said in his time that "a great mass of men have not faith." Neither have they today. "Without faith it is impossible to please God." The speaker went on to explain what faith is. Why believe what we cannot understand? We are doing it every day. There is a world of nature around us that is full of mysteries. We are constantly putting faith in the word of others. In the doctor and in the druggist, filling prescriptions. If we put faith in the word of man, why not of God? Rev. Father Finn told his audience what the saints suffered for faith and what sacrifices the people of today are making to preserve faith. In closing the speaker quoted what Christ said: "Blessed are they who have not seen and have believed."

Rev. Father Finn is pastor of the Catholic church at Fishers Island and is to preach the remaining course of the Lenten sermons at St. Mary's Memorial church on Wednesday evenings. Father Finn is a brilliant scolar, a contributory editor to the Brooklyn Tablet and saw service for his country as one of hte chaplains of the late World war.

RABALM STOPPED TERRIBLE PAIN IN MY FEET

"Having suffered untold agonies for many years from painful swelling (arthritis) in my feet, I was about to give up my work which required much standing and walking, as I was advised that no treatment would otherwise be effective. Then Rabalm was called to my attention. The first few applications gave me such astonishing relief that I was soon convinced that I had at last found the help I had sought so long in vain. My trouble has been so fully overcome, that for over a year now, I have continued at my work without a particle of pain or inconvenience, and with no treatment whatever. Certainly Rabalm did the seemingly impossible for me."—C. E. Phippen, 5 Milk Street, Salem, Mass.

If you also are tormented with painful swellings in legs and feet, if your toe joints are sometimes so stiff and tender you can hardly touch them, you too, like Mr. Phippen, can find relief in Rabalm. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

O'DONNELL VS. GROTON SUIT TO REACH SUPERIOR COURT JURY TODAY

Attorneys for Maurice O'Donnell, Jr., of New London and for the borough of Groton will make their arguments when the superior court opens at New London this (Thursday) morning in O'Donnell's suit against the borough for $15,000 damages, for injuries he received when the boiler blew up at the plant of the water and electrical department of the borough on May 21 last. Judge C. L. Avery and a jury have been hearing the evidence in the case for two days, but when court adjourned for the day Wednesday both sides had rested.

The plaintiff's attorney, Arthur T. Keefe, rested his case Wednesday morning about 11 o'clock. Immediately, Attorney Harry C. Brogan, who with Attorney Morris Lubchansky is representing the defendant, asked Judge Avery if he would entertain a motion at that time. The jury was excused and Attorney Brogan moved the court for non-suit, claiming that absolutely no evidence of negligence on the part of the borough had been introduced. He said that no indication had been given that any servant or employe of the borough had turned on the air that caused the tank to explode. Attorney Keefe, did not argue the motion.

Judge Avery denied the motion, saying that insofar as the jury was concerned he did not think a non-suit should be granted.

The jury was called back and Alfred F. Hogson, deputy fire chief and a foreman of the water and electric department, was placed on the stand as the first witness under direct examination by Attorney Brogan. He told of purchasing six stay rods in this city to be used between the head and other end of the tank.

In testimony on the first day of the trial Dr. E. Oliver Winship testified as to the injuries to O'Donnell's eyes and stated that he believed that at present they were normal. He said his bill was about $35.

The next witness was James O'Donnell, brother of the plaintiff, for many years an electrical welder, later a member of the New London police force, former member of the old state police and at present U. S. customs officer.

Under cross examination by Atty. Morris Lubchansky, O'Donnell maintained that he was a practical welder and not given much to theory. Attorney Lubchansky asked him if practical welding, after years of scientific research and the witness admitted this.

O'Donnell under fire, said that he did not agree with all the things in the books on welding. Attorney Lubchansky showed that he had studied up on welding when he put a number of scientific questions to the witness.

50 Per Cent. Disabled

Dr. George P. Cheney was next called to the stand. He told of attending O'Donnell in the emergency room at the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospital, when the plaintiff was in a semi-conscious condition, suffering from shock, hemorrhage of the arm, bleeding from the mouth as well as having numerous contusions about the head and shoulders.

Dr. Cheney testified that he considered that O'Donnell was 50 per cent. disabled at the present time. He took the plaintiff before the jury, had him strip to the waist, showed the injured left arm, which the physician said was not responding to treatment and was gradually growing smaller between the shoulder and the elbow. He said that he believed that O'Donnell was as near cured as he would ever be. The physician said he was still treating him and that his bill thus far amounted to $134.

Attorney Lubchansky in cross-examination asked Dr. Cheney if he based his 50 per cent. estimate on anything other than his own opinion. The doctor said that it was simply his estimation of the matter.

The lawyer asked him if it was simply his guess as a physician and that if he (Attorney Lubchansky) made a guess, the only difference would be that one was the guess of a physician and the other the guess of a layman. Dr. Cheney smiled and said that such was the case.

H. E. Norton, an employe of the water and electrical department, told of being in his office at the time of the explosion; of stepping out on the platform and onto the boiler, when he shut off the compressed air.

Joseph Hewitt, who made the plates for the boiler testified as to their size and of delivering them to the plant.

TWO FAKE SOLICITORS WORKING IN NORWICH

Repeatedly, the congregations at St. Patrick's church have been cautioned to take no stock in solicitors for publications unless such agents were publicly sponsored from the pulpit. Knowing this rule, many in the parish telephoned the rectory throughout Wednesday, asking why two young men were going about town trying to secure subscriptions to a magazine and giving the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, as authority for their canvassing.

Wednesday evening Monsignor May requested The Bulletin to state that the priests of the parish have given no agents permission to use their names in soliciting subscriptions to any religious or secular magazines or the like. Frequently such agents have imposed upon credulous people, who have been victimized into giving money for books, religious articles, pretended charitable objects, et al. For that reason the rector issued the warning.

JAIL SENTENCE, FINE ON TWO LIQUOR LAW COUNTS

A plea of guilty of violation of the liquor laws was entered by Gus Chioda, 21, of Worcester, when he was presented in the city court Wednesday morning. He was fined $200 and sent to jail for ten days on the charge of having made an actual sale and fined $50 for keeping liquor with intent to sell. On the latter charge he was given a 30 days suspended jail sentence. Costs of the case were added to the fines. He was arrested Saturday night by the state police at his confectionery store at No. 43 North Main street.

BLODGETT TELLS NORWICH ABOUT TAXATION PROBLEMS

"Tax Problems That Face Norwich" was the topic of a very interesting talk by Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett before the members of the Norwich Rotary club at the weekly meeting held on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Commissioner Blodgett who came to Norwich on the invitation of James L. Case, chairman of the program committee for the month of March, stressed the value of revaluation in his talk and said that it would eventually come to every community in the state.

Commissioner Blodgett said in part: Every city, town and state has many taxation problems to face and perhaps the greatest of these problems is that of equity. Equity of taxation has always been a goal at which the state system of taxation has aimed. Far back in the early history of the state it was found that some system of equal taxation was necessary and it was proposed to have a tax commissioner and it was further provided that the tax commissioner should make a revaluation every five years. Now every city should really settle its own tax problems for its the people of the cities and towns that pay the bills. However, in 1901, a tax commissioner was appointed to bring order out of a chaotic condition of taxation, in the state and gradually it is working out.

Last year something over $122,000,000 was taken from the state in taxes and $60,000,000 was from the ad valorem tax. This was an increase over the previous years of some $11,000,000. What causes this increase? It is due largely to local demands to meet increased local expenditures. The federal taxes on the other hand have decreased slightly. Of this $60,000,000 in ad valorem taxes Norwich is making its contribution. Norwich hasn't increased the expenditures as other cities and towns in the state but yet there has been a slight increase in the rate of taxes over the past few years. There have been, no doubt, extravagances in expenditures in all cities of the state and these extravagances are what boost the rates. We cannot discourage business and prospective home owners with high rates of taxation due to extravagances of public expenditures. It is mighty bad business to dip promiscuously into the public treasury regardless of the effect that it has on the individual of the community.

Norwich should have a plan of taxation that has been arranged with painstaking care. It should be an intelligent plan and should be based on justice. No person should be obliged to pay a dollar more than was just nor should he be let off without paying what he should. This should be brought before the people of Norwich fairly and decently. I am confident that the people of Norwich will of themselves right this unequal taxation condition that exists.

People have said that I come here to force a revaluation of property. I have no more power to order a revaluation of property in Norwich than I have in New York state. The only power that I have is in the administrative powers of the tax officials. Connecticut has always stood strongly in favor of home rule. But of course the commissioner can not condone any wrong doing in the the administration of the assessors or tax collectors. If I thought there was anything wrong they would be hailed to court to explain why and wherefore.

As I understand it your problem in Norwich is the same as it was when I was here before only people are more interested. I have been asked which I favored, outside revaluation or revaluation by men in the city. I am on an even keel in this question. We would not get a blacksmith to perform a surgical operation and likewise when we want our property revalued we should have qualified persons, either local or outside. They must have training, and must have an aptitude for the job. You can't make a tax man of those who know the least and talk the most. The man who can revalue property in Norwich will be hailed as a real benefactor to the city. Of course there is some one in Norwich who can do it but he must have some training and make a study of the problems of other cities. If you hire one from outside remember there are many lemons in the garden of taxation as in any other business. There are some who can do it well and fairly. But if a mistake is made by these experts there is an awful wail. If somebody wasn't getting the best of this taxation problem there would not be any howl about revaluation. You are operating on that old "get and be damned policy and many of your tax lists come in with that old familiar phrase "same as last year." Where there has been a fair revaluation there has been very little dissatisfaction among the fair minded people. Let us stand up four square to this proposition and not shirk it.

In answer to a question on how the plan of revaluation by local people had worked out Commissioner Blodgett said that it had not been so well. People are fearfully skeptical about having their neighbor pry into their affairs and there is always more or less mean criticism that goes around. But don't get a cheap job. Have it done right.

Mr. Blodgett was given a rising vote of appreciation at the conclusion of his talk.

President Clarence A. Spear presided at the business session and William G. Park was the song leader with Henry J. LaFontaine at the piano. The new song books of the club were used for the first time. Secretary Edward E. Jewett reported that Norwich was in fourth place in the attendance contest with the various clubs in eastern Connecticut.

It was announced by President Spear that within a short time a drive for $5,000 for a new X-ray room at the Backus hospital would be started. Dr. R. R. Agnew spoke briefly on the subject stating the conditions at the hospital at the present time as being very inadequate for X-ray work.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

NOANK YARD TO FINISH WORK ON MINE PLANTER

The Noank shipyard had the contract for all the work on the vessel but when efforts were made to haul her out at the Noank yard the chains on the ways broke and the Ship and Engine Co. took over the work of repairing the bottom.

TAFTVILLE

Carl Krauss, of Blissville, had a narrow escape from drowning while skating Tuesday night on Lisbon pond. While skating about 40 yards from shore, the ice broke and Mr. Krauss fell into the water, and was unable to get back on the ice again as it continued to break as he attempted to climb from the water. Fortunately Joseph Martin, of Norwich avenue, discovered Mr. Krauss' plight and came to his rescue. By lying flat and reaching toward the man in the water, Mr. Martin was able to pull him back to the ice, and both of them had just time to wriggle away from the danger spot when a whole area of ice broke through where they had been. The ice on the pond is very treacherous and while of a sufficient thickness to bear a man's weight, it appears to be porous, so that it breaks through very easily.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph St. George and family, of North A street, have moved to Jewett City where Mr. St. George has accepted a position in one of the mills.

That the Samoyede dogs raised at Rurik Kennels of Taftville are continuing their records as show dogs is evidenced by the show reports published in the American Kennel Gazette, official organ of the American Kennel club, this month. At the Lancaster County Dog Protective association's seventh annual dog show held January 31 and February 1 at Lancaster, Pa., Mrs. Emily E. Coughlin's Mikiska of Donerna was first in the limit class and was awarded reserve winners. This dog, now owned in Landover, Md., already has a good bench record. Another Rurik dog, which went as a puppy to the Pacific coast and is now owned by W. G. McDonald, showed up well in the Golden Gate Kennel club's 19th annual dog show held at San Francisco, Cal., on January 21st and 22nd. This was the young female Yurak's Luba of Coronado who took the first limit ribbon and was declared reserve winners by the judge.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip LaPorte and family, of South A street, have moved to a farm which they recently purchased at Plain Hill.

The regular meeting of the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society was held Wednesday evening in the society's rooms on Providence street, with the president, Miss Mary Nolan, presiding.

The two mission priests at Sacred Heart church who are conducting a mission in the French language, are having large congregations at all the services. This week the mission is for men and boys of the parish, as last week the services were for the women and girls.

Reports are current about the town of a new state road to run from Newent as a continuation of the Newent road from Norwich avenue, to Canterbury. The reports state that work on the new highway will be begun this coming season. If this is true, it will no longer be necessary for villagers to take the long river road to Plainfield to reach Canterbury. Eventually it is believed the Canterbury road will join the state highway through Brooklyn to Danielson, Putnam and Worcester. The new road will probably leave the present state road in the vicinity of the Lisbon town house at Newent.

Flyers and posters issued by the state tuberculosis commission are having a generous circulation about the town.

Sylva Tetreault, of South B street, has resigned his position with the No. 2 carding department of the Ponemah mills.

The members of the Sacred Heart dramatic club have begun rehearsals on their annual play which they plan to present on St. Patrick's day, each year.

A number of local people were in Norwich Wednesday evening to attend the lecture by Rev. John Nicol Mark of Malden, Mass., at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church.

Funeral services for Miss Kate Farrell were held Wednesday at 2 o'clock from the home of her sister, Mrs. George Pilling, of Providence street, with Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, officiating. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends of the deceased, and a wealth of floral tributes testified to the wide circle of friendship which she enjoyed. The bearers were Richard Pilling, Robert Pilling, William Gley, Archibald Torrance, James Emerson and Adam Heinrich. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Ricketts read the committal service. Undertaker George G. Grant had charge of the funeral arrangements.

CAMPAIGN FOR X-RAY DEPARTMENT AT HOSPITAL

The Women's Auxiliary of the Wm. W. Backus hospital is marshaling together its forces, preparing for a campaign beginning on Monday morning, March 12 in an effort to raise $5,000 to provide a suitable X-ray department in the hospital.

The American College of Surgeons who are the promoters of the hospital standardization movement, now world-wide, require that the X-ray department in all approved hospitals shall be under the supervision of a competent radiologist and an adequate technical staff. The Backus hospial has met this requirement and is now well equipped to do fine diagnostic work, but is lacking in the proper physical facilities which would render this department capable of performing its best work. An X-ray department housed in the basement, as is the case with the present one, is a thing of the past, and not to be dreamed of in this enlightened age. The plans now are complete for this new department, and proper accommodations are arranged for with due consideration of lighting, ventilation, and protection from electrical and X-ray dangers.

The thousand and more active members constituting the hospital auxiliary feel confident that in presenting this need of the hospital to the public they are assured of a successful response. It is true that the quality and extent of the service which the Backus hospital will render to this community, now and in the future years, will be determined by the community itself which it undertakes to serve.

In presenting the appeal those in charge say: "Why go elsewhere to have your case diagnosed? See your X-ray picture in its finest detail in our own hospital. Have X-ray therapy here in place of elsewhere. Make our own hospital adequate to be the community center of health and prevention of ills, by providing for it physical accommodations and equipment which is adequate, modern and proper."

The campaign is in charge of Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins and Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr. The headquarters will be easily accessible in the lobby of the Dime savings bank on Broadway. Checks will be made payable to the Women's Auxiliary of the W. W. Backus Hospital. Those in charge of the campaign feel sure that each and every member of the community will desire to have a share in the accomplishment of this worthy purpose, which has been heartily endorsed by the chamber of commerce.

LIQUOR LAW VIOLATOR GETS JAIL AND FINE

Found guilty of violation of the liquor law, three times within a year, Alex Solbroski of North Thames street, was sent to jail for six months and fined $200 and costs when his case came up in the city court Wednesday morning. He entered a plea of not guilty but the state's evidence was strong enough to convict him.

Solbroski was arrested at his restaurant by the local police early Tuesday evening after they found a five gallon can of alcohol, in a burlap bag, which, it is said, had just been delivered at the restaurant. The alcohol was under the counter, where the police claimed it was placed by Solbroski who brought it from a closet while they were searching some other part of the place.

Solbroski, in his testimony, told the court the alcohol did not belong to him but that some farmer had left it in the restaurant, after purchasing coffee and doughnuts and that Solbrowski did not know the alcohol had been left in the place.

Captain Thomas P. Murphy testified that the accused had told him that he paid $40 for five gallons of alcohol and then added water enough to make 10 gallons. The mixture he dispensed at 25 cents a drink. On the stand Solbroski denied making any such statement to Captain Murphy.

COL. FRANK SMITH BERATES UNITED STATES SENATORS

In Opening His Campaign For Republican Nomination For the Senate, Col Smith, Who Has Been Barred From a Senate Seat, Declared That No One is Exempt From Either Slander or Libel in the U. S. Senate — Inquires "What Are 800,000 Citizens of Illinois to Half a Hundred Senators."

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., March 8—(AP)—Terming the United States senate chamber the "supreme and safety vantage point in all this world from which to launch attacks upon the character, morals, politics or religion of anyone whomsoever," Col. Frank L. Smith, twice barred from a senate seat, tonight opened his second campaign for the republican nomination.

"No one is exempt from either slander or libel in the United States senate—no one from the president of the nation to a prisoner in the penitentiary—except members of the club," said Col. Smith. His speech was also the first detailed statement since being named senator three times, once by election and twice by designation of Governor Len Small. He was unable to take his seat because the senate barred him for accepting campaign contributions from public utilities.

"What are 800,000 citizens of Illinois to half a hundred senators?" he asked in referring to the 800,000 votes he received in the election more than a year. "What, indeed, are the whole 7,000,000 of our people in Illinois to that little half-hundred, when presidential nominating conventions are approaching and every second democratic desk in the senate chamber is ornamented with a lightning rod, as well as several republican desks?"

Col. Smith said that the coming campaign would be waged by him on the same platform as his previous one but that the real issue is whether the senate has the right "upon any grounds or no grounds as it sees fit to accept or reject whomever you may elect as senator, whether you agree with the senate or whether you don't."

NOTICE FILED FOR HOOVER FOR THE INDIANA PRIMARY

INDIANAPOLIS, March 8—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, entered another favorite son field late today, when he filed notice of republican presidential candidacy and becomes an opponent of United States Senator James E. Watson, in the Indiana primary to be held May 5. Hoover recently filed in Ohio and will oppose Senator Frank B. Willis, also a favorite son.

The cabinet member's entry followed two hectic days of cross country telephoning, speedily taken canvasses of various Indiana counties and the refusal of Hoosier boosters to give way to some eastern advisers that his name not be filed. Late today, however, and with only a few hours remaining in which to conform to the primary law, Oscar G. Foellinger, Fort Wayne publisher, won his point and was told by Hoover to enter him in the contest.

Following Hoover's announcement, word was received from Chicago definitely stating that Frank O. Lowden, Illinois' war governor, would not enter the Indiana presidential contest.

HAPGOOD AND HIS WIFE WERE RELEASED ON BONDS

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 8—(AP)—Powers Hapgood of New York and his wife, Mary Donovan Hapgood, were released from the Luzerne county jail today in $5,000 each, $2,500 bond to keep the peace. Bond was furnished by the National Surety company.

Bail was fixed after a hearing today before Judge B. R. Jones on a writ of habeas corpus. They had been held since Sunday in $1,000 bail each for attempting to hold a meeting and later a parade in defiance of orders by authorities.

Counsel for the defendants said Hapgood and his wife had resided here for the past three months and that Hapgood was employed in Number 5 colliery of the L. and W. B. Coal company and was a member of the miners union.

Judge Jones remarked that should the defendants continue their present course under existing conditions in the Pittston section they would be a menace to the community.

ROW AT LATIN PRESS CONGRESS IN HAVANA

HAVANA, March 8—(AP)—Two riotous outbreaks nearly disrupted the Seventh Latin Press congress here today. French delegates were involved in both proceedings and finally all except three of the representatives from that country left the hall.

The first outbreak occurred when some Central American delegates attempted to obtain a vote of censure in connection with American intervention in Nicaragua. Charles Pettit of Le Petit Parisien, who had been asked to sign the motion, asked the chair to forbid such propaganda since the congress was a professional and not a political assembly.

Fifteen minutes of bedlam followed. Finally, Lugo Vina, the chairman, ruled that delegates are at liberty to present any motions they choose, but only when they are regularly granted the floor. He refused to consider M. Pettit's point since no motion had been presented.

ACTION TAKEN BY THE NEW ENGLAND TRAFFIC LEAGUE

BRIDGEPORT, March 8—(AP)—The New England Traffic league at its quarterly session here today, went on record as opposed to house joint resolution number 79, now before congress which if passed, will create a commission to investigate the motor trucking situation. In the same resolution the league also went on record as opposed to the establishment of the principle of toll line highways.

A lengthy discussion centered around the recommendation of this resolution made by C. L. Eyanson, chairman of the motor trucking committee of the league. Only one dissenting vote was cast. This was from W. H. Chandler, nationally known traffic expert, who is manager of the transportation bureau of the Merchants' Association of New York city. Mr. Chandler objected to the resolution on the ground that it was premature, and too little research and study had been made of the subject.

$100,000 DAMAGE SUIT FOR ALIENATION OF AFFECTIONS

CHICAGO, March 8—(AP)—Damages of $100,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of their 20 year old daughter, Louise, are asked in a suit filed in the superior court today by attorneys for Baron Richard von Zinnow of Berlin, Germany, against Mr. and Mrs. Julius Oppenheimer of Chicago.

Baron Zinnow's suit charges the girl agreed to marry him, but that the parents persuaded her to change her mind. Mr. Oppenheimer is a retired merchant. The baron met Miss Oppenheimer while she was touring Europe with her parents last year. Baron Zinnow said he came to the United States to marry Miss Oppenheimer.

HOUSE REJECTS BILL TO INCREASE TERM OF OFFICE

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—With the greatest speed under which its parliamentary machinery can operate, the house cast into discard today a proposal to increase from two to four years the tenure of office of its membership.

This action came on a motion to revise the pending "lame duck" constitutional amendment, before a single member other than the author had had an opportunity to raise his voice in its behalf. The proposal was smothered by a vote of 207 to 33.

But even with the legislative engine running in high gear, this took time and coupled with a clamor by members for further time to debate the amendment, the day slipped away without a final vote. Leaders are hopeful for this tomorrow, although a number of other motions still must be disposed of.

The four-year term proposal was offered by Representative Bankhead, an Alabama democrat, who contended that inasmuch as the amendment would change the convening date of congress from the first Monday in December to Jan. 4, that a lengthening of the term of the house members also could be considered.

Presiding over the house at the time, Representative Lehlbach, a New Jersey republican, took a different view and rejected the proposal as not in order. Bankhead then was voted down on an effort to reverse the decision of the chair.

AGRICULTURAL BILL WAS REPORTED IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—While the house agricultural committee continued to wrestle with the farm relief bill in executive session, the month old action of the senate committee in approving an almost identical measure was formally reported today to the senate.

This proposed assistance for agriculture, the 1928 version of the widely-known McNary-Haugen bill, now takes its place in the senate's long line of pending legislation. Action by the senate is not expected to materialize, however, until more progress is made by farm relief by the house, since priority is held by two other major problems, Muscle Shoals and flood control.

The house committee concerned itself today with that section of the bill relating to the powers of the federal farm board which would be created under the bill, but came to no conclusion. Meanwhile, Chairman McNary, Oregon, of the senate agriculture committee, submitted to his colleagues an extensive explanation of his modified bill. This noted that "far-reaching changes" had materially altered the measure from that passed and vetoed last session but declared that "it is addressed to the same problem and is based upon the same general principles."

ALMOST COLLIDED WITH DERELICT SCHOONER

BOSTON, March 8—(AP)—A narrow escape from collision with a derelict schooner in the steamer lane north of Porto Rico, was reported by the steamer Isabella, wharved here today from San Juan with a cargo of raw sugar. The vessel, by a sudden change of helm, missed the obstruction by a few feet, Capt. C. A. Mann said.

Third Mate C. J. Bocke, was on the bridge on the night of March 2, when the Isabella was about 100 miles north of San Juan, Boston bound. In the clear moonlight he picked up dead ahead and very close, a capsized craft, apparently a schooner, about 120 feet long. The rudder was thrown hard right and the Isabella cleared the derelict, although almost grazing its side.

News of the presence of the menace to navigation was broadcast by radio to warn other vessels. Captain Mann said the derelict was drifting southward and was being carried along at considerable speed by the strong southerly current.

Lewis Ends Story of Miners' Grievances

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—With the completion by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, of his analysis of the ills besetting the bituminous industry, the senate committee investigating the situation was presented today with a defense of the Pittsburgh Coal company against charges springing from its clash with the union.

C. E. Lesher, executive vice president of that company, appeared as the first of the numerous operators and their representatives subpoenaed for the inquiry at the instance of the United Mine Workers. Lewis had described the Pittsburgh Coal company as a "Mellon concern," and Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, sought immediately to obtain from Lesher the names of stockholders of his organization.

Lesher said he did not have such information, but assured the committee that it would be forthcoming from other sources.

At the instances of Oliver K. Eaton, attorney for the union, the company officer outlined his administrative duties and briefly traced the history and scope of his organization. He said that a formal statement of its side of the case would be submitted later.

Senator Wagner, democrat, New York, asked Lesher for statistics on past earnings of the Pittsburgh Coal company, but the witness plead unfamiliarity with those details. Eaton then informed the committee that he had the figures, and later he asked the company officer whether the earnings were not $14,000,000 in 1917, $9,000,000 in 1918, and $4,500,000 in 1919. Lesher said he could not answer.

As on the opening day, Lewis charged the railroads with having conspired to force a reduction of miners' wages in order to get cheap fuel, attacked the courts for issuing injunction writs against the unions, and accused the coal operators with having violated the Jacksonville wage agreement. He again directed his fire principally at the Pittsburgh Coal company, characterizing the "Brutus" of the coal industry for "betraying" the miners by being first to abrogate the Jacksonville agreement.

Wheeler asked if Lewis knew what motivated that policy on the part of the Pittsburgh concern, and Lewis recounted his meeting in 1925 with W. G. Warden, chairman of the board for the Pittsburgh Coal company.

"Warden told me that R. B. Mellon had a bad year in 1924," said the miners' executive, "and that he wanted to make up for it. He had just been made chairman of the board of directors of the company, and said he wanted to make a good record in the position for 1925. He said the best way to do it was to reduce the miners' wages."

TEAPOT DOME COMMITTEE TRACING SINCLAIR BONDS

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP)—Direct evidence was received today by the senate Teapot Dome committee that at least some of the $260,000 in Continental Trading company Liberty bonds which Harry F. Sinclair turned over to the republican national committee in 1923 were parceled out to individuals for sale on the open market and the proceeds used to help extinguish the party deficit before the 1924 campaign.

James A. Patten, a Chicago grain commission merchant, who years ago startled the world by obtaining a near-corner on the wheat market, testified that the late Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the republican committee at that time, gave him $25,000 in Liberty bonds in December, 1923, and asked him to make a contribution in an equal sum to the party to help wipe out a deficit which Upham then placed between $600,000 and $800,000.

Patten said he sent the national committee his check for this amount, collected the bonds later and turned them over to the Jefferson hospital in Chicago, to which he had promised a donation of $25,000. The one-time wheat king said he was "mad and indignant" at the size of the deficit, but saw the necessity of paying it off.

HINCHCLIFFE PLANNING 4,000 MILE FLIGHT TO INDIA

LONDON, March 8—(AP)—A 4,000 mile flight to India as a preliminary test for an attempt to make the first flight from Europe to America in May or June, is being planned by Captain Walter Hinchcliffe, noted British aviator.

Reports that the captain was about to start immediately on a flight from English to the United States with the Honorable Elsie Mackay, titled British heiress as a passenger, brought denials both from Captain Hinchcliffe and Miss Mackay.

The captain said that he probably would start for India in about three weeks as a long preliminary test for a trans-Atlantic hop, but denied that Miss Mackay would accompany him on either attempt. Miss Mackay, he said, has given financial support to his undertaking and has taken part in trial flights, but that is the extent of her participation.

PALESTINE GOV'T. HEARS OF "HOLY WAR" DECLARATION

LONDON, March 8—(AP)—British officialdom, with characteristic English calm, tonight viewed the 'holy war" in Arabia with less concern. But dispatches from the district near the head of the Persian gulf painted a different picture.

Official observers gave out a report that Ibn Saud, king of Hedjaz and sultan of the Nejd, was planning a visit to Mecca. They pointed out that the Wahabis are not friendly toward the holy city of Mohammedanism and deduced that Ibn Saud was not likely to leave Reyadh, his capital, in the center of Arabia, if there was any immediate prospect of putting his own forces into the field.

This estimate was easily coupled with previous analyses of Ibn Saud's character, which made him out as more anxious for restoration of his yearly subsidy from the British government than for extension of his domain.

Dispatches from Basra, Irak, showed the British there and at Koweit preparing for possible early raids on the frontiers. Airplanes, armored cars and transport cars have been stationed outside the walls of Koweit, ready for a dash to any threatened point and marines and blue jackets from a British man of war are patrolling the streets daily.

Unconfirmed reports have reached Basra, that the western edge of the desert already is blazing with desert warfare, with several villages in Transjordania captured and looted by Wahabis. But nothing of that sort came from points nearer the scene.

But all officers and men of the Transjordania garrisons who are on leave have been recalled; frontier patrols have been strengthened and armored cars and air reinforcements moved into the territory.

Another report said that the motor route across the Syrian desert from Bagdad to Damascus had been closed. This is the first indication that disorders were threatened that far north, although parts of the route is within reach of raiders who might dash across the Arabian frontier.

PLANE CRASH IN NICARAGUA FATAL TO MARINE OFFICERS

Capt. William C. Byrd, Pilot, and Sergt. R. A. Frankforter, Observer, Fell With Observation Plane 40 Miles to the Northwest of Matagalpa—Accident Occurred Near Landing Field—Plane is Believed to Have Struck a Flying Buzzard—Both Men Were Killed Instantly.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 8—(AP)—Captain William C. Byrd, pilot, and Sergeant Rudolph A. Frankforter, observer, were killed today, when an American observation plane crashed near Estell, 40 miles to the northwest of Matagalpa.

Meager advices received here indicate that the accident occurred near the landing field at Estell, and that the two men were killed instantly. The bodies were brought to Managua tonight.

The plane was flying southward from Ocotal on a test flight. It is believed to have struck a flying buzzard, which broke a strut supporting the ring wing, causing it to collapse, when about to land.

The plane began to turn over and the aviators jumped from a height of about 250 feet, their parachutes being useless at that altitude.

Captain Byrd had been with the marines for twelve years, but had only about one year aviation service. Frankforter was an experienced aviator.

The two men came to Nicaragua about three weeks ago aboard the airplane carrier Saratoga. Frankforter leaves a widow and three children.

MAN AND WOMAN FIRED ON 19 TIMES BY POLICE

STAMFORD, March 8—(AP)—Although fired on 19 times by the police of half a dozen Connecticut towns, a man and woman traveling in an automobile bearing New York state markers successfully eluded their pursuers tonight and when last seen were speeding towards Bedford, N. Y. Two motorcycle policemen were ditched by the automobile and at least one other saved himself from a like fate by swerving out of the way.

The car was first noted when it sped past a stop signal in the center of this city, at a speed estimated by witnesses, to be well over 50 miles an hour. A motorcycle officer gave chase and succeeded in catching the car a mile from the center. He caused the driver to surrender his license and registration, and took a revolver from the woman. Then he ordered them to follow him back to police headquarters. After riding a short distance, the car suddenly picked up speed, and closing the gap between its bumper and the officer's motorcycle in one leap, it nosed him off the road.

His whistle started another policeman on the chase, which led through Portchester, Cos Cob and Greenwich, and in which over a dozen officers finally participated. None, however, were able to halt the machine and it finally out-distanced pursuit.

The name which appears on the driver's license and registration has been given to the New York state police.

BLAME FOR MURDER OF TOMS PLACED UPON HICKMAN

LOS ANGELES, March 8—(AP)—Blame for the murder of C. Ivy Toms was placed entirely upon William Edward Hickman today by A. Gray Gilmer, attorney defending Welby Hunt in their joint trial for killing the druggist in a hold-up a year ago Christmas eve.

In his closing argument, Gilmer declared to the jury of six men and six women that it was Hickman, the kidnaper and murderer of Marian Parker, who planned the robbery of Toms' drug store, who did all the talking, and that it was a bullet from Hickman's pistol which killed Toms. He pleaded that they would not send "this blue-eyed boy of misfortune" to a felon's cell for life.

On the other hand, Hunt just previously had been accused of firing the fatal shot, in the closing argument of Richard Cantillon, one of Hickman's defense lawyers.

For the first time during either of Hickman's two murder trials, his mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman, today sat in the courtroom motionlessly stolid, apparently unmoved by the pleadings for her son.

SEVERAL ROBBERS FLED, ABANDONING THEIR TRUCK

NEW HAVEN, March 8—(AP)—When George L. Raymond, secretary and treasurer of the H. M. Tower company, radio dealers, saw a truck in the driveway next to the store at a time when no truck should be there, he promptly ran his car in to block the exit of the truck and entered the store to investigate. His arrival probably saved the firm a few dollars as his entrance was the signal for a mad scramble for doors and windows on the part of several men who had evidently entered the place with the intention of cleaning it out.

Although the men escaped, they were forced to abandon the truck and police are now checking up on its ownership.

Raymond and Mrs. Raymond were on their way to a theatre and had it not been for the fact that their route took them past the store, it is probable that the thieves would have been successful.

NO WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC BETWEEN N. Y. AND PANAMA

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—Charges in a report of the League of Nations that white slave traffic was being systematically conducted between New York and Panama were described as "uncorroborated statements" of an unidentified investigator, today, after an inquiry by Federal Attorney Charles H. Tuttle.

The league's report last December said women and girls were being recruited in New York for transportation to cabarets in Panama, chiefly through the agency of a theatrical bureau.

"A thorough search for any corroborative evidence of a legal nature has not only failed," Mr. Tuttle said, "but has resulted in much impressive evidence to the very contrary."

DR. ABBE WAS UNCLE OF LOCAL MEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 8—Dr. Robert Abbe, 77, who died at his home, 9 West Fifty-Ninth street, New York city, Wednesday, was an uncle of Walter Abbe, Jr., and Alfred P. Abbe of Windham. The noted cancer specialist has been in failing health for several years, but had, however, continued his practice in St. Luke's hospital, New York city. He was a brother of the late Cleveland Abbe, meteorologist and son of George Waldo and Charlotte Colgate Abbe. He received his A. B. degree at the College of the City of New York in 1870 and his M. D. four years later at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, now the medical department of Columbia university. Dr. Abbe taught one year in the College of the City of New York and then went into general practice for a few years, later devoting his time to surgery. In 1877 he became attending surgeon in the outdoors department of the New York hospital, remaining in that capacity for seven years, during two of these years also being professor of didactic surgery at the Woman's Medical college. He became surgeon at St. Luke's hospital in 1884 and surgeon to the New York Cancer hospital in 1893, retaining that position permanently. For five years his services as a surgeon were also connected with the New York Babies hospital. His skill in surgery won him a wide reputation as one of the foremost surgeons of his time. He loved teaching and found an outlet for this desire through a professorship of surgery at the New York Post Graduate Medical school and as a lecturer at the medical department of Columbia university. He was consulting surgeon at the Roosevelt Women's and Babies' hospital and at the hospital for the ruptured and crippled. He was a member of the Century and University clubs. Dr. Abbe was married in 1891 to Mrs. Catherine Amory Palmer of New York city. She died in 1920, leaving no children.

Dr. Abbe spent some time in Paris with Dr. and Mme. Curie and was one of the first to use radium in the curing of cancer and goiter. Experiments conducted under the supervision of Dr. Abbe by Dr. Alexis Carrell opened new fields of usefulness for Beta rays which had previously been regarded as harmful in the use of radium treatment. The experiment showed according to Dr. Abbe, that Beta rays were more healing and of greater efficiency than the Gamma rays. Dr. Abbe retired from the practice of his profession in 1923. He leaves one sister, Miss Harriet Colgate Abbe of New York city and several nephews and nieces.

NORWICH BOROUGH 75 YEARS AGO

The death of a Mr. Platt, who fell from his wagon and was run over, and a fire on Washington street constitute the important events of 75 years ago. President Pierce's inauguration also formed much of the news for readers this week three-quarters of a century ago.

Interesting events in the files of the Norwich Evening Courier of 75 years ago are taken in part as follows:

Tuesday, March 4, 1853—We omitted to mention on Saturday, the occurrence of a fire on the preceding Thursday night, or rather Friday morning, which, but for its timely discovery, would, in all probability, have proved very disastrous. The building in which it happened is what is known as the Clark building, just west of Apollo hall. As a couple of gentlemen who had been out of town were returning home, they discovered, in passing near the block in question a volume of smoke ascending from the rear of the building; and upon investigation, presently found it came from the kitchen of the last tenement occupied by Mr. Abel Adams. They forced their way into the house, and in so doing, aroused the family from a slumber so profound that it had, in all probability, proved the last, to some of them but for the providential interposition; even as it was, a daughter of Mr. A., we understand, came near perishing. By the prompt and energetic measures of the firemen, the fire was subdued without any serious loss of property, except the furniture and fixtures of the room in which it originated. We regret to learn, that there was no insurance on the property destroyed; for we believe Mr. A. is illy able to bear the loss. How the fire occurred is a mystery to the family.

A teamster named Platt, and belonging in Windham, we understand, was instantly killed in this city on Saturday last in a shocking manner. As nearly as we have been able to collect the facts, they are, substantially, that Platt was seated upon a wagon loaded with furniture, and driving along the upper end of Broadway, somewhere in the neighborhood of Gen. Williams' residence, when, leaning over the side of the load he lost his balance, fell to the earth, and the wheel of the wagon passing directly over his neck, he was killed instantaneously.

Wm. M. Warren of Watertown, Ct., has invented a new car seat. By this plan a person may adjust the seat in a moment, so as to make it convenient for sleeping on.

The U. S. Mail Steamer, Georgia, arrived at New York on Tuesday afternoon, bringing the California mails of February 1st, some two and a half millions in gold dust, and a large number of passengers.

Saturday, March 5, 1853—Owing to the storm last night, or to some other cause, the boat did not get in from New York, and we are yet without our regular mail from that quarter. P. S. 1 1-2 p. m.—The Boat has arrived.

We have another and rather hastily got-up edition of winter. We have had no storm during the past winter in which a depth of snow fell within so short a space of time; but it fell in a feathery state, lies lightly on the earth, and is already melting rapidly away.

Physical wounds may heal, but not those made unkind words.

DANIELSON

NEW HOTEL ON SITE OF ATTAWAUGAN HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 8—The Bulletin's story this morning relative to the prospect of Danielson getting a new combination hotel and theater building this year was received with very great interest by the local public. Details of the project were eagerly sought, and it its hardly necessary to add that the public would be delighted if it is successfully worked out.

It may now be revealed that the site for the proposed hotel-theater building is that now occupied by the Attawaugan hotel. William S. Brown, owner of the property, admitted this morning that he has been offered a most alluring proposal. Financing of the plan is taken care of in advance by the interests negotiating with Mr. Brown. He is merely asked to come in with his name, and sign the necessary agreements.

Mr. Brown is taking ample time to consider every phase and angle of the proposed. He had reached no decision today, but may do so, one way or another, within the next few days. He is frank to say the plan is a great temptation to him, an opportunity to realize an ambition he has had in mind for years—to give Danielson a modern hotel and theater. He points out, too, that he must consider his advancing years and the great amount of work and strain he would be under in carrying out the proposal.

In the past Mr. Brown has demonstrated to the people of Danielson his power to undertake large projects and turn them into successes when others have been a bit doubtful of his ability to do so. To him Danielson owes thanks that it has any theater building at all. He was the builder of the Orpheum. He built a string of new dwellings on Water street when his venture seemed a bit daring, and came through with another marked success.

Mr. Brown believes fully in Danielson and its future. He has the courage to go forward with the new hotel-theater plan and the necessary funds for the work are available, but he hesitates to assume the heavy burden of work and worry that it is certain to entail. He stood at the crossroads today, carefully considering. If his old-time spirit rules him as it has so many times in the past, there will be a highly gratifying announcement for Danielson within a short time — and not long thereafter there will start to rise what may long remain as a monument to his genius for doing things in and for the town where he has spent the greater part of his life.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home on Buck street a prayer service for Walter R. Fiske was conducted by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church. At 4 o'clock the funeral services were held at the Congregational church in South Killingly with Rev. Mr. Gaylord officiating. There were many relatives and friends in attendance including representatives of the Quinebaug mills, Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Veterans, and Quinebaug lodge of Odd Fellows. The bearers were all Odd Fellows—Arnold Battey and Winthrop E. Short, representing Quinebaug lodge, I. O. O. F. DeForest Wells and Frank Stimson, representing Colonel Edward Anderson camp, S. of U. W. V., Thomas Tabot and John Morin, representing the Quinebaug mills. Burial was in South Killingly cemetery, where the Odd Fellows' committal service was conducted by Arnold Battey and W. E. Short. There were many beautiful floral pieces. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

From the home in Wauregan this morning the funeral of Mrs. Florence Picard was held with funeral services at the Sacred Heart church in that place at 9 o'clock, Rev. J. H. Quinn being celebrant of the requiem high mass. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery, Rev. Fr. Quinn conducting the committal service. The bearers were Stanley Gervais, Arthur Boucher, William Jodoin, Henry Fournier, Matthew Beauregard and Aime Kerouack. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Mrs. Sarah F. Burdick, widow of Thomas Calvin Burdick, died Wednesday afternoon at her home in Killingly Center. Burdick of Danielson, Mrs. Fred Merse of Goodyear, Mrs. James Diggitt of Elmville, Norman Burdick of Ashaway, R. I., and Elmer Burdick of Elmville.

Something must be said right here and now to correct the impression this column has caused to go out that the trout fishing season is to open on April 1. Under an enactment of the last legislature, but the rule not effective until last July, this year's trout fishing season will not open until April 15. With that error corrected, one may go on to relate that, in the opinion of trout fishermen hereabouts, the change to April 15 is a mighty good thing. For one thing, it will prevent hordes of Massachusetts sportsmen coming down into this state two weeks ahead of the opening of the season in their own state, as they did last year, and literally camp on the best trout streams hereabouts for a fortnight. Then when April 15 came around, they enjoyed another season's opening back home.

A suggestion for better lighting of the business district as made by Manager William Sangster of the Danielson division of the Eastern Connecticut Power company involves the use of higher powered lights and the abandonment of the present staggered plan of placing the lights for one where lights would be opposite each other along the streets. The proposed arrangement produces better lighting results, Mr. Sangster told the business men. He also suggested that the cost of the more powerful lights might be kept down by cutting some of them off at the midnight hour, instead of letting them burn all night, as is now done with all the street lights in the business section, there being little need of the brilliant illumination between the hours of midnight and daylight.

If the Danielson town team wins the deciding game and basketball series with the Crescents of Taftville at the Plainfield Community house Friday evening, another series, with Plainfield, may be arranged. In case Taftville is returned the winner, Danielson will close its season with the Crescent game.

At her home here Wednesday afternoon Mrs. L. E. Kennedy entertained at bridge, the guests including Mrs. Roderick Godreau, Mrs. Albert Fournier, Mrs. E. S. Cyr and Mrs. Delphis Boucher, all of Willimantic. Mrs. Godreau won first honors, Mrs. Fournier second and Mrs. Frank Gorman third honors. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Moving about inspecting exhibits of spring lines in which he deals, John M. Dowe was pleasantly surprised at the Hotel Statler in Boston yesterday to be greeted by a sales manager who was his buddy in the 103rd field artillery of the Yankee division over in France in 1917-18, their first meeting since they returned from overseas.

This may or may not indicate that spring is just in the offing, but a pair of robbins were reported this afternoon near a home on Broad street.

What appears to have been an attempt during last night to steal the automobile of Former Warden Walter Anderson of Broad street was reported by Mr. Anderson to Chief John McFarland this morning. Someone had forced the lock on the Anderson garage, but the car was not taken nor was anything else missing from the garage.

Mrs. Charles S. Bill was at Norwich today to attend the funeral services for her brother, Marvin L. Bailey.

WESTMINISTER

VERMONT DEVASTATION DESCRIBED BY MRS. DAVIES

Following is an extract from a letter written by Mrs. T. Edward Davies to a friend in Westminster relative to the recent flooded area in Vermont, through which she passed on her way to Randolph, Vt. Mrs. Davies writes:

Our train frequently scarcely moved over temporary bridges and trestles, and after workmen, 50 or more, stood by to let us pass. Ruins are still all about. At one place a large house is tilted over like a block on edge. Hills are at right angles to the river, with ruts many feet deep; roads in many places wholly demolished, showing only the terrible debris and new roads very much higher from the banks now in use. Countless trees prostrate and covered with mud line the river banks; buildings still standing show watermarks of 18 to 20 feet, and windowless; horses dispatched, buildings and ruins from demolished buildings everywhere.

One of the large portable bunkhouses used by employes of Bridges & Sons during the construction of the state road has been taken down and transported by truck to Cape Cod, where Bridges & Sons have another contract.

Earl Huling has returned to Westminster and is working for Allen Moody.

Arthur Dusenberrie of Westminster and New York, professionally known as "Sonny Hines," reached New York last week from a trip across the continent. He left New York last summer with a Keith production as co-star with Vamesee. They went to Toronto, Canada, then to San Francisco and return, playing every large city in many states en route.

Mrs. M. J. Johnson, who accompanied her grandson, Sonny Hines, on the long trip across the continent and return, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Bayles, in Bridgeport.

Dorrance Cook, formerly of Westminster, who has been visiting at Thomas Colburn's, has returned to Curtiss field, Long Island, where he is employed.

A large wreath among other tributes placed on the grave of Mrs. Louise Brown, who was buried Feb. 7, is still as beautiful as when left there. It was made by a little friend, Louise Soderburg, a pupil in the Westminster school, and fashioned of New England evergreens.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Green and little son of Plainfield spent Sunday with Mrs. Green's mother, Mrs. William Duburke, of Howard Valley.

PUTNAM

FIRE DEPT. HAS BUSY TIME WITH CHIMNEY FIRES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 8—Members of the hook and ladder company of the Central fire station on Main street have been keeping busy during the past week answering the numerous four stroke fire alarms, to extinguish the chimney fires. Wednesday evening at 7:02 p. m. the company was called by a four stroke alarm to extinguish a fire in the chimney of the Bradley theatre. The fire was quickly overcome in a short time with the use of chemicals and no damage resulted.

Thursday morning at 7:02 a. m. the hook and ladder company was called to answer an alarm at the home of Louis Devencizo on Walnut street. The blaze was again in the chimney. After the firemen had poured several gallons of chemical in the chimney, the fire was extinguished. Chief Thruston stated that the fire was caused by the large amount of soot that had collected in it.

About an hour later the company was again called to extinguish another fire in the chimney at the home of William Bonneville on Chapel street. Chemicals quickly put the blaze out without any serious damage to the dwelling.

"The early bird will catch the fish," seems to be the local fishermen's motto, as they are beginning to make applications for licenses to angle in the nearby brooks, when the trout season opens in April. Town Clerk Henry N. Benoit has issued many licenses during the past week to sportsmen from Putnam and vicinity.

Many of the brooks on the outskirts of the city have been heavily stocked by the state board of fisheries and game and sportsmen that have been out, watching for specimen have reported that some of the "big uns" have ventured out into the streams early.

Last year the late spring kept the trout away from the worm, and it was late in the season before any fish of size worth mentioning, were taken from the brooks by local fishermen.

Residents from Ward Four are wondering who, from their number might be chosen to represent them in the common council to complete the unexpired term of Alderman Willis B. Carroll. Mr. Carroll tendered his resignation at the council meeting held last Tuesday evening.

Chairman of the democratic city committee, Frederick Dumas, stated Wednesday that the committee was to meet sometime next week to select a candidate to succeed Mr. Carroll, but as yet nothing certain has been done by the committee.

In his resignation Mr. Carroll did not state any one reason for resigning as a member of the city council, but it is thought that his business has taken up the time that he had devoted to the city work. Mr. Carroll is a successful Putnam druggist, and though his business in the past had kept him from many of the council meetings, he has done much work for the betterment of the city government as an alderman from Ward 4.

Mr. Carroll's pleasing personality and his aim to maintain high standards in Putnam, three times elected him to the council from Ward four.

Augustus Cutler for many years engineer for the Belding Hemingway plant of this city remains at his home on Bellevue street in a critical condition, suffering from the effects of a shock he received Tuesday evening.

The executives from the local plant were Superintendent Leonard H. Mellor, William Shann and L. H. Mellor, Jr., overseers, John Slattery, office manager, Frank Ledger, Phillip Knapp, Isaac Austin, Mathew Austin and Frank Gifford, assistant overseers.

The menu served consisted of a number of Russian dishes. After the meal those present were presented with a box of Russian cigarettes for after dinner smokes.

During the course of the meal short talks were given by the executives of the company on the value and importance of the new grass fabric.

In honor of Rev. E. B. Wright, newly appointed pastor of St. Phillip's Episcopal church the ladies of the Guild gave an informal reception to the members of the parish last evening. Many members were present to welcome their new pastor at the reception. Rev. and Mrs. Wright have moved to Putnam, they coming from St. Steven, New Brunswick, where Rev. Mr. Wright had his church. The new pastor will occupy the parsonage on Pleasant street.

The filling station that is being erected by the Standard Oil company at the south end of School street is fast nearing completion and will be ready to open early next week. The company has erected a wooden building of the colonial period design. The building adds much to the civic beauty of that part of the town.

Merle Fish and James Barnes of Putnam are to be the manager of the station when it opens.

Boys of the state trade school have completed a two story bungalow on School street for Henry Dubois. This house is another added to the list the boys have built. Since the masonry department has been added to the institution the trade school has been able to erect the houses themselves without outside labor.

The masonry department is a new feature in the educational line of the school. The department is in charge of Thomas R. Kelly of Putnam, Mr. Kelly is an expert in his line and is a very capable instructor. Supervisor of the school, H. H. Ellis has stated that the masonry department has attracted the interest of boys in the community, as it offers a new and unique trade.

Since the town has built the addition to the building and gave the necessary room the coming masons have been designing and erecting miniature buildings in the department for practice and exhibition purposes.

Ruth Place of West Woodstock was operated on at the Day Kimball hospital Thursday morning for appendicitis. She was reported by the officials of the hospital as resting comfortable after the operation.

Captain William Jarvis of the Putnam police was off duty, Thursday. Sergeant George Liard was on duty in the absence of the captain.

The much needed repairs in the police and fire departments have been ordered by the common council. In the fire department new boxes for the alarm system have been ordered installed. The annual city budget was made up to include to replacing of two new boxes a year in the system. Upon the recommendation of Superintendent Charles T. Thayer of the fire alarm telegraph, the city council has voted for three. Repairs on the apparatus and the station house will be made at an early date. The police committee are investigating the needs of the police station and they will be improved at once. Both stations for the two departments are badly run down and the general repairs to improve both were the features of the council meeting held Tuesday evening.

JEWETT CITY

NORWICH HORSE DASHES INTO R. R. GATES AND FREIGHT

A horse belonging to Benjamin Mandell, of Norwich, ran away, traveling down Main street one afternoon this week, crashed through the railroad gates and into the fast freight which was passing over the crossing. Mr. Mandell, who collects newspapers and junk, had just driven out from the rear of the Jewett City Savings bank building and started down the hill toward Norwich. As the wagon loaded with half a ton of paper began to burden the horse, the animal started to kick and then went down the hill on the gallop and into the gates and train. The driver was thrown out but was not seriously hurt. The horse's head was terribly smashed and the skull fractured in two places. He was taken to the Jewett City hotel barn and Dr. F. D. Coles, who was called, shot the animal to put it out of misery. Mr. Mandell said he bought the horse Tuesday, paying $35 for him, and he felt the loss keenly. This was his first trip to try him out on his route. He evidently had bought a horse with a bad habit, for, once before, he let his heels fly when things did not suit his disposition. The railroad gates are again smashed, which is getting to be a continuous performance. This time, pieces of the gates were strewn down the track as far as the Ninigret mills. Evidently the freight crew knew nothing of the accident.

On the Jewett City alleys, March 7, the Glasgo Rement league won from the Glasgo Giants. The high single, 126, was bowled by Wilcox. The high total, 318, was bowled by McClusky.

When the matter was put to vote a tax rate of 20 mills was decided upon. This is the same rate that has prevailed for several years.

CUTTING THE TAXES

In another week it will be possible to tell what the treasury receipts for the quarter will be, and from those results there can be gauged the revenue which congress must take into consideration in making appropriations and cutting taxes.

At the opening of congress the president and the secretary of the treasury declared that it would be possible to make a cut of $225,000,000 in taxes but that in view of the large expenditures which might be expected that sum ought not to be exceeded if the treasury was to avoid a deficit. The house thought differently and hastened to approve a tax reduction running into larger figures but when it got to the senate the advice of the experts got more respect and it was decided to wait until the quarter's revenue gave a better indication of just what the revenue would warrant in the way of a tax cut.

In the meantime some large appropriations have been made. Others are being considered and still others are to be expected. This is as was anticipated for the knowledge that various large projects had to be taken care of has all along prompted caution.

It is significant, however, as a result of a conference of certain of the leaders that the president is reported as feeling confident that a tax cut such as the administration has advocated will still be possible provided congress gives heed to the situation and keeps within bounds. This takes into consideration the fact that certain estimates have already been exceeded and efforts are being made to do the same thing with others.

Two policies are under test at the present time. The first is the policy that was advocated by the president and secretary of the treasury at the opening of congress concerning the cut that could be safely made in taxes, and the other is the plan adopted by the senate of delaying action on the matter of tax reduction until such a time as it would be possible to tell more definitely what the revenue was going to be. The nearer we get to the close of the session the more apparent it becomes that we cannot indulge in all of the wild tax cutting that has been advocated.

SAFETY CAMPAIGNS

Within a short time with the coming of warmer weather we can expect to get individual demonstrations of the great need of being careful in the streets and highways. We may see this through the accidents or near-accidents of others, and we may have those unpleasant experiences which teach us that we must look out for ourselves.

Much is therefore to be said in behalf of safety campaigns. Even at this time of the year we can appreciate the importance of keeping the loud pedal on "stop, look and listen" needs. There isn't a user of the streets and highways but what needs to watch his step and do so with his mind on the other fellow as well as on himself.

Great stress needs to be placed on keeping the children out of the streets. Some by their acts of bravado not only invite accidents but bother auto drivers while many do not seem to appreciate the fact that when they lodge into the streets or rush out from in back of vehicles they make it impossible for drivers to avoid such unexpected appearances. Just what success the city of Cincinnati will have this week in its safety drive no one can predict but its plan to interest the juniors of that city is well calculated to impress upon those who need it that their own personal safety rests largely with themselves.

This doesn't mean that children are responsible for all the accidents in which they are involved, but there are many of them which could have been prevented had the children themselves been paying attention to danger.

When it comes to safety there is grave responsibility resting upon the adults as well as children. There are the jay-walkers, the heedless and the individuals who seem to invite rather than avoid trouble. Thus safety campaigns might well be continuous performances for even after the appalling number of fatalities and the even larger number of accidents there are still those who continue to disregard the danger and seem to regard the streets as safe as they were in the the days of horse drawn vehicles. If the safety campaigns will picture the difference to the coming generation the time will be well spent.

MORE NAVAL LIMITATIONS?

Talk of another naval conference doesn't mean that one will be held any more than the holding of a conference gives assurance that the results will be successful. There are always the possibilities to be taken into consideration, and now that Great Britain is reported to have sent word to France that it is considering the calling of a special naval conference in the near future it means that more than those two countries are interested.

This unofficial notification means, of course, that the British are trying to find out how the French feel about such a move. If it should be turned down flat that might be the end of it. If it should get a favorable reception it would at least be the sort of encouragement that London is seeking.

It would be entirely proper for the British government to ask for a conference for the purpose of considering the future reduction in the size of capital ships and an extension of the age limit of such ships. It is provided for under the terms of the Washington agreement, and while a conference is set for 1930, if a special conference should be held this year it would dispose of some matters just that much sooner.

It is entirely possible that the British are giving quite as much consideration to the curtailment of naval expenditures as is being done in this country and that it figures that by sounding the respective nations at a conference where only specific matters would be taken up it could the earlier determine what cutting could be done in its own naval plans between now and 1930.

It might seem that the last conference on the limitation of armament at Geneva had such results that it would be unwise to call another so soon, but it is to be realized that one of the troubles at Geneva was the effort to do too much instead of going ahead gradually by accomplishing those things that all might agree to first and letting the controversial matters wait. At any rate the reaction of France to the British feeler will be awaited with much interest by other than the British government.

CHARLES S. HOLBROOK

Death claims another of Norwich's leading citizens in the passing of Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook. Although not in robust health for a number of years his sudden death came as a distinct shock to his many friends.

The high esteem in which Mr. Holbrook was held was repeatedly reflected by the manner in which he was chosen to succeed himself in that office. At the death of Samuel H. Freeman, who had made a long record in that office as a democrat Mr. Holbrook was named for the office as a republican and was elected by the handsome majority of 640. It was the election that marked the switch to the republican control of town affairs for the first time in three years and from that time the deceased held the office continuously. Through his administration of that responsible office he justified in every respect the confidence placed in him and he was ever an efficient guardian of the town's funds. In whatever position of trust he was placed he was ever mindful of his duties and fully assumed the responsibilities of his office.

That this was generally recognized by the people of Norwich irrespective of party has for years been displayed by the placing of his name on both tickets. Being satisfied as the result of his service that the right man had been obtained for the office he was kept there in the most logical manner.

Charles S. Holbrook was ever a public spirited citizen, deeply concerned in the welfare of his native city, a man of integrity, a faithful public servant, a sympathetic, loyal friend whose hearty greeting and jovial disposition will be greatly missed throughout the community. Norwich loses with deep regret one of its leading and best known citizens by his death.

LINDBERGH AND PUBLICITY

Ever since he made his successful flight across the Atlantic, and even before for a brief time, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has been prominently before the people of several continents. He has been entitled to and gotten a lot of publicity. If he were a politician he would revel in it. Such has never been in accord with his makeup and it can be appreciated that he is desirous of getting out of the limelight and away from what is to him the strenuous side of all this publicity.

He has grown tired of all the attention, not because he doesn't appreciate it, but because it is all so different from what he has been accustomed to and because it means a severe tax upon the one who is constantly being feted and being asked to pose every time he turns around.

Colonel Lindbergh has won great distinction. He stands as a great example to young America. He cannot fail to be an inspiration to all who undertake difficult and perilous tasks. He has made a wonderful impression upon the country and it will not be possible for the people to forget him, or to put him out of their minds.

It is of course a fair plea that he should be given a rest that there should be a letup in the requests every few minutes for an interview and that his movements here, there and yon should be interrupted for pictures every time he is spotted. His request will get much appreciation from those whose make up is similar to his, but the lone eagle is too big a figure suddenly thrown before the people to expect that he can continue to hide his light under a bushel indefinitely. Colonel Lindbergh must know by this time that it is impossible to do such big, spectacular things and go about unnoticed.

PERSONAL

"Telegram for you, Mr. Lynn," said the redhead who opened doors and banged them shut, opened mail and read it all, knew whom to stop at the door and generally "helped" in the law office of her handsome young boss.

Leslie took the message carelessly, he hoped! As carelessly as he had opened a small white envelope a few days before. It had been marked "Personal—Very," and that had stopped even the redhead. "Dear Les," it had read. "Even in St. Louis one needs a friend. I'm changing trains there for Texas this coming week. I'll wire later when and where. It would be such fun to see you." And it was signed, "Nona."

He knew no Nona. It was a joke of some friend. But—no, here was the telegram reading, "Tuesday afternoon 1.30, information office, union station." And still cursing himself for a sentimental fool, the information office is exactly where he was at the appointed hour.

"Mr. Lynn?" A redcap motioned him along and in a second he stood in front of a ravishing creature in blue and ivory. She stood up, straight and slender, sweet and self-possessed.

"Oh, Les! How sweet of you to come!"

"Let's not forget how nice you were to let me, Miss Ah—ah—"

"Don't you 'miss' me, Leslie Lynn," she flashed him a humorous twinkle. "Are you going to put on airs just because you're in law?"

"That would be the last reason in the world, Nona. But let me check your baggage."

"I've sent it on ahead, thanks. But, my appetite—that needs attention!"

Across the rosy table his eyes questioned her. She was charmingly dressed, but it was the charm of taste rather than expense.

"Tell me," he asked, "what are you going to do in Texas? Drill for oil?"

"Nope," she shook her head between bites. (She must really have been starved, Les thought.) "About the same thing I did in New York."

"But why go to Texas to do it?"

"For the same reason that you will stay in St. Louis when the family wants you in New York. I guess."

Oh! then she knew the family predilection to have him stay close at hand. He tried again.

"How long since we met, you and I?" She evaded the direct question, but said:

"In the village, oh, Forgetful One." She went on, "Catherine told me to look you up." Better, better. He asked after his sister. How was she? The children? The little minx, attacking a large bowl of salad, chatted intimately of them. An artist protege of Catherine's, Les decided, having the time of her life being mysterious.

"Look here!" he was suddenly serious. "Who are you? Please."

"Just an itinerant lady." She was very gay. "To prove it, let's get back to the station. I have not bought my Pullman."

"Let me arrange your reservation for you," and in answer she handed him a small package of folded bills. "An upper to Dallas, then, if you please. I can't cash any more checks until I get there. But, I like uppers for a change."

"Yes, you do!" he muttered to himself when he had passed out of her sight. "Give me a lower in the center of the car for Dallas," he said at the window. And into the envelope with the little red Pullman checks he slipped the worn currency she had given him.

"Here, Itinerant Lady," he teased, "you may not like the only one I could get. Promise not to look till you're on your way."

"Done!" she cried, and handed him a folded sheet of paper. "Here's one for you, too. Promise, ditto!"

The last smile she gave him, over her shoulder as she disappeared into the train, was valiant, brave.

His note read: "Dear hero: Thanks for brave aid to Nona Nobody. That was my last dime for the Pullman and my last meal till Dallas and a job."

He read it to limpness before he reached his office. There he found a letter from his sister. "Children are inconsolable since their governess disappeared overnight. Miss Loomis took nothing except your big photograph. I think she was in love with it. Made Bobby talk about you constantly."

Leslie Lynn called the redhead. "Get me a ticket to Dallas," he said, "on the next train."—Exchange.

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

"Discounting the Unpleasant"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "I know how to be abased, and I know also how to abound." (Philemon 4: 12).

Read: Philemon 4:8-20.

MEDITATION: Life is a mixture of the agreeable and the unpleasant. Every life is, that is normal. We cannot share the common lot of man without experiencing some form of pain. No sensible person expects to be free from it; no wise person desires to be free from it. If we shall think of it as a normal event we shall fortify ourselves to meet it. Instead of resenting its coming as an unnatural thing, we shall accept it as the natural. Only as we learn to deal with the unpleasant as well as with the pleasant, shall we be able to manage life well.

"Man was made for joy and woe;
And when this we rightly know,
"Safely through the world we go."

PRAYER: Give us grace, O Lord, to keep our hearts at peace amid the varying tides of life. Joy and sorrow, health and suffering, want and plenty, are all parts of the common lot of man. May we shrink from no fortune but learn to meet each one as it comes. This we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

INCOME TAX TIPS

A person may receive for his services compensation other than money that is subject to the insome tax.

The fair market value of the thing taken in payment is the amount to be included as income. For example, if a clerk in a grocery store receives as part of his wages groceries or provisions, the market value of the merchandise must be reported by him as income.

Promissory notes received in payment for services and not merely as security for payment constitute income to the amount of their fair market value.

Board and lodgings when furnished as compensation for services must be included as income. Thus, a hotel clerk who is given a room and meals as part payment for his services must report the fair value of such in his income tax return.

CHILD TRAINING

Play a Game With the "Balky" Child

Marion Brownfield

"Why, how do you do? What can I do for you today? A shamboo, a manicure?"

A pouting, rebellious miss of six giggled. Then she responded, "I'd like to have my hair brushed!"

"And your face given a 'treatment' with the wash cloth? We give lovely 'facials' with hot water and soap. We really have the nicest kind of soap you ever saw, and our towels are just fresh from the laundry. You can have, madam, either a red bordered one or a Turkish, and there's no extra charge!"

"Now this nail brush is one of our most popular manicures," continued the Make-believe Beauty Shop lady, nodding her head. "All our customers insist that we use it."

"And I'd like a shampoo, too!" admitted the former little rebel. "What do you charge?"

Thus a little girl's toilet, often a scene of "scrimmage," was transformed and not by her mother but by a tactful, imaginative outsider with a daughter of her own.

This method of making games of routine has been so successful, especially with "balky" children, that a music teacher has also adopted the plan. When she has a child who, through discouragement, adopts a contrary, cranky attitude toward the lesson, she plays a game. She says, "I'll be a pupil and you be the teacher. I'll play the lesson and you correct all my mistakes." She begins by addressing the child as Mr. or Miss and instantly the child is on his or her mettle. She asked questions which she is sure the child has the ability to answer. If the pupil has balked at counting time, this clever teacher usually says, "Miss ——, I can't count when I play," in the child's own manner, "will you count for me?"

Frequently the child blushes, but "plays the game." In almost every case her pupils have shown good sportsmanship. They find it much more fun than the regular lesson.

This teacher uses tact in imitating their little faults and takes care also to imitate their good points as well. Balky children are not only generally cured but tease to play the game again.

Doesn't this seem to be a partial solution of the problem presented by stubborn children? Mothers often complain, "I don't dare to cross Betty, for it only makes her worse." If a general employs strategy, why shouldn't a

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What Deborah Did.

Mr. Editor: Your correspondent, Mr. Balkcom, has taken great pains to prove, from the Bible that woman's place is in the home and that she should leave all outside issues to the men. He overlooked one of the strongest illustrations in the Bible that his argument is founded upon a personal opinion; for in Judges we find a woman and a married woman, too, holding for 40 years the highest judicial office in the nation. Deborah was a three-fold character—a prophetess—judge and deliverer of the nation. We do not find that it caused any comment or that her husband was dissatisfied. It seemed to have been a perfectly natural condition of affairs. When she commanded Barak to go with the army and deliver Israel from the enemy he absolutely refused to do it unless she would go with him. He was a coward. It took a woman to deliver Israel from destruction. Not a man had backbone enough for the task.

This is precisely what caused the revolt of the women of the 19th century. I can recall the time when a man could give away his children and the mother was helpless. Yes, and other laws just as brutal and unjust to women and children. In the light of today it seems impossible that men could ever have been so cruel and unreasonable.

It was the righteous indignation of women that brought about the change and saved the race.

The millenium will never come until women have their rightful share as judges and lawmakers.

It will come, as women are more and more financially independent.

Stories That Recall Others

Plant Calories.

Jack's mother is ultra-modern and the young lad is quite familiar with the lore of calories. The son was accompanying his mother on a shopping tour to the city. As they were making preparations to leave home, mother said: "Jack, don't let me forget the plant food today. Our houseplants are looking like spindlesbanks."

They were nearing the business section. The dependable lad spied the store. "Mother, there is the place where we stop. You can get calories for the house plants there."

Lost And Found.

A Civil war veteran and a former railroad man enjoys telling this joke on himself. His brother, also a veteran and former railroader, resembled him to some extent, but had lost an arm in the railroad service. This brother had nothing to occupy his time, so he amused himself frequently by watching the boys play marbles on the sidewalk. One day the busy brother stopped on his way to the office to watch the same boys. They looked at him in amazement and one fellow piped up, "Why, mister, you have found your other arm!"

Former Norwich Leaders

(From the Norwich Bulletin, Sept. 6, 1888.)

The news of the death of Col. George L. Perkins, treasurer of the Norwich & Worcester division of the New York & New England railroad, at the Fort Griswold house in Groton, where he was spending his vacation, was received with expressions of regret.

The celebration of the centenary anniversary of his birth on August 6th, so fresh in the memory of the people, and his remarkable mental and physical vigor, at that time, gave them the faith that Col. Perkins might live for several years, and they felt so confident he would, they almost forgot that "Time like an ever rolling stream,

Bears all its sons away."

He was sick about a week, and died from old age.

Col. Perkins was born in Norwich August 5th, 1788, and spent his whole life here, and his reminiscences of the place would have made a complete history of Norwich for a century. He remembered the memorial services held in this town in 1799 for Gen. Washington, and could recall all the progress and stirring events which have marked the century; he remembered The Packet, the first paper printed here; and was one of the organizers of the first Sunday school.

He experienced a feeble boyhood and youth, and in 1811, when twenty-three years of age, he was carried from Norwich to New London and taken in the arms of his servant aboard a ship bound for Brazil, a wasted and almost helpless consumptive. It was thought by some that the voyage to the tropics might possibly have the effect to check the progress of the disease and add a few years to the young man's life.

"I was gone just twelve months," the colonel often said, referring to his voyage, "and returning, I landed on the Battery at New York on the morning of the day that war was declared against Britain in 1812. And when I stepped ashore, I felt as if I could jump over any tree on the Battery. And I have gone on jumping ever since."

He was appointed paymaster of the army for the Third district, which comprised this state, Rhode Island and a part of Massachusetts. He was present at the bombardment of Stonington. For his services in that war he drew a yearly pension of $96. By an act of congress a few years ago providing back pensions for all veterans of 1812 the colonel received about $900 at once.

With respect to this period of life the Rev. L. W. Bacon wrote:—

"With all his treasures of reminiscences of those days, full of bright and humorous strokes, I doubt if any man ever heard Col. Perkins boast of his patriotic services, and no one ever accused him of pension grabbing. But the sturdiest pension reformer of us all never thought of grudging the veteran the added comfort of his old age when some of his friends, without suggestion from him, filed a claim in his behalf, which brought him a monthly allowance and a comfortable accumulation of arrearages, which he had never thought of applying for himself, recognition of services rendered three-quarters of a century ago."

Col. Perkins was one of the original incorporators of what is now the Norwich & Worcester road, but which was incorporated as the Boston, Norwich and New London railroad. The road was incorporated in 1835 by a number of gentlemen who saw the necessity of such a road and who thought it would greatly advance the interests of the town, and at the same time prove a paying investment.

He was one of the directors of the road for many years, and it was mainly to his efforts that the road secured a loan of $600,000 from the state of Massachusetts. This was the first loan ever made by the state to a railroad company. It was secured in 1837, and was to be repaid in twenty years. The road made no provision for a sinking fund to meet this debt and so they had to get a renewal of their obligation. This was done in 1854, and this renewal of the loan was the last loan ever made by the state, and due in great measure to the colonel's labors and his personal influence with the prominent men of Massachusetts. In 1877 the road paid its obligation to the state and wiped out the debt of forty years' standing.

The road was open to travel in 1840, and has been successful ever since its opening. Col. Perkins has been its treasurer for half a century, and has made a record as an accountant both for integrity and accuracy, which is a model for any man to follow.

Col. Perkins cast his first vote for James Madison during his second candidacy, and has cast a vote in every presidential election since. He was a stalwart republican, and of late years has been the first man to cast a vote at state and presidential elections in this town. He was a protectionist, believed in republican principles, and had he lived would have voted for Harrison and Morton in November.

He was a veteran fireman and soldier, and at the last annual convention of the State Firemen's Benevolent association, held in this city on August 6th, was made an honorary member of that organization.

Col. Perkins was a member of Park Congregational church and one of its organizers and always took a lively interest in its affairs.

He was also an honorary member of the Arcanum club, and they gave him a centenary reception in their spacious and pleasant club house on August 6th.

Few men are blessed with such faculties and powers as he possessed, such antitude, such vivacity, such ease of manner and entertaining address, such a spirit of youth to baffle the infirmities of age. He was a wonder physically and mentally, and was esteemed by the people of Norwich for the sterling qualities which adorned his remarkable life; and they will sincerely mourn his loss.

Col. Perkins' age was just one hundred years and one month.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

Simon Bolivar.

"When Colonel Lindbergh placed a wreath on the tomb of Simon Bolivar in Caracas, recently, he was paying homage not only to a great son of Venezuela, but also to the cherished hero of four other South American countries," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Bolivar has been called by North Americans 'the George Washington of South America'; but to his own people he is 'the Liberator.' It was under his leadership, between 1811 and 1824, that the Spanish forces were pushed out of northern South America and independence attained. The present countries of Venezuela Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia all owe their existence to the liberating armies of Bolivar. Bolivia, at first 'Alto Peru,' showed showed her gratitude by taking the name of her deliverer.

"Bolivar was born to wealth and position in Venezuela and was educated among sons of nobles in Spain; but he kept his early passion for the independence of his country and gave up all privileges and comforts to carry on the fight. He did not find the struggle easy. Time and again Spain imported huge armies, and defeated the revolutionaries, he had to flee for his life. In 1815 he went to Jamaica, spending his time writing in the cause of Venezulean independence. Later he went to Haiti, and there forming a small expedition, again entered the fight on the mainland, in 1817.

"Bolivar's drive for independence began in Nueva Granada, now Colombia, then swept to his native Venezuela. Alternately he delivered these two countries, only to see them, in the early years of the independence movement, slip back repeatedly under Spanish control.

"From the first Bolivar's aim embraced more than the independence of his native colony; he wanted to see all Spanish America free. In 1819 he found both Venezuela and Nueva Granada in the hands of the indepedents and brought about their combination into a single nation, Colombia. Of this land of his creation he was made 'Liberator-President.'

"In 1822 he turned south, and like Napoleon and Hannibal crossing the Alps, crossed the Andes into Ecuador. There he defeated the Spanish forces, freeing his third colony. The next year he went to Peru, was proclaimed commander, and was again victorious. The battle of Ayacucho, won by Sucre, Bolivar's lieutenant, December 9, 1824 brought to a favorable end the long struggle for independence in Spanish South America. In 1825, the Liberator passed on to La Paz and organized the government of Alto, Peru, now Bolivia. He even considered a movement to free Porto Rico and Cuba.

"At the height of his power after the freeing of the colonies, Bolivar was urged by many to make himself 'Emperor of the Andes'. This suggestion he resolutely put aside. He had often declared that he had no ambition for civil office, that he wanted only the 'jost of danger at the head of soldiers.'

"Strife broke out in all the freed dominions, led by generals jealous of Bolivar. There was even an effort to assassinate him in 1828. Ill, he resigned all civil and military offices in 1830, and retired to Santa Marta, a small Colombian coast town. Toward the end of the year he died, crushed by the ingratitude that had been shown by his lieutenants.

"Death brought a realization of Bolivar's greatness, and the Venezuelan government took his remains reverentially to Carcacas, the capital. There they rest to-day in a handsome mausoleum, which is a national and international shrine."

A Man's Prayer

Let me live, O Mighty Master,
Such a life as men should know,
Tasting triumph and disaster,
Joy—and not too much of woe;
Let me run the gamut over,
Let me fight and love and laugh,
And when I'm beneath the clover
Let this be my epitaph:

Here lies one who took his chances
In life's busy world of men;
Battled fate and circumstances,
Fought and fell, and fought again!
Won sometimes, but did no growing,
Lost sometimes, but didn't wail,
Took his beating, but kept going,
Never let his courage fail.

He was fallible and human,
Therefore loved and understood
Both his fellow-man and woman,
Whether good or not so good.
Kept his spirit undiminished,
Never failed to help a friend,
Played the game till it was finished.
Lived a sportsman to the end.

GEYSER OF WATER FROM MAIN ST. PIPE

For a short time, Thursday a little after the noon hour Main street in front of the Silberman furniture store had a geyser of water spouting from one of the big mains under the street where an excavation had been made to put in a new connection. When the workmen of the department were filling up the hole again and tamping the dirt down, one of them knocked an old tap off the main line pipe, releasing a stream of water that shot high into the air and wet the street down thoroughly before it could be shut off and a new tap attached to the pipe.

Such a rug as is rarely seen in this city, a Kermanshah masterpiece from Persia, is on display at the Gilbert Furniture company store. Valued at $10,000 and made for the home of some high dignitary of the orient, it is a rarely beautiful piece of workmanship and is entitled the "Court of Honor," showing woven into it, 76 figures representing royalty and celebrities in world history. Each is numbered in Arabic figures and there is a reference panel along the side of the rug, also in Arabic, by which the figure can be identified. Some of the most easily distinguished are those of Jesus Christ, Moses, Mohammed, George Washington and Napoleon.

The rug contains 1,000 knots to the square inch, it is stated by Mrs. Stevens, who has it on display, and it probably took 20 years to make it, as it is all hand made. In size it is about five feet by nine feet.

TOWN CLERK'S OFFICE IS TEMPORARILY CLOSED

Ward, assistant town clerk, is acting town clerk until a successor to Mr. Holbrook is named by the board of selectmen. Miss Ward has been assistant in the town clerk's office for some years.

TOWN CLERK HOLBROOK'S SUDDEN DEATH SADDENS ENTIRE COMMUNITY

Charles S. Holbrook, 71, for 25 years town clerk and town treasurer, died suddenly Thursday morning about 8.45 o'clock while sitting in a chair at his office in the court house. News of his unexpected death came as a distinct shock to the entire community. Mr. Holbrook had opened his office at the usual hour, and was alone there before the others of his office force had arrived. Shortly afterwards Tax Collector Harold T. Robinson, who occupies an adjacent office saw Mr. Holbrook sitting in the chair and noticed that he was very pale. Mr. Robinson spoke to Mr. Holbrook and, receiving no reply, immediately summoned Dr. A. C. Freeman who arrived just as Mr. Holbrook died. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve was summoned and pronounced death due to acute dilation of the heart.

Although Mr. Hoolbrook had been in ill health for several years past, his condition was not considered at all alarming by his many friends. In spite of his ill health Mr. Holbrook continued to carry on the duties of his office. However, during the past few weeks, he had been obliged to remain at home for several days at a time.

News of Mr. Holbrook's sudden passing spread rapidly about the town, bringing forth expressions of profound regret from his friends, who were legion. Ever of a courteous, kindly and obliging nature, Mr. Holbrook was universally liked and very highly respected by all who knew him. For years he was a familiar figure at town meetings of which he kept complete and accurate records.

Charles Shepard Holbrook was born in Norwich on October 28, 1856. He attended the public schools of Norwich and the Norwich Free Academy, acquiring a practical education which prepared him for his subsequent career. Deciding on a mercantile career as his chosen life work, he became an employe of the firm of Lee and Osgood, druggists, of this city. He learned the business thoroughly and was employed by them as druggist for about 25 years.

In 1900 he was the choice of his fellow-citizens for the office of town clerk and treasurer, being elected on the republican ticket. He served continuously from that time until his death, being elected every two years, his name appearing on both the republican and democratic tickets. His nomination on both tickets was equivalent to election.

Mr. Holbrook was ever progressive in his ideas, adopting new measures when necessary and was considered the right man for the office he held. He was a member of the United Congregational church and a member of the Arcanum club.

In Norwich, June 15, 1892, Mr. Holbrook was united in marriage with Miss Ella P. Plummer, daughter of Frank J., and Josephine Wyman Plummer. Their home for several years past has been at 142 Broad street. Mr. Holbrook was a man of enterprise and public spirit, exemplifying in his career the characteristics of his ancestors, traits that go to the making of a splendid citizen.

CHARLES S. HOLBROOK

His ancestors were among the pioneer settlers of New England, the first of the family in this county coming to New England with the colony of settlers from Weymouth, Dorsetshire, England, in 1624, and settling at Weymouth, Mass.

Mr. Holbrook was the son of Supply Twkng Holbrook, a native of Roxbury, Mass., and for many years judge of probate in the Norwich district. In addition to holding membership in the Arcanum club, where he was for many years a prominent and active member, Mr. Holbrook was a director of the Norwich Cemetery association, a trustee of the United Congregational church, treasurer of the church building fund and a member of the Norwich chamber of commerce.

Surviving are his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Frederick Metzger, of Palmyra, N. J., a granddaughter, Eleanor Metzger, his step-mother, Mrs. Carrie S. Holbrook, of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. Elwood Tewksbury, of Shanghai, China, Mrs. Benjamin P. Sands, Brookline, Mass., and Mrs. Robert France of New Haven.

In respect to his memory the flag on the courthouse was at half-mast Thursday and will remain at half-mast until after the funeral and the town clerk's office has been closed temporarily.

Mr. Holbrook's anchestry ran back to the earliest colonial times in Massachusetts, the first of the name being Thomas Holbrook, who came to New England in 1624 and was a resident of Weymouth, Mass. Town Clerk Holbrook, who was a resident of Bellingham, Mass., was a soldier in the Revolutionary war. Mr. Holbrook's father, Supply Twyng Holbrook, was born in Roxbury, Mass., Sept. 7, 1822, and came to Norwich about 1844. He studied law in the office of Hon. Jeremiah Halsey, was admitted to the bar in 1856, and for twelve consecutive terms was elected judge of probate in the Norwich district.

STATE'S HIGHWAY PLAN MOST EXTENSIVE EVER

Connecticut's highway program for its fiscal year ending June 30, 1928 is the most expansive ever undertaken in one year in the history of the state, according to figures announced by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. At the present time, the department has completed or has under contract the building of 128.2 miles of road and plans another large letting during the month of March This latter letting is expected to aggregate close to 20 miles of road work which will bring the total highway program for the fiscal year to practically 150 miles.

In addition to a record program for the year of 1927-1928, the highway department established another unique record during the first seven weeks of the current calendar year. During this brief space of time, it accepted and made final payments upon 48.2 miles of roads and upon two dangerous trunk line eliminations and two bridge building projects.

During the first six months of the fiscal year, beginning last July 1, and ending December 31, 1927, the department accepted and made final payments to contractors upon 66.4 miles of highway and completed 18 bridges and one dangerous trunk line elimination.

At the present time, there are 38.3 miles of construction and reconstruction work and 13 bridge construction jobs still to be completed on unfinished contracts, while contracts awarded in November, December and January include the construction and reconstruction of 34 sections of highway totaling 89.9 miles and the building of four bridges and one bulkhead. Recapitulated the total work under contract at present is 128.2 miles of highway construction and reconstruction and the building of 17 bridges.

In addition to engaging in the most extensive road programs ever entered into by the state of Connecticut, the highway department during the current fiscal year has also expanded the scope of its work in other activities. The highway beautification program started a year ago is progressing rapidly. Extensive work has been undertaken in clearing dead brush from the highway shoulders with a view of preventing the outbreak of forest fires. Along chemical lines, the department through its laboratory at Portland has discovered and will put into use this spring a new formula for mixing concrete which will greatly increase the time of hardening and will permit the opening of new pavements much sooner than formerly. Ferry service across the Connecticut river has been improved by the launching of two new boats. The program of state aid construction is one of the most ambitious the state has ever seen, all but seven towns in the state making application to the department for appropriations and many of them taking advantage of Commissioner Macdonald's offer of assistance in engineering and in the rental of road building machinery.

GAVE FRANKLIN COUNCIL GOOD INSPECTION MARK

Refreshments were served after the meeting at which there was a very large attendance. Richard P. Gregson, T. I. master was in the chair.

STATE'S MAINTENANCE COST $15.71 PER CAPITA

Operations and maintenance of the state of Connecticut cost $15.71 for each person in the state during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1927, according to figures compiled from the comptroller's report for 1927. Total expenditures during the period amounted to $30,671,858, of which $26,021,787 was for current operation of the state departments and institutions and maintenance of highways. The per capita cost was based on an estimated population in Connecticut of 1,656,000.

The per capita cost in 1927 showed an increase of $1.19 over that of the previous fiscal year when total expenditures amounted to $27,966,018. Operation and maintenance in 1926 cost $23,065,301, making the per capita cost $14.52. In 1925, $21,203,642 was spent for operation and maintenance, and the cost for each person was $14.41. The total expenditures in that year was $27,128,312.

Figures given out recently by the United States Department of Commerce, however, gave the operation and maintenance amounting to $19,494,000.

The expenditures upon which the lower per capita cost was based by the federal department were derived from figures supplied by each separate institution in the state and not from figures given by Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon or by Edward F. Hall, state commissioner of finance and control. The expenditures of one or two institutions, if overlooked by the federal canvasser, might make up the difference between the department of commerce figures and those derived from the report of the comptroller, Commissioner Hall said Tuesday.

A comparison of the costs in the 48 states was given in the report sent out by the United States Department of Commerce. With $12.27 listed as its per capita cost, Connecticut ranked nineteenth highest on the list. Nevada was reported to have the largest per capita cost, $27.22, with operation and maintenance amounting to only $2,107,000. Ohio, on the other hand, with expenditure for operation and maintenance of its departments amounting to $39,739,000, was listed as having the smallest cost for each person, $6.08.

In computing the 1925 and 1926 per capita costs for Connecticut from the comptroller's report, the estimated population used was the same as that used by the federal department in its statement. The 1927 cost was based on the population as estimated from the increase the previous year.

The federal per capita costs were based on an estimated population in Connecticut of 1,520,000, in 1925, and 1,588,000 in 1926. At the same rate of increase there would have been during the fiscal year of 1927 a population of 1,656,000.

Total expenditures for the state during the 1926-27 fiscal year, according to the comptroller's report, amounted to $30,671,858, including capital outlay and operation and maintenance costs. Capital expenditures, including land, buildings, roads and equipment, totalled $4,650,071, a decrease of $250,644 from the corresponding expenditure in 1926.

Operation and maintenance increased almost $3,000,000. The state highway department, spent $2,263,605 more for maintenance of roads than it did in 1926. The board of education used $222,435 more than the previous year, and the general assembly, which cost but $15,939 in 1926, cost $264,231 in 1927. Many other smaller increases, and a few decreases were seen in the operation and maintenance comparison.

The general assembly in 1925 appropriated $31,384,453 as a maintenance for two fiscal years, making $15,692,227 available for each year of the biennium ending June 30, 1927.

CONNECTICUT DEATH RATE WAS LOW LAST YEAR

The year 1927 in Connecticut was a year of outstanding achievement in vital statistics insofar as death rates are concerned, says the state department of health. The general death rate was 10.6 per 1,000 of the population. Compare this with the previous low record of 11.3 in 1924. And it must be remembered that tenths of a point in a death rate are very important. For death rates are based on populations estimated in units of 1,000. As the population estimate changes each year it is a little awkward to compare the effect of tenths of the rate in a year some years previous with the present. In the Connecticut population of 1927 one-tenth of a point in death rate means 159 deaths.

In the last five years, the average general death rate has been 11.46 and there has been a downward trend of 0.25 per year. The general death rate is not the best index of general health conditions. It must be corrected for residence and age distribution of the population. However, as a hurried estimate it is useful, if with limitations. And incidentally the trend of the rate, even in the short period of five years, appears to be significant.

The infant mortality at 58.8 deaths of children under one year of age among 1,000 living births is a record low. In five years the trend is downward at the rate of 3.16 per year. The death rate of 1.1 per 100,000 population for typhoid fever is also a record low. It is not so long ago that typhoid fever was a serious menace. Now it is negligible; yet only constant vigilance will keep it low. The new treatment for scarlet fever by antitoxin is evidently bringing results. The rate of 1.4 per 100,000 is also a record low, though the rate was 1.5 in 1917. This is particularly shown by the fatality rate of 0.7 per cent This is a reduction of a third in the fatality of the disease and means, hereafter that deaths per every 100 cases of scarlet fever will be a third less.

To continue enumerating records, the rate of 2.5 for whooping cough is another. There was a slight increase in the diphtheria rate, the rate being 5.9. In 1926 the rate of 5.3 is the record low. The death rate from influenza is erratic. The rate of 18.8 is relatively low. But there has been no significant trend, upward or downward. All forms of tuberculosis produced a death rate of 66.8, another low record.

In 1885 the death rate from this group was 244.0, which will give some idea of the reduction in rate. The whole tuberculosis group has a downward trend of 3.83 per year. Both trends are dependable, but the pulmonary trend is the more so. It would seem as if pneumonia would exhibit a trend downward, but such is not the case. Despite the low rate of 1927 and the high rate in 1923, the trend is not reliable. Pneumonia is still a problem, despite the fact that rate of 84.8 per 100,000 population is a record low death rate since 1885.

Another record low rate is the rate for diarrhoea and enteritis under two years of age. The trend is downward at the rate of 2.40 per year.

The total number of deaths, 16,756, includes the deaths of 307 residents of other states. Deducting these the corrected death rate is 10.4. The year was indeed a year of records.

"In the campaign for funds to modernize the X-ray department at the Backus hospital, which the Woman's auxiliary has undertaken, the workers will doubtless be asked as to the necessity for changes proposed.

"In detail the situation is this, the present location of the equipment is in the basement at a point some distance from the only elevator which reaches that level, the room is small, has a very low ceiling, is poorly ventilated and due to large steam pipes which pass through it has a temperature that is not only distressing to a sick or injured person but has a deleterious effect on sensitive films and chemicals. The present equipment will be useful for a number of years but several accessories are urgently needed to make the outfit complete.

"In rooms designed for the purpose the department can not only take care of the X-ray work for diagnostic purposes but will also be available for X-ray therapy. The Backus hospital is your hospital and mine and should have the benefit of modern ideas."

ALLEGED HOME BREW IS SEIZED NEAR SUB BASE

Raiding the house of Osmon Smith, near the submarine base, Groton, Wednesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, State Police Sergeant Henry J. Albright and Officers Arthur Whitmarsh and Peter Busch of the Groton barracks, seized a large quantity of home brew beer of allegedly high alcoholic content and arrested Smith charged with violation of the liquor law. He was locked up in Groton in default of bonds of $1,000 pending arraignment in the town court.

Smith is alleged by the state police to have been catering to a large sailor trade, and his home has been under surveillance for some time.

PROBATION OFFICERS OF STATE HELD CONFERENCE

Problems and experiences of probation officers of the state were discussed at a quarterly meeting which was held here Thursday in the common pleas court room, and attended by probation officers from all parts of the state. The morning session opened at 11 o'clock with an attendance of about 50 and was devoted to routine business. Miss Anna O'Brien, the president, was in charge of the meeting. The next quarterly meeting will be held in New Haven on June 14.

After dinner at the Wauregan hotel, the afternoon session was held with a round table discussion on "Co-Operation Between Probation Officers and Other Social Workers." The topic was presented by Edward C. Connelly, probation officer of the police and city court of New Britain. A discussion was held relative to the state conference of social workers and others, which is to be held at Stamford, April 23.

RELEASED AFTER SERVING PART OF JAIL SENTENCE

Two Norwich men, John Filburn, Jr., 24, and Peter Gaganis, who were given jail sentences in the January criminal term of the superior court, were released from the jail in this city Wednesday upon orders signed by Judge Arthur F. Ells. Each had served about 60 days of a six months sentence.

Gaganis pleaded guilty on Jan. 6 to a charge of statutory offense in this city on July 20 last. Gaganis received six months in jail, while the woman escaped with a suspended jail sentence of six months.

Judge Christopher L. Avery was the presiding judge who sent Filburn to jail for six months after the young man had pleaded guilty to being a second offender of operating an auto while under the influence of liquor. Filburn was arrested the second time near the scene of the fatal accident at Mohegan on the morning of Dec. 11, 1927.

MARCH'S LION WEATHER CUTS EGG PRODUCTION

March came in like the proverbial lion in this section of the country, and as a result egg production suffered in the Storrs contest flock. Bitterly cold winds and lowered temperatures were primarily responsible for the slight reduction in output during the 18th week. The 1,490 pullets in the contest laid 5,392 eggs or at a rate of exactly 55 per cent. This is 151 eggs less than the score for the previous seven-day period, but 132 eggs more than the score for the corresponding week a year ago. Up to last Monday night a grand total of 85,702 eggs had been produced. This is an average of 612 eggs for each of the 140 competing entries or 61 eggs per bird. In 18 weeks this year's contest has gained 9,335 eggs over a similar period of time in the 16th competition.

To the Broadview Farm White Leghorns from Winsted, goes the honor of being the first entry in the present trial to pass the 1,000-egg mark, which these birds exceeded during the past week by a 12-egg margin. Never before in the 16 previous Storrs contests has any entry laid 1,000 eggs in 18 weeks. In last year's trial, 20 weeks elapsed before that score was attained. The Broadview entry has held undisputed possession of first place in the contest ever since the second week, or in other words they have led the entire field for 17 consecutive weeks.

The Charlescote Farm Rhode Island Reds from Sherborn, Mass., are continuing the rally started six weeks ago, and it now appears that they are about ready to give the Broadview White Leghorns a spirited argument for the first-place position. In laying 61 eggs to head the honor roll for the sixth consecutive week, the Charlescote birds gained 23 eggs on Broadview in seven days. Up to last Monday night these Red pullets from Massachusetts had set up a total production of 976 eggs, which is only 36 eggs less than the 1,012-egg score of Broadview. At this rate of gain, which may or may not be continued, Charlescote will wrest the lead from Broadview in another two weeks. If the Reds are able to maintain the pace that has elevated them to their present position, Broadview must rally, and soon, to retain the lead. Viewed from any angle, it looks like keener competition in the future.

Following the Charlescote entry to take second place on the week's honor roll was the White Leghorn team of Hollywood Poultry Farm from Woodinville, Wash., with a score of 59 eggs. Another pen of the same breed, entered by George Lowry from West Willington, Conn., was third with a score of 56 eggs, and still another entry owned by Hanson's Leghorn Farm from Corvallis, Ore., placed fourth with a 55-egg score.

Well! whiter than ever

Yet I didn't scrub—didn't boil

IT'S marvelous what a change of laundry soap can do. I'm mighty glad my grocer got me to try Rinso.

Why, Rinso actually soaks out the dirt and stains! There's no hard work for me at all. Even the most soiled things come from the soaking nice and white.

I don't even bother about boiling any more—Rinso cleans and whitens so wonderfully without boiling. I never knew that soap alone could do so much, not until I tried Rinso! It saves the clothes—and my hands, too.

And what I like about this safe granulated soap is that a very little of it makes a tubful of thick, creamy suds. Real suds that make the water soft and soapy all through.

Why don't you ask your grocer for

Rinso

The granulated soap that soaks clothes whiter.

TAFTVILLE-DANIELSON CLASH IN THIRD GAME TONIGHT AT PLAINFIELD

What will no doubt be the banner event of the season in basketball circles will take place tonight at the Community House at Plainfield when the indomitable Taftville Crescents stack up against the fast Danielson Town team. According to all reports the bitter feeling between the two has not subsided since the first of their series back in 1923. This will be the third and final game of the 1928 series, each team having won a game, and the "rubber" will certainly not be of the rose-throwing variety.

It looks as if there might be several so-called "ringers" sent into the game by both sides, although the managers of both teams after a very heated argument absolutely refused to divulge their lineup. Each says that they will play their regular men, and each manager feels that his regular team is good enough to defeat the other. Manager Burrelle of the Crescents at a conference after the Plainfield-Endee game Wednesday night said that if Manager Cleveland of the Danielson team was to ring in the dark horses he was in a position to get hold of the best men in the game at a moment's notice. The former manager retorted with the remark that if Burrelle felt that way about it he would get outsiders, to which Burrelle came back "Alright go ahead and get your ringers, I'll put a team in there that will take the Original Celtics to beat it." Cleveland answered "That's just the team that I've got, so you are in for a trimming by your own admission." So that is the way it ended. One can draw their own conclusions.

MONDI NORMANDIN
Flashy Taftville Forward

The question of whom would referee was also finally thrashed out during the early hours of the morning. Each manager had their favorite and only the flip of the coin settled the deadlock.

It is understood that McCormick of Worcester who refereed last year's final game between the two teams was drawn for the honors.

There certainly is plenty of animosity between the clubs and the fans are bound to see a great game between two fast clubs whether the regular lineup goes in or all the "ringers" that they threaten to inject.

Belanger Signs With Hillies

PITTSFIELD, Mass., March 8.—(AP)—Jerry Belanger, veteran first baseman, today came to terms with the Pittsfield Eastern league ball club. TABERSKI AND RUDOLPH IN TIE AT CHI BILLIARDS

CHICAGO, March 8—(AP)—Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., national pocket billiard champion, two former titleholders and a veteran tournament player tonight were deadlocked for leadership in the current national tournament. Each had won two games.

Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, former champion, advanced to even terms with the other three leaders today when he defeated Harry Wood, of Duluth, 125 to 47. Rudolph ran out in 15 innings. He had a high run of 37, scratched once and played three safeties. Wood scratched twice, played safe four times and had a high run of ten.

Taberski, Ralph Greenleaf, of Philadelphia, former titleholder, and Pasquale Natalie, of Baltimore, the other three leaders, were idle today.

Onofrio Lauri, New York state champion, showed a reversal of form today to defeat Harry Cswald, of Pittsburgh, in the shortest game of the tournament. Lauri ran 125 in seven innings, while the best Oswald could do was gather 13 points. The New York champion's best run was 68 in the sixth inning. It was the second high run of the tournament, Rudolph having run 80 in his first game.

Lauri's victory put him in second place, below the four leaders, with two victories and one defeat. Peter Durocher, of Chicago, has broken even in his two matches while Wood has dropped two of his three contests.

ROVERS SWAMP KAPPAS AT FITCHVILLE, 54 TO 15

The Fitchville Rovers came out far ahead of the Kappas club Thursday night at Fitchville, winning 54 to 15. The winners showed the team work throughout and this, coupled with the advantage of the small court, afforded them but little trouble in outpointing the local five. At half time the Rovers had a 27-5 lead.

Tolson and Homack led in scoring with 17 points while Kozersky was not far behind with 14 points. Archibald led the losers with seven points.

LANDIS ORDERS GRAYS TO PAY DONOVAN $2,020

CHICAGO, March 8—(AP)—The Providence club in the Eastern league today was ordered by Commissioner K. M. Landis to pay P. J. Donovan, former manager, back salary amounting to $2,020.

The case grew out of a refusal by the new owners to pay Donovan, who was released prior to the sale of the club by A. H. Powell last summer. Donovan contended that his contract was binding for the season. Owners said the contract upon which the claim was based was made by Powell individually, and not by the club.

Donovan appealed the decision to the arbitration board of the National Basebal association.

lion's share of honors judging from the size of the entry list sent down from the village last night. Jack Potts, faithful trainer of the Jewett City outfit is scraping together all available strength in the hopes of representing the home town in good fashion.

Benny Salinski, one of the mill town aces failed to find a place on the February 24 card because of the lack of a suitable opponent. He was introduced from the ring at the time and an announcement was made that he surely would be matched for the next show. Equally as popular locally as he is in Jewett City, Benny will have plenty of support when he climbs through the ropes next week. Bontempo, another big favorite who lost a tough decision two weeks ago will also have a big following rooting for him Tuesday.

ACADEMY TRIMS PLAINFIELD HIGH IN EASY FASHION BY SCORE OF 32 TO 13

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, March 8.—Norwich Free Academy had an easy time with Plainfield High tonight at the Community house, winning 32 to 13 in a one-sided contest before a large crowd. The Rose of New England boys inflicted just about the same measure of defeat tonight on Plainfield as they did in the first game at Norwich in January.

Joe Viau, rugged center, led the visitors' attack with 14 points on six baskets and two fouls, besides playing a bang-up good game. Henschel, substitute center, was second in scoring for the winners with six points while the rest of the points were about evenly divided among the players.

E. Davignon scored six points for the losers, which, incidentally, was very nearly half the home team's total.

Nineteen players were used in the game, Norwich employing ten while the local coach sent nine into the fray.

At half time the Norwich team had a 19 to 2 lead but Plainfield improved a bit in the second quarter so that this wide margin was not continued.

In the preliminary the Plainfield Buddies scored a 39 to 29 victory over the Putnam Black and White Collegians. Summary:

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Experts in pugilism generally agree that the first and most important blow in boxing is the straight left, which is the punch that formed the backbone of the old English style of fighting.

With a total of 2,410 dogs on display the 52d annual show of the Westminster Kennel club just held in New York proved to be the greatest exhibition of blue-blooded canines ever held in America.

The spirited fight which Allen Hall has made against the veteran Willie Hoppe for first place in the American Three-Cushion Billiard league has stamped the youthful St. Louis player as a cueist of the first rank.

Many notables of the track world attended the dinner at the Knights of Columbus club hotel. They included Daniel J. Ferris, secretary and treasurer of the National A. A. U., Alan Helfrich of Penn State, former intercollegiate champion, Falt (Chief) Elkins, National Decatholon champion, and Roland Locke, the Nebraska Flyer.

The Academy meets Rockville High tonight at the Y gym. It is their first clash in basketball and it is scheduled to bring together two evenly matched quintets.

Rothe Star For Rockville.

Neither team has had a remarkable season. Rockville has lost to Windham twice, although one of the games is now riding under protest, and lost to Weaver of Hartford twice but against the latter school she put up a great battle in the first game at Hartford before succumbing. Rothe, forward, is the visitors main threat. He scored 15 points at Windham on Wednesday, where three guards, Tinker, Dillon and Winkinson opposed him.

Both teams expect to use their strongest lineups. Although it is expected that Les Pingree will start at center with Joe Viau at a forward it may be that this order will be just reversed, especially after Viau's fine showing last night in Plainfield.

Two Preliminaries.

In the preliminary the Fat Men and Lightweights of the Senior class will meet in the deciding tilt of their series. A church league game is also scheduled for the evening, starting at 7.30 with the second game at 8 and the main game at 9 p. m.

THIN MEN ARE VERY CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

Sports Editor,
Norwich Bulletin.

Dear Sir: In regard to the game between the Fat and Thin Men at the "Y" tonight I wish to state that I will use my regular lineup regardless of whom the Fat Men use.

As usual the Fat Men are coming out with alibies concerning various members of the team but which are in our estimation false. "Chick" Stanley at a late hour last night stated that he was in perfect condition. Gus Mullen also was waiting for the starting whistle.

This battle will be the battle of the era because it will be an example of Brain vs. Brawn.

The Thin Men are confident of winning this game because of previous encounters. We have no alibies to offer like our heavier opponents so if we are defeated it will be by a better team.

If the Fat Men are desirous of another series I shall be glad to play them for fun.

Our lineup will probably be: Adnopes lf, A. Grebe rf, Chet Birdsey c, Barber lg, Jim Falcone rg, Goldstein and Blinderman subs.

Yours in sport,
JOHN MURPHY,
Manager of Thin Men.

SKATING ORGANIZATIONS OF A. A. U. SETTLE FIGHT

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP)—The prolonged fight between two rival skating organizations for recognition by the Amateur Athletic union was settled definitely today in favor of the new amateur skating union of the United States, the headquarters of which are in Boston.

The board of governors of the A. A. U., decided the issue by voting, 71 to 19, to uphold the opinion of its legislative committee chairman, Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney, in favor of the amateur skating union. Judge Mahoney's opinion supported the action of the A. A. S. U., in dissolving the International Skating Union of America, the former controlling body in the sport, at a meeting in Boston last November.

CANADIANS WIN OVER N. Y. RANGERS

MONTREAL, Que., March 8.—(AP)—Flashing their early season stride, the Montreal Canadiens tonight triumphed over the New York Rangers by 4 to 3. It was the second defeat on Montreal ice within three days for the Rangers and seriously impaired their chances of finishing on top of the heap in the American group of the National Hockey league.

DISALLOWS CLAIM MADE BY RESTAURANT WORKER

Filing to sustain the burden of proof of injury arising out of and in the course of his employment as the cause of his claimed disability, Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey, in a finding handed down, dismisses the claim for compensation made by Peter Manes, of 54 North Main street, this city, against the Mohegan restaurant of 271 Main street, this city. Finding has been filed with Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court.

The commissioner finds that Manes had been employed for about a year as head chef at the Mohegan restaurant. While the claimant, Manes, was lifting a kettle of soup weighing about 50 pounds from the range and placing it on the floor, he was taken with severe pains and was unable to continue at his work, according to his claim. This occurred on New Year's day.

Manes received medical attention from Dr. William B. Casey for several weeks. At the hearing before Commissioner Bailey, it was found from the medical evidence introduced, according to the finding, in which both sides are found to agree, that the claimant's disability was in no way traceable to or attributable to claimant's employment or any conditions under which his work was performed.

STANLEY CO. TO ENTER THE PRODUCTION FIELD

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—Announcement that the Stanley company of America will immediately enter the production field was made today by Irving Rossheim, president of the company.

Through a newly established department the company will engage, direct and produce all stage entertainments for the many theatres on its circuit, releasing one unit weekly, built on modern revue lines, with an average cast of 25 entertainers, including a chorus of eight. In addition a stage band policy will be instituted in each of the houses in which the miniature revue will appear, the musical organization remaining permanently in each theatre.

A master of ceremonies also will be engaged to direct the performance of each house. For the present time Mr. Rossheim has selected eight theatres in which to introduce the new amusement policy. These include the Strand, New York; Strand, Brooklyn, Branford, Newark; Stanley, Philadelphia; Stanley, Baltimore; Stanley, Pittsburgh; Stanley, Jersey City and the Earle in Washington

INFANT RESUSCITATED BY SCIENTIFIC APPARATUS

BOSTON, March 8—(AP)—An infant born tonight apparently lacking life was made to breathe and restored to healthy normal condition by the use of a new scientific resuscitating apparatus at the Evangeline Booth hospital here. The child, which for more than half an hour was still-born will live, hospital authorities said.

Dr. Nathan Mason, one of the members of the hospital "courtesy staff" officiated at the birth. The baby entered the world apparently without even a spark of life and every known method of resuscitation was tried without affect for half an hour. Dr. Mason then telephoned the fire department to rush a newly acquired emergency device, known as an inhalator to the hospital.

MILLER HUGGINS
Manager World's Champion Yankees

NEWTON, ENGLISHMAN, LEADS IN RACE

MOJAVE WELLS, Calif., March 8—(AP)—The blistering sun and chill winds of the Mojave desert were surmounted with ease today by 44-year-old Arthur Newton, 100-mile running champion of England, to win the fifth lap of 31 miles in the coast-to-coast Marathon in four hours and 48 minutes. His successful battle with wind and sun also put the sinewy runner in first place for total elapsed time in covering the 165 miles rolled off in the five days.

The lanky British runner crossed the finish line into this desert water camp far in the lead of the field of 135 runners and walkers who withstood a fierce sun in their trek into the wilds of the cactus-lined desert country.

Miles of bleak desert still are in the path to be pedalled by the pack between Barstow and Needles, a four-day journey by foot, in their quest for the $48,500 in prizes hung up by C. C. Pyle for the first to reach New York.

To the blare of a brass band, the contestants left Barstow at 8:55 a. m., with Newton forging to lead at about the half-way mark. At that point he passed Earl Dilks, Newcastle, Pa., who was setting the pace.

Dilks Half Hour Behind

Dilks, despite the fast pace he set at the start, finished nearly a half hour after the veteran Newton, to take second place. The Pennsylvanian covered the 32-mile stretch in five hours, 13 minutes and 50 seconds. Olle Wantinen, small Finnish flyer, was third.

Newton, in taking the lead in elapsed time, had a total of 24 hours, 28 minutes and 30 seconds. Wantinen, who led at the end of yesterday's leg in running time since shoving off from Los Angeles, was next to Newton at the finish of today's grind with a total of 24:32:37. Dilks' elapsed time was 27:33:50.

Ninety-six-pound Wantinen bounded over the rocky and dust-covered trail to check in with a time of 6:16:55.

Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, England, came in fourth, having made the trip in 5:33:30, and brought his elapsed time to 28:42:25. Louis J. Perrella, of Albany, N. Y., and Andrew Payne, of Claremore, Okla., came into the control station almost stride for stride. Perella came in fifth, his time being 5:41:50, while Payne, given sixth position, required a second more. The Albany plodder's total elapsed time was 34:15:15 and Payne's 26:42:42.

Arme Souminen, another Finnish contestant, required five hours and 52 minutes for the stretch, for an elapsed time of 27:01:20.

Age won from youth when the veteran Charles Hay, 63 year old English runner, plugged along unceasingly to take 37th place from Ted Josepha, Young Los Angeles Negro, Josephs is the youngest contestant.

Quamawahu Returns

The gravel dester road was welcome to the sore feet of Nicolas Quamawahu, Hopi Indian. When he hit the native dirt he stopped lagging and broke into a run and passed many contestants. He developed trouble with feet and ankles yesterday and early this morning was taken back in an automobile to cover 14 miles west of Barstow which he had been unable to finish last night. The Indian made up the 14 miles in a walk, plodded another ten on pavement, and then with a grin hit his native heath with a lope that carried him rapidly ahead of other runners. He finished in far better condition than yesterday.

The burning sun beat down from a cloudless sky upon the heads and backs of the trailing caravan, strung out for 20 miles. When Newton loped into Mojave Wells some of the tail enders were nearly 20 miles out. The weary ones trickled in to the haven of food, water and rest as evening saw the sands of the desert grow cold.

Jack Cronick, Saskatoo, Sask, finished eighth into Mojave Wells and he was followed in order by Paul A. Smith, Gates, Org., William Busch, Boston; Jack Phillipson, Denver; Dwight Houfstater, Manistee, Mich.; Philip Granville, Hamilton, Ont.; Teofocio C. Rivers, Manila; Fred Kamler, Miami, Fla.; Mike Joyce, Cleveland, Ohio.

Eli Gardner, Seattle Negro, who won yesterday's 33 mile lap from Victoryville to Barstow, finished late, but held fourth place on the basis of elapsed time.

'BOUT SPORTS

Chet Nichols is finding the road to a berth with the Giants none too flowery. He has been hit rather hard on practically all his starts so far but, like the Athletics' bad defeat from the Baltimore Orioles yesterday, happenings this early in the season are not taken seriously.

The Windham-Rockville tangle apparently, now is not so tangled as first pictured. Instead of a protest being made by Rockville, it now appears that the Rockville authorities have only forwarded a query to the state interscholastic council as to the exact interpretation of "that playing with outside teams" rule. Whether the Alumni game is to be regarded as one of scholastic proportions seems to be the question to be settled for Heller and Nichols did not play with the All-Hellers before Windham's first game with another high school. Nichols played with the Plainfield Pros, it is true but while he was doing that, it is said that he was ineligible because of local scholastic difficulties and consequently that would not enter into the case. At least that is the explanation made by Willimantic fans about Nichols' playing with the Plainfield team.

Interscholastic Sports

Henchel is back with the Academy squad, now leaving a full stock of centers for the Academy for their remaining games.

THE INDEPENDENCE OF OTHER DAYS.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

We farmers are no longer "The people," nor even the controlling majority of the people. We are just one of the numerous working classes. We may be yet the biggest single one, but the others bunched together, vastly outnumber us.

And we're decreasing in count, every year. We were of less importance last year than the year before, and are of still less, this year. That is, of less importance as regards numbers.

The farm population of the United States is officially reported as about a million and a quarter less, this year than three years ago. It is three millions and half less than eight years ago—in 1920. At the same time the non-farming population is increasing rapidly.

Whereas that farm population was set down as 31,000,000 in 192[illegible] it is now figured at 27,669,000. It's 293,000 less than it was a year ago. Yet the total population of the country is up above the 115,000,000 mark and still rising.

It's a simple question in ratio. As 27,000,000 are to 115,000,000 so are the farmers of the land, numerically considered, to the non-farmers. Not quite one to four, I think you'll find.

We've been accustomed so long to hearing that we're the bone and sinew and hearts and brains of the country,—from gentlemen who want our votes and think a good way of getting them is to tickle our vanity,—that it might do some of us good to stop a few minutes and reflect calmly on our real state as a helpless minority.

It is possible that a really thorough study of the situation might lead to some of us finding we could wear hats several sizes smaller than our unduly swelled heads have accustomed us to.

The farmer undoubtedly is Uncle Sam's eldest son. But he's shrinking while his younger brothers are growing, so that they could already lick the stuffing out of him, any time it came to a showdown.

They outnumber and outweigh us four to one. What they say goes, in the end, and we might as well admit it one time as another. As the advertisement says, "Eventually — Why not now?"

Such recognition might be good policy, regarded solely from the viewpoint of expediency. When either a man or a class has been accustomed to lording it, by reason of his strength, his defeat is all the sorer when some stronger bruiser jumps into the ring and knocks him into his corner for a count of anywhere from ten to two hundred.

The higher the turkey roosts the longer his tumble when something drops him to the ground. The fact that he has been accustomed to taking the topmost branch and to hearing that it is rightfully his, doesn't greatly alter the still more potent fact that, when he gets old and feeble, some younger and stronger bird may jounce him off it.

After occupying for many years the upper seat at the feast, it may not be easy to slip out of it and take one lower down. But, however hard such voluntary abnegation may be, it isn't anything like as humiliating as to have the waiter take one forcibly out of his high place and deposit him at the foot.

We aren't an entirely negligible quantity, of course. There are still more than 27,000,000 of us, casting, when we feel like taking the trouble, some ten million votes, male and female.

But there are almost 90,000,000 "other fellers," having a voting power of pretty near thirty-five million, whenever they choose to use it.

They can simply overwhelm us, drown us out, whenever they firmly decided to do it.

Such being the case, it would seem only the part of prudence for us to leave our big sticks at home and walk softly when we go abroad.

Whatever we may think about the ethical or moral values of universal suffrage, at least we can't forget that, under its application the majority rules. The minority takes its medicine and looks as pleasant as it can.

That's us—that minority.

Instead of our telling the rest of the country where to go and what to do and how to do it, we're liable to have it tell us, any time, just where we can get off.

Away back, centuries ago, the farmers of the then so-called civilized world were just peasants and serfs and clodhoppers. They were the lowest social caste and were treated with the least consideration. They weren't of nearly as much importance to the rulers of states as the deer in the king's parks or the pheasants in the baron's preserves.

Gradually that state of things changed, as true enlightenment spread and real civilization developed. When this particular nation was founded it was by farmers and for farmers. The country was expected and intended to be a great farming empire. And so it was, for a good many decades.

But it isn't any longer. It has become a humming industrial workshop in which manufacturers and trade and commerce are the leading factors, and farming is simply a subsidiary to keep them going—and growing.

The importance of agriculture is admitted. "What should we do," ask the cities on the farms, "without your wheat and corn and potatoes and beef and butter and eggs?"

But those cities are coming to ask another and quite different question of themselves if not directly of us. "What would you farmers do without our ready-made shirts and shoes and our factory-made plows and hoes and our canned goods?"

There's many a farmstead in New England, anyway, where the pile of discorded tin-cans back of the barn's is as big and vastly less useful than the manure-heap in the barn-yard.

Of course, the contents of most of those cans came originally from the farms and gardens.

Yes, but the modern farmer, after producing them, has sold them for about half their worth to the city canning factories, and then bought 'em back at about twice their worth, to save the trouble of conserving their full value to his own uses.

And then he kicks like a mad steer because 'farming don't pay, no more!'.

Show me one farm, today, where all hands combine to do hard work and take much trouble and spend careful thought on how to make themselves self-sustaining and independent, and I'll agree, on one days notice, to show you ten farms where work and trouble and thought are subordinated to the idea of lessening work and saving trouble and minimizing thrifty foresight.

I can remember when practically every forehanded farm in my neighborhood raised its own vegetables and its own fruits and most of its own meats; when the harvest time was one of driving occupation to save for family use the plethora of products from gardens and fields and orchards,—aye, and from wild blackberry and blueberry pastures. Now we, too many of us, buy our tomatoes and our corn in cans and our pickles in jars, let 'dagos' from the cities pick the wild berries, and buy the preserves from city factories.

It's undoubtedly easier to do this than to take care of them ourselves.

It's always easier to let somebody else do the work for us,—always has been and always will be. But it isn't always nor often so profitable nor so well calculated to stimulate agriculture as a vocation.

Prudent and foreseeing housekeepers used to have what they called "emergency shelves," whereon were kept handy supplies to meet unexpected demands arising from whatever source. Now, our "emergency shelves" are at the store and we rely upon it to deliver us what we want, when we want it. And we're "up a stump" when, for any reason, it can't or won't do so.

At the same time, we're seeing the farming industry slump from first to second or third or last place, and some of us are howling ourselves blue in the face because congress doesn't stop it.

Prophet Nathan didn't make himself any more popular with the King David when he looked that unhappy monarch right in the eye and said: "Thou art the man." I don't s'pose this particular scribbler would add a bit to his popularity if he should say right out loud to deposed King Farmer of the United States similiar words.

So he won't say them. But that doesn't prevent him from asking you to take stock of your own conduct and see just to what extent it is responsible for the change which is going on.

There's an old saying that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." Endless work and pains and trouble are the price that must be paid for success in any occupation, whether it be farming or shoemaking or store-keeping or banking. "But that makes life almost drudgery," you say. Well, that's just about what life is. And we can't change it any more than we can change the orbits of Mars or Polaris. "Genius," oracularly said Mr. Edison, "is two per cent. inspiration and ninety-eight per cent. perspiration."

Success is to be reached, not by hunting for the easiest road but for the shortest, no matter how steep and rocky.

If farming is to be saved from impending wreck, it is we farmers who must do the salvaging. Other people are too busy taking care of themselves.

And I still think that most of us farmers are capable of doing the job,—if we would only use our brains as vigorously as we do our lungs.

Blaming the neighbors for their faults isn't really anywhere like as reformatory as mending one's own ways.

THE FARMER.

After Other Remedies Failed, Ends Skin Trouble Quickly This Simple Way.

"You may be interested to know that for about 8 years I was suffering with a skin trouble I called Eczema. It affected me in two different parts of my body. A short time ago I noticed your ad in a newspaper for Peterson's Ointment. I purchased a box. I must add that I have tried almost every known remedy and failed. I will proudly admit that your remedy has proven the best and has not been half used up yet."—Ray O. Nesbet, Augusta, Me.

Other remedies may fail, but the success of Peterson's Ointment is so certain that druggists all over America are glad to recommend it, for eczema, pimples, acne, ulcers and all skin eruptions—35 cents a box—at your druggist.

WESTERLY

NORWICH MAN TESTIFIES IN SUPERIOR COURT HEARING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 8—In Washington county superior court Thursday afternoon, with Judge Sumner hearing civil cases, the court considered the action in book account, Adleson S. Archie vs. Antonio Taskas of Pawcatuck, to collect for clothing purchased from the I. C. Crandall and Co. clothing store. About 4 o'clock, after being out about ten minutes the jury, with Joseph H. Rockwell of North Kingstown foreman, returned a verdict for the plaintiff to recover $451.65 and costs.

A jury was empanneled to try the action at law, J. G. Phelps Stokes vs. Arthur Day and Robert M. Kamm, to recover twice the amount of dynamite alleged as stolen, of the value of about $400.

Witnesses heard before adjournment were State Troopers Corp. James E. Norman and James Nolan and Arthur Randall of Narragansett Pier. George Clendennin of Norwich testified that Kamm came to him in Norwich to ask for a receipt for the dynamite, also for the loan of money as he reported that he was in difficulties in Rhode Island. The fake receipt was denied, also the loan of money.

RUNNER STANTON TRAINED TO NORWICH IN PRACTICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, March 8—Westerly Indian Marathon Runner Chief Horatio Seymour Stanton, who is an entrant in the Shepard Providence-to-Boston run Saturday, next started Thursday on a practice grind from the Westerly station of the New Haven road up the cement drive and out on the country road. Chief Stanton claims that he is the sixth best American long distance runner, with Finnish and Canadian runners left out. He expects to be among the first four to finish the 44-mile Saturday run, who are to go abroad in the team for this year's Olympiads. Friday the Chief is to "lay off"; but last Sunday he claims to have covered the road in a run from Westerly to Norwich to New London and to Westerly in a little over 5 hours, walking on hills but seven times on this 44-mile run.

Three pieces of fire apparatus of the Westerly department responded about 4 p. m. Thursday to an alarm from Box No. 66, High near Pleasant street where a grass fire was blazing high in the rear of property owned by John C. Bentley of Plainfield, N. J., at 145 High street. The fire was reported as started by a small Nagle boy, who set fire to some grass and the wind swept the flame beyond control. A pumper was driven in upon the former right of way of the Ashaway-Westerly electric road and a stream of water from the booster tank kept the blaze from setting fire to a large barn and out-buildings. Shovels and brooms were also used to put out the blaze, which burned over an area reaching from the signal block tower of the N. Y., N. H. and H. railroad to the old Westerly-Ashaway electric roadbed. After the department had returned to the city station a second alarm for a fire on a roof of a house owned by C. F. Sweetland, nearby, which threatened mischief, was turned in from Box No. 46 and the Ahrens-Fox pumper and hose of firemen again responded.

Pawcatuck Lodge No. 69, A. F. and A. M., Russell Hemenway, master, held a stated communication Thursday evening. Degree work was exemplified by the lodge officers.

William B. Gotchmann, member of the committee from the Westerly Players' club having in charge the dramatic production "Seven Keys to Baldpate," recently presented at the United Theater, reported Wednesday evening at the semi-monthly meeting that it was a financial success.

Westerly Cycle club defeated the pool team of Westerly Square and Compass club in the latter's rooms the past week, 163 to 137 balls. The scores:

The Westerly Square and Compass club pool team will play its next match game with the Mistuxet club at their rooms in Stonington. The present standing in the tri-club tournament is: Westerly Square and Compass, 1066; Westerly Cycle club, 991; Mistuxet club, 706.

At the home of Mrs. Eugene Woods, of the Stonington road recently, women from Dunn's Corners, Bradford, Westerly and Stonington gathered to see an exhibit of home-made rugs produced by women of the local home bureau. There were 18 rugs of various kinds exhibited. Some were of the old fashioned drawn-in-variety with floral and geometric designs, others woven and made on hand looms—all replicas of antiques. One rug shown by Mrs. David Shaw was woven 40 years ago by a relative who had made the design also the dyestuffs with which to color the material. This drawn-in rug has been in constant use for 30 years and is in a good state of preservation.

The purpose of the meeting was to have the local demonstration, Mrs. Elizabeth McShane, teach those who have been unable to attend the regular demonstrations how to use the various needles, hooks and knitters in the making of rugs.

Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church of Westerly, was the Lenten preacher at Trinity Episcopal church Norwich Wednesday evening.

Workmen have completed setting plate glass in the show window of the recently built Chester building on Railroad avenue, also the prismatic transom light glass above doors and windows, as well as finishing the copper work.

It is expected that the steel workers on the frame to the new fire station on Union street will have their riveting completed so that by the middle of next week the granite water table course can be started, also the erection of the brick side walls.

Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church Westerly, Thursday evening gave the Lenten address for Rev. Ernest P. S. Spencer, formerly of Waterbury, now rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church in Mystic.

At the Thursday meeting in Providence of the Rhode Island Highways association, Highway Engineer A. L. Leon, of Westerly, president, among those attending from Westerly were Council President Horace E. Burdick and Councilman Joseph Fraser and Highway Commissioners Elihu Chesebrough and C. F. Berry.

LONE EAGLE WELCOMED ON RETURN FROM OHIO

Charles DeBiasi, the Lone Eagle of the road, who came back from Cincinnati, Ohio, after going way down without having a flat tire or changing one and won a pair of $10 shoes from his brother, Arthur, came into the village Wednesday morning. His face was dirty and he was a tired boy. The welcome committee, Peter Shandor and William Bishop who was on hand to greet him and told him in the evening a big time was planned at the Corn Cob club rooms on East Main street. So at 8 o'clock the club colors, orange and black, were displayed and a large sign in front of the president's chair read: "Welcome home, Lone Eagle of the road". The rooms were crowded with one hundred guests nd members. Muse Minute Men band played several selections; then O. W. Beebe read from a book about 25 years ago in Noank, John Ashby who has studied about Houdini a lot and claims he can do a few tricks, getting out of handcuffs and boxes and jails. Noank's Houdini was practicing for a long while and had got them all down fine. So his manager, Eddie Morgan had him on the program for the evening. Several carpenters went on the stage and had a large packing box. John told them he could get out of the box so into it Noank's Houdini went and the carpenters put plenty of nails and was putting on the last board, so he waved at the crowd to see he was there then putting rope around it, making sure the Noank handcuff king could not escape. Manager Morgan told them if he did not come out in 40 minutes to break open the box. So two men stood by with axes. The Minute Men played as he was trying to get out. After working for a little while, still a prisoner, suddenly coming behind a curtain the front there was John; the box was all right, the rope fixed the same as it was when it took 24 minutes of work. "I wonder how he did it!" all were saying. The next trick was to escape from the jail. He received a real ovation. President Keith Ebbetts introduced the Lone Eagle of the road, Charles DeBiasi. The crowd went wild, the band played "Lucky Charles from Noank". He told about the trip to Ohio by automobile and it was some lonesome; near St. Louis a green car was following me and the engine backfired and I thought it was a tire and my pair of shoes gone on the bed. I was happy again, going on to a highway and stopped at a hotel. The people were good to me—had a party for me at the Sunshine club and it was some time! That is the story of the trip. A lunch of sandwiches, pie and coffee was served, dancing followed.

Boy Scouts troop, No. 14, with the scoutmaster, Clifford Phelps made a group of 30 young soldiers in automobiles bound for the New London armory where the troop was the guest of Battery A 192nd National guard. It was to watch how the soldiers drilled. For 30 minutes the scouts saw how it was done with snap and pep. The troop is in training now for the Memorial day pardae. Scoutmaster Phelps had them looking over the big guns and it was thought a few members of the 192nd National Guard that the scouts were there, it was voted to send a card of thanks to the captain of the company.

Four nets lost in the sea last week cost $55 each. The fishing game is not all for the pocketbook, but much is going out for repairs. The fleet will leave for Port Jefferson in two weeks.

Two Lorain (O.) policemen were pursuing a big stray dog, believing it dangerous. They fired several shots at it, but the only effect was to knock it to the ground. After each bullet struck it the dog fell, but quickly recovered and, standing up, shook itself and started to run. The officers were puzzled, but finally got near enough to find out that the dog was wearing a bulletproof vest.

HEAVY PROFIT-TAKING SALES AGAIN SLOWED UP ADVANCE IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—Major speculative activity in today's stock market was again on the up-side, but heavy profit-taking sales slowed up the advance. General Motors established a new record high for the fifth consecutive session at 151 1-2, closing a point below that level for a small fractional net gain, and several of the public utilities and oils reached new high ground, but the general market was rather mixed. The day's turn-over was just above 2,100,000 shares, as against nearly 3,000,000 on Monday.

Much to the surprise of many traders, the weekly federal reserve re ort on brokers' loans, issued after the close of the market, showed a decrease of $26,125,000, bringing the total down to $3,895,705,000, which compares with $3,819,110,000 on March 9, 1927. Wall street heard much favorable comment from brokerage houses and bankers on the testimony of Federal Reserve Governor Young opposing further restrictive legislation against brokers' loans. Bullish interpretations also were placed upon the terms of the new U. S. treasury financing and the decision of the California oil producers to curtail production.

Railroad shares were rather sluggish, presumably in reflection of speculative disappointment over a further falling off in freight car loadings. New York Central and Texas & Pacific advanced about a point each while losses of about a point each were recorded by Atchison, Chicago Great Western preferred and Union Pacific preferred.

U. S. Steel common fluctuated within a very narrow range, closing fractionally higher at 141 3-8. Youngstown Sheet & Tube broke more than 3 points to a new 1928 low at 55 1-4 on the announcement that merger negotiations with Inland Steel had been abandoned, and then rallied 2 points from the low level. Inland rallied 4 points to 50 3-4, and closed near the top. Most of the other steels showed only fractional changes.

Hudson was again prominent in the motor group, touching another new high at 50 3-4 and then selling off about a point from that level. Other active motors showed only fractional changes. Mallinson common advanced to a new top at 26 3-4 on buying influenced by reports of expanding earnings. New peak prices also were recorded by Atlantic Gulf & West Indies issues, Butterick, Fairbanks Morse preferred, Owens Bottle and several other specialties.

Sinclair and Sun Oils reached new high ground, buying of the former being influenced by a revival of merger rumors which, however, lacked confirmation. Atlantic Refining and Houston also showed substantial gains. An increase in the price of export gasoline was regarded as bullish on the oils. Public utilities responded to reports of large current earnings, with new maximum prices being established by American & Foreign Power second preferred, Electric Power & Light common and preferred and a few others. Rubber shares, which were weak yesterday, rallied on short-covering. Fresh weakness broke out in the express shares.

Trading in the foreign exchange market was dull and colorless with no changes of any consequence. Sterling Cables ruled around $4.87 27-32.

Call money held steady at 4 1-4 per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

A further dro of about 3-4 of a cent a pound in rubber was the chief item of interest in the commodity markets. Cotton closed 6 to 10 points net higher and wheat and corn lost a fraction of a cent a bushel. Cotton was helped by the publication of the report of the International Federation of Cotton Spinners which showed that for the six months ended January 1 takings had increased 803,000 bales.

INDIAN LEADER CREATES SCENE IN ASSEMBLY

NEW DELHI, India, March 8—(AP)—Motilal Nehru, leader of the Swarajist movement for Indian self-government, created a scene in the legislative assembly today by accusing the British authorities with allowing India troops in China to supplement their pay by looting poor Chinese.

His accusation was met with angry shouts, some of the members calling upon him to "withdraw the foul slander."

This Nehru refused to do adding that Indians were being used against their wishes to humiliate the nationals of another country.

Mrs. Whitefoot Approves And Disapproves

Peculiar is the female mind;
Whate'er you do is wrong, you'll find.
—Whitefood the Wood Mouse.

Whitefoot was a very proud mouse when at last he led Mrs. Whitefoot into the new home he had so carefully prepared in one of the beehives of Farmer Brown. "There, my dear," said he, "did you ever in all your life see such a wonderful place to spend the winter? And I've taken the greatest pains to make one of the nicest nests. I worked very hard, my dear. I had to cut away a lot of comb to make room for this nest. Don't you just love it?"

Little Mrs. Whitefoot was very busy munching a dead bee that had fallen from the swarm at the top of the hive. All the time her bright little eyes were taking in everything. It was much better than she had expected it to be. Yes, indeed, it was much better than she had expected it to be. But not for the world would she have said so.

"It—it will do, I guess," squeaked little Mrs. Whitefoot. "I mean, this place will do very nicely for a winter home. It seems to be warm, and if all you have told me true about the food supply we shall spend the rest of the winter very comfortably. But this nest won't do at all. Goodness, no! I never could be satisfied with a nest like this. Where under the sun did you get all this stuff that you have made it of?"

Whitefoot looked a little hurt. He explained where he had gotten all his material, including the cotton waste which he had brought from the little wrenhouse where he had lived for a while.

"The material is all right," squeaked Mrs. Whitefoot, "but we shall have to build this nest all over. I should have been here when you started building. Now, we must get busy at once." Suiting her action to the word, she began to pull that nest all apart. Poor Whitefoot! He didn't know what to say, so he said nothing. He sat around and watched Mrs. Whitefoot pull that nest apart. She was a very busy small person and she seemed to be having a fine time undoing what Whitefoot had taken so much pleasure in doing.

"Why don't you get busy?" she squeaked sharply. "We want to get this nest so we can live in it."

"I didn't see anything the matter with the nest as it was," Whitefoot ventured. "It seemed to me like a very nice nest."

"Oh, it would do for one who was not very particular," replied Mrs. Whitefoot carelessly. "But if I'm going to have a nest I want it to suit me. I never could live comfortably in a nest that didn't suit me."

"Of course, my dear, I want it to suit you," replied Whitefoot. "I thought I had built it just the way you would like it. Next time I'll leave the building until you come."

"A very sensible idea," replied Mrs. Whitefoot, as she scurried back and forth arranging the material in the new nest she was building. "A very sensible idea. It would have saved you a lot of work if you had done so this time."

"Yes'm," said Whitefoot meekly. And for the life of him he couldn't see that the nest that Mrs. Whitefoot was building was going to be one bit better than the one he had built. But if she thought it was that was sufficient.

GOV. TRUMBULL ADDRESSED MERIDEN ROTARY CLUB

MERIDEN, March 8—(AP)—Peace and respect for law and authority depend upon the maintenance of a properly equipped and well-trained fighting force, Gov. John H. Trumbull declared here tonight during an address before the Rotary club.

The governor, accompanied by his staff of army officers, came to this city to witness a presentation and battalion review staged by five units of the Connecticut national guard at the local armory, and was the guest of honor at a Rotary club dinner, which preceded the military functions.

"I believe in our military forces—our national guard, flying forces, army and navy. I believe in them because I believe in peace, and the only way to keep peace is to have adequate military forces," the governor declared.

"Whenever we have an opportunity of parading our military units, it is well to do so during these days of sinister tendencies. Only by displaying properly equipped and well-trained armed forces can we create respect for law and authority.

"One of the great duties of our national guard is to maintain this respect for law and authority. We must continue to keep it up-to-date and ready to act at a moment's notice. We shall probably have little opportunity to call it out if we continue to do so."

COURT RULING ON NOTES OF INSOLVENT ESTATES

NEW HAVEN, March 8—(AP)—Passing upon the question for the first time in Connecticut, Judge John Richards Booth of superior court has ruled that a bank holding unmatured notes against the insolvent estate of a deceased person can offset the notes against the deposits of the estate.

The ruling was part of a decision giving judgment to the Merchants National bank in a suit brought against it by James F. Sullivan, administrator of the estate of Willis A. Noble, late of Branford. Sullivan sought to recover $8,900 which the bank offset against the deposits of Noble's estate for unmatured notes.

Noble died July 21, 1923, leaving $2,501.56 on deposit in the bank. On August 10, 1923, when Sullivan demanded the deposit, he was given only $601.56. In its answer to the suit, the bank set forth that it held a note for $400, dated May 3, 1923, and another for $1,500, dated May 15, 1923, each payable three months after making, and that Noble's estate was adjudged insolvent by the Branford probate court.

MISS MILDRED JOHNSON EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK

PHILADELPHIA, March 8—(AP)—Miss Mildred Johnson of Manoa, Pa., "apostle of the air mail," was here today en route to New York whence she sails tomorrow on the S. S. Columbus for Bremen.

She expects to beat the ship to the German port, however, for the Columbus will carry a seaplane in which Miss Johnson will take off when the vessel is several hundred miles from shore. Accompanying her will be Mrs. Esther Warner of Portland, Ore., and Lieutenant Hazan, former German aviator, who will act as pilot.

"We will take off about 600 miles from Bremen," Miss Johnson said, "or if arrangements can be made to refuel at Amsterdam we will take off about 1200 miles out."

Miss Johnson is making the trip as as the "air mail apostle" in the interests of a measure now before congress to authorize a foreign airmail service.

Crown Prince Of Denmark Reported Engaged

REQUESTS IRISH-AMERICANS TO FORGET OLD HATREDS

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—An appeal to Irish-Americans to forget the old hatreds between England and Ireland and to work for full cooperation between this country and England to protect the peace of the world, was made tonight by T. P. O'Connor, dean of the house of commons, at a banquet of the League for Industrial Rights.

"I take issue with many English statesmen who believe the United States should take keener interest in European affairs," Mr. O'Connor said. "I can see where the affairs of the Balkan states and petty arguments based on ancient prejudices fail to interest a people, 4,000 miles away and engaged in taming the prairies.

"However, the safety of the world depends upon the cooperation between the two greatest nations in the world and I ask the Irish not to foster the old hatreds which might block cooperation between these two great countries.

"We can not rely with safety on Germany, France or Russia to preserve peace and the only hope for peace in Europe and the world is in close cooperation between England and America."

COST OF ENTERTAINING KING OF AFGHANISTAN

BERLIN, March 8—(AP)—Now that the cost is being counted of entertaining Amanullah Khan, king of Afghanistan, and his party, it has been found by the newspaper Achtuhr-abendblatt that the Afghan monarch has been a somewhat expensive guest to the fatherland.

The German taxpayer, whom S. Parker Gilbert, agent-general for reparation payments, told to mind his expense bills, has ruefully discovered that feting royalty under the imperial regime cost only about one-quarter of the outlay on the royal visitors from Afghanistan.

The paper figures the total bill for these guests during their fortnight sojourn at approximately 1,000,000 marks ($250,000), of which 185,000 marks was the value of the airplane presented to the king by the federal government. Other gifts showered on Amanullah Khan by German industrialists—with an eye on future orders—are valued at about 400,000 marks.

On the credit side stand the queen's purchases of 20 dresses and 70 pairs of shoes, and the king's orders for a great quantity of liveries, such as are worn by the Albrecht palace flunkeys, and a complete electrical outfit for his palace. Amanullah intended to buy furniture, but the dealers insisted upon cash—and no business was done on this score.

DEMONSTRATIONS BEFORE AMERICAN COLLEGE IN CAIRO

CAIRO, Egypt, March 8—(AP)—The American charge d'affaires, it is understood, is making representations to the Egyptian government in protest against demonstrations before the American college.

Student disturbances have been prevalent in Cairo, and yesterday students of the Sheik school at Assuit attacked the American college, smashing the gates and doing other damage. Dr. Charles P. Russell, the principle, was slightly injured.

There was no sign of trouble today, the authorities having taken measures to keep the students under control.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AND ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

A pretty double birthday party for their daughter Helen and their son Chester F., was given Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Chester J. Ryan of 188 Boswell avenue. The dining room was prettily decorated in yellow and pink and the favors were bon bons and baskets filled with Easter eggs. At either ends of the table were the two large birthday cakes decorated with pink and yellow candles.

Before the luncheon was served the guests were pleasantly surprised when Mrs. Ryan announced the engagement of her daughter Helen to Joseph Awizyc of 57 Sturtevant avenue, who is employed by the Eaton-Chase company. Mrs. Ryan was assisted by her daughter Joy in serving the luncheon. The guests included the Misses Stella Przekop, Helena Warstock, Josephine Janowski, Dorothy Freeman, Josephine Peck, Alice McNally and Edward Gleason, Joseph Awizyc, Herman Whitehead, Albert Rogers, Edward Brewer, Robert Moore, William Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gilchrist.

RUMORS OF MERGERS OF BIG OIL COMPANIES

NEW YORK, March 8—(AP)—The New York World will say tomorrow that rumors of a merger of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation and the Marland Oil company were current in Wall street today.

The new combination would represent assets of approximately $500,000,000.

Two subsidiaries of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, the World will say, probably will take the name of the Marland company. The firms mentioned are the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and the Sinclair Pipe Line company which the World will say are both partly owned by the Standard Oil company fo Indiana.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear one, HATTIE EMILY MILLS PIKE
Who passed to her reward six years ago today

Sometimes, it's only the lilt of a song
That brings you back to me,
Sometimes, down in the heart of a flower,
It is your face I see.
Sometimes, the smile of the lifting morn
Is all your smiling, too.
Everything glad in the whole wide world
Seems just a touch of you.

HER FAMILY.

NEW LONDON BOY THIEF CONFESSES FOLLOWING POLICE GRILLING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 8—Edward Yonkowski, 9 Hill street, a youth of 14, was arrested last night by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith charged with statutory burglary. As a result of the confession of the youth, that he forced entrance to the office of the City Coal company, 410 Bank street Wednesday morning, also broke into the grocery store of Dixon and Perkins, at Quaker Hill, he has been turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. He will be given a hearing in the juvenile court. The boy has been mixed up in numerous burglaries and thefts for several years. He was arrested when Sergeant Smith was investigating the break at the City Coal company. During the course of the officer's investigation it was ascertained that Yonkowski had been picked up on Howard street early on Wednesday by Automobile Patrol Officer Lawrence Pardy, who brought the boy to police headquarters. There the youth told a story of having taken a music lesson in the afternoon and had remained away from home so long that he was afraid to return. He was taken to his home in the police auto. When this story was related to Sergeant Smith he decided to question the boy, for the officer knew the character of the youth. He sent for the boy, who went to police headquarters, accompanied by his mother. After a grilling of about an hour the boy admitted having broken into the coal office, also the Quaker Hill grocery store. The boy related how he entered both stores, even accompanying Sergeant Smith to Quaker Hill and showing him where the former removed a pane of glass, which permitted his entering the store, and stealing a ukelele, the property of a young woman who had left it there for safe keeping. The musical instrument was recovered, for the boy was observed on Howard street, near Hamilton street about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning by Charles White, watchman in the employ of the Raymond & Alexander company, who observed the boy throw the musical instrument to the veranda of the residence, No. 112 when Officer Pardy was approaching. White informed Sergeant Smith of his observation which resulted in the boy being brought to police headquarters. The ukelele was recovered from the woman who occupies the house where the instrument was thrown.

PUT BOOZE IN SAILORS' WAY—OSMOND SMITH IS CAUGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 8—Osmond Smith, residing near the submarine base, Groton, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Groton state police charged with violation of the liquor law. He will probably be presented in the Groton town court Monday next. Smith was liberated for he was admitted to bail of $1,000. The residence of Smith had long been suspected as being a place where liquor was sold and recently the state police decided that that fact should be demonstrated. Stool pigeons were secured, went to the Smith house and purchased liquor. With this information in their possession Sergeant Henry Albright and Officers Arthur Whitmarsh and Peter Busch went to the house and conducted a systematic search, which resulted in a large quantity of home-brew beer and a small quantity of liquor being seized. This will be used as additional evidence against Smith in the event that he attempts to fight the case.

The fire department was called out twice today to quell fires that did not occasion damage. Shortly after 1 o'clock, boys in the vicinity of Howard street noticed smoke arising from junked automobiles of the Mohegan Wrecking company, rear of Howard street, and one of the youths sent in an alarm from Box 43. Chief Thomas Shipman and Niagara and Nameaug Engine companies, Allen Hook and Ladder company and Pequot Hose company responded. The fire was extinguished with chemicals. At 2 o'clock a still alarm was received at fire headquarters for a grass fire, corner of Ocean avenue and Pacific street, that because of a high wind threatened to communicate to houses. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic

Father-and-son love is the theme of "Sorrell and Son," Herbert Brenon's production of Warwick Deeping's best-selling novel, made into a United Artists Picture, and offered at the Capitol theatre, Willimantic, Sunday and Monday.

H. B. Warner appears as Stephen Sorrell, and Mickey McBan and Nils Asther enact, respectively, the child Kit and the matured Kit Sorrell. The notable cast includes Anna Q. Nilsson as Dora Sorrell; Carmel Myers as Florence Palfrey; Norman Trevor as Thomas Roland; Alice Joyce as Fanny Garland; Mary Nolan as Molly Roland, and Louis Wolheim as Sergeant Buck.

Much of "Sorrell and Son" was filmed in England and with the aid of the author, Warwick Deeping. Herbert Brenon, who made "Peter Pan" and "Beau Geste," says that "Sorrell and Son" is his best motion picture.

The story of "Sorrell and Son" is that of a British war veteran whose wife deserts him and his six-year-old son. The veteran, Captain Stephen Sorrell, M. C., thereafter struggles against ingratitude, poverty, vice and physical exhaustion to rear and educate his beloved son, in whom he is ultimately well pleased. Interwoven with the story of father-and-son devotion are the sub-plots of Stephen Sorrell's friendship with Fanny Garland; Kit Sorrell's love for Molly Roland; Roland's kindness for Stephen Sorrell; Sergeant Buck's enmity for Sorrell; Florence Palfrey's scorn of her drunken husband and angry passion for Captain Sorrell, and Dora Sorrell's bitter struggle to win from her husband the love of their son, Kit.

Manager George A. Bartlett of the Capitol theatre, Willimantic, said that in presenting "Sorrell and Son" to his patrons at popular prices he felt he was announcing presentation at his theatre of one of the five greatest motion pictures ever made.

St. Mary's Players

Sometimes the truth gets the better of falsehoods, and sometimes it is the other way round. Which do you think will win out in Nothing But the Truth? To tell that would be to give away the outcome of the plot of this play. How are business affairs sometimes handled? How are questions and difficulties at times answered and settled at home? Who is the better man, the one who tells the truth or the one who does not? Questions and situations which occur in daily life. Come and see how they are treated in this show. You will enjoy the comedy.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

Humming with emotion and thrilling action "The Jade Cup," Evelyn Brent's latest release for F. B. O., is now showing at the Strand theatre. A mysterious cup, which is reputed to bring death once every year, fulfills its reputation and in order to save her fiancee from the resulting murder charges, Miss Brent does some of the most gripping work of her career. Plenty of excitement alternates with deft touches of comedy. In the supporting cast are Jack Luden, George Cowl and Charles Delaney.

"Three Glad Men" is a light and amusing comedy that you will enjoy. Joe Higgins, the musical clown whose act in the little provincial circus bunding attracts the attention of the Paris agent, so that presently he finds himself the toast of the French metropolis itself, is the central figure of "The Golden Clown," showing tonight and Saturday at the Strand theatre. From its opening scenes in the provincial circus through the gaiety of Paris and on to the dramatic climax, "The Golden Clown" is full of unexpected developments. The children will surely enjoy this picture, so bring them with you and see it.

Norwich Masterpieces

Following the copies of old masterpieces done by living models during the winter's program of the Art association, the program on the evening of the 14th of March will be a novel departure from the regular plan. Quite a number of children and a few adults, posed in a variety of costumes and with different effects, will form original pictures.

This will be one of the few meetings to which non-members will be admitted, so far as the capacity of Slater Annex will permit. Among the twelve pictures presented will be: Three Sisters, Boy With a Ship, Mother and Child, Playmates, Mistress Mary, Old-fashioned Girl, The Gay Nineties, A Color Study.

Palace Theatre

The place of love in business and of business in love is charmingly and entertainingly told in "The Latest from Paris," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring the beautiful Norma Shearer, which is the screen attraction at the Palace theatre today and tomorrow.

It is a comedy-dama, supplying Miss Shearer with one of those roles in which she excels, that of a scintillating, efficient, modern girl, who bests man in his own profession and then succumbs to the lure of romance, proving her old-fashioned femininity after all.

The story tells of a traveling saleswoman, the best on the road. None of her masculine rivals can match her success. Her personality is a mystery. All that is known about her is her name. She is especially hated by a handsome young man, who meets her on the Pullman, and mistaking her identity, falls in love. He tells her all about this dreaded rival of his, and then gets the shock of his life when he discovers who she really is. Love, however, eventually triumphs after a series of entertaining mishaps.

This week's vaudeville bill was well received by the eager audiences attending the Palace yesterday. There are two headliners. The Royal Revue is a snappy song and dance number; there are six girls and two men in the act, they do some wonderful dancing and in addition render some fine vocal numbers. The Four Careys are an acrobatic team and do some of the most sensational acts ever seen in Norwich.

Dorothy Kenton, "the girl with the banjo," has a pleasing number. Frank Mellino & Co. keep the audience in an uproar and Griffith and Young were a knockout in their sketch entitled, "Ain't Love Grand?"

Breed Theatre

Buster Keaton provides the enlightenment in his spectacular United Artists comedy, "College," which will be shown at the Breed today and Saturday. The frozen-faced star starts out as a bookworm, a university high-brow deluxe, and he winds up as a bone-breaking, fire-breathing varsity star. He doesn't become an athlete because he particularly likes strenuous sport, but because his sweetheart shames him into an ambition for physical prowess.

"College" is a real photoscream and a picture with a story which holds the spectators' interest all the time. Although the feature is crammed with laughs, it also has a delightful love story and a number of thrilling moments which would do credit to any melodrama. The climax of "College" is a boat race in which Keaton, as a coxswain, blunders his crew to victory while thousands of spectators look on.

Dozens of athletic champions, men who have defeated the world's stars at the Olympic games and in intercollegiate competition, appear with Keaton in many of the scenes. The great athletes in "College" include Bud Houser, Olympic winner of the shotput and discus; Lee Barnes, world's champion pole vaulter; Charles Borah, who shares with Charles Paddock the honor of being the "world's fastest human," having run the 100-yard dash in nine and one-half seconds, and nearly a score of crack oarsmen who have rowed on crack varsity crews at Yale, Columbia, Cornell, California, Washington, Syracuse and other leading universities.

Among the actors and actresses who share laurels in Keaton's supporting cast are Ann Cornwall, the comedian's dainty leading lady; Grant Withers, Florence Turner, Harold Goodwin, Snitz Edwards, Buddy Mason, James Mack and Flora Bramley.

Charged with violation of the state blue law, John G. Callan, member of the Maryland legislature, and two of his colleagues of the Liberty Defence league, which sponsored Sunday movie shows, were convicted by a jury in criminal court in Baltimore.

O'DONNELL LOSES $15,000 SUIT AGAINST THE BOROUGH OF GROTON

Maurice O'Donnell, Jr., an electrical welder of New London, lost his $15,000 suit in the superior court at New London Thursday against the borough of Groton for injuries he received last May when a tank of compressed air blew up at the plant of the Groton water and electrical light department. A jury in the superior court returned a verdict for the defendant late Thursday afternoon after a two-day trial of the case in taking evidence.

It is expected that counsel for Mr. O'Donnell will file a motion to set aside and ask for a new trial.

Testimony by employes of the water and electrical department to the effect that the tank which blew up was being prepared for use solely to operate the siren of the fire department introduced a new element into this trial of the case, for Attorney Morris Lubchansky who was counsel for the borough with Attorney Harry C. Brogan, argued that the borough was thus discharging a governmental service and was not liable to any person injured.

When Judge C. L. Avery gave the case to the jury Thursday afternoon he gave them several interrogatories to answer, one of which covered this point. When the jury returned an answer in the affirmative, the verdict for the defendant followed.

Attorney Lubchansky said:

"If the servants, agents or employes of the borough of Groton were preparing the tank or boiler which exploded for the storage of air to be used solely to operate the fire whistle of the fire department of the borough of Groton, then said servants, agents or employes were engaged in the performance of a governmental or public duty for the public benefit, and not for the property of the borough of Groton, and your verdict should therefore be for the defendant and under such circumstances as a matter of law, the municipality was not liable to any person injured even though its servants, agents or employes were negligent."

Judge Avery admitted that this was an important point, but did not see fit to direct a verdict for the defendant, preferring rather to leave it to the jury to decide whether or not the air tank was to be used solely for blowing the fire whistle.

Tank Pressure Not Known

Attorney Arthur T. Keefe, counsel for O'Donnell, made the opening argument to the jury Thursday. He told them that, in his opinion, no test was being conducted at the time of the explosion but rather than an employe of the borough, either upon orders of Supt. W. R. Jacobus or not, turned on the air and forgot it. Attorney Keefe maintained that no one knew the pressure of the compressed air when the head was blown off of the boiler.

Scoring the fact that the tubes had been taken from the boiler without substituting stay-rods, Attorney Keefe said that ordinary common sense would dictate the inadvisability of weakening a boiler and filling it with compressed air, not knowing what pressure it could stand.

Attorney Keefe said that the whole affair was attempted to convert the boiler into an air tank "as cheap as he could," and that it had proved very expensive. He called attention to the testimony of the plaintiff, who said he at no time turned on any air. He maintained that O'Donnell was there as an independent contractor, on the defendant's premises lawfully. He called attention to the fact that O'Donnell said that he could have done no welding while any air was in the tank. Mr. Keefe asked for substantial damages.

Attorney Brogan, for the defendant, argued next. He scouted the idea that when the boiler exploded it was during "the real test." He said that there had been two preliminary tests and that both times the tank leaked. Attorney Brogan maintained that only a preliminary test, a third one, was under way when the explosion took place, and that O'Donnell knew that air was going into the tank.

The lawyer referred to the alleged permanent injuries of O'Donnell by pointing out that he was in the hospital five days and told of a long period of time when O'Donnell never visited Dr. Cheney's office. Attorney Brogan said that the plaintiff had set up eight allegations of negligence but had not shown in an instance of where he was free from contributory negligence.

Attorney Lubchansky followed Attorney Brogan with a powerful plea for the defense. He laid especial emphasis on the fact that O'Donnell testified that he could not do any welding while there was air in the tank. The attorney also pointed out to the jury that O'Donnell maintained and testified that he had just finished his welding and was picking up his apparatus when the tank exploded.

Therefore, said Attorney Lubchansky, there could not have been very much air in the tank when it exploded. He said that in his opinion the welding job was a poor one and that very little air was needed in the tank to cause the explosion.

Attorney Keefe concluded with another strong argument for the plaintiff, following which Judge Avery charged the jury on the various points of law relative to the case.

STATE HEALTH COMMISSIONER WOULD COMPEL VACCINATION

A recommendation that Connecticut pass a state law requiring vaccination against smallpox for all children attending public schools was made on Thursday by State Health Commissioner Stanley H. Osborn in a special report to Governor Trumbull on the recent smallpox epidemic.

"The present law allowing boards of education to require vaccination of school children," says Dr. Osborn, "has been found insufficient to protect communities surrounding an unvaccinated community that does not require vaccination of school children."

Giving statistics to show that the recent epidemic resulting in 141 cases affected fourteen towns in Connecticut and brought two cases into Massachusetts but was curbed through "wholesale vaccination", Dr. Osborn says, "it seems desirable for Connecticut to adopt a state law to require all children attending public school to be vaccinated against smallpox so that no unvaccinated community can endanger neighbors as is the case now. In the case of Waterbury in 1917, smallpox spread to twenty-seven communities, and also to Massachusetts, New York and Rhode Island. In the Bridgeport epidemic of 1922 and 1923, twenty-two towns and the states of New York and Rhode Island were affected. This bears out the statement that an unvaccinated community endangers its neighbors, and it would appear that legislation is desirable to prevent the reappearance of such epidemics as have occurred in Waterbury, Bridgeport and Middletown."

"The fact that the recent epidemic started with 125 cases in January, was reduced to sixteen in February, and has so far resulted in no cases in March, demonstrates a thing that we all know, that any community that has a large unvaccinated population, is subject to an epidemic of smallpox. The wonderful cooperation of the physicians, merchants, manufacturers and other business men of Middletown together with the local organizations by urging immunization by vaccination assisted greatly in stopping the recent epidemic and demonstrates what can be done by vaccination on a wholesale basis."

Attention is also called in the report to low records achieved by Connecticut in death rates for various diseases during 1927.

TOLSTOY AND IBSEN CENTENARY OBSERVED

At the monthly meeting of the literature department of the Woman's City club, held Wednesday afternoon in the club room at the Wauregan hotel, the centenary of Count Tolstoy and Henrik Ibsen was observed. Following this, Mrs. Willis Phipps Austin read selections from the Ibsen play, The Lame Duck, filling in and completing the story in her own words. There was a large attendance for this enjoyable hour.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT BROUGHT AGAINST CITY

Suit against the city of Norwich brought for $5,000 damages by Joseph Sadaway of 79 Mechanic street, a truckman, has been withdrawn without costs from the superior court. Mr. Sadaway brought the suit for injuries he received by falling into a sewer on Mechanic street during a rainstorm on the night of Oct. 24, 1926. He alleged negligence on the part of the city in leaving a cover off a manhole to the sewer and leaving it unguarded without lights. He claimed that he suffered serious injuries to his left leg, hip, groin and thigh and right shoulder and lost his earnings for two months as a truckman amounting to $400.

A settlement of the case was voted to be made for $150 by the March meeting of the common council.

NEW YORK PASTOR CONCLUDES SERMON SERIES

Before a capacity congregation, Dr. Henry Howard, pastor of the Fifth avenue Presbyterian church, New York city, delivered the final sermon Thursday evening in a series of five at the United Congregational church, held under the auspices of the Norwich Y. M. C. A., with the churches of Norwich participating. Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United church, led the devotional period, and Dr. Howard read the scripture selection from the 9th chapter of Jeremiah. The Law of Relation was the topic of his farewell sermon.

Your place, if you are a godly man or woman is in society, he said. I don't know how many of you realize the importance of the church. If you visited a place where there was no church you would soon realize the value of the church. The growth of the Christian church is evidence of advancement. A crowd does not necessarily mean a church. A church is a number of individuals, it may be three or four, first of all vitally related to the Lord, Jesus Christ, and through Christ to one another. When Christ looks through our eyes, speaks through our mouths, acts through our hands, then the world begins to believe that He still lives on. If we are all rightly related to Jesus Christ, when one slips and falls, we all run in, help him to his feet and restore him to the church.

Life consists of the fulfillment of relations. You and I are not only responsible for ourselves, but we are responsible for others. Our lives are linked up with the lives of others. If you will just live your lives straight out, filled up with the love of Jesus Christ, I promise you that you will exert an influence that will never die.

The service closed with the singing of a hymn and the pronouncing of the benediction.

SHOWS WILLINGTON HUSBAND WAS GAY PHILANDERER

The asserted preference of Adolph L. Kalas of Willington, an employe of the state highway department, for a Mrs. Gahan, a school teacher, was so outspoken, so cruel and so humiliating to his wife, Christine—now living in Hartford, that she was granted a divorce Thursday in the superior court at Hartford by Judge E. C. Dickinson on the ground of intolerable cruelty.

Christine Zemina and Adolph L. Kalas were married in Willington on October 21, 1922. In January, 1925, the attentions of Mr. Kalas were very marked toward Mrs. Gahan, whose husband had gone away for treatment for tuberculosis. The romance of Kalas and Mrs. Gahan flamed to such extent that it became public gosip in Willington, while Mrs. Kalas suffered from heartbreak and humiliation until she was ill from nervous breakdown.

Kalas and Mrs. Gahan openly avowed their love for each other, went about the town with arms around each other and efforts of Mrs. Kalas and prominent citizens in her behalf to effect a reconciliation between Kalas and his wife were unavailing. The situation grew so acute that the school board would no longer employ Mrs. Gahan as a teacher and she moved into Hartford, both she and Kalas saying they would marry each other when they got divorced.

Mrs. Kalas gave up trying to keep her husband and went back to her parents in Willington in June, 1925. A little more than a year ago she moved to Hartford, where she obtained employment. Asked by Judge Dickenson if Kalas paid attention to women other than Mrs. Gahan, Mrs. Kalas said he had since been seen out riding with his arms around a hospital nurse.

DEPUTY GOVERNOR MADE VISIT TO LIONS' CLUB

With President William R. Frisbie presiding the weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. There was the usual large attendance and the song leader was Dr. K. K. Markoff. L. M. Crandall, chairman of the speakers' committee, presented Lion G. L. Burwell, of Waterbury, deputy district governor. He told of what the Lions are doing in the state and extended the local Lions an invitation to the Lions charter night in Torrington, April 12th. The club voted a contribution to the W. W. Backus hospital X-ray fund.

Arthur O. Lamb of the Manufacturers' Appraisal company, addressed the club on the methods employed in equalizing property values for purposes of taxation. He stated that the town's business is the biggest business in town and that it was very important that it be conducted in a businesslike way. He stated that the present tax system was the same that had been in use for approximately 75 years. He then explained the modern methods of assessing business and residential properties by the front foot and classifying farm acreage into the different classifications such as tillable pasturage, etc. The buildings are all measured and the structural features noted such as the age, type of building, the kind of heating, plumbing, number of rooms, etc. The buildings are then classified into the different types and are presented on the basis of construction, the manufacturing plants are presented in the same way, except the machinery is all listed by machinery experts. The personal property of merchants is gathered in a systematic manner so that each merchant would be processed on the same basis as his neighbor. The appraisal company's method of operation is to employ as much local help as possible to assist the experts in immediate charge at all times.

The club, which has gone on record as favoring a revaluation, voted to attend the special town meeting to be held next Wednesday evening to take action on a proposed re-valuation. The meeting closed in the usual manner.

809 TEACHERS WITHDRAW FROM RETIREMENT ASS'N

The seventh annual report of the Connecticut Teachers' Retirement association submitted Thursday to Gov. Trumbull by Miss Dorothy M. Shanley, secretary, shows that 809 teachers in the state withdrew from the retirement association during the year ended Dec. 31, 1927, but that 1,165 new members were added, 1,135 of these being compulsory under the statutes. Of the 809 who withdrew, 284 did so to marry, 252 left the state, 95 entered some other profession, 75 withdrew for miscellaneous reasons, 38 because of illness, 37 because they were entering college, and 28 withdrew because they were entering the New Haven teaching service, which is separate from the rest of the teaching organization in the state and has its own retirement and pension system.

The grand total membership in the association at the end of the year was 8,714 of which 239 were retired, 6,887 were members with compulsory accounts and 1,588 had voluntary accounts.

Thirty-three teachers retired in 1927. The state will pay them pensions totaling $1,467.53 a month, while the monthly payments from the annuity fund will amount to $202.50, a total of $1,670 to be disbursed each month by the state to these 33 teachers, or $20,040 a year.

The annuity payments in 1927 to all retired teachers amounted to $7,037 and the pensions from the state totaled $102,205. Refunds amounted to $182,017, making a total of $291,260 in disbursements to teachers by the retirement board in 1927.

The report further contains a table showing the amount of money received from the teachers in every town in the state during the year—a total of $503,044 received from teachers' salaries. In 1917 $36,368 was received from the same source, and the refunds amounted to $94.83, the annuity payments totaled sixty-three cents and the pension payments were $813, as compared with $102,205 in pensions last year.

The annuity fund, invested in bonds was of December 31, $3,566,000. The pension fund, likewise invested in bonds, was $962,000.

Assistant For Revenue Collector

Deputy Revenue Collector George M. Charbonneau now has an assistant at his office at the court house to aid those who will want to hand in their income tax returns between now and the fifteenth of the month, which is the limit for making these returns.

With these two men at the office qualified to handle the details of filling out the income tax blanks, those who make their returns now will find the business handled more expeditiously than if they wait till a day or two before the last day.

TAFTVILLE

VETERAN SCHOOL TEACHER DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

On Thursday morning the death of Miss Mathilde Stapfer occurred at her apartment in the Ponemah House, after an illness of several months. Born in Switzerland, where she was educated at St. Gall's, Miss Stapfer came to this country when a young woman and took up teaching in New York. For many years she had been a teacher in the kindergarten and first grade of the Wequonnoc school, so that almost every young person in this village who received his or her first schooling here, came in contact with her and felt the remarkable influence of what she taught and lived.

Long after many of these children had grown and had taken up their residence elsewhere, she followed up their careers with interest, rejoicing when they attained the good things of life and sorrowing when misfortune attended them. She was always ready to talk with and advise those who sought her with the problems of life, and her former pupils always looked to her as a confidant and friend.

Few people understood children as she, who had devoted her life to them, and no one had more friends among the little folk than she. For years she had taught the beginners department at the Taftville Congregational Church school, and was ready at all times to help in the progress of the school.

Her work in the community cannot be measured. She gave unselfishly of her time to make people happier and more contented. During the World war, as supervisor of production of the Taftville Chapter of the American Red Cross she worked indefatigably to maintain a steady flow of hospital supplies from the chapter's workrooms, and to furnish comforts for those in the service.

Among those studies in which she was especially interested were basketry and sewing, and she organized evening classes to which she gave her faithful and competent attention. In the death of Miss Stapfer, Taftville people truly feel that they have lost their greatest friend. Her kindliness and work for the good of the community will never be forgotten, and the influence of her life on others never can be.

She is survived by two brothers, Albert of Patterson, N. J., John of Weehawken, N. J., and two sisters, Mrs. Fred Holz of Switzerland and Miss Elizabeth Stapfer of New York.

NORWICH TOWN

MEN'S DEPARTMENT CONDUCTS PRAYER SERVICE

There was a good attendance at the First Congregational prayer service on Thursday evening in the chapel, which was in charge of the Men's department of the League of Service. Deacon Henry T. Frazier, president of the league, presided. The meeting opened with the singing of two hymns, "O Worship The King," and "Guide Me" Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, the pastor, offered prayers, followed by responsive reading.

The subject for this first meeting during the Lenten series in the Fellowship of Prayer was "Religion and Health." The following references pertaining to the subject were read: Conquest of Fear, Deacon Frazier; The Conquest of Worrying, Deacon Dwight W. Avery; Overcoming Sinful Habits, Herbert L. Yerrington. This was followed by scripture reading by Theodore Sterry, and another reading, The Spirit of Thanksgiving, by Mr. Yerrington. "Don't Tell the World," was the next hymn, after which Deacon Frazier read the sketch Counting On God. Thomas H. Bacheler read The Outward Look, while Frank E. Sterry read the Healing Touch.

At this point, Dr. Charles H. Lamb, tenor, sang in pleasing voice, "In Heavenly Love Abide," by Holden, Theodore Sterry playing the violin obligato accompanied on the piano by Herbert L. Yerrington, who also played for the hymns.

Deacon Frazier then read extracts from Dean Brown's book, "Faith and Healing." By special request, Mr. Sterry played the violin number Canto Amoroso, by Mischa Elman, finely interpreting the composition. The prayer in closing and the benediction were by Rev. Charles E. Reeves. After the meeting Rev. Mr. Reeves spoke briefly. Herbert L. Yerrington made announcement that the re-building of the church organ was entirely completed in every detail and that Architect William Erff, Jr., had returned with his equipment to West Haven Thursday afternoon.

The all-day food sale held Thursday at the Boston store for the Norwich Town Methodist church was most successful, everything being sold out. The display of tempting home-cooked food consisted of cakes, pies, brown bread, white bread, biscuit, also an assortment of home prepared canned fruit and vegetables. Mrs. William Weaver was in general charge, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Fulton and Mrs. Everett Rogers.

STEAMER WITH 150 PASSENGERS ABOARD AGROUND IN GALE OFF PLYMOUTH, MASS.

The Steamer Robert E. Lee, Boston to New York, Drove Aground in a Snowstorm—The Vessel Remains Hard and Fast on a Reef—A Fleet of Rescue Craft Rushed to the Steamer's Assistance in Answer to an S O S Message—Later the Vessel Was Reported as Lying Comfortably, in No Immediate Danger and That the Passengers Would Be Transferred in the Morning.

BOSTON, March 9— (AP) —The Boston-New York steamer, Robert E. Lee, with 150 passengers and a crew of 113, drove aground tonight on Mary Ann rocks off Manomet Point in a snowstorm and gale. The vessel remained on the reef, but a message sent out at 10:20 o'clock said the passengers were in no danger. It was said that no attempt would be made to remove them before tomorrow morning.

An SOS message sent out by the steamer at 8 o'clock, a few minutes after she grounded, started a fleet of rescue craft to her assistance. These included the naval ships Bushnell, Falcon and Mallard, engaged in salvaging the sunken submarine S-4 off Provincetown, the coast guard cutters Tuscarora and Redwing, coast guard patrol boats and life-saving surf boats from shore stations. All were in the vicinity of the Robert E. Lee late tonight.

The reassuring message received from the Lee after several hours, during which her condition appeared to be hopeless, read as follows:

"Lying comfortably. No immediate danger. Transfer passengers in the morning."

The steamer apparently got away from her course in the blinding snowstorm and ventured too far in-shore on the treacherous coast of Massachusetts bay. At 7:20 o'clock the lookout at the Manomet Point coast guard station noticed a vessel in dangerous waters and sent two warning signals. It was too late, however, as the ship had already grounded on the reef about a mile out from shore.

The high surf piled up by a 70-mile southwest wind baffled all efforts to launch surf boats from the Manomet station and, in any event, the high-running sea made rescue from the landward side impossible, coast guardsmen said. Submerged reefs nearby provided additional dangers for vessels approaching from seaward. The scene of the grounding is less than three miles south of Plymouth harbor.

First messages sent out by the steamer indicated that she had lost her bearings and was thought to be at the "Boston end of the Cape Cod canal." A short time later an SOS message gave her proper position off Manomet Point. She was reported as pounding badly and with six feet of water in her engine room. Messages from the ship ceased for more than an hour, after it was reported at 8:52 o'clock that the power for the radio was ebbing fast. When the radio was restored, Capt. H. W. Robinson sent out the more hopeful news that the passengers were in no immediate danger.

A later message received from the Robert E. Lee reported that the engine room was still filled with water but the ship was resting solidly. There was no panic or disturbance among the passengers, the message reported. At the same time a message from the Bushnell to the navy yard here reported that the submarine tender was approaching the scene, although she was still several miles away.

SPANKING OF GIRL WAS "UNWARRANTEDLY SEVERE"

KANSAS CITY, Kas., March 9—(AP) —Holding that a spanking administered Lorene Jones, 16, by her mother Mrs. Christine Woodside, was "unwarrantedly severe" Judge Fred R. White tonight imposed a fine of $100 and costs on the mother who had been arrested on the girl's complaint.

Lorene was whipped Sunday night with a coat hanger when she refused to tell where she had been in the family motor car.

Upon hearing the judge's decision, Mrs. Woodside, former snake charmer and lion tamer for a carnival, declared she was unable to pay the fine, and if necessary, would have to go to jail.

Approximately 5,000 persons jammed the auditorium in the city hall, to where the hearing had been transferred because Judge White's courtroom was too small to accommodate the jam. Several women fainted. Women predominated in the crowd. Hundreds of persons were turned away at the doors and traffic in the vicinity of the building was in a snarl.

In a statement from the bench just before he fined Mrs. Woodside, Judge White said he believed from the girl's statement and her mother's attitude that the punishment inflicted had been entirely too severe.

APPROVES DEBT SETTLEMENT WITH GREEK GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, March 9—(AP)—Over the protest of its entire democratic membership, the house ways and means committee today approved the war debt settlement negotiated with the Greek government by the now extinct American debt funding commission. Republicans unanimously supported the proposal.

Representative Garner of Texas, the ranking democrat, announced that his colleague, Crisp of Georgia, a representative of the minority party on the debt funding committee, would draft a report vigorously opposing the settlement.

"Greece now owes us $18,000,000," Garner said. "The settlement proposes that it will pay us 34 cents on the dollar. It is said that this is all Greece can afford to pay.

"In the face of this statement, the settlement then proposes to lend Greece $12,000,000 more to be repaid in full plus 4 per cent interest.

NICARAGUAN POLICY WAS DEBATED IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 9—(AP)—The long debated question of the authority of the president to supervise elections in foreign lands was raised anew today in the senate.

The resolution was referred to the foreign relations committee which will take it up as soon as several other pending questions are disposed of, Chairman Borah said. Varying opinions as to the president's authority were given by committeemen and a long fight over the resolution is in prospect.

At the hospital, however, it was stated that Hendershot is "doing well," and "will recover." One report was that he had been paralyzed but hospital attaches said he was able to walk about his room.

The great lakes were whipped into huge waves by a southeast wind and at Toronto the combers scaled the beach and ponured over gardens and into the cellars of waterfront homes. COAL MAGNATE CONDEMNS COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

WASHINGTON, March 9—(AP)—Organized labor and collective bargaining were condemned before the senate committee investigating the bituminous industry today by W. G. Warden, chairman of the board of directors of the Pittsburgh Coal company, who accepted responsibility for initiating that concern's repudiation of the United Mine Workers and scrapping of the Jacksonville wage agreement in 1925.

Shortly before, the crowded committee room had heard charges by Oliver K. Eaton, union attorney, that the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America were in collusion with coal operators on a report to "whitewash" the latter of responsibility "for the distressing situation in the Pennsylvania coal fields."

Later and away from the hearing Dr. W. L. Dalby, Washington, secretary for the Federal Council of Churches, sai dhe had heard that a report on the coal situation was planned.

"Our policy," he said, "is to be unbiased. It is the custom in such cases to submit both sides in a report, the one pitted against the other. I do not know about the coal report, as that is being handled in our New York office."

Eaton based his statement on a bulletin of the National Coal association, which he offered in evidence. Dated March 3, 1928, the bulletin quoted F. Ernest Johnson, executive secretary of the church council, as authority that the report was being prepared "by the council at the instance of the organization of the Protestant churches in Pittsburgh."

RUMANIAN-HUNGARIAN DISPUTE POSTPONED

GENEVA, March 9—(AP)—Sighs of relief arose when the council of the league of nations tonight let it be known that a satisfactory reference had been found for postponing the Rumanian-Hungarian dispute until June. The argument between the two countries, which arises from claims by Hungarian land owners in the Transylvania provinces of Rumania, caused an open flare up in the meeting of the council and finally forced a two-hour executive session.

Nicholas Titulescu, Rumanian foreign minister, was the storm center. In the opening session he drew rebukes from the representatives of Great Britain, France and Germany when he tried to bind to certain conditions two proposed members of the mixed arbitration board to which the dispute would go but M. Titulescu held to his course, explaining that he was representing the ideas of his home government.

A suggestion that the entire question be postponed until the June meeting of the council was adopted. Then M. Titulescu objected to the form of the council's resolution, and the doors were closed while members of the council consumed two hours in finding words that would satisfy both parties.

27 PERSONS RESCUED FROM STEAMER AFTER COLLISION

NEW ORLEANS, March 9—(AP)—Twenty-seven persons, the crew and two passengers, on the Swedish steamer Hermes were rescued and brought safely to New Orleans today after the vessel had been sunk in collision with the Norwegian steamer Modemi, 32 miles below New Orleans.

The Modemi came to the docks under her own steam but with a hole almost 10 square feet torn in her bow. Captain Richard Nordom, her master, said the Hermes struck his ship in a heavy fog after he had sounded his siren.

The river pilot on the Hermes said the Modemi struck the Hermes a few moments after a blast from the latter's siren and a burst of searchlights from the Modemi.

The Hermes rolled to the starboard and sank but her crew and passengers took to a lifeboat and were picked up by the Modemi. At daybreak they were put ashore and came to New Orleans in automobiles.

The Hermes, under charter to the Munson line, was in charge of Captain Gosta Hoggloff. She was approximately 1,200 tons gross and was in-bound from Progreso, Mexico, with sisal. The Modemi, of 4,367 tons gross, was outbound with a general cargo for Port Arthur, Tex.

CONDITION OF HOWARD GOULD IS REPORTED AS COMFORTABLE

NICE, France, March 9—(AP)—Although the immediate alarm over the condition of Howard Gould, New York capitalist, who is seriously ill at the Montboron hospital, was dispelled by the doctor's bulletin of today stating that he was "comfortable" the gravity of his case was not minimized. Frank Jay Gould, his brother, is close at hand at Cannes. The patient was reported as showing improvement since the operation performed yesterday by Lord Dawson of Penn., who is King George's personal physician.

It was found that the man leaves a widow and two small children at his home here. Santoro and his family had lived at 50 Railroad Hill street for the past several months. Last evening the husband and father left home on an unknown errand and his family had heard nothing more from him until they received word of his death.

BOSTON, March 9—(AP)—The fate of Herbert J. Gleason, 20, known as the "Baby Face Bandit," who is sentenced to die next week for the murder of James A. Monagle, a Medford grocer, remained in doubt tonight while Governor Alvan T. Fuller considered his decision on a plea for commutation of sentence. Through his secretary, Herman A. McDonald, the governor announced that his findings would be ready some time tomorrow.

HOUSE REJECTS PROPOSED "LAME DUCK" AMENDMENT

Measure Was Designed to Abolish Short Sessions of Congress and Change the Presidential Inaugural Date—The Vote Was 209 For and 157 Against the Proposal—Two-Thirds Vote Was Necessary For Approval—House Action Definitely Kills the Proposal so Far as the Present Congress is Concerned—The Senate Had Approved a Somewhat Similar Resolution—Tilson Fought the Proposal and All Connecticut Members Voted Against It.

WASHINGTON, March 9—(AP)—The White-Norris constitutional amendment to abolish "lame duck" sessions of congress and change the presidential inaugural date was rejected today by the house.

The vote was 209 to 157, with two members answering present. This was 36 votes less than the two-thirds necessary for approval of constitutional amendments.

The house action, taken after three days of debate, during which republican leaders led a vigorous fight against the proposal, definitely shelves the amendment for this session of congress, at least. The amendment, in slightly modified form, was approved earlier this session by the senate, which in three previous congresses, had voted for its adoption.

The amendment sought to change the meeting date of congress from March 4 to Jan. 4. This would have abolished the "lame duck" sessions of congress or those in which sit members who were defeated at earlier elections. To conform with this change, the resolution proposed to have the president take office on Jan. 24, instead of March 4.

It also proposed to clear up ambiguous provisions in the Constitution regarding succession to the vice-presidency in the event of the death of the president and vice-president-elect, and, in addition to give congress power to establish presidential succession in possible contingencies not covered by the Constitution.

Party lines disappeared entirely in the voting. The proportion of repuolicans and democrats was about the same in the supporting and opposing groups.

Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican floor leader; Martin Madden, of Illinois, chairman of the appropriations committee, and Snell, of New York, chairman of the powerful committee on legislative procedure, waged relentless war against the amendment.

They encountered, however, the stiffest opposition from their own republican colleagues, who, under the leadership of White, of Kansas, coauthor of the amendment, and Gifford, of Massachusetts, a comparatively new member, proved difficult foes.

On the other side of the aisle, Garrett, of Tennessee, the minority floor leader, found the democratic ranks equally disrupted. Tucker, Moore and Montague, all Virginians, joined with a host of other southerners in taking opposition to their leader.

As finally rejected by the house the amendment had been modified by the adoption of two provisos regarded by members as of material importance. One sponsored by Jeffers, an Alabama democrat, eliminated all reference to specific adjournment dates for congress. This, he argued, would have permitted a session to run for 12 months, if necessary, and it was designed to reduce the possibility of a filibuster in the senate during the closing days of a session that must automatically end at a definite time.

Jeffers succeeded in carrying this provision by a vote of 151 to 96.

Another proviso, offered by Garrett, proposed that the amendment would be null and void if not ratified by three-fourths of the state legislatures within seven years.

It also proposed that preceding action by any state legislature on the amendment that at least one house of the legislature must have been elected subsequent to its submission. This proposal was adopted, 187 to 23.

On the final vote, 89 republicans joined with 118 democrats and two farmer-labor members in support of the amendment, while 102 republicans and 55 democrats combined in opposition. In addition, Stalker, republican, New York, and Williams, democrat, Texas, voted present.

Tilson was on his feet three times during the day in his fight to defeat the proposal. He argued that the membership had not been given opportunity to consider many of the proposed revisions to the amendment and that "it will be better to leave a thousand good things out of the Constitution than to put one bad thing in."

Garrett, in offering his amendment regarding state legislatures, said that under the present system less than 4,000 people could amend the federal Constitution. He argued that his proposal would give to some extent a better opportunity for the people themselves to express an opinion of any amendment. Ramseyer, an Iowa republican, endorsed Garrett's proposal.

Madden in particular opposed the Jeffers' proposal designed to prevent senate filibusters. He contended that an automatic adjournment date acted as a "safety valve" against congress remaining in Washington, and passing bills that would cost the government money.

"Can't you think of some other things than the treasury in writing the Constitution?" interrupted Garrett.

"The protection of the treasury is in the largest measure to the people's interest," returned the appropriations committee chairman.

RODMAN WANAMAKER DIED AT ATLANTIC CITY

PHILADELPHIA, March 9—(AP)—Rodman Wanamaker, last surviving son of the late John Wanamaker, and head of the stores in Philadelphia, New York and abroad that bear the family name, died in Atlantic City early today. He was 65.

Mr. Wanamaker went to his seashore home about four weeks ago and later contracted a cold. He apparently was improving until a week ago when complications set in. His condition, however, did not become alarming until yesterday when there was evidence of uremia and he passed into a state of coma.

His fine estate "Lindenhurst," at Jenkintown, just north of this city, was "home" and to this place the body was brought late today, to be prepared for burial. Interment will be in the graveyard of the Protestant Episcopal church of St. James the Less, at the Falls of Schuylkill, this city, where rest the bodies of his father and mother.

At the bedside when he died were Mr. Wanamaker's son, Captain John Wanamaker, Jr., Mrs. Ector O. Munn, a daughter and Dr. David Berner, his Atlantic City physician, Mr. Wanamaker's other daughter, Mrs. Gurnee Munn, is in Egypt.

The Philadelphia and New York stores and the foreign houses were closed and will remain so until after the funeral, the day for which has not yet been fixed.

Mr. Wanamaker was interested in many enterprises of a civic and philanthropic nature, not only here and in New York but abroad as well. He was a generous patron of art and had many examples of the work of great painters and other artists in the New York and Philadelphia stores.

He was a firmer believer in the future of aviation and gave lavishly of his wealth to further this modern method of transportation. He financed the airship America wrecked in a storm in 1914 when it attempted a trans-Atlantic flight. Byrd's aerial flight to the north pole and his later hop to France were made possible by Mr. Wanamaker's backing.

Mr. Wanamaker became head of the stores, founded by his father when the pioneer department store owner died several years ago.

WATSON ENDORSED BY EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 9—(AP) —United States Senator James E. Watson, favorite son presidential candidate, received the endorsement of the Indiana Republican Editorial association here today over the protests of supporters of Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce. Hoover entered the Hoosier primary fight yesterday.

Pleas for harmony with the editorial association put an end to what for a time looked like the outbreak of a fight over the issue. The discussion was precipitated by the non-concurrence on Arthur K. Remmell, editor of the Fort Wayne News Sentinel and a member of the resolutions committee. Oscar G. Foellinger, publisher of the Fort Wayne News Sentinel, is manager of Hoover's Indiana campaign.

The two day editorial meeting ended tonight with a banquet, which was addressed by Senator Watson and Representative Will R. Wood of the Tenth Indiana district. Congressman Wood deviated from his prepared address, in which he attacked the primary law, to declare he was for Senator Watson for president.

Hoover men, when the resolution relating to Watson's candidacy was presented, declared that, in the interest of harmony, the Indiana Republican Editorial association should not endorse the candidacy of any one.

The resolution, which was ratified, praised the long public service of Senator Watson and pledged its active support to his candidacy for the presidency. No mention was made of the entry of Hoover into the Indiana campaign.

The warrant had not been served on Dr. Guilfoyle today, according to the state's attorney's office. Dr. Guilfoyle is in the Hartford hospital, convalescing from a bullet wound in the right eye, said by the state to have been self-inflicted.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION DATE HAS BEEN NAMED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 9—The republican convention of the 29th senatorial district has been called in a warning issued by Mayor Charles A. Gates, of this city, and Mrs. Lillian M. S. Frink, of Canterbury, members of the state central committee, to be held at the Nathan Hale hotel here, March 22, at 12:15 o'clock in the evening. The purpose of the convention is to elect two delegates-at-large for the state convention at Hartford on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 17 and 18, and to nominate candidates for membership on the republican state central committee for the coming two years and to other business proper for such a caucus.

It is learned that a contest is looming up between Col. Charles H. Allen, of Rockville, and State Senator R. Leland Keeney, of Somers, in the choice of a delegate-at-large from the second congressional district. The contestants plan, however, to keep the race for the honor within Tolland county, although the second congressional comprises three other counties, Windham, New London and Middlesex. According to established custom, Tolland is entitled to one delegate this year, the practice being to have each of the four counties have one representative in the district delegation, two counties each getting one delegate and the other two counties each an alternate.

FIREWORKS EXPECTED AT MANSFIELD TOWN MEETING

WILLIMANTIC, March 9—Linguistic pyrotechnics—verbal fireworks—not altogether an unknown quantity at Mansfield town meetings, are expected to be the order of the day at the special meeting of the townspeople in the town hall at Spring Hill today (Saturday) afternoon at 2 o'clock. The expressed purpose of the meeting is to levy a tax rate on the grand list of 1927. While this matter is not expected to be settled with any great degree of serenity, it promises to be but the opening shot for a flow of oratory on two other matters of importance, the auditing of the town accounts by experts and the project of building a new four-room school at Storrs. The request for an audit of the town books is bound to meet with objections and there will also be pros and cons on the school situation, a project still in the makings.

A motor truck driven by Louis Rabinowitz, of 117 Main street, and another truck operated by Samuel Cooper, of the Windham Grain company, figured in a collision shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon at the corner of Jackson and Main streets. Rabinowitz was driving down the grade on Jackson street with the intention of turning easterly on Main, when Cooper drove his machine into Jackson from Main street. Rabinowitz ran his truck upon the sidewalk on the west side of Jackson street in an effort to avoid a collision. The left rear fender of his truck was struck by the Cooper machine. The drivers reported to Capt. Frank McLean of the police department and agreed to settle the damage between themselves.

The members of the Methodist Episcopal church held their annual reunion in the vestry and society rooms Thursday night with over 200 in attendance. The program of entertainment was excellently given under direction of W. H. Parkhurst and Channing H. Morrill, the feature being the playing of the Kitchen Sink orchestra composed of members of the classes conducted by Mrs. Clarence O. Barrows and Mrs. Eugene E. Lewis. Three one-act comedies were presented and George Gillette, of Hartford, humorist, pleased with monologues and jokes. Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. A. D. Spellman and Mrs. Amos Bill, assisted by a group of young men and women.

Mayor Charles A. Gates, chairman of the republican committee of the town of Windham, has issued the call for a caucus to be held at the town hall on Monday, March 19, at 8:15 o'clock for the purpose of choosing delegates to the republican state and congressional conventions to be held in Hartford, April 17 and 18, to elect delegates to the republican national convention and the appointment of a state central committee. The caucus will also choose a town committee for the ensuing two years.

John Mikas, of Derby, arrested on Feb. 23, last, for driving an overloaded auto truck at Mansfield Depot, has secured a fourth continuance of his case, which was to have been heard in the Mansfield town court by Justice of the Peace Albert M. Gilman. The continuance was granted through the intercession of his employers, the Smith Construction company of Derby. Mikas was arrested by an officer of the Stafford Springs barracks state police.

Apparently unaware of a change in the fishing laws made through an enactment of the last legislature, whereby the closed season for trout does not end until April 15, enthusiasts of the sport are already taking out fishing licenses in large numbers. This year the angling for trout is permitted from April 15 until midnight of June 30, instead of beginning April 1 as in the past. The shortened season is heartily endorsed by owners and lessees of trout ponds and brooks.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lydia E. Harris were held at the late home in Eagleville at 2 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. Charles J. Somewhat belated winter weather visited this town today, accompanied by a continuous snowstorm swept by wind of considerable velocity. Several slight collisions were reported, among them being three from Jillson hill during the noon-hour rush.

STORRS MAN SUSTAINS INJURIES IN COLLISION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 9.—The bad weather conditions accounted for a severe accident about 9.15 o'clock tonight when a Paige touring car operated by Louis B. Tenney of Storrs collided with a Buick car driven by Harry E. Jones, No. 44 Union street, this city, at the corner of Valley and High streets. Jones was traveling southerly on High and Tenney was driving east on Valley street. He was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital by Jones and remained there for treatment. The accident was investigated by Sergeant Grant Bombria and Jones assumed responsibility.

OCCUM & VERSAILLES

KRUMBHOLZ-BARTON WEDDING AT BRIDE'S HOME

At the home of Mrs. Cora V. Barton and Miss Isadore Barton there was a unique and exceptionally pleasant gathering Wednesday evening at the March meeting of the Sunshine class of Versailles M. E. Sunday school. Mrs. Louis Barton and Miss Isadore Barton were the hostesses. Following the business meeting, the members found themselves forgetting the routine of the class and entering into a new phase of the evenings' pleasure, that of witnessing a wedding, in the presence of other friends and relatives. John Krumbholz, son of Andrew Krumbholz of Occum and Miss Isadore Barton were married by Rev. Harvey H. Conklin, pastor of the Versailles M. E. church, the double ring service being used. The ceremony was performed under an arch of laurel and white lilies, the wedding march from Lohengrin being played by Miss Alma Boutilier. The bride was attended by Miss Lillian Hargreaves; the best man was Howard Barton, a brother of the bride. The bride wore a gown of white satin and an embroidered veil, and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and bridal roses. "O Promise Me" and "Love Came Calling" were sung by Mrs. Louis Erlbeck and Mrs. Louis Barton, sister-in-law of the bride. The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a silk umbrella and the best man received gold cuff links. The house was prettily decorated in pink and white with a background of plants and ferns. A reception followed the ceremony and lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Krumbholz left during the evening for a trip which will include New York and the New England states. On their return they will make their home in Occum, both being in the employ of the Totokett Manufacturing company. Among the many gifts received was a chest of silver from the members of the Sunshine class and a picture from the members of Versailles M. E. church choir. DANIELSON

ASSAWAGA CO. BACK ON FULL TIME SCHEDULE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 9—A bit of good industrial news to close the week is that the big plant of the Assawaga Woolen company at Dayville is back on full time operation in all departments. This plant gives employment to about 350 people, pays a high scale of wages and is one of Killingly's most valuable textile assets. N. Lorne Greig of the company said this afternoon that the plant has been gradually building up to the point it now has reached in having all departments operating on full time. Toward the close of a winter that has been more or less replete with not encouraging news from textile plants the good news from Dayville is particularly pleasing. The Assawaga company has for years been an outstanding success with its high grade products and has run steadily when competing mills were at times idle or nearly so. The Assawaga is one of the group of mills in which Angus Park of Hanover is a guiding spirit.

Out of Alabama there came today another bit of industrial news that is of special interest to Danielson and other communities of Killingly. It has to do with the progress of the Connecticut Mills company, which came into being here nearly a score of years ago, in increasing production at its new plant at Albany-Decatur. The information is that the officials in charge of operations down there are organizing a night shift and that when these additional employes are at work there will be 750 persons on the payroll, which probably is as many as were employed at the Danielson plant at any time during the years that the concern was so successful in the north.

Grizzly Old Winter reasserted itself today by turning on a snowstorm that had blanketed the countryside to a depth of nearly three inches by four o'clock and was still going strong. Kicking in out of the east this forenoon, it was a mild-mannered disturbance until along about the noon hour and then began to take on the characteristics of an old-fashioned snowstorm. It may be related that it was an unwelcome storm to the great majority of people. Having coming through practically all of the winter season without a snowstorm worthy of the name, the arrival of one at this period of March evoked no cheering. State highway crews were ready early this afternoon to cope with any developments of the storm threatening to make difficulties for travel on the trunk line roads.

Hi-Y and Tri-Y groups gathered at the Parish house of the Westfield Congregational church last evening, holding separate meetings. The Hi-Y group used the new ritual for the first time. With this group the discussion period was given over to the consideration of the subject Popularity. The Tri-Y group, continuing its studies of great men, took up the life of Henry Van Dyke. Misses Lucile Caron and Alice Jordan leading in this period. The subject for the discussion period was What I Want My Boy Friends to Think of Me.

Up at Dayville a building that has been a landmark for ever so long—the big barn at the hotel—is being torn down to make way for an improvement that involves the establishment of an eating place and another kind of filling station—for motorists—during the summer season. The barn, still in good state of repair, has housed hundreds of horses during the years since it was built. For a great many years, prior to the coming of the trolley car and the later automobile age, it was a livery and sales stable. As he could recall this afternoon, L. E. Kenedy said that hotel property, including the barn, was in the Kennedy family for 56 years, and his impression is others had the property prior to that. Mr. Kennedy's grandfather, L. M. Kennedy, and his uncle, F. S. Kennedy had the hotel and stable for the best part of two generations. The barn, probably at least 75 years old, had accommodations for 50 horses, and at one time F. S. Kennedy had 63, stabling some of them in another barn nearby that since has been destroyed by fire. Modern means of transportation eventually brought the barn into disuse, and the time has now arrived when the space it occupies can be used to advantage in new enterprises.

Announcement is made that Powdrell and Alexander, operating five mills in the town of Killingly, two of them in Danielson, have completed arrangements under which the drapery fabrics of the Dartmouth Mfg., of New Bedford are to be sold exclusively by them. This agreement will allow the local concern, which has its own sales organization, to enter the piece goods field in a big way. Heretofore the Dartmouth company products have been handled by large converters and jobbers throughout the country. The ultimate purchaser will benefit by the new arrangement, which is keeping with a principle on which the success of Powdrell and Alexander has been found—selling direct to the trade and eliminating all jobbers and middlemen wherever possible.

Last evening's talk to the members of the Rotary club at their weekly supper and meeting was given by Manager William Sangster of the local division of the Eastern Connecticut Power company. Mr. Sangster talked of electric power and traced its development during the past ten or twelve years, referring especially to some of the wonderful things that have been done in western states and also of the development in the western part of Connecticut.

This week end is expected to bring a rush for assistance in making out income tax returns by those in Danielson and surrounding territory who have as yet failed to make such returns. The time limit for giving attention to this matter is next Thursday, March 15.

Amateur boxing is to be revived here in the immediate future. Promoter Frank Barber announced this afternoon that in conjunction with the Headquarters detachment he is to put on bouts at the state armory. This plan has been in the process of being worked out for several weeks, and all necessary permissions and arrangements have now been completed. The first series of bouts will come on the night of March 23, and there are to be eight matches on the card. Use of the armory makes possible a revival of boxing here, and will put Danielson on an amateur circuit that includes Norwich, Willimantic and Putnam.

Study of the budget of the town of Killingly, as prepared by the selectmen for the current fiscal year, leaves the average citizen impressed that the new tax rate cannot be less than 24 1-2 mills if the town is going to meet its obligations, and it must do that. The budget will be up for consideration next Monday evening, when the rate is to be fixed for the ensuing year.

Tonight the Church school council of the Danielson Federation of Churches held its first monthly meeting of the year, the January and February meetings having been omitted. The meeting tonight was at the Westfield Congregational church and opened with a supper served at 6.30. The book What and Where is God? was considered, and Rev. Harding W. Gaylord led the discussion. Separate business meetings followed the discussion.

PUTNAM

RECALLS BATTLE BETWEEN MONITOR AND MERRIMAC

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 9—Each year the ninth day of March always brings to Thomas L. Taylor, a happy anniversary, for it was on that day in 1862 that the famous battle of the ironclads the Merrimac and the Monitor fought one of the greatest battles in naval history at Hampton Roads, Virginia.

"Tommy" Taylor, for years a resident of Putnam and an ex-slave, was one of the crew of the famous Union ship "Monitor."

Mr. Taylor was born a slave in Currituck county, North Carolina, and during his early years worked on a southern plantation. Tommy was 14 years of age when the Confederates fired the gun on Fort Sumpter, that started the Civil war. He told a Bulletin representative that after the news telling them that the great struggle had started, he and another slave boy started to make a dash away for their freedom. Taking a horse that belonged to their master, they left the plantation on March 1, 1862.

They reached Hampton Roads about three days later. Tommy was taken in as a cabin boy for one of the officers aboard the Monitor, having his sleeping quarters aboard the curious design of naval craft known as the Yankee cheese box on a raft.

When the famous battle between the two ships started Tommy was put into service and known as a powder monkey. His duties were to pass up powder to the gunners in the turret.

Mr. Taylor said the captain of the ship told each man to "Give 'em hell" and then history was in the making. Mr. Taylor related the story of how all through the day the ships exchanged shots in the furious heat in the turret and how he suffered from the shrapnel that flew through the air. He said that the crisis came when the Merrimac attempted to ram the little Monitor and failing to do any serious damage, it withdrew. The veteran of the battle went on and told how after the battle the crew was taken to the hospital at Fort Monroe for treatment for wounds received in action.

After he was released he enlisted in the navy and served on other Monitors, that were built after the original had proved its usefulness. Mr. Taylor was honorably discharged from the service on July 13, 1865.

After his discharge he returned to the south and became a sailor in the West Indies. After a while in the south Mr. Taylor came north, taking up his residence in Boston, later going to Salem and Worcester.

About 40 years ago he came to Putnam and was employed in various places as a janitor. Mr. Taylor retired from active work some years ago, when he was placed on a pension, the government repaying him for his service during the war. He was married but his wife died some years ago. He has a son and a daughter living, but not in Putnam.

Mr. Taylor lives alone at his home on Oak hill. An elderly lady who is the widow of a Civil war veteran keeps house for him.

Mr. Taylor is in good health, he is seen about the streets every afternoon and does his daily shopping. He is a well read man and is highly interested in children. He is one of the last, if not the only living survivor of the famous little union ironclad.

Each year for the past few years it has been a common occurrence to read an article in the newspapers stating that the last and only surviving member of the crew of that famous ship had died, but each time such a statement is published, one has only to come to Putnam to interview another who was on that crew. Mr. Taylor is not sure whether there are any other living survivors, but his residence is certainly an honor to Putnam.

The adjourned session of the short calendar term of the Windham county superior court opened at Putnam Friday with a full list of assignments. Judge Edward M. Yeomans occupied the bench.

As many cases were not wholly prepared for hearing the lawyers requested that the judge place the cases over to another date. The only case tried Friday was that of the uncontested divorce list.

Attorney Ernest C. Morse of Putnam presented the case of Gladys Andrews Alexander vs. Robert H. Alexander. Mrs. Alexander was called to testify, stating that she was married in Putnam to Mr. Alexander on March 4, 1921, and went to Charlotte, North Carolina, to reside. She stated that later they came to Putnam. Mrs. Alexander told the court that her husband then went to Willimantic. There he refused to assume the responsibilities of a family and spent his earnings on other cares. Mrs. Andrews said that she was forced to work to support her child that was born on July 28, 1924. In November of that year her husband left her. She then came to Putnam to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Andrews of Farrows street.

Other witnesses testified that they were in a position to know that Alexander had never returned to his wife, during a period of three years. Upon these testimonials Judge Yeomans granted the decree of divorce and the custody of the child on grounds of desertion.

County Sheriff Charles A. Gates then ordered that the court be adjourned until March 14, Wednesday at 10.45 a. m.

After a week of exceptionally good March weather, many hopes for an early spring were blasted by a cold wave and snow storm that hit eastern New England late Thursday. Early Friday morning a light snow started to fall and steadily increased during the forenoon. Late in the afternoon snow was three inches deep and was still falling heavy. In many of the stores and business places in the downtown section, the older residents were bringing back to mind the blizzard of March 1888 and recalling how the snow came down in that memorable month, when only a week before the natives of the town were beginning to discard the flannels.

Thursday no radio weather reports held out any time as to when the snow would let up. The flakes were coming from the northeast and were of considerable size.

There was a large attendance at the Second Congregational church Thursday evening to witness the showing of the chronicles of America. Thursday evening's showing was entitled "Vicennes". The movie portrayed the way the plucky American settlers suppressed the British in the northwest, and took that portion of the country for the colonies. The picture was of much historical value as it was entertaining.

The Punktal Lens Manufacturing company furnished the church with a two reel picture explaining the modern scientific ways of correcting eye diseases. This was followed by a showing of a film entitled "The Re-Awakening of Rip Van Winkle." The movie was released by the Radio Corporation of America. It clearly outlined the methods of electrical research work in the line of broadcasting.

Rev. James F. English, pastor of the church, spoke briefly during a short intermission stating that the "Chronicles of America" were brought to Putnam by the numerous requests of the late Charles L. Torrey, who was highly interested in American history.

Sunday evening at the "friendly evening" service there will be filmed a motion picture of the late war. The picture is taken from the book "Forever After". There is no admission. A cordial welcome is extended to all by the church society to attend.

After a rest of 24 hours, the Hook and Ladder company of the central fire station was called to the home of George Sampson on Pleasant street to extinguish a chimney fire. The fire was quickly subdued without damage. This was the 20th call of the year for the fire department.

The Odd Fellows were again pushed down to defeat Thursday evening when their contest with the Knights of Columbus ended. The Odd Fellows bowed in the bridge contest and in most of the bid whist engagements, the score being 10 to 3. During the games it looked as if the Kaceys would break their winning streak, that has continued for many weeks. The total score to date now stands at 122 to 66 in favor of the Kaceys. The Knights won or lost as follows: At bridge, Charron and Benoit won from McIntyre and Perry. L. Garaca and C. Giraca won from Carpenter and J. Gifford. At bid whist the outcome was C. Bove and A. Giraca won from Lavigne and Allard, Donlin and Rice won from E. Andrews and H. Morrarty; MacCauley and T. Hannifan won from Wilson and H. Johnson; J. Bove and Martin won from K. Andrews and Shippee; St. Onge and Remillard won from Tourtellotte and Warren; Welch and L. Giraca won from Chandler and A. Johnson; Bourgeois and Riley won from Card and Ferns; Montville and Renshaw won from Adams and Arnold; Bologna and Light lost to the Strombelis brothers; E. Phaneuf and M. Hannifan lost to Campbell and C. Tourtellotte; Irving and Igoe lost to G. Gifford and F. Morrarty.

Principal E. L. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson are now in Hinsdale, N. H. They were called there by the sudden illnes sof Mrs. Robinson's mother.

Augustus H. Cutler of Bellevue street, who has been in a critical condition suffering from a stroke of apoplexy was reported Friday as unchanged. Thursday physicians stated that they held little hope for his recovery unless the crisis came within a few hours.

Edward Anson, president of the Regional chain theatres corporation of Boston, Mass., was in Putnam Friday on business.

Little talk as to who might be selected to fill the vacant alderman's chair in the city council is heard about town. The sudden resignation of Alderman Carroll left the democratic city committee unprepared to submit any names to the council for recommendation. The voters of the city will be notified that there will be a special city meeting on Tuesday evening April 3 to elect a successor to Willis B. Carroll, resigned.

Many accidents were closely avoided Friday on hills throughout the city after the snow had covered the ground. On Wheaton's hill on School street a large car driven by Frank Whitman skidded and collided with a large bus. As both cars were going at a slow rate of speed no one was injured in either car. The lighter machine received a damaged fender.

Other cars on this hill were sliding down the incline without control after the brakes had been applied. The state highway department was busy late in the afternoon sanding all the grades in the city to prevent any collisions.

Funeral services for Presby Whittimore were held at St. Phillips church Thursday afternoon. Burial was in the Grove street cemetery. The bearers were Andrew V. Frost, Lewis T. Champlin, Francis H. Murphy and Arthur LaRose, representing the Belding Hemingway company, where Mr. Whittimore was employed up until the time of his death. Committal services were held at the grave, in charge of Rev. Edwin B. Wright, the new pastor of the church.

Charles H. Murphy of this city has been elected president of the Freshman class of Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, Conn. Murphy is a Putnam boy and a graduate of Putnam high school class of 1926.

Miss Amelia Palmer returned to Willimantic Sunday afternoon. Miss Palmer is the proud owner of eight fine sheep, six of which have already given birth to two lambs.

Mrs. Birdsey Palmer spent Friday and Saturday with her mother, Mrs. Prentice Miner, of Westerly road. Mrs. Miner is very feeble.

Many inquiries concern the beacon light which flashes continuously at intervals of five seconds in the northwest from six p. m. to six a. m. Where is it and what is it is the question?

No ice has been gathered here since none of sufficient strength to bear up a horse and plow has yet been formed. During much of the coldest weather the pond on the Robert C. Palmer company has remained open without so much as a coating of ice on large portions of it. The query is whether more and warmer springs have opened up in this pond.

Nature in the form of the weather has repaired the roads for a time, so that the trailers are again at work drawing ties from Dean's mill to Jewett City.

Mr. Prentiss stressed the fact that one did not have to go to foreign countries to view beautiful scenery, as that at home was equally as beautiful. After the closing song refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed. An invitation to attend Norwich grange meeting, March 28, was accepted. NOANK

Will the Baptist church bell be the fire alarm or will a new siren be installed in the village? This is the question being asked. For the fire this week the rope was pulled hard and brought out 25 firemen and a crowd of people. All depends on the condition of the wind; if it is the wrong way, the people on Shipyard avenue cannot hear the bell. It's the same way on Elm street. The mill has a whistle but it is hard to hear that; a call might go in for a fire with the night watchman on the third floor and before he could make the telephone office, would have a good start. Nothing could save the property and more might go with it. Chief Parks is for a drive around the village for a new siren to be placed on top of the fire house. A new siren would cost $350. Do the people want it, so everybody can hear it at all times? The firemen cannot pay for it. Are the people ready to help, or will they let the church bell go for a while? Chief Parks will see them all. A movie is talked of to help start the siren fund. Then again, if a fire broke out on Church street, to reach the end of the street would take 1,000 feet of hose. How can only 600 feet do the work? The fire company is up against it with only four places on the street to get water. Of course, they have the river to fall back on. Noank has over 400 houses and all would be in danger if a bad fire broke out and the wind were right. For a fire on Prospect Hill there is nothing the fire company could do but stand aud let it burn.

About 20 people from the village went to Grange hall in Mystic Thursday night and saw "Mrs. Tubbs do her bit" in a play. Dancing followed.

Noank Red Sox girls' basketball team went to Middletown recently by automobiles and was in charge of the coach, Miss Joe Shandeor, for a return game with the Happy Five girls' team. In the armory, where the floor is four times larger than the town hall, Miss Marion McDonald said it would take a week before one could get to the other end of the hall. Arriving there, Wednesday noon, the girls were met by Coach Annie Wiggins, of the Happy Five team. They were taking them to the Friendship club, where a Blackstone chowder was served, with Middletown doughnuts and tea. In the afternoon, before 500 fans, the battle took place. The fans watched a great game and when the first half was over the score stood, Happy Five 14, Red Sox 13. With only two minutes to play, Noank girls were behind five points. Capt. Marion MacDonald called for action. Miss Jennie Robertson made five points and that tied the score, 24 to 24. The overtime quarter got started and both sides could not find the hoop. Then Miss Jennie Durr shot a field goal that won the game for the Happy Five team. Score: Middletown 26, Noank 25. Stars for Happy Five team, Miss Durr and Miss Burr; for Noank Red Sox, Miss Robertson and Miss McDonald. Later, a dance was held at the Friendship club for the girls.

The Missionary meeting was held with Mrs. S. W. Throop Thursday afternoon.

There was an all-day meeting of the Ladies' Aid society in the parlors of the Congregational church Tuesday. Thirty were present at dinner.

Arthur Bruce has purchased from William Thomas his place on the road from Lebanon to Willimantic and will soon move his family from East Lyme.

A variety supper was served by the League of Woman Voters and their friends in the parlors of the Congregational church Friday evening. This was followed by an entertainment in the auditorium of the high school. Two short plays were given, two piano trios by Mrs. Fred Burgess, Mrs. David Pitcher and Mrs. William Pultz, with encores; a solo by Miss Julia Standish. Members of the league expressed acknowledgment to all who contributed food and in other ways helped them, Lebanon, Goshen and Franklin people.

The special town meeting held in the town hall Monday was very largely attended.

Friday, March 2, Rev. A. G. Littlefield, C. S. Goodwin and Thomas Fowler were in New London to attend a birthday party given for W. A. Harvey. Mr. Harvey has so far recovered from his injuries caused by a fall several weeks ago, as to be able to come downstairs, but has not been out of doors yet.

Revere Beebe is spending a few days with his mother at Quaker Hill.

The Men's club held its March meeting in the club room Tuesday night. Two new members were voted in—William Thomas and George Martin. Rev. A. G. Littlefield and Claude Cummings served a lunch of doughnuts, cheese and coffee.

Mrs. Wilfred Scott, her son, Allen, and daughter, Marjorie, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bruce, of East Lyme, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Bruce.

HANOVER

The South Terrace would seem to be the afflicted portion of the village this week as the names of Mrs. Jane Abelard and Master Albert Wilson must be added to the number of those ill.

A number of local people are availing themselves of the unusual privilege afforded by adding to the large gatherings at the special services held in Norwich this week.

JEWETT CITY

SHEA BROS. STORE 500 TONS FROM LEONARD'S ICE POND

Shea Bros. were harvesting ice on Leonard's Cove in Pachaug Friday. Thursday, a house was put up and Friday about five hundred tons of ten and one-half inch ice was cut. Two of the five houses on the Dorrville field are still empty and the other three a little over half filled. The Chenette ice houses are not filled, either here or in Blissville.

Theodore Sterry of Norwich is to give violin selections at the Baptist church service Sunday evening.

Rev. H. L. Arnold, of Franklin, is to preach as a candidate in Pachaug church Sunday.

Miss Arlene Sullivan, recently operated upon for appendicitis, came to her home on Thursday.

An entertainment to be given in the Congregational church vestry Friday evening had to be postponed as it was not thought advisable for Mrs. Frink to risk the traveling from Danielson to Jewett City. The bus drivers reported four automobiles off the road between Jewett City and Danielson.

A young blizzard made very bad traveling for machines all day Friday, but by night the storm had ceased.

The funeral of Perry Merritt of Voluntown was held Wednesday in Gilbert's funeral parlor, Jewett City, Rev. J. W. Carter conducted the services. Burial was in River Bend cemetery, Westerly.

Rev. Sherrod Soule, of Hartford, will preach at the Congregational church Sunday morning.

NORRIS RESOLUTION KILLED

By the action of the house the resolution introduced by Senator Norris calling for a constitutional amendment which would change the date for the assembling of congress and for the inauguration of the president has met defeat. Having failed to get the needed two thirds majority it must be considered disposed of.

No little weight must have been attached to the opposition offered by Congressman Merritt of this state when he insisted that there should be delayed until it was shown that there was need for such a change in the constitution. In his opinion it had not been shown that there was need for such a move and that there was a real demand for it and that until it could be shown that the present plan is harmful it would be better to let well enough alone.

The aim of the Norris resolution was to bring the members of a newly elected legislature into action much quicker than is now possible. It would have put an end to the short session which follows national elections and in which members of congress who have been voted out of office are still carrying on the work of congress even though a complete party control may have taken place.

Had the house acted favorably upon the resolution and the differences between the measures as adopted by the respective houses were reconciled, it would then have been a case of submitting the proposed amendment, bearing the endorsement of congress, to the legislatures of the respective states for ratification.

By the action of the house the matter is again halted. It is not probable that it will come up in any different form at this session. It has gotten further than it has on previous occasions following senate approval when action by the house has not been forthcoming.

Upsetting a provision of the Constitution is not the easiest thing to do. It is possible to anticipate great improvements over what was enacted in the early days of this republic but the policy of making haste slowly when it comes to such vital matters is still upheld by the house.

MUST LIVE UP TO AGREEMENT

When the foreign relations committee of the senate reports unfavorably on the Heflin resolution which would have the president recall the marines from Nicaragua immediately, it did only what was to be expected but it put Chairman Borah in an unusual position in view of the fact that he has been a leader in the opposition to our efforts in that republic.

In view of the agreement which was made by this country with the Nicaraguan government and with the leaders of the party opposing the government that this country would undertake the responsibility of obtaining a full and fair election in that country, there are obligations which we must discharge. That is why the marines are there and they are to remain there to insure such an election and to give such protection as is necessary to American lives and property.

To withdraw the marines at this time would be to turn the country back to revolution. It would be unfair to the liberals who gave up their arms as well as to the government which has placed dependence upon assistance from this country in getting a stable government through an open and fair election to withdraw now. We are there under an agreement and it is a case of staying until our part of the contract is completed, however much we might have preferred peaceful conditions which would not have required our presence there at all.

For the senate to urge the president to recall the marines under such circumstances would be ridiculous. None could realize this more than the foreign relations committee and they were prompt to confess it. It isn't a desirable job. It wasn't undertaken because it was thought it would be, but the good faith of this country is at stake and it is to be expected that it will go through with its agreement and see that Nicaragua is not turned back into the hands of the revolutionists. The election will not be held until fall. What will happen at that time, or upon the new government there taking control rests for the future to reveal. Those are problems with which it is impossible to deal at the present time.

GETTING PROTECTION

On an Indiana interurban line there have been so many fatalities at a grade crossing that the electric company has agreed to have its cars stop before crossing the highway. The crossing is a bad one because a building obscures the south bound cars and the highway users to a surprising extent are not even mindful of a danger which threatens their existence.

The more dangerous, or the more hidden, a crossing the greater is the need of some adequate means of giving warning to the highway users that a train is approaching. Even though there is a bell or a light which operates when the train is within a certain distance there are those who refuse to pay any attention to it, or getting the signal proceed to step on the gas to try to beat out the train.

With the stopping of the electric trains at that crossing there will be done what is demanded of trolley cars in this state before they can cross a railroad track. And the success of that action in preventing accidents at such points would be equally pronounced at all crossings if those who use them paid more attention to the warnings which are given for their protection.

What has occurred in Indiana is characteristic of records at similar points elsewhere for the most dangerous places are the ones where some drivers insist upon using the least common sense. In view of what has happened to others, in view of what can be expected at these points if caution is thrown to the winds, it is surprising that so many yield to the temptation to risk their lives rather than to go slow for a brief time and make sure that the crossing can be passed in safety.

The heedlessness of the present day, even among those who rush out into the streets without looking to see whether they are running into trouble, is surprising. It is responsible for many of the bad accidents, but it is apparent that the human agent must bear the burden of responsibility for what happens to himself and those with him when he refuses to be careful.

STRICT ENFORCEMENT

In taking up his duties as the registrar of motor vehicles in Massachusetts in place of Registrar Goodwin, Captain Parker makes the statement that "there is to be no change in the policy of impartial and strict enforcement of the motor vehicle laws."

In thus endorsing the manner in which his predecessor acted during the eight years he was in that office he serves notices that those who are disposed to think that different policies and methods are to be followed will be disappointed.

Mr. Goodwin was ever active in behalf of the enforcement of motor vehicle laws. That he accomplished much in that direction, even in spite of much opposition, is perfectly evident to the people of that state. This doesn't mean that there are no violations, no fatalities, no accidents on the Massachusetts highways, but one dreads to think of what they might have amounted to but for the manner in which Mr. Goodwin applied himself and his office to their prevention by bringing the violators to justice.

That there is to be strict enforcement in keeping with Goodwin policies should be good news to the most of the people of the neighboring state. It will do much to overcome the loss of the registrar's services in an office for which he was particularly well fitted, but where he found it impossible to confine his activities or restrain his talk to his own circle.

The responsibilities of the registrar's office are many. The public put much dependence upon careful and thorough administration and if it applauds the new registrar's statement as to policy it will be only what ought to be expected. It is entirely possible that the Parker efforts will accomplish more than the Goodwin efforts because of a difference in method.

RESPONSIBILITY OF FLIERS

For the better protection of those in cities aviators are required by law to fly at such a height so that they can avoid crashing into city streets in case an accident should happen to the machine while over a city. This means protection to the people and protection to property.

It is not surprising that people living in the country should feel much the same way about wanting their lives and property protected. How far the suit of the Nebraska farmers against the Standard Aircraft corporation will get is uncertain but they cannot understand why their property should be destroyed without compensation because those in flying machines have done damage through forced landings or the crashing of planes.

This rather looks as if the legislators would have a job cut out for them in dealing with situations of this kind unless the courts are able to meet the situation under existing law. The hope is that aviation will be so improved that there will be no cases where airplanes drop onto farm buildings or endanger the lives of those who stay on the ground, but even under the best regulated methods of transportation after years of improvements there are still accidents, so that it is too much to expect that those who fly are going to completely escape them. It is also to be remembered, and those who fly must bear it in mind, that whatever they drop will fall to the earth and that distance does not make it any softer for the person that is hit. Without any question the flier must have and abide by his regulations concerning traffic lanes and conduct quite the same as those who fly along the highways.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Oh, the beautiful snow.

Is this going to be the last call for the snow shovel brigade?

Spring is coming, but nearer is the last day for filing your income tax return.

Are your particular stars showing up satisfactorily in the southern training camps?

Before long we ought to hear from those wild geese which are waiting to get back to their northern lakes.

The man on the corner says: Hold your breath for the next two days while we pass the blizzard anniversary.

Three more weeks and that flock of cars which has been put up for the winter will be flying over the highways and contributing to the street congestion.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

In plying their trade, March winds are not always very gallant! They are certainly lacking in refinement of feeling. A few evenings since the writer's tender heart was touched by what he saw on the street. A young miss about 14 years old was the victim of the wicked March wind. Without a moment's notice there came one of those unreasonable swirling gusts that lifted her hat from her classic brow and sent it rolling into the gutter. She clapped her hands on her head and found it still in place, and the hair also on, but its permanent wave had been interfered with. Then her bright red lips, which showed the vitality of her blood, moved, and to all appearances she said something that was not intended for other ears and much less for publication. She put the somewhat battered hat on her brow, and then hurried on to church where she was to lead a Christian Endeavor society, the subject being, "To err is human."

The writer of these paragraphs cannot honestly be called a pessimist in the views he takes of life in general. He does not believe that the life of man whom God places in this world is doomed to ultimate failure. The general progress of human events may have their temporary periods of obscurity, but from the very beginning of time the general trend of life has been upward and onward. But this ought not to be allowed to blind our eyes to the existence of obstacles that at times seem to hinder general advancement. One of those things is the present condition of our smaller rural churches. It is very easy to see that when a community as a whole dwindles, all of its component parts dwindle with it. The city has made a bid for the stalwart boy who once was satisfied with the farm. He answers the appeal, and the old farm is abandoned. Someone buys it in time, but he is not interested in the village church. At present we see no remedy.

The American people cannot honestly be called sun-worshipers in the sense that the ancient Assyrians and Egyptians were. But the very fact that they worshipped "Old Sol" shows the inherent place the light occupies in the human heart, in all ages of the world. Of course in this age of the world, no civilized people worship the sun, but we feel its efficiency just as truly, and even more so, than those who did. If any evidence of this were needed one need only to point to that scheme for utilizing the sun's rays through the daylight saving scheme. Before many moons pass there will be the annual discussion of the subject, but one can hardly fail to notice that each year the opposition is much less intensive. While it may not be safe to dogmatize in the matter, the logic of the evidence seems to be gradually petering out. Some one has said, "In five years not a voice will be raised against it."

While only a part of the Lenten period has passed, up to date, yet it seems that it has taken a more vital hold on the public generally than usual. The very fact that the little folder entitled The Fellowship of Prayer which is used by one denomination has sent out to the churches several hundred thousand shows that the interest is great. This is twice as many as were ever called for in any one year before. The newspapers are also more helpful in the matter than heretofore by publishing the topic for each day. Pastors also are gratified by the attendance on special services that up to the present have been attended by far greater numbers than in former years. When one thinks of what those 40 days in the life of our Lord meant to His own and all succeeding generations, there is the best of reasons for putting special activity into the Lenton season.

The age in which we live may properly be called the safety-device age, brought along by the increase of dangers, to which we are all exposed. It is a good illustration of the old saying that "necessity is the mother of invention." For many years in factories and other workships where the employes were exposed to belts and gears, it was quite essential that life and limb should be protected from these glaring dangers. From this the idea has spread to all places where human life is exposed. Railroads where the perils are particularly great safety-devices have become an organic part of the system, and in so doing death and accident have been reduced to a minimum. For much of this we are indebted to life insurance companies whose interest it is to do all that is humanly possible for the protection of precious human life. Let us also be thankful that along moral and spiritual lines forces have been at work to protect the morals of the children from moral disaster.

It is perfectly natural to rejoice over the rapidly passing winter, but "let us not crow until we are out of the woods." Let us not forget that between now and the middle of April there is ample time for things to happen weatherwise. Back in the times of the Caesar's they used to say: "Beware of the Ides of March!" The writer has a very clear recollection (not of the Ides of March) but of March 10, 1888. It was as fine a day as one could expect at the season of the year. But the next day—March 11! Whose pen is able to describe the change? It would seem that all the furies known to history or mythology were let loose on a helpless world! If the tremendous avalanche of snow had only been satisfied to lie quietly on the earth's bosom the consequences would not have been so terrible. But the didoes it kicked up were unparalelled in this country.

"The Joy of Good Will"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Love never faileth" (I Corinthians 13:8). Read: I John 4:7-13.

MEDITATION: Good will is the best medicine for the soul. One of the commonest causes of unrest and unhappiness is distrust of others that brings with it fear, suspicion, and other poisonous states of mind. The antidote for all this is trust and good will. To love thy neighbor as thyself means also to believe in thy neighbor as in thyself. Is it too much to ask that a person should think of his associates in the family, the office, and the shop as being at least as good as himself, moved by motives that are as high and by intentions that are as well meaning? Good-will will enable one to do this. Not only will this good-will produce joy in oneself; it will get the best out of others.

PRAYER: Lord, so fill us with gentleness and kindness that we may dwell among our fellows with a perfect heart and have joy and faith in each other. Make us true to all the tender relations of the home that we may not fail where we should be at our best. Amen.

A PHANTOM HOP

"Now what a shame I did not know your secret leaning to a curl this morning and so you have to wait on me," said Miss Nangle, "but lay back now and relax yourself and I will perform to your satisfaction.

"That old lady you saw go out is Mrs. Bowen. And old as she is she has the joy of living resuscitated the same as when she was young, and when there are no other customers she tells I and Bertha the social events and innocent pranks of both her girl and innocent pranks of both her girl were a caution.

"One time her sister, that was the beautiful Miss Pansy Field and the belle of all and sundry, was with Mrs. Bowen at a summer resort. Pansy was beset with suitors until her brother-in-law would say couldn't she come to a decision so as to finally put the sufferers-in-vain at rest? But in those fabulous days of yore a young lady of pure refinement would prevent declarations when availing, which had the effect that hope, as I say to Bertha, sprang eternal, and passion gnawed the hearts of all.

"Oh, Mildred, will you just go on the top shelf of the cupboard and hand me a fresh bottle of that hair tonic for this head?

"Well, it seems like one of the innocent diversions of the dear deceased past was to drape and also envelop the persons of young ladies and their opposites in sheets and pillow slips. And this form of habiliments in combination with the light fantastic toe was yclept a phantom hop, because you might be weaving in the patterns of the waltz or the shottische with him to who you was all the world or the antipodes.

"So Mrs. Bowen was in heavy demand to enfold the young men. And it came to pass that one of Pansy Field's suitors came to her to be enveloped. Now she knew that, although he was eligible in not alone family but fortune, he was timid of declaring his passion, and Pansy despite being so beautiful was very timid and also shy. So given to an occasional practical joke, Mrs. Bowen, being sorry for John Green, and of possible desire to see him crowned with joy in his matrimonials, made a mark upon John Green invisible to all but she. Then afterward in secret, she donned ghostly raiment and mingled in the dance, and being of stature the same as her young sister, and also of voice which could not have been deciphered over the telephone if such had been invented, she might easily be the selfsame Pansy.

"As she could foretell, by means of the sign upon the graceful figure of John Green, this madcap matron soon was clasped in the dance with him who pined in vain. And after the dance he led her to a nook and with encouragement undreamed in hope that was usually despair, plead his suit, which she, in low tones, but tender, yet with a ripple like a suppressed desire to smile, accepted. And then she hastily flitted into disappearance.

"Mrs. Bowen could not inform I and Bertha the effects on John Green of love's young vision so long delayed. But she did plainly reveal the enraged but exquisite Pansy Field's temper when informed she was plighted by her terrible sister who in the guise of a phantom had received the avowal and chaste passionate salute of him who she had determined to never under any circumstances wed. Yet, what could honor coupled with fear of discovery and laughter worse than the blackest scandal, choose?

"And so, as I say to Bertha, it was a long lane that had no turning, for once embroiled in the labyrinth of her sister's wicked imposture, why, she that was a belle as Miss Pansy Field, walked to the altar and exchanged vows on constancy with John Green who had proposed to not alone the wrong girl but a married woman and the mother of four children.

"So that was Mrs. Bowen, who is at least 78 years old, but as erect as the ramrod, and tells this diversion and others by reason that the Greens moved west and have been happy ever after.

"There, your wave is not alone becoming but very refined and just the thing for a person like you are. Thank you. See you some more!"—Exchange.

Sunday Morning Talk

LIKE HIM.

But we all, with open face, beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory even as by the spirit of the Lord. 2 Cor. 3, 4.

Changed into His image! Not perfectly—no, never perfectly in this world. The reflected image of the sun in the lake is very different from the sun in the heavens. If its ceases to shine, as when a cloud passes over its face, the image in the water will be lost. If you disturb the smooth surface of the lake, the likeness of the sun will be broken into glimmering fragments. It is still the image of the sun. So it is with Christ's likeness in the heart of the believer. If a cloud of unbelief or worldliness comes between the image vanishes. Then the heart is troubled by doubt or fear, how broken the likeness often is! But whether dimly or brightly appearing, it is likeness to Jesus still. And let us not be discouraged with our lack of likeness to reflect the Jesus. Let it comfort the heart to reflect that Jesus may see His likgness where we can hardly discern it at all, just as the portrait of a child will sometimes seem better to a parent's eye than a stranger. There are touches of resemblance which only love can see.

Not that this should content us. We ought not to be satisfied with a likeness which only the eye of God can see. We must strive to be so like Christ that the world can see Him in us. May our every day lives be an open book read by all that we have been and learned of the meek and lowly Jesus, and may our love for Him inspire a love for those whom Christ came to save, to die an ignominous death on the cross. What are we doing for lost souls? Are we striving? Are we praying? Are we living epistles known and read of all men that we have been with Jesus?—The works which shall declare our lives to every one that comes in contact with us, and which He at last shall own, as proving us of the same heavenly lineage with Himself—children of God and joint heirs of Jesus Christ.

INCOME TAX TIPS

Traveling expenses form an important item in the income-tax returns of many taxpayers. To obtain the deduction, certain regulations must be observed.

The taxpayer is required to attach to his return a statement showing the nature of business in which engaged, number of days away from home during the taxable year on account of business, total amount of expenses incidental to meals and lodging while absent from home on business, and total amount of "other expenses incidental to travel and claimed as a deduction." Among the "other expenses" are tips, which are held to be a part of traveling expenses, provided they are reasonable in amount.

Traveling expenses are deductible only when the trip is on business. They are limited to such expenses as are reasonable and necessary in the conduct of the business and directly attributable to it.

Traveling expenses incurred in connection with a journey to another city to accept or seek employment are not deductible. Suburbanites who commute daily from their homes to their places of business are not permitted to deduct the cost of transportation, it being a personal expense.

Claims for deductions for traveling expenses must be substantiated, when required by the commissioner of internal revnue, by records showing in detail the amount and nature of the expenses incurred.

Former Norwich Leaders

Hon. Hugh H. Osgood
(From Norwich Bulletin, Oct. 23, 1899)

The news of the death of Hon. Hugh H. Osgood, which became generally known about town Sunday evening, caused deep regret on every hand.

Hugh Henry Osgood was a native of Pomfret and was born Oct. 10, 1821, the son of Artemas Osgood and Salome Johnson. In 1835 he came to Norwich and entered the drug store of Samuel Tyler & Son, where he learned all branches of the business.

In March, 1842, he started a drug store on Main street with Charles Lee under the firm name of Lee & Osgood, and since 1864, when Mr. Lee died, he had managed the business alone. In these years an immense business was built up, and the concern became the largest wholesale and retail house in eastern Connecticut.

Mr. Osgood took an interest in public affairs in Norwich from the first, and was a member of the common council for several terms. He was also one of the oldest members of the fire department in this city. He was originally a whig but upon the organization of the republican party he espoused its cause and continued a firm supporter of its principles until his death.

During the Civil war he was a warm supporter of the administration and was made a member of the staff of Gov. W. A. Buckingham, with the rank of colonel. He rendered most valuable service to the state, often being sent on important missions by Governor Buckingham. In Norwich he was very active and did much work in aiding in the raising and equipping of troops. He was a member of the Loyal league, an organization devoted to furthering the interests of the Union cause.

In 1875 he was elected mayor of the city by the republicans and held the office a year, when he resigned. In 1877 he was again elected chief magistrate and filled the position until 1886, when he declined re-election. He was a very popular mayor and discharged the duties very efficiently during the long term. He introduced many reforms in city affairs during his term of office, among them being a complete sewage system extending throughout the city and the institution of the present system of fire alarm telegraph.

In financial circles he was for many years an influential figure and was probably connected with more financial institutions at the time of his death than any citizen of Norwich.

He was president of the Worcester Thread company of Worcester, Mass., the Sterling Dyeing and Finishing company of Sterling, the Uncas Paper company, The Bulletin association, the Goodwin Cork company, and the Dime Savings bank of Norwich. He was for many years president of the Norwich Bleaching, Dyeing and Printing company and upon its absorption by the United States Finishing company of New York he was made vice president of the new concern.

For a number of years he held the presidency of The Bulletin company. He was a director of the Ashland Woolen company of Jewett City, the Yantic Woolen company, the Richmond Stove company, the Thames National bank, the First National bank, the United Workers and Norwich Gas and Electric company. He was vice president of the Young Men's Christian association.

He was always interested in educational matters and was a fellow and trustee of the Norwich Free Academy and for a long period had held the position of treasurer of the Central district.

In Masonry he became active when a young man and was a charter member of St. James' lodge, No. 23, F. and A. M., of this city. He was a member of Franklin chapter, No. 4, R. A. M., Franklin council, No. 3, R. and S. M., Columbian commandery, No. 4, K. T. He also belonged to all the Scottish Rite bodies up to the 32nd degree.

Mr. Osgood was one of the organizers of Park Congregational church and served for some years on the society committee. He was very regular at church services. On June 23, 1892, he married Mary Ruth Lee of Manlius, N. Y., and she survives him. He also leaves one sister, Miss Jane Osgood, of Church street.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

LWOW, POLAND.

Lwow, Poland, is to have a new museum commemorating the patriotic deeds of Poland's famous women.

"It was a Lwow, shortly after the armistice had been signed that the women of the city, aided by young men under military age, held back the invading Ukrainians until trained soldiers arrived," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Lwow, or Lemberg, as the city was known before the war, when Galicia was a part of Austria, was founded as a fortress to protect its people from the invading Tatars. Today it is Poland's third largest city, with more than 200,00 inhabitants and an important business center.

City Square a Municipal Market.

"The sidewalk of the Rynek, or City Square, surrounding the City hall, is a makeshift market place where there is a brisk trade among the city and rural folk," continues the bulletin. "Here one can furnish a house as well as feed a family. One corner is occupied by venders of live and dressed poultry, another by outdoor florists with potted plants and artificial flowers, while a third is adorned with piles of bread, vats of butter, cases of cheese and pine knots for kindling wood.

"Wooden-ware is still popular among the Galicians, judging by the women venders whose stock is spread out on boxes. There are fruit and vegetable sellers whose produce is dumped in piles on the ground. Near-by one can buy wicker furniture, and also have his shoes mended by the curbstone shoemaker whose hammer can be heard above the babel of the market men and shoppers.

"Women in their heavy shoes, full flowing skirts and large dark shawls stride among the 'stands' with live, quacking ducks tucked under their arms and man-sized loads of produce in sacks tied around their necks.

Catch Fish While You Wait.

"The fish market is always an attraction to travelers, for most of the fish are sold alive. Visitors might mistake the vender, with his net in hand, for a dog-catcher or butterfly collector, except for the odor that permeates the neighborhood. His fish are kept in huge tubs along the sidewalk from which he catches any fish the purchaser chooses. The livelier the fish in Lwow's market, the more desirable.

"The Galician capital has numerous churches built several centuries ago. The Greek Catholic church at St. Nicholas arose 200 years before Columbus discovered America; St. Mary's Roman Catholic church has been standing since 1363, and the Armenian cathedral, one of the three cathedrals in the city, was built fewer than a hundred years later. Many synagues accommodate the Jewish inhabitants who make up about one-fourth of Lwow's population.

"The wall which held back the Tatar hordes in Lwow's early days was torn down early in the last century. Now the site forms beautiful promenades and playgrounds. The new portion of Lwow has many public parks, wide, well-paved streets and modern shops and buildings, which suggest little of the city's early history. Early in the seventeenth century 300,000 Turks were unsuccessful in an attack upon Lwow, and later the inhabitants endured two sieges by the Cossacks, aided by Russians one time, and by Turks the other. Charles XII captured Lwow in 1695 but failed to destroy it.

How to Pronounce It.

"There is one thing harder to understand in Lwow than the Hebrew, Polish, German, Italian and Rusian heard on its streets—the pronunciation of the city's name. Most of us would pronounce the L and follow it up by a well emphasized wow. But the Poles wil itell you to press your tongue to the roof of your mouth and say L as we do, then forecefully biting the lower lip with the upper teeth, to say voof (Lvoof).

"The Lwow theatrer, in the northwest corner of the old town, is a magnificent structure—one that the natives like to show to strangers. Its facade, a mixture of Greek and Roman architecture, is approached by fine promenades. But unfortunately, its back dor opens into one of the most unattractive parts of the city. Cheap shops whose dry goods, including men's and women's clothing, hang along the sidewalk, are presided over by unkempt, bewhiskered tradesmen. Then there are unsightly houses with half the windows broken; and their plaster surfaces appear as though there had been an epidemic of dwelling-house smallpox where the brick of the inner structures show through the gaping holes.

"Lwow university, south of the City Square is one of Poland's important eduactional institutions, with an enrolment of more than 5,000 students. The Staropigiiski Institute has produced important works works on the Ukranian language and the Ossolinski institute contains valuable manuscripts and early works on the Slavonic tongue."

YOUR HEALTH

Why Health?

By Jesse Feiring Williams, M. D., New York, Member Gorgas Memorial

Every breeze bears health propaganda upon its wings. From all sides come health advice, health literature, health foods, health in everything. The novice in any enterprise will find health constituting, in the gratuitous directions for success, at least half of what he is supposed to possess. If life on earth is any measure of one's future residence in celestial spheres, then, in terms of present emphasis, one should indeed have health when he passes to the great beyond.

It is rather curious, however, that health is at once so simple a matter and withal so difficult. Some children were being taught health the other day in a schoolroom where the temperature was 86 degrees F. Another group in the same school gave an excellent recitation on the subject of teeth, but upon examination 28 of the 32 children had gross evidences of decay. That means improper food, neglect and indifference.

Health is in danger of becoming a subject of instruction, a topic of conversation—very much like the bad weather which everyone complains but, as Mark Twain noted, about which no one does anything.

Why health? It seems so clear that all the advice, teaching, lectures, books and available knowledge is for one purpose—to modify practice. To change viewpoints, to correct foolish superstitions, to emphasize real values—for these things health is being taught today.

Health is simple in its rules and difficult in its practice. What you know about health is only one step; what you practice is the measure of your ability to navigate.

Andrew H. Maine

Andrew H. Maine, for more than 25 years a well-known resident of Groton and engaged in the real estate business, died suddenly at his home there, Thursday evening. Mr. Maine was a native of Scotland, in Windham county, where he was born Feb. 6, 1850, the son of Johnathan and Lydia Maine.

For many years Mr. Maine conducted the farm in Scotland, but upwards of a quarter of a century ago he removed to Groton, where he had since lived.

JAPAN GOODWILL DOLLS AT CENTRAL CHURCH

An international tea in honor of two of the Goodwill Doll ambassadors from Japan to the children of America was the program for the meeting of Woman's league of the Central Baptist church, which was held Friday evening in the assembly room at the church.

Two of the Goodwill Dolls, Miss Chio Yamada and Miss Chosen, from Yokahama, were present for the tea, which followed a short business meeting at which the president, Mrs. George A. Ashbey, announced that the state convention of the Woman's Baptist Missionary Society of Connecticut is to be held at this church on May 9.

The program for the tea began with an especially interesting story of the exchange of the Goodwill Dolls between the children of Japan and America, which was related by Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve. This was followed by re-enactment of the scene of greeting at the National theatre in Washington when the dolls were exchanged between the daughter of the Japanese ambassador and the daughter of the secretary of labor. This was enacted by Betty Spencer as the Japanese girl and Barbara Burt as the American girl, the latter having a doll loaned by the Cranston company, and the former a doll loaned by the Committee on World Friendship Between Children.

A well arranged description of Japan was given by Mrs. Gilbert S. Raymond and was followed by a pianologue, Japanese Love Song, given by Miss Dorothy Gildersleeve. A number of the young women of the church pointed out on a map several large mission stations supported in Japan by the Baptists and a selection from The Mikado, Three Little Maids from School, was sung by Miss Amie March, Miss Viola Hill and Miss Marion Royce, who were in costume. A letter from a missionary was read by Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell and a song by the audience closed this part of the program.

Tea was served in the women's room, Mrs. Lucius Brown pouring, Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell serving punch and young women of the church in Japanese costume serving sandwiches.

The dolls are to be shown at services in the church on Sunday and during part of next week in the window at the Porteous & Mitchell store and The Cranston company store.

GOLF CLUB MERGER PLAN NEEDS SUBSCRIPTION TO $54,000 IN STOCK

At the end of a two-hour discussion Friday evening of the proposed plan of merging the Norwich Golf Land company and the Norwich Golf club, President William G. Park, president of the club, appointed a committee to solicit the membership of the club relative to the new plan. The meeting was the adjourned annual meeting of the Norwich Golf club and was held at the Wauregan hotel with 78 members in attendance.

The discussion of the plan was opened by James E. Roantree when he read the financial report of the treasurer of the club showing that the club faced a serious deficit in operating expenses. Upon the completion of the report the plan for merging the two clubs was presented to the membership, John F. Rogers, William G. Park, Lucius Briggs and several others speaking in favor of the project.

The plan is that the two organizations, the Land company and the Golf club, be merged into a new club to be incorporated under the name of "The Norwich Golf and Country Club." The authorized capital is to be $100,000, consisting of 1,000 shares at $100 par value per share. Membership in the new club is to be conditional upon the ownership of stock. The various quired to subscribe for stock in the classes of membership shall be refollowing amounts: Family memberships $500; active memberships $400; associate memberships $100; tennis memberships $100; piazza memberships $100; the stock to be paid for in four years.

Little real opposition to the plan developed although several suggestions were offered as to extending the time in which the stock was to be paid for and also the reducing of the amount for which members must subscribe. The plan of raising the dues was casually touched upon but did not meet with general favor.

A vote of those present at the meeting relative to subscribing to the proposition found 58 in favor of it, 16 opposed and four not voting. Several amendments to the original resolution presented by John F. Rogers were offered and the final resolution adopted was that the president be authorized to appoin a committee to act in cooperation with the board of governors to solicit the membership for subscriptions. If $54,000 be subscribed the plan would become effective upon a majority vote of the club.

The matter was left this way and President Park named the following as a committee to co-operate with the board of governors: J. Henry Shannon, Archibald Torrance, A. E. Payson, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, Eben Learned, C. A. Gager, John E. Dick, F. Russell Smith, Joseph C. Worth and Samuel E. Smiley.

Previous to the discussion of the merger David Morton, James E. Roantree and E. LaRue Bliven were elected to the board of governers for a term of three years. The appointment of Lucius Briggs and John A. Fontaine to the board was ratified. Reports were read and approved and the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the president.

RED CROSS NURSING WILL OBSERVE NURSE'S BIRTHDAY

At St. James' parish house in New London, a meeting is to be held this (Saturday) afternoon at 3 o'clock under the auspices of the committee on Red Cross nursing service, in order to observe fittingly the birthday of Jane A. Delano, who died in the service of the American Red Cross in France in 1919. The meeting is also part of a nation-wide movement to bring to the attention of young and active nurses the need for continued enrollment in the Red Cross nursing service and to give Red Cross work a new meaning to all as being real, vital, and attractive, instead of the vague, distant thing it now is to many.

The program will be carried out as follows:

Call to order; prayer, by Rev. P. M. Kerridge; song, "America"; address of welcome, by chairman of the New London chapter, American Red Cross; music, student nurses of the Lawrence Memorial hospital; secretary's report, Miss Kate M. MacKenzie, Norwich; music, student nurses of the William W. Backus hospital; paper on Jane Delano, to be read by Miss May M. Maher, Norwich; address, The Red Cross Nursing Service, by Margaret K. Stack, of Hartford, state chairman on Red Cross nursing service; music, The Star Spangled Banner.

SANTA CLAUS OFFICATES CUTTING UP REINDEER

The reindeer that has been on display in front of the Mohican store for the past few days is now steaks and chops, roasts and stewing pieces or whatever else a reinder cuts up into. Friday afternoon Santa Claus, impersonated by Kirt Seifert, set to work at 4.30 o'clock and within less than an hour had removed the shaggy coat of the animal and it was ready for sale. Santa Claus, armed with a skinning knife and meat saw, skilfully operating on the carcass of the reindeer in front of the store, attracted a large audience. The younger generation were intensely interested and asked Santa which one of his reindeer it was. Santa replied that it was "Blitzen". That seemed to satisfy the youngster who sagely commented that he "supposed Santa used an airplane now and didn't need his deer."

Miss Mary A. C. Avery, of Oneco street, was hostess to the Mt. Holyoke club Thursday afternoon. Mrs. E. G. Rowland told of the last councilors' meeting which she attended at Mt. Holyoke recently. In a social hour following the formal meeting, Miss Avery served refreshments. Club members in attendance included three from Storrs.

DESCRIBED MISS AVERY'S WORK IN MISSION FIELD

The work of Miss Gertrude S. Avery, a Norwich Town young woman who is in the mission field in India, was interestingly described by Mrs. William M. Zumbro at the meeting of the Women's federation of Park Congregational church held Friday afternoon at Osgood Memorial parish house with a good attendance.

In the absence of the chairman of the department, Miss Edith Bliss, Miss Alice W. Cogswell was chairman of the meeting. Devotional exercises were conducted by the chairman. A communication was read from the Connecticut Home Missionary union calling attention to the meeting of the United Church of New Haven, on Wednesday, April 25, which all women are urged to attention as plans for forming the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut will be discussed.

MISS GERTRUDE S. AVERY
Missionary in India

Mrs. Zumbro was introduced to tell of the work of Miss Avery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, of Norwich Town. Miss Avery is now located at Bombay, India. It is interesting to know that this is the first station of the first American mission. Mrs. Zumbro brought out Miss Avery's interests in a most entertaining manner as she herself was formerly located in the Madura mission and therefore familiar with the mission fields of India.

Upon her arrival in India for two and one-half years Miss Avery was located at Ahmadnagar, at the girl's boarding school, teaching domestic science. In the spring of 1927 she was transferred to Bombay mission and located at Bowker hall. This is a school for blind children, in which there are forty children and six teachers. Here her duties are many and varied "all the way from finances to advice in love affairs." The motto of the school is "Help the blind to help themselves."

Miss Avery also has charge of a dormitory for 30 girls, ranging from six to eighteen years, with a matron and two nurses. Her work in this building is more personal and she has charge of the recreation. She is now living in Abbott house, with Dr. Estelle Brook, a medical missionary who is at Bombay for a year.

Mrs. Zumbro brought many extracts from Miss Avery's letters, as her attendance at the meeting of the organization of a juvenile court in Bombay, Bombay Women's association where they are intensely interested in raising the standards of women, gathering of 13,000 Boy Scouts at Bombay, with its very great picturesqueness, the bright turbans and gay ties, the viceroy's reception to the king of Afghanistan. In all festive events the gorgeous brilliance of the costumes is most marked.

Miss Avery was ill with malarial fever in October and she writes most appreciatively of her care at the St. George English hospital, whose management is worked out to a veritable science, the doctor, Major Gilroy, being most efficient. After her recovery she went to the hill station at Mahabaleshuar where the beauty of nature and hills is very lovely.

Part of Miss Avery's salary is one of the projects of the missions of the Park church this year and Mrs. Zumbro closed with the plea that the church give of their prayers, sympathy and financial aid as their loyal support of this young missionary. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Zumbro.

At the parish house meeting next Friday Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert will talk upon Poems of Childhood and Mrs. James Bidwell will sing.

POETRY

If a Man Could Be Born When He's Old

If a man could be born when he's old,
And gradually grow young,
The wisdom he'd gain and the lore he'd attain
Are not easily said or sung.
If I knew as much as my boy
Who is six times younger than I,
I'd have a sufficience of general omniscience,
Be finished and ready to die.
So a man might drink deeper, I hold
And force out truth's obstinate bung,
If he could be born when he's old,
And gradually grow young.

For the groping and ignorant man
In his darkness would count it a joy,
If he had the light to enlighten his night,
Of the wise, luminiferous boy,
If he could grow younger and wise,
And develop from age into youth,
We'd be able to hold when we're thirteen years old
The substance and sum of all truth
And the oceans of wisdom we'd hold
Cannot be imagined or sung,
If a man could be born when he's old,
And gradually grow young.

But a man is now born very young,
And he gradually grows old,
And as his youth finishes his wisdom diminishes,
And his ignorance grows manifold,
And so every year doth his wisdom decrease
And his tight knowledge web is unstrung,
And no man can be sure he is not immature
Unless he's exceedingly young.—
What sages the world might behold,
What giants of brain and of tongue,
If a man could be born when he's old
And gradually grow young!

—Sam Walter Foss, in "Songs of an Average Man."

It Is in Winter That We Dream of Spring

It is in winter that we dream of spring;
For all the barren bleakness and the cold,
The longing fancy sees the frozen mold,
Decked with sweet blossoming.

Though all the birds be silent, though
The fettered stream's soft voice be still,
And on the leafless bough the snow
Be rested, marblelike and chill:
Yet will the fancy build from these
The transient but well-pleasing dream
Of leaf and bloom among the trees,
And sunlight glancing on the stream.

Though, to the eye, the joyless landscape yields
No faintest sign to which the hope might cling,
Amidst the pallid desert of the fields,
It is in winter that we dream of spring.

—Robert Burns Wilson.

Injuries by cathode rays resemble burns due to overdoses of X-rays.

A goose prepared for a Christmas dinner at Milwaukee, Wis., had performed the usual service of swallowing a note. The note found in the bird by Mrs. Fred Stemler read: "I got 22 cents a pound for this goose, what did you pay?" It bore a woman's signature and a Bear Creek, Wis., address. As it happened the goose was an X-mas gift from the lumber company by which Mr. Stemler is employed.

Within the near future the University of Hawaii will send a debating team to the orient to argue problems arising as the result of closer contact between the east and the west. One Chinese, one Japanese and one Anglo-Saxon will comprise the team which is to make a tour of China, Japan and the Philippines. The Cosmopolitan club, cooperating with the Hawaii union, has raised $1,000 with which to finance the debating team's tour of the orient.

The desire on the part of English women to follow the profession of law is on the decrease as compared with the number who became barristers five years ago when admission was first possible for women legalists. The Trinity Term Bar examination report shows that this decline in interest is due to the fact that many of the women lawyers have not been able to make a living from the profession. Only a few women have taken rank with men as advocates before a jury. Three and four years ago there were often as many as fifteen women admitted on "call nights," while now there are generally not more than two or three.

In that time he had given the youths intrusted to his care 911,957 blows with a stick, 24,410 strokes with a rod, 29,899 ferrulings, 136,715 blows with one hand, 10,325 slaps on the chops, 7,950 boxes on the ears, 1,115,000 raps on the head, 12,342 nota benes with the Bible, catechism, psalm book and grammar, and had made boys kneel 613 times on peas and 777 times on a three-cornered piece of wood.

INDIANS OF SIX NATIONS WIN LEGAL SKIRMISH

PHILADELPHIA, March 9—(AP)—The 100,000 Indians of the Six Nations, a confederation of the six powerful tribes of North America today won another skirmish in their court battle to be excluded from the classification of "aliens" and allowed to travel between the United States and Canada without the interference of immigration restrictions.

Their victory came with the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals upholding the covenants of the Jay treaty between the United States and Great Britain 135 years ago. The government has announced it would seek an appeal.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS TAKE SERIES FROM DANIELSON, WINNING 33 TO 21

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, March 9—Before a hall full of rabid fans the Taftville Crescents walked away with their final game of the series over their bitter rivals, the Danielson Town team, to the tune of 33 to 21 at the Community house here tonight.

Rabid fans is right. All settled down after the preliminary game in which the Danielson second team trimmed the Taftville seconds, 32 to 24, the followers of the Danielson club had the idea that that game presaged the winning of the big game by their compatriots. As the evening wore on, they were to be sadly mistaken.

The lineup of both teams was kept secret until the boys came onto the floor. Then it was discovered that Danielson had practically the whole Bristol Endee team. Taftville's entree showed three Bostno Whirlwind players in Kiley, Martin and Morley, besides Dessinger and Normandin.

Both teams started off, with Taftville taking the ball and carrying it to their end of the floor. Dessinger dropped the ball in for the first field goal for the Crescents. Johnson started the Danielson team off with a field goal followed shortly by a field by Kiley, and then a foul by the same man. Feldman for Danielson, came through with a pretty long shot and then made a foul goal to tie the score. Kiley's next foul shot took the lead again from Danielson and for the rest of the game they were not headed. Both teams were playing fast basketball, with neither team having any particular advantage.

Manning right guard for Danielson came in for lots of abuse all through the game for his constant rough playing. Both teams were fighting for the lead but the Crescents refused to relinquish their hold. The half ended with the close score of 15 to 12 for Taftville.

During intermission there was plenty of speculation as to the outcome, arguments were rampant, and the fans were at a fever heat. The cheering was loud when the second half started. The game hadn't gone very far when it was apparent that the Crescents, with the aid of the Boston trio, had the game well in hand. Morley got three field goals, Normandin another, one of his well known overhand goals, and from then on the fans were treated to some real clever passwork.

The Crescents scenting a victory after drawing away from Danielson toward the last of the second half kept the ball in the back court by fast and clever passing. Kiley, working down towards the basket would cut away from his man, get the ball and proceed to drop it in without much opposition. Martin was sent in to replace Johnson for Danielson but he too couldn't seem to get the ball into the basket although his floor work was excellent. Danielson was simply outplayed while the Crescents had the faculty of taking advantage of Danielson's shortcomings. The colorful crowd saw a mighty fast game and were well repaid for their venturing out in the snow, although many went home somewhat broken both physically and financially.

A FEW RELEASES EXPECTED TODAY AT MAJOR'S CAMP

ATLANTA, March 9—(AP)—Baseball's metaphorical axe hovered over seven of ten major league baseball clubs in Florida today with at least a few recruits expected to be released tomorrow.

Early reductions in the size of the squads of the Boston Nationals, Washington Senators and St. Louis Cardinals, and Browns loomed especially strong, these clubs having rounded rapidly into condition.

Tomorrow will end the third week of training for the Senators at Tampa, the Philadelphia Athletics at Fort Myers, the St. Louis Browns at West Palm Beach, the Boston Americans at Bradenton, the Cardinals at Avon Park, the Braves at St. Petersburg and the Philadelphia Nationals at Winter Haven.

For the three other clubs it will wind up the second week of conditioning.

Most of the Florida training camps were the scene of routine drills today while two exhibition games marked the day in other camps, the Braves meeting the Red Sox at Bradenton and the Cardinals playing the Athletics at Fort Myers.

The Browns and Cincinnati Red Legs will play their first exhibition game of the season when they meet tomorrow at West Palm Beach.

Vic Hanson, former Syracuse university baseball, basketball and football star, arjved at the Yankees St. Petersburg camp today and went through his first workout. He is an infielder. Miller Huggins announced today that Urban Shocker, who voluntarily quit the game, has been placed on the retired list.

Wet grounds also handicapped the Chicago Americans at Shreveport, La., forcing them to call off their exhibition game with the Shreveport, Texas league club.

Guilford Paulson, drafted from Danville of the Three I league by the Detroit Tigers, reached San Antonio today, the last of the late arrivals in that camp.

Cleveland's second stringers played a few innings today, Myatt and Autry being the only veterans participating. The regulars confined their activity to the usual batting and fielding practice.

ATHLETICS RALLY IN FIFTH TO BEAT CARDS

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 9—(AP)—Flaring up in the fifth inning and scoring six runs off Lefty Reinhart, the Athletics triumphed over the St. Louis Cardinals today, 8 to 7.

Two Athletic players were hurt. Catcher Gordon Cochrane retired in the second inning with a dislocated right thumb and Max Bishop, shortstop, was forced to the side lines with a ripped nail off the second finger of his gloved hand.

Charley Gelbert, Lebanon Valley college athlete, got into the game at short in the last two innings for the Cardinals.

Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 9—(AP)—Members of the Pittsburgh Pirate training squad not incapacitated by illness had a batting workout today.

The sick list was not so formidable as yesterday. Ray Kremer, although still in bed with la grippe, was convalescing and John Miljus had recovered sufficiently from carbuncles to take light exercise. Carmen Hill's lame back was improved.

Dick Bartell, infielder, was not in the game because of an injured leg and his place on the recruit team was taken by Coburn Jones of Denver.

Cubs

AVALON, Calif., March 9—(AP)—Fog today restricted training of Chicago's National leaguers to a little pitching, some batting and signal work. In the afternoon the Cubs departed from Santa Catalina Island for California's mainland to play practice games Saturday and Sunday.

The major leagers will limber up tomorrow with the Hollywood team of the Pacific Coast league. Manager McCarthy plans to work Welch, Grampp and Malone, right hand hurlers, against Hollywood. For Sunday's game with the Los Angeles Coast league team, Hansen, Jones and Bush have picked for the Cubs' mound.

McCarthy said he expected to give at least part time practice for all of his men in the two practice games.

HUNTER WINS FLORIDA SINGLES TITLE EASILY

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 9—(AP)—Francis T. Hunter, second ranking tennis player of the country, this afternoon won the eighteenth annual Florida championship singles title by defeating John Hennessey, Indianapolis, in three straight sets 6-4, 6-1, 6-3 and 6-2.

GLENNA COLLETT BEATS MISS WILSON IN FLA. GOLF

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 9—(AP)—Glenna Collett, Providence, R. I., defeated Virginia Wilson, Chicago, 7 and 6, in the semi-final round of the Florida East Coast Women's Golf tournament here today. Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, also survived the round, eliminating Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J.

WILBY FAVORITE OVER NAUGATUCK TONIGHT

WATERBURY, March 9.—(AP)—Wilby high was a slight favorite here tonight to defeat Naugatuck high, University of Pennsylvania tournament champions of last week in their second meeting here tomorrow night at the state armory. In a game earlier in the season at Naugatuck, Wilby handed the Garnet and Gray its only defeat at home. The Waterbury team has an impressive record of 19 victories and three defeats. More than 5,000 fans are expected to witness the game.

'BOUT SPORTS

Waterbury's two leading scholastic basketball representatives are busy tonight. While Crosby is here battling the Academy, Wilby, which beat the Academy early in the year by 31 to 13, is facing probably the most important game (outside of the tournaments) that the state will have this season. They meet Naugatuck tonight in the Brass City. Naugy, the Penn. tournew winner, is on the short end of the odds, because of a beating that Wilby gave her at Naugatuck. The winner tonight will be in a fair way toward getting the favorite's colors for the Yale tournament later in the month, from which the state champ will be selected.

The Jack Sharkey-Johnny Risko fight Monday night at Madison Square Garden, will be broadcast over WJZ, and a chain of stations, which will include WLW and KDKA.

NEWTON STILL HAS LEAD IN TRANS U. S. RACE

BAGDAD, Cal., March 9—(AP)—Averaging nearly 7 miles an hour under a burning sun and over a roadway thickly covered with dust, Arthur Newton, 44-year-old runner from Rhodesia, South Africa, led the "bunion derby" contestants into this desert point today to win the sixth lap of the $48,500 Los Angeles to New York marathon.

The stretch covered today was 41.9 miles and the gaunt British campaigner chalked up the stunning time of six hours, 33 minutes and 30 seconds—made while a temperature of 94 degrees prevailed. Already lowest in total elapsed time since the foot racers left Los Angeles last Sunday, he added substantially to his lead today, having a mark of 31 hours and two minutes for the 207.5 miles covered.

Newton, holder of the 100-mile running championship of England, kept up throughout the grind today the same steady pace that brought him victory in yesterday's lap. Setting his face into the sun at 7.29 o'clock this morning, he jogged tirelessly over the long trail of dirt and gravel. Just 21 miles from Mojave Wells, the starting point, he passed Ed Gardner, Seattle long distance star who had showed his heels to 254 other runners and walkers until then.

A stop in Ludlow to change shoes and receive attention was a costly one for the Seattle athlete, for it was then that Newton passed him. Gardner also checked in at the control station here in good condition. His time was 7 hours, 15 minutes and 40 seconds, making his elapsed figures 34 hours, one minute and 35 seconds. Newton beat the Seattle Negro into Bagdad by more than 3 miles.

MANDELL-FLOWERS BOUT SOUGHT IN BOSTON

BOSTON, March 9—(AP)—The promoters' race for the services of Sammy Mandell, lightweight boxing champion became three cornered today, when Eddie Mack, matchmaker of the Argonne A. A. of Boston, announced a new offer to the lightweight king for an outdoor title match here next spring against Bruce Flowers, New York Negro.

Over the long distance telephone from New York, Mack said he had offered Mandell a flat guarantee of $50,000 and the privilege of a 40 per cent "cut" in the gate receipts to box Flowers at Braves field here on May 29. The only string provides that both boxers train in or near Boston for two weeks preceding the match.

Mack declared he was ready to produce Flowers as an opponent for Mandell in the belief that Tex Rickard and Promoter Jim Mullen, of Chicago, will be unable to break the present deadlock in their efforts to match the titleholder with Jimmy McLarnin, latest lightweight sensation.

Mullen holds Mandell's signature for a title bout in Chicago and Rickard has McLarnin signed in the hope that he can induce Mandell to meet the two punch conqueror of Sid Terris in New York. Mullen's latest offer to McLarnin, a record for a challenger, is a flat $50,000 guarantee for a Chicago match on June 21.

Mack conferred in Detroit yesterday with Teddy Bodkin, part manager of Mandell, regarding the possibility of a Boston bout and secured Flowers' signature for the match en route to New York.

TWO TEAMS STEAL LAPS IN HARDEN BIKE RACE

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—While the evening sprints at the Six-Day Bicycle race at Madison Square Garden were in full swing tonight, the teams of Letourner-Brocardo and Georgetti-Debaets stole a lap in defending the leadership against the field of pedallers. Horan and Garrison, who had been a triple tie with the pacemakers, were one lap behind.

At 10 p. m., the 21st hour of the grind which closes at 11 o'clock tomorrow night, the leaders had covered a distance of 1,768 miles and six laps. Thus far, 361 laps have been stolen in comparison with a total of 356 for last December's record.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Plainfield Pros are attempting to book All-New Britain for the Community House next week.

This would be the "rubber" game between these two clubs.

The Academy has but one more game after tonight's with Crosby, the Coast Guard Jr. varsity tilt next Friday.

The newly formed All-Jewish Five is aching for a game with the New Britain Phantoms, to atone for the two defeats this team administered to the Y Emps.

Several of the boys on this new team played with the Emps.

ACADEMY BEATS ROCKVILLE HIGH IN ROUGH GAME BY SCORE OF 27 TO 26

The Academy established its longest winning streak of the year Friday night at the Y in turning back a lighter Rockville team, 27 to 26. It was the local's second victory in as many nights and heretofore, they have not been able to win a couple of games in a row.

The game was rough, quite rough, as far as fouls go but still it was very interesting. Twenty-six personal fouls, exacting a toll of four men, were called during the evening, mostly for hooking. Joe Viau and Jim Kelly were forced out for the Academy by this method, while Rockville lost Hall and Hiller. The number of fouls was just evenly divided, 13 apiece.

Both teams used the long-shot game extensively and both were quite successful at it. Alley, the Rockville center, took Rothe, his captain's place at this game, tossing in six baskets, most of them from a respectable distance out while Jarvis, for the Academy, threw in three neat ones from beyond the foul line.

Neither team had a commanding lead at any time, although the Academy led most of the way. The locals had a shade on the first quarter which ended 6 to 5 in their favor. At the half it was 11 all.

The Red and White opened the second half with a flurry of baskets that soon had them leading 19 to 12 but Rockville closed the gap to 19-18 at the intermission. After trailing for nearly half of the last quarter, the visitors took the lead at 23-22 only to fall behind on a basket by Jarvis and fouls by Pingree and Kelly. Alley, the light-thatched Rockville center tossed in a long one and fouls by Hall and Rothe made it close to the end but the game concluded with the locals advancing on the Rockville basket.

For the Academy Joe Viau played another great game until put out on personals. Les Pingree, at a forward, led the scores, with seven points and also showed up well. Jarvis was right behind him in scoring with three baskets. Buck LaCroix, besides tossing in fouls and baskets just at right times showed probably the best work on the floor for N. F. A.

Fat Men Win

In the preliminary the Fat Men beat the Thin Men of the Y Senior class by 29 to 23. The Fat Men led most of the way, having an 18 to 6 advantage at halftime.

Academy Plays Crosby Tonight

The Academy faces its third game in as many nights this evening at the Y gym, meeting Crosby high of Waterbury. Although Crosby is not strong enough for a Yale tournament prospect, still this game is being regarded by the Red and White as one of the stiffest tests of the year.

The locals have braced somewhat during the last two games, beating Plainfield and Rockville, but in tonight's game they will find stiffer opposition than these other two clubs could offer.

The C. F. C. meets the Stonington All-Stars in the preliminary, starting at 8 o'clock. The main game gets underway at 9 p. m.

That Danielson is going to be well represented at the Duwell amateur boxing show to be staged at the state armory on Tuesday, March 13, was made known yesterday with the arrival from the village of the entries of two separate teams of boxers. Louis Peloquin's stable of five men and the newly formed Service Battery team under the direction of the well known "Young" De Forrest are now listed with the many other well known outfits from which the ten bout card will be selected.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The week, fifty years ago, in Norwich was an unusually quiet one. The German Music Verein was planning to hold its third annual ball at White's hall and the Greeneville Reform club held a social, supper and necktie festival at Owaneco hall. The same week the Silber Garde held a masquerade at Steiner's hall and Robinson's minstrels gave a performance at Breed hall. The annual meeting of the United Workers was also held that week. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of the first week in March, 1878, are as follows.

Monday, March 4, 1878—The German Music Verein will give their third annual ball at White's hall Monday evening, March 11th. All are cordially invited.

The silver statue clog dance by a quintette of performers has not been excelled by any minstrel troupe that has ever visited the city.

The funeral of Father Mullen—A special train left here early yesterday morning with upwards of 250 of the parishioners of St. Mary's church, wearing appropriate badges of mourning, to attend at Hartford, the funeral of their late pastor. Upon their arrival there, the committee appointed at the parish meeting, Monday evening, waited upon the right reverend bishop and requested that the body of Father Mullen be given them to be interred in Norwich. While commending the parish's action in this regard, the bishop remarked that in this last will Father Mullen had expressed his wish to be buried in Hartford with his "brother priests." The bishop, however, said that the people of Norwich had the privilege of erecting such suitable and lasting memorial in their new church to Father Mullen's memory as their love and gratitude for him might suggest.

The Rocklawn club held their second annual invitation social last evening at Breed hall. The company was select, the arrangements complete, and it was as expected, a nice affair. Music was furnished by Miller's orchestra. The floor committee consisted of George A. Davis, Frank H. Smith, John Cross, Charles H. Phelps, Edgar A. Smith and C. P. Hempstead.

Mr. Otis Huntington of Norwich Town was thrown from his buggy while driving on East Main street about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, and received injuries which proved fatal, although at first they were regarded as very slight. His death resulted either from injury to the skull or from apoplexy induced by the shock, early Wednesday morning. Mr. Huntington and his family had many friends who will deeply regret his sad fate.

What Happened on a Warm Day

When bees are bussing in a hive
Lie low if you would keep alive.
—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

At last little Mrs. Whitefoot had rebuilt the nest in Farmer Brown's beehive to suit her. Whitefoot couldn't see that it was one bit better than the nest he had built there. No sir, he couldn't see that the nest was one bit better. In fact, he couldn't see that it was any different. "Well," thought he, "if she is satisfied I ought to be. But it's the last time I'll ever undertake to do anything for her. Somehow or other I never can do it right."

That beehive certainly was a very comfortable place in which to live. Mrs. Whitefoot had to admit that it was all that Whitefoot had promised her it would be. It was the warmest winter home she had ever enjoyed. Every day there was fresh meat, in the form of dead bees which had dropped from the swarm up above, right on their doorstep, so to speak. There were no enemies to be afraid of. Always, wherever they had lived, there had been the fear that some day Shadow the Weasel might make them a visit. But here they did not fear Shadow. Yes, indeed, it was a very comfortable place to live.

Both Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot knew that they had no business in there. They knew that were those bees awake and active they would not be allowed in there one minute if the bees suspected their presence. But as long as the cold weather lasted there was nothing to fear from the bees.

It happened one day that Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot were fast asleep in their snug nest, after having been out most of the night. By and by into their dreams there crept a strange noise. At last Whitefoot awoke. The noise was more than a dream. It was a loud humming. At least, it sounded loud in there. Whitefoot poked Mrs. Whitefoot. "Wake up, my dear, and listen!" said he.

Mrs. Whitefoot awoke with a start. It was needless to tell her to listen. She was doing that already. "What is it?" she asked in a startled whisper.

"Bees," whispered Whitefoot.

"What are they doing?" inquired little Mrs. Whitefoot timidly.

"I don't know, but I know what we're going to do," replied Whitefoot.

"What?" inquired Mrs. Whitefoot.

"We are going to remain perfectly Whitefoot. "We must either do that or make a run for it and stay outside in the cold until those bees become quiet again. I'm tired, so I'm going to stay right here."

"But—but suppose those bees find us!" whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

"They won't," confidently replied Whitefoot. "They don't like the kind of stuff our nest is made of and they are not likely to try to find a way into it. So, my dear, we are perfectly

"But what makes the bees hum so? They haven't ever done it before since we came here to live," whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

"It must be a warm day," replied Whitefoot. "That must be it. It must be such a warm day that the bees have wakened. They probably think it is spring. Peep out here, my dear, and see them going in and out of that little doorway. Did you ever see such a sight?"

Little Mrs. Whitefoot admitted that she had never seen such a sight, and added that she didn't want to see another like it. It made her too dreadfully nervous.

FRANKIE GENARO GETS DECISION OVER GRANDE

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 9. —(AP)—Frankie Genaro of New York, N. B. A. flyweight champion, won a 10-round decision from Frisco Grande, Filipino here tonight. The first six rounds were close, but Genaro displayed sufficient superiority at the finish to warrant a decision. There were cries of "draw" from the crowd before the judges pronounced Genaro the winner.

In a preliminary, Fred Vincent, 119 1-2, Hamilton, Ont., was given the decision over Eddie Mischler, 123 1-2, Buffalo, the bout going six rounds.

KID LAVIGNE, EX-BOXING CHAMP, DIES

Lavigne, known as the "Saginaw Kid" ruled the lightweight ranks in the late nineties, a period when the division boasted what was probably the greatest collection of fighters it has ever known. He acquired the title in 1895 by reason of recognition as the outstanding challenger for the championship held by Jack McAuliffee, at the time the latter retired. Lavigne and McAuliffee never met in a regulation bout, and the title was conferred on the former after a four round exhibition bout between the two in New York.

Lavigne held the championship four years. He was defeated in a 20 round bout by Frank Erne of Buffalo in 1899. During his career Lavigne defeated Joe Wolcott twice, stopped Dick Birge, the English middleweight champion, fought two draws with the phantom-like Young Griffo, and beat Jack Everhart.

Lavigne, who never scaled over 130 pounds during his career, fought many of his greatest bouts against heavier opponents such as Birge and Wolcott, the latter a heavy welterweight.

The first Lavigne-Wolcott contest, staged at Maspeth, L. I., was one of the most savage affairs in ring history and marked a turning point in the careers of both men.

The lion-hearted Negro boxer in his memoirs recently published stated that he fought himself "out" in the Lavigne bout and never was the same afterwards.

Lavigne likewise declared recently that the Wolcott fight for him was the "beginning of the end" of his pugilistic career.

Although he was reputed to have earned a small fortune in the ring Lavigne was in moderate circumstances at his death. For the last several years he had been employed as a night watchman at the Ford Motor company plant here. He was born in Saginaw, Mich., in December, 1869.

SHARKEY-RISKO READY TO CLOSE WORK

Sharkey Fast

Sharkey, in particular, entertained the storm-tossed railbirds with an exceptional display of speed and power. The snarling husky who flailed his sparring partners yesterday and slugged at every opportunity gave way today to the clever ringman. Sharkey worked two rounds on Lou Bogash, Bridgeport light heavyweight, using a straight left stab and short right to the body that brought a medley of vary-toned grunts from his pudgy hired hand. Jack practiced similarly on Italian Jack Herman and ended the day with two rounds of bag punching and three of rope skipping.

Risko Does Five Miles on the Road

Risko, always unimpressive in his gymnasium workouts, pounded a boxing dummy for two rounds and threw his long left hook into Jeff Baulknight and Frankie Lennon, his sparring partners, for six rounds. He trotted five miles through Central Park earlier in the day.

Both athletes will wind up their work tomorrow with boxing sessions scheduled to average six rounds apiece. Sharkey hopes to enter the Madison Square Garden ring weighing about 189, the poundage of his best fights, while Risko will tip the beam near 193.

Strand Theatre

"The Lodge in the Wildness" is a screen adaption of the famous story by the same name written by Sir Gilbert Parker. The theme is a mighty fine one, and the scenes are laid in a mountain lodge. There is plenty of action including a real, exciting fist fight, and there is just enough romance interwoven throughout the story to bring about a happy ending. The all star cast includes Anita Stewart, Edmund Burns, James Farley, Eddie Lyons, and Duane Thompson. This is a Tiffany production and is a wonderful picture, so be sure to spend an evening with us and enjoy it, along with the other big feature we are showing.

"Private Izzy Murphy" is a big feature comedy produced by Warren Brothers. No expense has been spared in the settings, and the very best players make up the cast. There is plenty of action in this story which also boasts of romance pathos and merriment. Patsy Ruth Miller as charming as ever, gives a splendid portrayal, and the Vera Gordon that we all love, carries through her part to perfection.

WESTERLY

TWO BARNS ARE BURNED IN TROUBLESOME FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 9—Edgar Brown, son of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, from his home on Pleasant street saw a fire across the street about noon today, in the barn of Anielio Matarese, at the rear of his home, 8 Pleasant street. He ran and turned in a fire alarm from Box No. 64, High near Pleasant street. About the same time Rose Matarese from a rear window of her home saw flames breaking out from the barn and telephoned her father at his market on Oak street. Rushing home he reached the firebox as young Brown was pulling in the alarm. Flames burst out from all sides of the one-story frame barn, having apparently started on the west side adjoining the larger one-story frame barn of Solomon Soloveitzik, who resides at 13 Pleasant street.

The Matarese barn was a mass of flame when the three pieces of apparatus of the Westerly fire department arrived, being somewhat delayed by the condition of the highways made skiddy by the snow, which also troubled the drivers. Four hydrant fire hose streams were laid, but by this time the longer Soloveitzik barn was on fire from end to end, fanned by the high wind and sending out dense smoke. It was not long before the frame of the Matarese barn fell and the structure and contents, counters and large ice box taken from the former Boston Meat market on Main street, were totally destroyed.

The four hydrant streams of water extinguished the blaze on the Soloveitzik barn, but not before it was practically wrecked, together with its contents of lumber salvaged from a torn-down house. The northeast direction of the wind prevented danger to the residences along Pleasant street and snow on the ground stopped grass fires which would have been otherwise started in many places from the sparks blown on outbuildings and the grounds around them.

Mr. Matarese was at loss to explain the origin of the blaze unless it came from the electric wires which entered the barn. Mr. Matarese thought the losses were covered by insurance. Firemen picked up the hose and returned to the fire station about 2:45 p. m.

The alarm was sounded from Box No. 81, Pond, near Pierce street, for a fire in the dump at the northwest end of Pond street near the old Norwich-Westerly Electric right of way. Only adjoining pig pens were endangered. The three pieces of apparatus returned about 10:30 to the fire station.

At an adjoining house there was a roof blaze when about 4:30 alarm No. 64 was sounded for a fire on the east side of the shingled roof of the house occupied by Louis B. Collins, 15 Pleasant street. In responding the Seagraves pumper skidded in Dixon square and turned around. Ladders were placed on the roof and the fire was put out before much damage resulted. The firemen returned from the third blaze to their station house about 5:15.

Members of Westerly town council gathered Thursday afternoon in special session at 5 o'clock for the purpose of canvassing the voting list to be used at the special financial town meeting Tuesday evening, March 13th, for the purpose of considering and voting upon departmental changes in the form of town government with respect to highways, also for the voting of an appropriation for the rebuilding of Granite street.

An in-bound electric car on the Groton-Stonington trolley line, due at Pawcatuck river bridge at 3:45 p. m., jumped the rails opposite the home of Thomas Bagshaw, 55 1-2 Mechanic street. The rear truck remained on the rail but the forward one crossed the cement highway to the gutter on the opposite side, completely blocking the street. There were few passengers on the electric car and no one was injured. Slippery rails clogged with snow and ice was the cause of the derailment.

The Rhode Island Coach Lines, Inc., of Westerly, were incorporated Friday at the regular session of the Rhode Island general assembly by an act introduced by Representative John D. Nichols, of Westerly. Incorporation was for $500,000, the incorporators named being Arthur L. Lind, Jr., of Newport, Duncan B. Hazard of Newport; Herbert W. Rathbun, John F. Gallager, Westerly and Roy B. Perkins, of New York. The coach line corporation operate in the suburban district about Westerly, running buses to Providence, Bradford, Watch Hill and Atlantic Beach.

A snow storm which began Friday morning shortly after 9 o'clock continued all day, with the promise of being the biggest snow fall of the winter. Driven by a strong northeast wind, the snow drifted considerably on the frozen ground, the temperature remaining below the freezing point. Travel was made dangerous both for pedestrians and motor vehicles and many near-accidents were reported because of slippery road surfaces. The Watch Hill fog horn's wailing was clearly heard in Westerly all day, denoting thick weather.

Nineteen South county republicans gathered at a dinner recently at Peckham's inn. In the number were senators and representatives from various towns in Washington county and the members of the republican state central committee from the county towns.

Senator Howard E. Thorp of Westerly was toast master. Plans for a South county republican organization to further the interests of the republican party at the coming state and national elections were discussed.

MILLIONAIRE STOKES SUES FOR DYNAMITE STOLEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, March 9—The Washington county superior court, Judge Arthur P. Sumner on the bench, adjourned Friday afternoon following the trial in the case to recover damages for 15 cases of dynamite alleged stolen, J. G. Phelps Stokes vs. Robert M. Kamm. Counsel was ready to begin argument for the defendant.

With Christopher N. Clarke of North Kingstown foreman, a jury was empaneled Thursday afternoon when the trial began. Friday morning Louis Enos of Charlestown testified to going with Arthur Day and Robert Kamm to the tool house and dynamite shed on the Stokes place in Charlestown, when from the tool house he made up a half case of dynamite, which Day said he would pay for on the following Saturday and which was to be used for blasting work at Narragansett Pier. This was on the 4th of April and when the tool house and dynamite shed were visited April 18th last all the dynamite numbering 15 cases, or 1300 sticks, had disappeared. The lower hinge had been taken off the door, which could be raised by one person to allow another to enter. His father, Joseph Enos testified that he was employed by Mr. Stokes in clearing land; Day had agreed to pay him $12 for the dynamite.

J. G. Phelps Stokes, the plaintiff testified that he lived in New York city and that the dynamite had cost him $170.25. A motion to non-suit was denied by Judge Sumner with the jury withdrawn.

Robert A. Kamm, an aviator, the defendant with a field in Charlestown testified that he got his dynamite for use from Arthur Day who, he said, kept it on the Sisson place in Charlestown.

In the Third District court Friday, Francis R. Sagle, 113 University road, Brookline, Mass., was charged with manslaughter. The Studebaker coupe driven by him struck and fatally injured Mrs. Joseph (Winifred Carney) Girard of Canonchet as she alighted from a bus of the Rhode Island Coach company on the afternoon of March 2nd in front of her home on the Nooseneck road. Judge Williams bound him over to the April term of superior court for Washington county at Kingston. His attorney presented a power of attorney from the American Surety company which became his bondsman for appearance in the sum of $2,000.

Henry Irving Tanner, 25, charged with breaking and entering of the home of James Dirico, 92 Oak street, in the nighttime and larceny therefrom of goods to the amount of $2, a jug of wine, was ordered recommitted to Washington county jail, in default of $500 bail to await the action of the grand jury at the April term of the superior court.

The case for possession of intoxicating liquors against Pasquale Salimeno, was set down for trial March 16th.

In the case, John Bishpam vs. Frank A. Toscano, by agreement of counsel the default was removed by Judge Williams and the case reassigned for trial March 23rd.

18th ANNIVERSARY OF THE SOCIAL CORNER

THE TRUTH THAT SHOULD BE WHISPERED SHOULD NEVER BE UTTERED AT ALL.

EIGHTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE SOCIAL CORNER

As the Social Corner reaches its 18th anniversary it has the largest membership in its history, there having been a gratifying increase during the past year.

A letter of particular interest at this time is that written by Aunty No. 1 which gives the complete history of the Corner, telling of the early but sustained interest on the part of many faithful members who have appreciated its advantages and helpfulness and sought to encourage and help others. Out of that early work and enthusiasm has grown a large family for social as well as educational benefit and it is a pertinent reminder that the success of the Corner depends upon the manner in which all members contribute to its columns. That is among the responsibilities of joining the Corner. The success of as well as the greatest joy in connection with any such effort depends upon every one writing, each one giving something as well as taking, instead of leaving all the writing to a few.

That there have been many changes in the writers is inevitable. Time is relentless in its work and while we regret the loss of those who stepped out of the circle for any reason, we likewise welcome those who have come to take their place and urge upon them the excellence of the example set by the writers who have helped to bring the Corner to its 18th anniversary and bid them to assume their part for its continuance to even greater success.

VENTILATOR AND SEWING MACHINE POCKET

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I feel that I must write just a few lines and tell you what a good time we have had today.

Through the kindness of E. L. M., Cosmos, Y. Y. and I were able to attend the meeting of Club No. 5 at Norwich, and we certainly enjoyed every minute of it. The dinner was fine and the program even better than that, especially the history of the Corner compiled and read by Aunty No. 1. This was very interesting to the younger members of the Corner who have only been in for two years or so and I think both old and new members will join in saying "Long may the Corner live and prosper."

I wish some of the other members who have lived up in the Litchfield hills would sometimes write of their memories of Litchfield county. Perhaps you, too, get homesick for the hills up there at times.

We also have a ventilator for use in bedroom windows in cold weather which I like. My husband cut a board the width of the window and about 10 inches wide; in the center he cut a six-inch hole and on the inside fitted in a six-inch stove-pipe elbow, then on that one length of pipe. This carries the air into the upper part of the room and from there it circulates freely. If the wind is very strong, a cloth can be laid over the end of the pipe. We also tacked a piece of screen on the outside.

Joan: Was so glad to see your smiling face. Hope you get down to Westerly the 20th.

Prudence: Be sure and come to Westerly so we can show you that we don't forget. Oh! that custard pie!

Cosmos and Rebecca: Am so sorry for you, and am sure you have the sympathy of all members.

E. L. M.: I don't know how we are ever going to get even with you for all your kindness, but hope to some day.

Best wishes to all.

SKIPPER.

CLUB NO. 5'S MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Well, I suppose Old Glory will be lying on our page this week in celebration of the 18th anniversary of the Social Corner page.

Club No. 5 had a good day, even if it was cold, and it sure was good to see so many from Clubs 1, 2, and 6. The hostesses were kept busy, for they certainly had a large crowd to feed, but they had plenty of food, and every one did justice to it.

Now we hope that the weatherman will be kind to all the other clubs for their anniversary meetings. It is like a big birthday party, isn't it Everyone shaking hands and asking after different ones.

Aunty No. 1 gave a very interesting history of the Social Corner that she had written which we all enjoyed, but I think what all enjoyed most were the recitations by Mrs. Manning, and she certainly was generous. I don't know when I laughed so much.

There were so many that I wanted to speak to but could not get to them.

Gloria: My four-mile hikes are ended. Mother is doing wonderfully, considering all things. Next thing we know you will be back enjoying yourself at the meetings and we will all be glad to see you. Had a nice talk with your sister at the meeting.

Kitty Lou: Many thanks for raisin pie recipe. Have made quite a few since I got it, so you know we like it.

If you have overshoes that are difficult to put on over your rubber-heeled shoes, take a piece of oiled paper and fold it two or three times and put it between your overshoe and heel of shoe and then pull your overshoes on. It works like magic. I know, and I hope someone else will try it and see.

All good wishes to our Social Corner and many happy returns.

BLACK-EYED SUSIE.

A HISTORY OF THE CORNER

Dear Editor and Members: I think our late editor knew something about how the women in general love to exchange ideas and recipes. So to give them an opportunity he was inspired to donate and edit a page in The Saturday Bulletin, to pass along some of their knowledge and helpful suggestions. So in March (I think the 10th), 1910, the first paper came out with a heading of a group of five women sitting apparently talking. This first paper contained but six writers, taking up but one column and a small part of another. Their names were Rural Delivery, Aunt Sally, J. I. C., L. M. Buck, Kitty Catnip, Mrs. Cheerful Farmer. From that time on it kept increasing in numbers and interest. For about three years the editor paid for short stories written by the members, also giving prizes in contests of different subjects—anything to interest the women—and curious were all to find out "who was who." Married and Happy invited all who wished to meet one another to meet with her at her home on the Willimantic camp ground Oct. 12, 1912. I think about 12 responded. Samantha came and presented the first flower, a large yellow chrysanthemum. We expected Ready but being delayed she didn't get there until nearly all had left. Some of the sisters, the writer included, while passing by, saw a lady leaning on the gate. For lack of courage no one said anything, but we found out to our dismay later that it was Ready, last but not least. Following this a few sisters met with one another at times, until March, 1913, at the home of Aunty No. 1, Married and Happy, Biddy, Polly Wintergreen, Theoda, Ready, while together thought it a good plan to form a club and chose for the color of badge yellow. As the first flower was yellow and always the prize checks were of yellow paper. It was at this gathering that Ready learned to make tatting. It was some time in 1912 that Ready challenged a chance to win a cup and saucer. The first one that would find her and sit on the Social Corner woodbox and drink a cup of tea could carry the cup and saucer home with them. Sunshine No. 1 of North Stonington was the happy sister to win the prize. Said woodbox was a quaint unusual box built in the side of the room and was not high but long and narrow, and had a cover and was fitted up with cushions and pillows, a comfortable seat, the kind where there is always room for one more.

In June, 1913, Biddy started the annual picnics at Coventry lake. I believe she followed this up for eight years. At these gatherings the late editor donated a certain sum of money to be used for the social benefit, sometimes music, rides on the lake, and always ice cream for all the annual picnics.

Club No. 2 was formed at Aunt Abby's in March, 1915, with 16 members.

In 1914 our late editor was the means of putting up a tent at the New London county fair grounds for the Corner members to meet in and rest. Several enjoyed it. This was kept up for several years.

Club No. 3 was formed in Lebanon in 1916.

Club No. 4 was started in June, 1917.

Club No. 5 was started in September, 1925.

Club No. 6 was started in March, 1926.

In January, 1917, our late sister Tidy Addy of Club No. 1 suggested that we have a donation day, to give something to the poor, each one to bring some useful article. So in February the same year Club No. 1 started their donation day, and have kept it up every year in memory of our departed sister.

Our Corner has grown from six members to about 1,500. During these 18 years we have lost by death about 90.

Potlatch was the first member to establish a Social Corner garden.

M. Rowena, an old member, is distinguished for having planned and built a home for herself at Alexandria, Ohio.

Theoda proposed the first anniversary celebration, and has been active in promoting every social feature.

Maple Leaf took the cup and saucer for being the first to discover Crimson Rambler.

Among the first years of the clubs some of the members wanted to elect officers and be as other clubs. The following was the editor's reply: "The Social Corner is not an organized body and has no relation whatever to any organized society. The Bulletin does not approve of any assessment of the Social Corner writers for any purpose whatever. If the writers spontaneously unite in giving for some benevolent purpose The Bulletin will always be found doing its part." . . . "The editor is not opposed to any movement on the part of his correspondents which will please them or improve this department." . . . "The limiting of letters to 240 words would make letters of excellent length and would enable us to print a half hundred letters on a single page. Just a note sheet page and a half covers the space. There is no bar to subjects rationally presented." . . . "The Social Corner is a co-operative department and we should strive to be as interesting and helpful to others as others have been to us."

"We are going to improve the Corner, have shorter letters, a broader field and good work. The joy in doing things lies in doing them well."

We have members nearly all through the union, from Maine to California and Seattle, Wash., north and south. If our late editor could see and know how the Corner has improved he certainly would feel that his work was well done. I have been a member since October, 1911, have entertained annually for 12 years and received $26 in prizes. I have always written under one pen name.

AUNTY NO. 1.

ANNIVERSARY GREETINGS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters All—Our 18th anniversary is here so here's to each one of you. Wish I might be present to join with you in festivities.

The club is true to name and I've enjoyed many good times and made splendid friends.

"There's a song in the morning that comes to my heart,
A song with promise of day.
It is rending the shadowy curtains apart,
Till the sun can shine over the way;
And this is the song that is floating along,
A song with the freshness of youth,
Go forward; Go onward.

Best wish to each.

JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Editor: I would like to join the Social Corner. I attended a meeting last month and had a delightful time. I would like to join Club No. 6. For my pen name I will take

FLOSSY.

GREETINGS FROM BRIGHT RAY.

Dear Social Corner Sister—I have not received any Bulletins since last year in January until the last few months so don't know whether Don Pedro answered my request.

Nipmuck bath is interesting. I know the Scotland end from driving on it many times in the summer.

I was glad to read the outline of Fort Ned and Canterbury as the latter place was my mother's home, and it was her uncle who was watchman at the mill.

When Club No. 1 used to meet in the hall on Valley street I almost got to the meeting once when Married and Happy was hostess. I did carry some food there, but too ill to stay for the meeting.

Diana—I will answer your nice letter soon.

I wish to quote from my favorite magazine a short verse by Mrs. A. C. Suttles.

God, the Builder.

God kissed a seed; there came a flower
A bud, a leaf—one day a bower—
Because it opened every cell
To receive of God—and tell
The world 'twas not its thought
By which this mirace was wrought
It's just being open to the Good—to God
That brings us upward from the sod.

Several of the members called on mea year ago last summer when they had a picnic near here. They were old friends of mine. I didn't know their pen names. They did not guess I was

BRIGHT RAY.

A GOOD DAY, GOOD CROWD, AND GOOD TIME

Dear Social Corner Editor: I think it is time I answered the roll call for 1928 in your paper.

I went to Putnam March 1st and had a wonderful time. It was an ideal day and a good crowd for a good time. First we had a social time meeting old friends and I hope some new ones.

Then the dinner, which was fine, and plenty of it.

Then the roll call, which was answered in different ways and was much enjoyed.

Then the hostess gave us a Mother Goose quiz and we were complimented often on our knowledge of "Mother Goose."

We missed the absent ones. I hoped to meet Lindsey, but Arjes said her mother was ill. Hope we can all meet again in Moosup in the near future.

Just a passing thought. I have been thinking that Club No. 4 is growing like the grain of mustard seed and hope it will continue. May the sick and those in trouble be helped as each needs is the wish of 1926 (Club No. 4).

RECIPES BY BELLAMOSA

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I have not written for a long time so I thought I would make at least an attempt to write.

Swiss Steak: 2 lbs. round or sirloin steak cut 2 inches thick. 1-2 cup of flour, salt and pepper. Mix these three together and add 1-4 cup ham or bacon drippings. Few slices of onion. 1-2 green pepper, chopped fine, 2 cups boiling water or 1 cup water and 1 cup strained tomatoes. Two cups of tomatoes is better. Leave out the water if using 2 cups tomatoes.

Pound flour mixed with salt and pepper into meat with a wooden potato masher or edge of heavy plate. Heat the fat or drippings. Brown the meat on each side in it. Add onion, green pepper boiling water and tomato or just tomato. Cover closely. Cook two hours in a casserole in the oven.

Other vegetables may be added if desired.

Stuffed Flank: Make a pocket in a thick flank steak to hold the dressing, or if the meat is thin, fold one-half over the other and skewer after it has been filled. To make the dressing, crumble one pint of bread, soften with water and drain well after it is moist throughout. Season the crumbs with salt and pepper, onion salt and celery salt, a little poultry seasoning and two tablespoons of dripping. Pack the dressing closely into the meat, pat it into shape and bake for one hour in a covered roaster, or for an hour and a quarter in an open pan. In the latter case it is necessary to baste several times. A few slices of bacon placed on the top of the meat ten minutes before serving improve the dish.

I hope some of the Social Corner sisters will try these recipes or at least one of them and let me know what they think of them. I have found them excellent dishes.

What seems to be the matter that hardly any one in Club 6 writes? Don't let other clubs get ahead of us. Come on, write even if it is only two or three lines.

BELLAMOS (Club 6)

A LETTER OF THANKS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: After an absence of about five months from writing to the Corner page, will write a few lines this morning. I am at the Backus hospital now but as I expect to return home "with my little one" tomorrow I thought I would write a few letters to pass away the time. I will surely be glad to get home, but I will say a good word for the hospital as you receive good care and all the nurses are very pleasant.

I want to thank all those who sent me Christmas and New Year cards. I received the lovely potted plant calendar some time ago, for which I thank someone. Every time I look at it it reminds me of a very kind but unknown friend. I also want to thank all those who called to see me during my stay at the hospital, and for all the letters, cards, fruit, etc., sent me, which helped to cheer me up so much while sick in bed.

Sister Ready: I received your two letters and lovely card. Thank you. Will be pleased to have a call from you when I get home.

Sweet William: Thank you for your card. Was pleased to have a call from E. The little one is doing nicely.

Arbutus: Glad to see you. Thank you for the card. Can you come down Sunday? Thank sister for her card.

What a nice winter we have had. Suppose everyone like myself is looking forward to spring and summer. That the sick ones are all feeling better is the wish from

ROSE OF NEW ENGLAND.

BEST WISHES FROM SISTER READY.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters—Just a few lines to keep my place in the Social Corner page. I always want to be on hand in time so as not to miss being in this week's page. I almost missed being at the first Social Corner gathering but I have attended quite a few since and the ladies who passed by on the other side that great day have become my good friends since. I shall never forget how those ladies sized me up. I am glad to be one of the members of the Social Corner. Am not sorry I ever joined and send best wishes to the editor and all members.

SISTER READY.

JOINS THE CORNER.

Dear Editor:—I would like to join the Social Corner and Club No. 6. Have been twice and had a delightful time. For my pen name will take

ROSLYN.

HOW TO MAKE A FRIENDSHIP QUILT.

Dear Social Corner Members:—The last time I wrote I sent a recipe for making fudge. That was a real good recipe, believe me! But through an error the amount of sugar was not printed.

I never knew you had so many readers who recognized my pen name.

I was congratulated on my ability as a fudge-maker, and many comments were made on the economical recipe. That about finished my attempts at writing. Now, I am going to try again.

Friendship Quilt—Take as a model a log-cabin quilt, then cut strips of white cloth, ask your friends to write their name, and place in center of block. I took my names, 36, 2-inches wide and placed diagonal on a square, 12 inches of white cloth, then added a half square of blue material—a 2-inch square cut diagonally will make the two half-squares—to place at end of name strips. Add to each side a blue strip, 2 inches wide, then a white strip and finish with two half-squares of blue. This completes a large block. When four of these blocks are placed together they form a square. On nearly every name-strip I stamped small designs, and embroidered both name and designs in various colored silk.

It is really a handsome quilt, a souvenir which will always be appreciated, and utilizes very small pieces of cloth. I dyed the blue portion and the bright blue dye takes good.

Now we are approaching spring, the strong sunlight will bring out all defects, and I wonder how many readers really appreciate the value of the dyes.

Many dresses which are whole, but faded, can be dyed lavender, blue and pink, and the work is so easy, and the results so good, that I am sure a great saving may be made in this way to use up the goods on hand, and then we feel as though we may buy new. All directions are printed on the dye packages and draperies, curtains, and various articles will look as good as new. I enjoyed, as I am sure other readers did, the Canterbury letter giving the well known names. It is the same in our own town. We think of the homes as they were, Major L., Captain S., Judge P., and Lawyer W., or Judge W., as I should have said, for last time I saw him he was clerk of court. Well, "those were the happy days."

THE BANSHEE.

BOUGHT FORD NED HOUSES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I was very much interested in Mr. Pecks', Johnny Cake's and Creta's letters, as I bought the houses at Ford Ned of General Ely of Norwich, now deceased. I think it was 24 years ago. I bought the houses intending to build a new one with them here at Pleasant View. Blue Bell, our son and I tore down one house, got it home, and had started tearing down another one. An idle remark was made that we never would build a new house here. Father-in-law was living then and owned this place, Pleasant View. When we told him the remark some silly had made, he said, look out is all I can tell you. We kept on tearing down the house as fast as we could. When it was all down we drew it home. One morning son went into the barn to do some chores. As he unlocked the door he heard a noise in the barn. On investigating he found one of the oxen with a terribly swollen jaw and face. A doctor was called and he said that the cow's jaw had been smashed with a heavy iron. That stopped us drawing for a while. Then one of our horses was poisoned in the barn, so that was the reason why we never finished drawing home the house and I suppose it is there now.

There was a lovely boiling spring there near the river. Lovely water to drink. I was told when people lived there and had smallpox several of them died and were taken up in the pasture in back of Egbert Bingham's house and buried there in the night. Dr. Gallup attended the patients and was good to most of them. I heard four grown-ups and a baby died. Blue Bell built a blacksmith shop here, and did shoeing and wagon work of all kind until he became blind. The houses Johnny Cake speaks of from Ford Ned to the cemetery have all but one changed owners several times. The one still living there who was there 45 years ago when I first knew Scotland is Deacon D. P. Walden and I think he could give us some very interesting history. Scotland and surrounding places. He owns a piece of land where I am told a church once stood. He offered to give it to a man owning land by it, but he never recorded it. Hendrick Douglas bought a small piece across the road on his side to have a stone heap there and recorded it on the town records.

I would like someone to tell me about the trail from Hampton to Norwich or to Baltic passing through the woods on top of the hill through Brunswick to Board ravine. Old fox hunters used to tell about the trail there. Was that Nipmuck trail? It cannot be for that goes along Little river, these news letters tell us. Was Seth Safford the blind man at Scotland Center one of the Saffords Johnny Cake speaks of? He was a wonderful man, if he was blind, for he planted and cared for his garden better than many of them who can see. I have watched him many times coming from the postoffice in what is now Amedon's store. He would feel with his cane and go home as straight as if he could see. There were stone posts along the front of his house. He would hit them with his cane and count them to know whereto turn in the yard. We did enjoy hearing him tell of his younger days and what changes had taken place. What would he say now were he here to see automobiles and electric lights?

I think Mr. Walden could give a good letter to the D. A. R. about that door in the Hovey house of which Johnny Cake speaks, as his wife was Mary Hovey and lived there. As many times as I have seen the house, lived below it for 12 years, I never knew about the door and window until Johnny Cake wrote about it. I think the D. A. R. would be interested in it, as the Hoveys were Civil war soldiers.

On looking from my yard the other day, the thought came to me how many are there living on the same farms that did when I first came here 45 years ago the 5th of March. Deacon Walden is on the same farm. Frank Smith is at Smith's Mills. Blue Bell worked there for Lester Smith, who ran a blacksmith shop. Eleazer Smith carded rolls for Blue Bell's mother. How I did love to see her spin yarn and knit stockings.

Going back to people living on the same farms, or places, the next one is Mrs. James Johnson; Scotland Center. Byron Wilson on top of Carey hill. Eben Bass on his father's farm. The last I knew Hadley Chapman owns his grandfather's farm and lives there. Chauncey Gager owns the farm his grandfather owned and I own the place my father-in-law owned 45 years ago. John Scott owns the Kendrick Douglas farm. Charles Henry Wesler of Lisbon owns and lives on the Henry Ray farm. George Monty owns the Henry Lincoln farm and most of the old Fuller farm. Frank Magger and mother own the Pearly Fuller place, and so on.

The greatest change in the buyers of farms is at the Anthony Parkhurst farm and Dennis Murphy farms now owned by Margaret Bowers of New York. Her mother was Bell Waldo of Waldo Station, so-called, now Scotland Station. She married a Thomas. The Waldos were lovely people and I wish there were more like them, kind, friendly people. I hope to see more letters in the Corner about Scotland and the trails. Best wishes to all Corner members, sick and shut-ins.

ENJOYS LETTERS ON OTHER DAYS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: First I want to remind all that Club No. 2 meets in Buckingham Memorial to celebrate the 18th anniversary of The Norwich Bulletin Corner page on Tuesday, March 13. As I have asked two of the Corner members to look out for any and all entertainments hereafter, don't forget to bring a sheet of music, a song, poems, etc., not forgetting we have the Plaut-Cadden Co. gift of old-fashioned songs, and that reminds me will the sister who by mistake or thought it a gift kindly bring back the book she took out of the Buckingham at the last meeting? These books are a gift, to be left and used at the club meetings, and not to be taken home by anyone. I hope those who have promised beans, salads, etc., will not forget them, as we surely want as nice a dinner as we had in February. We served over 100 guests and members then. Come one and all and we will try to serve you as best we can.

I do enjoy those letters describing the places and people of the Windham section, as I used to go to my mother's uncle's, Edwin Pollock, on top of that long hill called Scotland. He had two daughters. One, Josephine, married Joseph Sommen. They lived when I was a girl by the Frog pond. The other daughter, Ellen, married a Charles Butts. She is the last one of the family living, and the last I knew was in Moosup.

Silver Locks: Letters are interesting. If not acquainted one enjoys reading them. I will thank her for the paper No. 2 sent and marked with our family history. Send me your address.

Ann Tenna: So you enjoy the radio? Just now mine doesn't sound so nice. The charger is on. Do you ever hear the Shine band from Boston at 9.30 to 10 p. m. every Monday night? I enjoy Roxy's "Hello, everybody," his good night, pleasant dreams, and the soft voice God bless you.

Anastasia: Yes, I get quite a laugh out of Mrs. Bitgood. She surely is active for her years. I hope some day to go and see her.

Kitty Lou: I hear wedding bells are soon to ring around your home. Am I right?

Aunt Rosa: Not a writer. Thanks for getting the salad to the Corner for the sick member. It was nice of you and only one of your many kind acts. Come in on March 13 if only to look your friends up. Hope you, too, are feeling much better now.

We hope to see the usual anniversary crowd at the Buckingham March 13.

Red Rose, Sister Ready and Nellie Bly: Why so still?

Well, as the old-time dance program used to read: Come to our next; so with the tune of Home, Sweet Home, I go and get busy.

CALLA LILY (Club No. 2).

LEARNS OF MELBA'S DEATH

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: We are about to celebrate another anniversary. How we would miss our Corner page were it taken from us. I was sorry to learn of Melba's death. I had a nice chat with her the afternoon before. We will miss her at the grange, also the grange auxiliary. She was a faithful member of both. My sympathy is extended to her family.

Scottie: So glad to see you out again.

White Dawn: Hope you will be able to be with us the 13th.

Cady: If you bring some of that work to church next Sunday I will do it at home for you.

I want to tell the sisters of Club No. 2 who do not know that after the last meeting I carried back the singing books so kindly loaned by Plaut-Cadden Co., and they presented them to the Corner, 50 of them. The Bulletin company kindly printed Social Corner No. 2 on the front page of the book. We can have a fine time singing old songs. Remember, they are not to be taken from the room. By some mistake we lost two at our last meeting. If anyone finds they took one home, will they kindly bring it back?

Country Sister: Have you had any earthquake cake lately? I have not. I shall miss you when you get up on the other street. Do not get on very fast with my rug. It takes me over an hour to go around it now.

Chocolate: Do not think I shall get to No. 1. We have so much to do this time, and they come so near together.

Milky Way: Beers and Shumac better come up this time. You will have a good time again. I cannot get to No. 6 very often. When it grows warmer I will try and get to Westerly.

Who says housecleaning? Law, me! It looks more like shoveling snow. This is regular March weather.

Hope all sick ones are improving.

Lorna and Maple Leaf: Be sure and come this time and bring the piano player with you.

Best wishes for the Corner's anniversary.

SUGGESTIONS FROM ETHELYN

Dear Corner Members: There is one way I love dried brad. Take the pieces, butter them and place them in a skillet. Pour milk over them until they are entirely covered. Heat good and hot; in fact, until milk comes to a boil. Eat while hot. This makes an excellent supper dish.

Rub cloudy mirrors with a cloth wrung out of cold water and dipped in dry whiting powder. Then polish with a dry duster.

To clean a white enameled bath tub: Place a little turpentine in a saucer. Get a small rag and rub the bath tub all over with the turpentine. Then scrub well with soap and warm water. No matter how dirty the bath is, the dirt will disappear like magic.

When washing shade tassels, take white thread and tie each tassel securely one-half inch from the bottom. Then put them in the washing machine and you will have no trouble with tangled tassels.

In thickening cream soup, allow a tablespoon each of butter and flour to every quart of water.

After the washing is finished and the wringer is unscrewed, in order to take the weight off the rollers, put two small pieces of wood between them, for the air to pass through freely. This preserves the life of the wringer. (I use half of a clothespin).

ETHELYN.

APPRECIATED GIFTS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It is a long time since I have written and I hope I have not lost my membership. I have read the letters and enjoyed them all.

To Club No. 3 I send my thanks for the beautiful flowers sent me while I was in the hospital. They meant more to me than I can tell you. I thank each and every one of you for your sympathy and kind thoughts.

Best wishes to all.

ANOTHER MEMBER.

Dear Editor:—I would like to join the Social Corner. I spent the day there last month and had a fine time. I would like to join Club No. 6. For my pen name I will take

EMAJEAN.

WHEN THE CORNER WAS STARTED.

Dear Corner Members—As today marks the eighteenth year since the Social Corner page had its inception and which was started by less than a dozen writers, it must be gratifying to look back over these years and see the vast amount of helpful ideas and suggestions sent in by nearly 2000 writers—perhaps more. Congratulations are surely due the editors that have worked with this end in view. A few of the writers that responded to the editor's call for letters and helped get these columns under way, in its earliest days have been faithful to it all these years. A host have answered the final roll call, I cannot give accurate figures now, but I should say well toward 1000; and hundreds have sent in letters on special topics in which they had interest or knowledge and then dropped out, as there are score on score of pen names we never see any more. At this time as we look back over the years and the changes made in these columns and the writers, perhaps it would be fitting to recall for the benefit of new and prospective members the real significance of the Social Corner around which the social gatherings are an outcome and not vice-versa as some seem to think. The Social Corner page was started by an appeal from the editor for short and gossipy letters upon the affairs of Home and Household, Domestic Perplexities and Difficulties, Family Problems, How to Avoid the Annoying Features of Housework, Social Questions, Health Hints, and Home Remedies, How to Keep Young and Well, Care of Baby, How to Manage Husband and Children, Animals, Fowls and Birds, Recipes, Kitchen Economy, Furnishings, Home Arts, Flowers, Gardening, are all eligible topics. The Social Corner is going to be democratic in the broadest sense. It is going to be everybody's corner who has a helpful word of any sort to say and everything must be wholesome and good natured to gain admittance, and again the editor said, The Bulletin wants good home letters, good business letters, good helpful letters of any kind the mind may suggest. Home Help and Home Entertainment is the motto."

I wonder how many of the writers that have gained entrance by their initial letter to this column can measure their letter by these requirements to become Social Corner members. Whatever one affiliates themselves with, some effort of some sort is required, and as the continuance of the Social Corner page in an interesting and helpful capacity is dependent on every contributor, it seems fitting that the first time writer should at least send a recipe or some helpful or interesting experience as the initiation fee as was plainly outlined by the editor 18 years ago, and when you suggest to your friends that they join the Social Corner also impress that something is necessary besides just a pen name sent in. I will again remind you of the meeting of Club 1, March 14, at Chamber of Commerce rooms. Yours for the good of the Corner,

THEODA.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: As this is anniversary week will say "Present!" to my name at the roll call, also will write a few lines to let you know that I have enjoyed the winter more than usual, because we have had so little snow. I saw Forget-Me-Not go by in a sleigh one day.

Dorinda: Did you have much sleighing up your way? If so I know you enjoyed it. How I would like to drop in on you for breakfast some morning and have some of your nice homemade sausage with buckwheat pancakes.

Theoda: I have several armaryllis bulbs. If you would like to try another one, I will send you one when the weather permits. Perhaps you will have better luck with the next one. Let me know if you would like one.

Ann Tenna: The poetry about Lindy was fine. Will ring off, as our letters must be short so there will be room for all members to answer the roll call.

Best wishes for the afflicted ones.

KENST.

MY PENNAME.

Dear Editor and Everybody — Again this morning we listened in to Gil who takes the place of Cheerio when he is away. We think he is fine. Once in a while some one of the members write out the meaning of their pen-name. Perhaps I had better write a few words about mine. It was two years ago this last February that a new radio was installed in the house where I was staying, and all I could hear while the work was going on was something about the antenna. I thought that would be a good pen-name for me to use as I was about to become a member of the Social Corner and thought it would look better written like a name rather than the correct way of spelling it. Soon after I became a member I commenced to send in letters and have continued to do so every week but one up to the present time. Will some one else write about theirs?

1926 called up this morning and told us all about the meeting held in Putnam by Club No. 4 members. Glad it was a good day for it, and I know a No. 1 dinner was served.

When our liver doesn't function,
When the whole world's looking blue and you get an ugly feeling
That hard luck's in love with you;
Then it doesn't better matters,
Doesn't cure you if you're sick,
If you go around a'grouchin'
Prone to give your dog a kick.
To be sure, it isn't easy
To put on a cheery smile,
But if you are feelin' grouchy
It will surely help a pile.
You must really be extremely Egotistical to think
That when you have an aching tummy
The whole world is on the blink.
If you'll just keep on a pluggin'
Soon your troubles will be gone
And the world will keep a'rollin'
And the sun keep shining on.

—G. N. R.

The sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thoughts.

The kindly word unspoken is a sin.

Warm hearts never turn the cold shoulder.

SCISSORS A KITCHEN AID.

Dear Cornerites—I use the scissors to aid me with my kitchen vegetables. It is a very valuable aid in removing shell from the lobster. Cut the shell right down the front on the under side of the tail. Then the two parts of the shell can be bent backwards, and the meat removed rapidly.

Shrimps are cut right over the top then open and take out the meat, cut or trim the top of the shrimp, remove the vein with the sharp pointed scissors and take out the little vein that runs down to the end of the tail.

In fixing clams I cut the side to empty the belly, cut off the head about 1-2 inch and slit down with the scissors.

On shank and lamb, I remove the outside edge by the use of the scissors, also to trim the rind from ba-

GENERAL MOTORS AT RECORD OF 159.75
LED ADVANCE IN PRICES OF STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—General Motors stock, soaring 9 3-4 points to a new high record at 159 3-4 on a turn-over of more than half a million shares, led a spirited advance in prices in today's stock market. Extreme gains in the high priced industrials ranged from 4 to 17 1-4 points, but some of these were cut down on profit-taking. The day's total transactions were 3,706,000 shares, which have been exceeded only once since the history of the exchange, on March 3, 1926, when 3,785,000 shares changed hands in a declining market.

Two important developments provided the basis for the sensational buying movement, the unexpected decrease of $26,000,000 in federal reserve brokers' loans which stimulated a resumption of active short-covering, and the announcement that General Motors executives had purchased 200,000 shares of stock, through their securities corporation, at approximately $150 a share. This was the sixth consecutive day that General Motors had established a new peak price, today's final quotation representing a gain of more than 20 points during the past week.

"Bear" traders were reported to have taken a terrific beating in today's market, not only in General Motors, but in such stocks as Radio, which soared 9 1-2 points to a record top at 107 3-4; U. S. Steel common, which closed 4 points higher at 146 3-8; Hudson Motors, which crossed 94 to the best price since 1926, and several others. International Harvester, Liggett & Myers, Timken Roller Bearing, Pittsburgh Coal and American Snuff. More than 20 issues attained new high levels for the year including such diversified shares as Electric Power & Light, H. K. Mallison, International Cement, Sinclair Oil, Paramount Famous Players, American Linseed, American Encaustic Tiling and Victor Talking Machine.

Weekly mercantile reviews were a little more cheerful, although they continued to characterize business as spotty. The money market continued relatively easy, call money being in plentiful supply all day at the renewal figure of 4 1-4 per cent. The engagement of $12,000,000 in gold for shipment to South America, coupled with indications that France is likely to draw heavily on our reserve in connection with her franc stabilization program, apparently was disregarded as a market influence.

The fact that brokers' loans declined last week in the face of violent speculation for the advance in some of the high priced stocks were interpreted, in some quarters, as an indication that stocks were passing into hands of large financial interests who were able to carry them without recourse to borrowing. Purchase of the 200,000 shares of General Motors executives' stock is understood to have been for cash.

Rails failed to participate to any extent in the buying movement. Bullish enthusiasm for this group has been dampened by the publication of unfavorable earnings and traffic reports.

Foreign exchanges were slightly firmer, with sterling cables again selling close to $4.88.

Commodity markets were reactionary. Wheat declined 1 to nearly 2 cents a bushel. Rubber opened firm and then sold off about a cent a pound. Cotton closed closed unchanged to 16 points lower, and coffee dropped 6 to 26 points. Sugar quotations held fairly steady.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE.

New York.

Stocks strong; General Motors, Baldwin, Steen and Can lead swift rise.

Bonds firm; high grade railway liens active.

Foreign exchanges mixed; sterling and francs higher.

Cotton easy; commission house selling.

SOCIAL CORNER

con before slicing it, or if you buy it already in slices just trim the rind off.

To shell lima beans cut your beans right over the top. For peas snip off the end and just squeeze them and the peas will fall out.

Cabbages I cut up with scissors. Also with the head of lettuce, cut off the root portion with the scissors leaving the head intact, hold the lettuce in cold water, wash thoroughly then drain and cut with scissors in portions as you wish.

They are invaluable in cutting and preparing grapes for the table. Hold grapes under the faucet, snip off those that have gone by, then snip the small bunches off for the table.

A chicken can be cut up with the shears. I cut the fat out, cut meat off the bones and use the bones for soup. Salad greens, strips of pimento, peppers, celery and tomatoes can be fixed with the aid of scissors.

Prepare the grape fruit with the scissors. Pour hot water on them and let stand 12 minutes. Let cool, cut in halves and then cut the edges into neat, sawtooth points, then the pulp will loosen and be divided into sections. The decoration of the edge gives a festive touch which you are unable to get with a knife. Oranges can be treated in the same manner.

Marshmallows can be snipped into bits with scissors by dipping scissors in milk or water, then snipping them into tiny bits.

For flowers they are wonderful. When changing the water the ends of the stems can be snipped and slashed up permitting the water to enter the stems.

Dear Mother Preston—Your gift was received and it was very attractive. There isn't anything I like much better than what you sent. I intended to write you a letter. I have something I wished to send but not through the Corner.

Thanking you again.

KITTY LOU.

A LETTER OF THANKS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I first want to thank Social Corner Member for the very pretty calendar. I still think we have to thank the same member for all the nice letters that are printed.

I sure had a busy year in 1927, and started the new year by getting good and sick, which was a wrong way to begin a nice new year. I am much better, able to eat solid food and walk out every day.

And now I want to thank the Social Corner friends who sent cards and letters. Primrose and Happy-Go-Lucky for valentines and letters. (Perhaps that is why I got sick). Twice Twenty for letter, Loretta for letter, Aries for letter and valentine, Keziah Doolittle and 1492 for cards and the slide I didn't get.

Thanks also to Roseland, Fan Tan, Mrs. Nellie Soules, Mrs. Byron Carroll, Lindsey, Juniper, Anne D., Moses' Wife, Paisley, Lotus, Killing Bud, and Hattie Codding for cards.

Lilac Lady and Azile: Your cards did the trick. They made me laugh so I got well right off.

Honorary: Your letter was so good I had to get well after reading it. I think I know the little bird.

Last, but not least, I thank Ann Tenna for the valentine.

I was sorry not to be able to attend the last meeting of Club No. 4 on March 1st. I was able to attend nearly all the meetings last year, so need to be thankful for that.

I hope I have remembered all those who sent cards and letters, and I did enjoy them all and hope to be with you when you meet again.

Aries and Twice Twenty: Have you the poems that Adam Zang sent in?

LAST ROSE OF SUMMER.

YESTERDAY AND TODAY

Dear Social Corner Friends: Every time I look at the pretty calendar which a Social Corner Member sent me I think tomorrow I will write a letter to the Corner, but I guess I am a slacker. If not too late, I want to thank the giver and say I enjoy the different flowers. I have it hung at the side of my desk as a constant reminder of someone's thoughtfulness.

I feel sure that not one of the writers wish to be slackers, but some way there are so many other things to be done that we just put off writing from day to day.

We are surely living in an age of hustle, and such wonderful inventions. We would not like to go back to the old times when we did not have telephones or electricity, yet don't you think people took more real pleasure then than now, and appreciated what comforts they did have?

When I was a girl a trip to Watch Hill, or perhaps to Block Island, was a big event to be talked over for weeks, and as soon as haying was finished some fine morning we would start early. And how pleasant the drive to Norwich was in the early morning! Arriving in Norwich, we would put our horse in the stable and go aboard the Block Island, and how we enjoyed every minute of the sail. Down below we would watch the big wheel churn the water into foam, then stay a while on first deck, then to the upper deck, where we would get a fine breeze. After a few hours' sail we would reach Block Island, hungry, and how good the shore dinner would taste. All too soon the time would come for the return trip and we would enjoy a few hours more of the sail, and what a beautiful sight it was coming up the river from New London to Norwich. Then the drive home in the twilight, arriving home happy and with memories of the day's pleasure to enjoy for many a day. But now what a change, with no planning or anticipation. Any day or any time a day, simply get into your auto and drive 25 to 50 miles to some beach, with your eyes fixed on the road to see that you don't run into someone, or they into you. No chance to enjoy the beauties of nature. You arrive at the beach, drive around to find a place to park the car and then for a little while enjoy the ocean, for that does not change, yet all the time there is a disturbing thought in your mind; can we get the car out of here when we want to start for home? At last we get started, and it seems as if everyone was on the road, cars flying in both directions. At last you reach home, tired, but thankful to have arrived safe.

Silver Locks: Sorry to hear you were not well. Enjoyed your description of Lebanon and who used to live there. Many I did not know.

I think it was Buffalo who asked if my people had a picture of Rev. Charles Peckham when he was a young man. I do not remember ever seeing it, but it might have been among some old pictures.

I hope when spring comes all the sick ones will be better. Best wishes to all.

DANIELSON MEETING SUCCESSFUL

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Every day in every way the Social Corner is getting better and better.

The meetings are wonderful and the dinners are most enjoyable, but what surprises me most is that fine friendly helpful spirit which pervades the atmosphere. From all accounts the meeting in Danielson was most successful. Wish Aries could find her spoon. Was fortunate enough to attend in Putnam. The young guests added not a little to the pleasure.

Bay B.: You are right about the lovely drive over to Westerly. I have often thought of it. Why worry about Europe when Connecticut has so many miles of good roads and wonderful scenery? I looked for you in Hartford at the state convention. Hope I'll see you in Willimantic March 14th.

This note was just greetings and best wishes to all the club members.

PRICES ON FINISHED RUGS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I did not intend to write so soon, but yesterday I received a yellow slip, so I wish to thank the editor, also The Bulletin Co. I was surprised to receive the slip and also pleased.

I note where Rhode Island asked the prices on hook rugs that were for sale, also where one could purchase patterns which were not expensive. There is a firm in Massachusetts that sells the burlap pattern very cheap, price 75 cents to $1.50. But those are just stamped in black. The ones stamped in colors are priced 90 cents to $2.25. I think they are worth the difference, for it is much more quickly hooked when one has the pattern in color. You can obtain them from any store that deals in any art goods. Also Needlecraft Magazine sells them. I also know of two other firms which sell them, but they are all $2 or more apiece, according to size. If you care to buy any, send me your address and I will tell you where to buy them. Now for prices on the finished rugs, for sale, ones made from rags, sizes 18x30, are priced $6.60; 22x36 are $9.75, and 26x42 are $13.

Ones made from yarn bring more, if well made, the flowers well shaded and well hooked with fast color yarn. You can charge about $3 a square foot if the pattern is an easy one. If it has a lot of work and made with a crochet point, it would be worth $4 a square foot. Size 24x36, made of yarn, should sell for $18. Good yarn costs about $2.75 a pound, but one could buy the plain white and dye it the colors which are on the burlap pattern. The white or cream colored yarn can be bought for $1.45 a pound and it takes from 4 to 8 pounds to hook a rug, according to size. A 9x12 rug would be worth $200. If you like to get $7.50 worth of rug patterns for $5 by joining the art craft league, I can send you the address. The little hand machine sells from 75 cents to $3.50. If I can help you out in any way, just let me know, please.

RECALLS EARLY VISITS TO ROCKVILLE

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: The recent letters on reminiscences of years ago have been most intgresting and, as Iola says, "These things set us to thinking." I have been reminded of incidents that I experienced during the earliest years of my remembrance. It was on visits to my grandmother, who lived in Rockville, Conn. I can recall how I thought the journey on the railroad train of about 50 miles was wonderful and on arrival at our destination grandmother would be at the station to meet us, and the pleasant greetings that were exchanged. During our visit mother would meet with former friends, those she had known in her school days, and how they would chat! But after the visit and it was the day for us to leave for our own home, and we were at the little railroad station again I was not too young to notice there was a changed of attitude somehow, the scenes were different from those the day we arrived.

Why was it? I saw the tears in grandma's eyes as she held mother's hand and as the "good bye" words were spoken. I could not understand then. To me, I was impatient for the train to start. After we had got seated and I was looking out the window, while grandma was standing on the platform. It requires but a few years of time to explain these mysterious/s of time to explain these mysteries, in childhood thought, and we learn without a spoken word.

Occasionally I have opportunity to be in Rockville, and always whenever I see the railroad station I cannot fail to be reminded of those two scenes, of joy and sadness, which were impressions never to be forgotten.

When I was 12 years old I went alone without mother to visit grandma and I thought I had accomplished a great undertaking. One incident of this particular visit still remains on memory's list, never to be erased. There were two little girls who lived near to grandmother's who used to entertain me in various ways. One day we went up to Snipsic lake. These girls wanted me to see what a big "pond" it was. There was a rowboat pulled up partly on shore, and I got into it. Then the girls pushed the boat out and soon I was drifting toward the current which follows to the big dam. Fortunately for me, a man on shore who was doing some repair work on an upturned rowboat was alarmed by the girls calling to me, and at once observed the perilous plight I was in. Very quickly he turned the boat over, pushed out into the water and rowed toward me. When he reached me he took the chain at the stern of my boat and after fastening it to the end of his boat he towed me back to shore. If some of the readers are familiar in the locality of Snipsic lake, and of the dam, they can realize what my fate would have been had that boat continued in the increasing current and dashed over that waterfall to the rocks below. Someone else would have written an account of it at that time instead of me contributing a reminiscence at this date. I well remember the three cats that my grandmother had at one time, and their names were Minnie, Tabby and Dolly.

Grandmother was very fond of her pet cats and kept an eye on me that I treated them just right. There are many pleasant things I can remember of these visits to grandma's home during the period of my school days and at the summer vacations.

Later on sometimes I went in the winter. Once I started from home in a snow storm and when we reached Talcottville the train was stalled and we had to wait quite a while till the tracks were cleared before we could go on. This was a Christmas visit. As years passed on changes came with them, and the last visit I made to grandma's was on her 75th birthday. On that anniversary I put into her lap my little eight months' old son and for the first time he looked into the face of his great-grandmother.

It was not long after that I received a telegram that "grandmother had passed away."

Best wishes to all.

A MISSING CHAPTER SUPPLIED

Dear Sisters—I am interested in the letters telling about Ford Ned but think there is a chapter which has been left out. It occurred when Mr. Hilbert left the mansion house and grounds which were sold to a Captain Rolf Messenger from Nova Scotia who with his family consisted of his mother, wife and three children, Edgar, Effie and Samuel, and later a governess for the children. The captain himself was away on short sea voyages a great part of the time but he improved the land and grounds, employing men to build walls and clear up the brush on the land. He and his family attended church at Scotland, his wife, mother and son joining the church there. As there were several families in the village at this time when the paper mill was running and if I am not mistaken, furnishing paper for The Bulletin. This mill was owned wholly or in part by a Mr. Oberno of Englesville now called Versailles. The elder Mrs. Messenger started a Sunday school and several of the villagers attended it. It was held in a small, empty house just outside of the village. Mrs. Messenger was the superintendent and she, assisted by a few others taught those who attended the school. Captain Messenger kept two horses and carriages, and had a man to superintend his farm work. I think they were there about two years when they moved away. This was followed by the burning of the mill and the house, one after another, the mansion and barn being among the number. Now there are only the remains of cellars to mark the places where the houses once stood. There is a good water privilege owned by Angus Park of Hanover, I believe. I think thi. all happened after Mr. Peck left his old home.

Ida—I was very interested in your letter about Ford Ned. You spoke of the old mill being owned by a Mr. Crandall which was long before the mill I speak of. Was Mr. Crandall a relative of yours, or was he Miss Prudence Crandall's father? Do you know of this young lady and her school in Canterbury where she taught some colored pupils? If any one knows about her please write about it.

Well, enough for this time from

SISTER BARBARA.

OTHER DAYS NEAR HANOVER

Dear Social Corner Members: I thank G. A. C. K. for information about Mrs. Eben Allen. I went to school in Hanover to T. K. Peck. My twin sister worked there quite a while. We were only young children then. I also wish to thank B. G. J. for information in regard to Mrs. Eben Allen, also his sisters. I didn't know where they were. I would like to ask B. G. J. if she was the minister's daughter that lived in Hanover at one time. Did you live next to the Cutler place? Do your initials read J. G. B.? Did I work at your house at one time. Oh, ages ago!

Although I remember the Nelson Lyons place, don't remember anything about a tannery or schoolhouse out there. There was a school house this side of John Peck's, where I went to school winters and the minister used to come up from Hanover and hold religious meetings Sunday afternoons. We young people used to walk down to Hanover to church. After our folks moved up to Woodchuck hill, but it was too far for my mother to go. How she did enjoy the meetings at the schoolhouse. My mother's brother lived this side of the schoolhouse, on the old Deacon Witter place. It was an ideal place then.

Sprinkle with powdered sugar, cinnamon, raisins and nuts that have been chopped. Bake in moderate oven 20 or 25 minutes. My pen name is taken from the village of Taftville, at one time called

ANSWERING THE ROLL CALL

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been a very long time since I have written, but will try and say present to the 1928 roll call.

Have been very much interested in the many letters each week, especially Johnny Cake's and others, who have written about Fort Ned and Westminster. Johnny Cake must live near me. Her letter brought many memories of other days to E. E. S.'s husband.

Effie M.: Hope you will come over when the warm weather comes, have got some one here who will keep you busy.

To our Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: We have had so many interesting letters. The descriptions of the country is next to taking the trip.

Zerviha: Your trip to Cape Cod brought to my mind a trip I took to Newport from Brooklyn, N. Y. We took a train for Riverhead, L. I. Then a large boat to Newport, R. I, and an auto ride past the palaces. I remember one home was up high on a ledge and a long flight of stairs cut out of the rock led down to the water. It was a delightful trip. Another nice ride, after the roads are settled, is from Andover past the Congregational church and cemetery where my husband's ancestors lie. Go up a long hill and on the right you will pass Olla's house, then about 2 1-2 miles is the Capt. Silas Jones house built in 1747, still in good condition. In the front yard is a maple tree planted by his son, Justin Jones on his 7th birthday. He was born Nov. 11, 1804. On away is Wright's mill, where the Cheneys tried to buy and build a mill for their silk business. The owner would not sell, so the Cheneys bought in Manchester. Wright's mills might have been Cheneyville. Going up the hill you arrive in North Coventry, pass the Second Congregational church of Coventry; follow the state road to Bolton Notch and on to Manchester and Hartford.

Photographer: Where are you? So many new members want their likeness taken. It is a long time since you took mine and I graduated.

Irva Lynn: I have missed your good letters. What would you say if a bus load of Social Corner Sisters should stop at your door for a sample of those good dinners you carried away? Wiltwyck's daughter and school friends from Columbia college hiked nearly there. They did not know just how to find you, not knowing your right name.

Nema: Your suggestion about hostesses is seconded. I hope you will come soon.

Neighbor Everready: Mother's cold is leaving. Using home made syrup of white pine needles. Cover them with water and boil, strain water, add sugar and boil to syrup. It is a real cure. When convenient come home and we will call on Marigold and Betsey Bray.

Huldy: After you arrived in Florida it must be very pleasant, but I would not like to get my feet wet on the way. I would like a real orange right from the tree. We have been eating some tonight which needed too much sugar. It is fine Practical Polly is with you. I wonder if she will find cucumbers trained on trees in Florida. We enjoy Mr. M. E. L.'s letters from there.

Wild Geranium: Did I meet you at a picnic at Huldy's home some years ago? If I am right I wish the newly weds a happy and prosperous life.

Ann Tenna: I heard Dr. L. Parks Cadman's excellent talk. We used to enjoy going to see and hear him when we lived in Brooklyn.

Beth C.: I am looking forward to a nice chat with you. Spring is nearly here.

Theoda: Your letter received; will answer soon.

Sis of N. H.: We miss you very much. I hope you enjoy living in Syracuse.

Alice: I am doing my bit. Shall I go to the foot of the class?

With best wishes for our corner.

WHO ARE THE ARIES BORN?

Dear Editor and members: The weather gave us a clear day for the meeting of Club No. 4 in Putnam. Such a jolly crowd gathered and enjoyed the good eats, fine programme, and social hour. We missed many of the members that were unable to be there.

I enjoy all of the letters printed in the Social Corner and especially like the short poems. "The Clock of life" sent in by "Attely" was fine. I now have 60 quotations and short poems on "Life," since asking the question, a year ago, "What is Life?" Sorry I missed Lindsey's poem.

Speaking of life reminds us again of the return of spring. And as we are nearing the first day of spring I have been requested to write about the sign Aries, the first month of spring in the Zodiac. As some one asked us to explain our pen-names, I will say mine was taken because I happen to be born in the Sign "Aries," the first month of the astrological new year.

The sign Aries begins March 21st and ends April 19th. Everyone born in that period of time are born in the month Aries (The Ram) which is the first sign of the Zodiac and the intellectual and positive pole of the fire trinity. The sign is masculine, movable; ruled by Mars and Uranus, governs the face, head and brain in the physical body; rules "reason" and "will" in the psychic sphere. The tribe is "Gad," which corersponds to the brain which arms and prepares for all emergencies of life.

There are two types of Aries people. One tall large boned, silent, usually a scar on the face; the other type shorter, plumper, alert, talkative, restless and more fortunate in business. Aries is the sign of sacrifice as well as the sign of life. The vibrations for success are strongest from April 13 to 20th and from November 29th to Dec. 7th, every year for Aries born; and June and July are favorable for business enterprises.

We have quite a number of people born in "Sign Aries" in the Social Corner. Come speak up. Best wishes from

POINTS ON RUG MAKING

Dear Editor and Sisters: I was very glad to see the letters from Rhode Island and Blue Baby on the hooked rugs. I, too, am interested in them. I made one as an experiment, using all different kinds of rags and now I am making one of yarn that measures three by six feet. The patterns stamped in colors are very easy to follow and usually full directions for making and a color plate of the finished rug come with them. One of my neighbors, who has made several this winter uses any firm burlap and outlines her patterns with bright carpet warp. Transfering patterns with carbon paper doesn't prove very satisfactory because of the texture of the burlap, but, as Blue Baby told us, the pattern can be laid on and the lines followed carefully with thread that shows up plainly on the burlaps. This can be done on the sewing machine if care is taken not to let the pattern slip. When the paper is torn off the outline can easily be filled in. I have used three different hooks and I found each worked well in its place. When using rags that stretch or ravel the hand hook like a crochet hook, only coarser, is better but with felt or yarn the hooks that work on the "push and pull" method put the stitch in evenly and quickly.

I was at a meeting at the home of Milky Way when several rugs were brought in to show how the different materials could be used. There was a small one of the most beautiful shade of blue with just a touch of black and old rose. It was made of a blue cotton house dress that was so badly faded it was past wearing. There were two others partly finished, one made of silk stockings dyed a soft tan and another of old sweaters not ravelled but cut in strips. And one woman brought one that was given her for a wedding present 36 years ago and she has used it on her bedroom floor ever since. It was beginning to fray a bit on the edge but the body of the rug was still good, none of the rags having loosened.

The colors were still bright enough to show the pattern. This rug had no lining but was the same on both sides. This same woman has made 25 woven rugs this winter.

The frame I use I made myself after the style of quilting frames only instead of tacking strips on to fasten the rug on I laced it with shoe strings. Instead of wooden pegs at the corners I have a bolt with a wing nut that can be easily tightened. Small clamps can be bought that are good for this purpose too. I hope others will write about their experiences with these rugs. It is very interesting work.

Aries: Received your card, thanks for the information. I was sorry not to see you at the February meeting in Norwich.

Y. Y.: Received the pattern and thanks a lot.

Beers: Got you a program Tuesday night. Mrs. C. P. C. was inquiring for you. She said it seemed funny not to see you.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY, S. OF H.

Two plays were given in Germania hall Wednesday evening by the guards of Immergruen lodge, Women's auxiliary, Sons of Hermann, before an audience that filled the hall. The guards appeared in their new uniforms of white dresses, bottle-green jackets and white tams to give one of their famous drills under their captain, Mrs. B. Schlienz.

The programme began with two baritone solos by Frank Steinke with Mrs. J Leirich at the piano. The first play was "In Other Peoples Shoes," and was given by the following cast of characters:

Two songs ("Springtime, Thru Joyous Tide" and "Love's Old Sweet Song" were given by the quartette, J. Eckstein, K. Schlienz, O. Heinrich, J. Lockhart.

The quartette as an encore sang "The Soldiers' Farewell," J. Lockhart a member of the quartette was heard in a pleasing solo for an encore number. He sang "Somewhere a Voice is Calling." Miss Margaret Schaffhauser accompanied the singer at the piano.

A German play, "Only Women Helpers," was given with the following cast: Mrs. Eulalie, Mrs. G. Kirchner; Aunt Heimback, Mrs. A. Schaffhauser; Doctor Katz, Mrs. B. Schlienz; Doctor Weiss, Mrs. J. Gresser; Anna, (daughter of Mrs. Eulalia) Mrs. E. Braun. The entertainment concluded with two solos: "Auf Wiedersehn" and "Head Over Heels in Love" by M. J. Farrell.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

A Cleveland, Ohio, dispatch reads: The proposal to hold the national convention of the Knights of Columbus in Cleveland in August will be considered by the board of supreme directors at its meeting in Boston in April. At a banquet following initiation of 400 members here several days ago the suggestion that Cleveland be made the 1928 convention city for the order was made by Patrick J. Kerwin, of London, O., a past state deputy. Other speakers who gave encouragement to the suggestion were Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Supreme Council James A. Flaherty, of Philadelphia; Supreme Director Thomas J. Duffy, of Ohio, and Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland.

"I want to assure the officers and members of the Knights of Columbus," Bishop Schrembs said, "that no other bishop and no other diocese in the country will extend a warmer welcome to the delegates if it is decided to hold the convention in Cleveland."

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

Forces of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., under the leadership of state legislative chairmen, are to be marshaled for a concerted drive in behalf of a world war service pension bill for disabled veterans, now in the hands of the house committee on pensions in congress. Edwin S. Bettelheim, Jr., chairman of the national legislative committee, has sent out an appeal from national headquarters here urging every V. F. W. post to contact its respective senators and congressmen stressing need of such legislation.

The pending measure, known as H. R. 9138, contemplates pensions for disabled world war veterans suffering from disabilities incurred in the service but thus far excluded from Veterans bureau compensation. Thousands of veterans, a survey discloses, are just beginning to break down from mental and physical disabilities that incapacitate them for the performance of manual labor. These men, by the terms of the world war service pension, would receive pensions commensurate with their disabilities, ranging from $20 to $50 per month.

The bill will also benefit those men who can prove a service connection with their disabilities but failed to file claims with the Veterans Bureau before January 1, 1927, depending rather on their ability to care for themselves without the necessity of asking the government for aid or compensation.

There is still another class of men who will benefit from the world war service pension bill. This group is made up of the heroes who refused to go back to hospitals or dressing stations while their own companies were advancing, even though they were suffering from gas and shrapnel wounds. They did not wish to be classed as quitters or shirkers, or risk the possibility of becoming forlorn hospital casuals, and either kept quiet about their injuries or accepted the makeshift treatment in order to stay at the front. Therefore, these men have no hospital records that would now serve to prove their claims to Veterans Bureau compensation.

PYTHIAN SISTERS

Clover temple, No. 9, at their last regular meeting entertained their grand chief Clara Heaton, of Wallingford, Grand Senior Edna Eastwood of Middletown, Grand Outer Guard Mrs. Heart of Hartford, District Deputy of School of Instruction Sister Norris of Middletown. Other past grands present were Sisters Adams, Gates, Snyder and Atwell.

Chancellor Commander James Lascuo of New London was also present as well as others of the different temples of the state. There were remarks by the grand and past officers. Clover temple was congratulated upon carrying out their ritual work, and the new M. E. C. presided in a capable manner. A social time followed in renewing friendships with each other. At 6.30, before the meeting, a baked bean and salad supper was served, with cakes, rolls, pickles, brown bread and coffee. Sister Anna Ableman entertained as usual the grand officers Heaton, Eastwood and Atwell, who speak well of their former visits with M. E. C. Ableman. Sister Clara Bush was chairman of the supper committee, assisted by other members in serving.

EAGLES

At the regular meeting of Norwich Aerie 367, held Monday night at the Eagles home, Worthy President Petrone appointed the following committee to make arrangements for the coming state convention which will be held in this city on next June 17-18; Timothy Fields, chairman; Wm. B. Hastedt, E. J. Mullins, George Nadolny, August Hastedt, Mathew Keough, Joseph Cadeux, James Dwyer, Walter Caughy, Joe Gadle, John Pryzgoda, Chas. O. Wright, John Leirich.

The chairman of the class initiation committee reported the last class on Feb. 26 was one of the largest the aerie has ever initiated. The same membership committee was reappointed. This committee will meet Wednesday, March 14, to make arrangements for the next class initiation. Reports from Chairman J. Oney of the baseball committee are that he will have a good team.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary A. O. H., No. 54, held Wednesday evening, it was deemed expedient by the membership at large to hold another card party in order to replenish the treasury on which there has been a constant drain of late, due to the sickness of members and other expenses. Mrs. Annie Brooks was appointed chairman with the following efficient committee: Mrs. Julia Brock, the Misses Catherine Caughlin, Mary Fallon, Margaret Slattery and Margaret Dwyer. As an innovation, the popular game of bridge will be added to the usual whist and pinochle.

The committee in charge of the St. Patrick's night dance reported great progress in the sale of tickets and a banner crowd is expected at this much heralded event. The two branches of the A. O. H. and their auxiliaries will receive holy communion in a body Sunday morning, March 18, in response to the invitation of Rt. Rev. Msgr. May and in honor of their patron, St. Patrick.

REBEKAHS

The regular meeting of Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, was held Wednesday night in Odd Fellows' hall, with Noble Grand Carolyn Howard in the chair. There were 130 members present, including members from Orient lodge of New London, Osprey lodge of New London, Home lodge of Groton, and Violet lodge of Willimantic. The degree was conferred on a class of 16 candidates. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and wafers were served after the meeting by the supper committee. The sewing society met in the afternoon with Mary J. Smith acting as hostess. Mary Dowe will act as hostess at the next meeting. All members are invited to come and bring pieces for patchwork.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

It was voted to hold a special meeting next Thursday evening in order that all applications for members may be brought in, so that they may be initiated in the Margaret Dahl class.

Legionaire Nellie Dorr was installed as Argus, with Past Regent Vera Sterry as installing officer.

Past Regent Teresa Watters announced a good sum realized from the recent whist and pinochle, and she also announced another to be held. It was voted to have the school of instructions opened by the deputy grand regent at 5 o'clock instead of having an all-day session, in order to give the legionaires, who are working a chance to attend.

After the instructions there will be initiation of a class of candidates in honor of the deputy grand regent and a supper, to which an invitation has been extended to the Loyal Order of Moose.

Legionaire Nora Willett was appointed chairman of the supper and every legionaire is expected to help in order to make this a success.

Past Regent Vera Sterry was appointed sick matron.

All members of the degree team are requested to be at the Moose Home Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock sharp.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Saturday

Eulogizing a day when Gauchos bold rode the boundless pampas and the law of might made right, Douglas Fairbanks comes forth in his thrilling new United Artists production, Douglas Fairbanks as The Gaucho, which will open tomorrow at the Palace theatre for a four-day run. A more colorful romance than this South American story, with its majestic scenery, its tense rivalries and conquests, could scarcely be conceived. Again, Fairbanks, actor-producer, brings to his world audience a screen narrative destined to rank with the epics of all time.

The star has the role of a bandit chief, the leader of a horde of Gaucho riders, who cross the mountains and occupy a stately shrine city whose wealth is the prey of the cruel usurper of the country. A madcap mountain lass (Lupe Velez) thrilled by the notoriety of the Gaucho chief, joins him en route. News of the outlaw's presence reaches the usurper (Gustav von Seyffertitz), who puts a price upon his head.

A beautiful girl of the shrine, (Eve Southern), whose healing as a child brought fame to the place stirs strange emotions in the outlaw. The jealous mountain girl betrays him to the commandante (Michael Vavitch), who has placed his garrison in the city by the usurper's orders. A treacherous Gaucho lieutenant (Charlie Stevens), dismisses the band on a false message, and the outlaw is captured. Witnessing his cure at the shrine from the touch of a plague-stricken beggar (Al McQuarrie), the mountain girl understands the "girl of the miracle" for the first time, and too late tries to prevent the arrest. She rides off to bring the Gaucho band to the rescue.

From his cell, the Gaucho chief sees the shrine girl and her protector, the good padre (Nigel de Brulier), under arrest. He digs his way out and joins his oncoming riders. Outnumbered by the dictator's troops, the Gaucho stampedes a vast herd of steers and gains the city as the soldiers are routed. The shrine girl and priest are released from the scaffold. The dictator and commandante are taken by the Gauchos, and the outlaw rides away with the girl of his choice.

No brief resume of the play can do justice to the skilfully constructed action. Enough to say that the imagination is captured at the beginning of the prologue and held to the close of the story. The whimsical humor of Fairbanks and his newly intriguing stunts are a seasoning for the vital movement of the play, whose flavor combines that of some rare old Spanish legend and the romantic moods of the borderland. Doug's adventures are of the sort that delight young and old. His riding, leaping and remarkable dexterity with the bolas serve to emphasize rather than detract from his scenes of superb acting. In Sherwood Forest or in the shadow of the Andes, he remains the gallant adventurer, ever with a surprise for his audience.

STORM SEVERE AT NEW LONDON, WITH ACCIDENTS IN THE SUBURBS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 9—The storm of today, a reminder of the blizzard of 40 years ago the 13th of this month, was the worst storm New Londoners have experienced during the present winter. A light snow started falling about 9 o'clock and about 10 o'clock it fell faster and was accompanied by a strong wind. The snow was fine and made walking treacherous because of it being easily packed beneath the feet of pedestrians. Not only was walking made hazardous, but automobile traffic, particularly on state highways, was dangerous and as the result of the slippery highway there were many wrecks owing to automobiles not being provided with chains. A man and a woman are patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, one of them seriously injured. Jacob Silverstein, of Hartford was driving his car on the Hartford turnpike and like all the other autos, it was not equipped with skid chains. When near Colchester the machine skidded and before Silverstein could bring it to a stop it overturned and pinned him beneath the car. Silverstein was unable to help himself and not until a New London bus enroute from Hartford, in charge of George Algers arrived was assistance given Silverstein. Algers, with the aid of passengers rescued Silverstein and assisted him to the bus and he was brought to New London. Arriving here Silverstein was turned over to the police and he was rushed to the hospital. There the extent of his injuries is not known. Silverstein suffered injuries principally to his head and X-ray pictures have been taken.

Mrs. Florence Sawyer, 37, Weymouth, Mass., is the other patient. Mrs. Sawyer was driving with her husband and when at East Lyme, the car skidded badly, with the result that her husband, Hyman Sawyer, was unable to control the machine, which crashed against a telephone pole. Mrs. Sawyer sustained a lacerated knee and a possible fracture of the left ankle.

From practically every section of the outlying countryside have come reports of accidents, but there were no serious injuries to the occupants of cars. At Fort Hill, Poquonoc, several cars skidded and either overturned or collided with telephone poles. At Boiles Hill, Quaker Hill, Waterford, the bus that left New London at 11:30 o'clock for Norwich, collided with a pleasure car owned by Sidney Sullman, local mattress manufacturer. The lighter auto was damaged, but Sullman escaped injury. Several automobiles were along the highway either wrecked, or damaged to the extent that they were towed away.

The funeral of Mrs. Harriet F. Patterson, of 6 Sta - street, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 15 Masonic street and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. C. F. Eldridge, of Niantic. Burial was in Flanders cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Farnen, 68, wife of Lawrence Farnen, died last night at her residence, 21 Eastern avenue, after an illness of but a week with pneumonia. Besides her husband, Mrs. Farnen is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Mary Young and Mrs. James H. Bradley, both of Somerville, Mass.; Mrs. C. L. Walton, Annapolis, Md., and Miss Eva Farnen, of this city. The three sons, Capt. W. L. Farnen, New York; Edward L. Farnen, Windsor, Vt., and Leo F. Farnen, this city, also survive. Mrs. Farnen was born in Scotland, but had aesided in New London many years.

Arthur H. Maine, about 70, residing at 220 Thames street, Groton, where he was a real estate agent, died suddenly of heart disease at his home last night. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Charles C. Heminway, Hartford and a son, Clarence Maine, of Quincy, Mass. Mr. Maine came to Groton several years ago from Windham. He was apparently in good health yesterday for he did not complain, but during the evening he suffered the heart attack and expired a very short time afterwards.

Mrs. Arthur Illing, of 230 Colman street and Max Markoff, 361 Ocean avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Eugene O'Neill, formerly of New London, now residing at Ridgefield, Conn., is touring Europe and at the present time is in France. The noted playwright will not return to the United States for several weeks.

Still another black and tan resort was raided by the police last night. Observations of Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Dennis Murphy were such that the officers reached the opinion that the house at 42 Potter street, long suspected as being a place where whites and blacks resorted for purpose of immorality, was just that. When the officers observed a white man enter the place they also entered, but about fifteen minutes later. What they saw caused the officers to arrest Martha Kintcher, colored, charged with conducting a disorderly house and Ruth Gaines, colored, charged with frequenting and Leo Nakos, white, of 336 Bank street, also charged with frequenting. In the police court this morning, the Kintcher woman was fined $50 and costs and was sentenced to jail for 10 days, but execution of the sentence was suspended. The Gaines woman was fined $10 and costs. Nakos's bond of $50 was called for he failed to present himself for trial.

John Higgins charged with intoxication and breach of the peace, was sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was arrested yesterday afternoon on North Bank street by Acting Sergeant William A. Graham and Traffic Officer John Courtney when the officers found him helplessly drunk. On the way to the station house Higgins attacked Graham, but the latter did not suffer injury. Another drunk was sent to the workhouse for ten days. He was arrested last evening on North Bank street by Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky.

Property owners of the town of Groton will be compelled to pay a tax rate of 26 mills for the fiscal year, 1927-1928, which is one mill more than was levied last year, for at the town meeting held in the town hall, Poquonoc last night about 100 voters approved the new rate. The number of voters last night was in marked contrast to the large crowd of voters that attended the special town meeting two weeks ago, when it was voted to appropriate money for a high school, the number last night being about the same as were unable to gain admission to the hall two weeks ago. At last night's meeting First Selectman Clark B. Whaley presided. He stated that the town's grand list was $8,607,008 and a 26 mill tax was needed to take care of the current expenses of the town. Selectman Whaley said that by the levy of the 26 mill rate $149,782.21 would be realized and that amount, it was believed, would be ample to meet expenses. Charles F. Willard wanted the amount of money that would be obtained by the additional one mill increase in taxes, applied to the high school project, but because of this item not being specifically mentioned in the budget, it would be illegal to use it for the purpose Mr. Willard desired. The meeting also voted to increase the compensation of the tax collector, for it was voted to pay one per cent of all money collected. Heretofore the collector has been paid one-half of one per cent. It was voted to expend $779.10 for printing lists of names of delinquent taxpayers. A vote was also passed for the payment of $2250 for deficit resulting from the allotment received for state aid roads. Another vote was passed authorizing the expenditure of $2,000 for the purchase of road dressing made mandatory because of highways having become out of repair due to the elements. The sum of $4113.37 was voted to pay a deficit that exists because of expenditures for the year 1926-1927.

MISS FAWCETT LOSES PURSE AS SHE FRACTURES WRIST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 9—Miss Alice Fawcett, 207 Huntington street, sustained injury this evening when she slipped and fell on the sidewalk and besides being injured, Miss Fawcett lost personal property. Miss Fawcett was walking along Union street and when near Masonic street she slipped and fell, landing in such a manner as to injure her wrist. It is believed she fractured it. She was attended by a physician and it will not have been determined before tomorrow whether the bone is broken. When Miss Fawcett fell, she dropped her purse containing about $13 and some valuable papers, and these were not recovered.

Albert Johnson, about 26, who resides at 242 Ledyard street, was arrested early this evening by Traffic Officer Frank Linehan, more for safe-keeping than for any crime that he had committed. Because of the knowledge the police have of the man's actions for weeks past it is probable that something will be done toward his being held in restraint. Johnson, who was arrested a few weeks ago and who escaped a jail sentence through leniency being shown, was arrested tonight when he went to the pharmacy of Starr Brothers and attempted to make a purchase of carbolic acid and lysol. Because of the two deadly poisons being wanted by Johnson, and with no legitimate reason for obtaining possession of the drugs, Officer Linehan was informed. He questioned Johnson and because of statements Johnson made he was arrested and locked up.

Mrs. Julia E. Young, 79, widow of George G. Young, died yesterday at her residence in Waterford, death being caused by the infirmities attending her advanced years, aggravated by a weakened condition of the heart. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Julia Barrett, of Gilead, and Mrs. Walter Jones, of Connecticut avenue, this city, and two sons, George Young, of Waterford, and Harry Young, of Huntington street, this city. Mrs. Young was born in Waterford and was a member of Jordan Baptist church.

Victor Castaldi has purchased the Elias F. Morgan residence, corner of Channing and Broad streets. The residence occupies a site that comprises almost an entire block. Mr. Castaldi intends to alter the house into apartments. The land will probably be utilized as a site for one or two more residences.

Monday will be the 40th anniversary of the blizzard of '88, which is recalled as the severest storm ever known in the western hemisphere. The storm here began soon after noon on Monday, though it had started in to the eastward on Sunday. By night the snowfall was several feet in depth. A train on the New Haven railroad that left New London at about 4 o'clock could get no farther than Saybrook, where it was stalled by the depth of the snow and where it remained till the next day when it was shoveled out. Traffic was suspended, and on the Sound no boats were operated for several days. The snow was as dense as smoke, making vision difficult. No such storm can be recalled before that nor has any that compare with it been cited since then.

Another meeting of the zoning committee was held in the municipal building this evening, with Lucius E. Whiton, chairman, presiding. Because of the adverse weather conditions there was but a handful of citizens present and there was nothing but a brief discussion of the proposed work. Another meeting will be held next Monday night.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky, lovers in three films, come to the Breed theatre Sunday in "The Night of Love," Samuel Goldwyn's presentation of George Fitzmaurice's production of a tale based on the feudal "right to the first night." Colman appears in an entirely new character for him, that of a bold Gypsy bandit, a tousled-haired fellow with pointed moustaches and lengthened "side burns." Vilma plays the role of a beautiful Duchess, victim of the fearful "right to the first night."

From Lenore Coffee's scenario, George Fitzmaurice made "The Night of Love" in Hollywood, occupying six months of time and employing nearly $900,000 of money in the picturization of the romantic tale. The entire film was under the personal supervision of Samuel Goldwyn, veteran producer of "Stella Dallas," "The Winning of Barbara Worth," "The Dark Angel" and other handsome and dramatic films.

"The Night of Love" tells a glowing tale of a wronged Gypsy prince, Montero, whose bride is taken from him by the lord of the domain,—and of the poetic revenge of that gypsy prince turned bandit. For when Vilma Banky, as the Princess Marie of France, is forced into marriage with the Duke de la Garda, it is Ronald Colman, as the gypsy Montero, who abducts her on another and different first night. But into the heart of Montero, even in his hour of revenge, comes love for the duke's bride.

Supporting Colman and the beautiful Vilma Banky in roles that critics everywhere have acclaimed their best characterizations is a distinguished cast including Montagu Love, Natalie Kingston, Laska Winter, Hyman Bynumsky, Sally Rand and the Marion Morgan Dancers, who glide rythmically about the lavish sets during the bacchanalian orgy sequence.

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic

"Sorrell and Son" has been acclaimed everywhere it has been shown as one of the finest, if not the very finest pictures produced during the past five years.

Dont miss "Sorrell and Son."

The long-awaited screen version of that novel of father-and-son devotion which has been read by hundreds of thousands of readers throughout the world. Willimantic will have its local premiere at the Capitol theatre Sunday and Monday. It is easily ranked among the year's five best pictures. In many ways it is the most absorbing achievement in cinema realism ever made.

Brilliant direction, acting so real that the eminent players seem to be living their rôles, fine settings—including historic spots in England, where much of the story was filmed—and flawless photography combine to create what is nearly the ultimate in entertainment.

H. B. Warner, playing his first part since "The King of Kings"; Anna Q. Nilsson, Alice Joyce, Nils Asther, Carmel Myers, Mary Nolan, Norman Trevor, Betsy Ann Hisle are some of the artists who share honors in the picturization of Warwick Deeping's novel.

"Sorrell and Son" is a story of father love and son devotion, a story of England during the post-war period, when heroes came home, only to find their peacetime jobs appropriated by stay-at-homes, and facing the necessity of working in the most menial tasks to support themselves and their families.

"Captain Stephen Sorrell" was one of these heroes; not only was his job gone when he returned to London after the Armistice, but his wife was faithless. Left with a young son as his wife deserts him for a wealthy profiteer, "Sorrell" works as a hotel porter in order to educate the lad and give him a chance in life.

GREENEVILLE

The N. M. Sewing circle of Greeneville was entertained Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Alvin Barrows on Tyler avenue with 100 per cent attendance. After sewing, a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Katherine Kilroy entertained the H. I. club of the A. O. H., No. 18, sewing club at her home Thursday evening with a large attendance. Many lamp shades were in progress, also embroidery, tiebacks and boudoir pillows. Mrs. Theodore Levitsky sang several solos, accompanied by Mrs. John Niles on the piano. Miss Agnes Kilroy entertained with several piano solos. One of the members held the attention of the class by relating interesting stories of her recent trip to Europe. She also explained the present conditions in a number of European countries. The class was glad to welcome her back to the sewing circle. After the social hour, refreshments were served by the hostess, which consisted of assorted sandwiches, cakes, doughnuts, pudding, cup cakes and coffee. Mrs. Kilroy was assisted in serving by Misses Agnes and Mildred Kilroy and Miss Burns. The class will hold its next meeting Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Bissonette at 648 North Main street.

The Community Workers met at the home of Mrs. George A. Howard on Central avenue Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Charles F. Sears, presided at the meeting. In the absence of the secretary and treasurer, Mrs. John McNeely, the reports were given by Mrs. Richard Stephenson. She reported a box of candied fruit sent to one of the members while she was ill and a plant sent to a sick friend of the workers, also $5 given to the LaFlamme fund. The work committee reported that there are several quilts to be tied for friends, also some aprons to be made. After the business session a social time was enjoyed with everal guessing contests and games. The women were then invited to the dining room, where a table was resplendent in green decorations in honor of the patron St. Patrick, for which March is noted. An appetizing luncheon was served by the hostess. Mrs. Charles Levitsky invited the ladies to her home for the April meeting, where they will make paper flowers to decorate their May baskets, which they donate every year to the sick and shut-ins.

Mrs. Louis Gadbois, of New London, and Miss Flora Gadbois, of East Lyme, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Harry Conklin, of Central avenue.

Mrs. Elmer Mulkins, of Boswell avenue, is spending two weeks in Holyoke, Mass., the guest of her son, Stanley Mulkins.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lund and family, who have made their home at 39 Prospect street for the past 20 years, are moving to 37 Twelfth street. Mr. and Mrs. John Sheedy and daughter will take up their residence at the tenement vacated by the Lund family.

The World Wide guild of the Third Baptist church met at the home of their leader, Mrs. Henry Sebastian, Friday evening. Much sewing was accomplished by the girls and at the close of the evening a social time was enjoyed when Mrs. Sebastian served light refreshments.

There will be no Christian Endeavor or Sunday evening service at the Third Baptist church this coming Sunday as the church is uniting with the United Congregational and Central Baptist churches in their services, when Miss Margaret Slattery will be the speaker.

The storm which started Friday morning brought to the minds of many local people the blizzard of March 12, 1888, of which next Monday is the 40th anniversary and it still rates as the greatest of all winter storms that have occurred since that time. Memory of it makes many a man hesitate to agree that winter is not over until after the date has passed. The storm of Friday was treacherous for autoists driving, especially those who were not prepared for it by not having their chains, causing their cars to skid, resulting in minor accidents or close calls. Street Commissioner John Donovan had his men and a plow at work early, clearing the main highways. A local man, who is employed at one of the factories in Greeneville, in communication yesterday with his overseer in the New York office stated that his overseer said that New York was having a terrible snowstorm with high winds.

The Men's club of the Third Baptist church held its weekly meeting Friday evening in the chapel of the church with a large attendance. Regular business was transacted with the president, George A. Howard, presiding.

In spite of the bad weather Friday evening, a large attendance was at the regular Lenten services at St. Mary's Memorial church. Rev. Frederick M. Coholan conducted the services, which consisted of saying the stations of the cross and benediction of the most blessed sacrament. The musical part of the program was under the personal direction of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, organist.

HAS PROSPECTIVE CUSTOMER TO BUY PYTHIAN FARM HOME FOR $50,000

According to a statement made to Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court at New London Friday morning, a prospective buyer who has offered $50,000 has been found for property of The Connecticut Farm Association, Inc., in Lyme and East Haddam. This is the big tract of farm, forest and meadow land upon which Pythians of the state had been proposing to establish a farm home for widows and orphans of members of the Knights of Pythias.

There was a motion before the superior court for permission to sell a portion of the land belonging to the association in the suit brought by Thomas H. Troland of New London and others. The motion was granted. Attorney L. E. Jacobs told Judge Avery that a prospective purchaser had offered $50,000 for the property subject to a first mortgage of $25,000 and a second mortgage of $15,000.

Four other motions were also granted in connection with the same case. They were: motion for permission to return goods consigned; motion for permission to return goods not belonging to the defendant; motion for permission to insure property; and motion for permission to return articles left on property and belonging to others.

Change of Name

Permission was granted John Ellionsky, a New London shoe merchant, to change his name to John Elion for purposes designed to avoid confusion. He has been a resident of New London for 25 years.

Two Divorces Granted.

Two uncontested divorces were granted by Judge Avery at the court session.

Frances Congdon Brown, of New London, was given a divorce on the grounds of desertion from Grant H. Brown. Mrs. Brown was also given the custody of two minor children. She was represented by Attorney George Curtis Morgan.

The couple were married August 19, 1920 and desertion was alleged since July 2, 1924. It was brought out in testimony that the defendant was at the time of marriage, a sailor.

Grace H. Maynard, of New London, was given a divorce from Herbert F. Maynard, New London, on the grounds of intolerable cruelty since July 31, 1926. The petitioner was represented by Attorney S. Victor Prince and she was given the custody of a minor child.

The couple was married on Sept. 3, 1925 and Mrs. Maynard testified that her husband got drunk on their wedding day and went away for a couple of weeks. She said they lived in her mother's home and he wanted to operate a still in it.

Motions Continued

Guiliani against Edgecomb; motion for default.

Goes Off List

The following motion went off:

CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN HELD MARCH MEETING

The March meeting of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church was held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Community house, opening with a short business meeting at which the president, Mrs. Walter F. Lester, presided. The regular reports of the secretary and the treasurer were presented and accepted.

The entertainment of the afternoon was a paper upon "The Story of Old Lamps and Candles" which was given by Mrs. A. A. Browning and was illustrated by a number of beautiful old candlesticks of brass, pewter and Sheffield porcelain, as well as lamps, some of which were over 100 years old.

In the social hour tea was served by Mrs. Hugh B. Campbell and Miss Miriam Campbell. Mrs. Rutherford Snow poured. The snow storm of the afternoon made the attendance smaller than usual.

JURY CASES ASSIGNED FOR SUPERIOR COURT TRIAL

The following jury cases have been assigned for trial in the February session of the superior court at New London with Judge C. L. Avery presiding:

Tuesday, March 13th, DiMaggio vs. Tourjee, et al. Doyle vs. Prall. Rosun vs. Standard Oil company of New York. Geneva Genishevsky vs. Fishbone, et. al

Wednesday, March 14, Sutton, alias—vs. Raymond. Frances Shelley vs. Frink, et al. Plumstead vs. Weckler.

Friday, March 16, short calendar, bar meeting, and assignment of cases. Elizabeth C. Woodward vs. Joseph H. Woodward.

SKIDDING IN THE SNOW MAKES MACHINES COLLIDE

While Charles J. Riordan, of 130 Washington street was driving his Ford sedan westerly on Main street towards Washington square about noon Friday, it was run into from the rear by the Cadillac coupe owned and operated by Joseph Lahn, of No. 1 Woodmansee avenue. The Lahn car skidded which caused it to hit Riordan's machine, which was considerably damaged. The Cadillac had a running board damaged.

A number of other slight mishaps between motor vehicles were reported from the vicinity of Washington square, due to the slippery conditions in the snow. One person in that vicinity saw 15 machines skid and turn around at this point within a period of five minutes.

Seeking Republican Nomination

Col. Charles H. Allen, of Rockville, has announced his candidacy for a nomination as a candidate from the second congressional district to the republican national convention at Kansas City.

MARGARET SLATTERY IS TO SPEAK TWICE HERE SUNDAY

The Young Men's Christian association for the fifth season has arranged to have Margaret Slattery, lecturer and author, deliver two addresses in Norwich on Sunday, March 11. She will address young people from twelve to twenty at 4.30 o'clock in the auditorium of the United Congregational church at which time a roll call of attendance of the various groups will be taken. After this service all attending are to go to the Central Baptist church where an informal reception will be held and light refreshments will be served.

As it is desired to make this meeting a large one, a friendly attendance contest is being held by the churches, led by the United Congregational and the Central Baptist.

Those joining with the United are First Baptist, Park Congregational, A. M. E. Zion, Universalist, Greeneville Congregational, Trinity Episcopal, Yantic and Third Baptist.

Those joining with the Central Baptist are Trinity Methodist, Taftville Congregational, Grace and Mt. Calvary, Norwich Town Congregational, Christ Episcopal, German Lutheran and Norwich Town Methodist.

Miss Slattery will speak at 7.30 in the evening at the Central Baptist church at a meeting for the public in general. Miss Slattery has not only been a potential power as a writer and speaker in America but in other countries as well. She spent seven months in Europe during the war; in 1920 she took a trip around the world, visiting Japan, China, the Strait Settlements, Ceylon, India, Egypt and Palestine.

Miss Slattery is an optimist who is not afraid of fact, who meets the issues of the day frankly. On the platform she is an interesting and fascinating speaker, who without apparent effort, holds the unflagging attention of her audience. She is spirited in manner, possesses a keen sense of humor and deep sympathy. She believes in youth, challenges them, and they respond to a remarkable degree. It has been said that it is doubtful if anyone on the platform today has a more reaching influence on this generation. Her books are read eagerly and always with great profit.

DENIES CLAIM MADE FOR WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

In a finding made in the workmen's compensation claim of Charles Peterson of 200 Montauk avenue, New London, against Babcock Printing Press Mfg. Company, Commissioner Albert J. Bailey finds that Peterson has failed to maintain his claim that the pulmonary tuberculosis from which he is suffering arose out of and in the course of his employment. The claim is disallowed and dismissed.

Peterson had been employed as a metal polisher and grinder for over 9 years by the company. About March 25, 1927 he was obliged to quit work on account of a cold or influenza. He returned to work after a week or ten days, but his condition became worse and was diagnosed as pulmonary tuberculosis. He spent from April 28 to May 16 in a private hospital in New London and later entered Uncas-on-Thames sanatorium where he is still a patient.

In his finding Commissioner Bailey says that expert medical evidence shows that neither the character of the work performed by Peterson nor the working conditions could be considered the cause of his pulmonary tuberculosis. Medical experts found no trace of pneumonoconiosis and it is also significant that while the left lung is markedly affected, the right lung is nearly immune, which fact is rather conclusive in itself that the dust inhaled by the claimant could not be the cause of his tuberculosis as otherwise both lungs would have been nearly equally affected, according to the medical evidence introduced. Another factor which shows that claimant's employment did not cause or contribute to his condition is the fact that prior to March 1927, he had been in good health and had worked with regularity, and if the employment had been the cause of his tubercular condition and the condition had in so short a time developed to its present stage, the probability is that he would have succumbed to the disease by this time.

SPRING OPENING DATES ARE SET BY MERCHANTS

At a recent meeting of a special committee of the Retail Merchants bureau, held in the rooms of the chamber of commerce, plans were made for the annual spring opening of Norwich merchants. The dates selected for the opening are Friday and Saturday, March 23rd and 24th and it is expected by the bureau that all the leading stores of the city will participate. A general discussion of the best method of conducting the opening took place and in all probability there will be some novel features introduced.

These seasonal openings are important occasions in mercantile circles as they mark the beginning of a new season in practically every line of merchandise. They serve as an announcement to the people living in and around Norwich that local stores are ready with complete lines of new spring merchandise. Norwich merchants feel that these cooperative movements have a definite value to the shopping public and an effort will be made to make this community spring opening one of the most interesting events that Norwich merchants have ever held.

The Business and Professional Women's club are cooperating with the merchants in this event and have at the request of the Merchants Bureau appointed a committee of judges to award the prizes for the most attractive window displays.

The truck had slid and skidded in the snow down the steep hill leading to Laurel Hill bridge. The driver escaped injury.

JUDGMENT FOR $1,600 FILED BY STIPULATION

In the suit of Walter Stankiewicz, a minor aged 9 years, of this city, against George Durr, also of this city, in which a settlement for $1,600 without costs has been made a stipulation has been filed and order entered that the suit may be filed as returned to the first Tuesday of March, 1928, and judgment may be entered for the plaintiff for $1,600 without costs. This action was necessary because the writ and complaint was served upon the defendant on Sept. 12, 1927 by Deputy Sheriff George H. Hoxie, 2nd, but the deputy sheriff did not return the writ to the court within the time required by law.

The suit was brought for $5,000 damages for injuries received by young Stankiewicz on March 16, 1927, when he was crossing Central avenue at Tenth street and was hit by the automobile driven by Durr.

The boy suffered a broken leg, concussion of the brain and other injuries.

REV. DR. PITT SPOKE IN "Y" LENTEN SERIES

The third in the series of Friday noon Lenten talks proved to be very interesting to a goodly number of men yesterday at the local Y. M. C. A. building. Shepard B. Palmer presided. The hymn used was "Take Time to Be Holy." C. Edward Smith offered prayer. Hugh Kinder sang sweetly one of the Gospel hymns.

Dr. David A. Pitt, of the Central Baptist church, was the speaker, and his heart-to-heart talk was in line with the general topic of the series, "Taking Jesus Christ Seriously." The speaker expressed his satisfaction with the topic, and stated that we need to follow its suggestion and take Jesus Christ more seriously than we have been doing. He spoke in the highest terms of the series of addresses delivered by Dr. Henry Howard, just closed, and stated that after such preaching as we have had he hoped that Jesus Christ might mean more to us than ever before. Dr. Pitt recalled the texts of scripture used by Dr. Howard at his four services, and emphasized them anew; he read a very impressive statement by a noted man, not particularly a Christian man, in which the writer stated that unless Christ and the church had a larger place in the hearts of the people, we may expect another war much more awful than the recent World war. Dr. Pitt held up the Apostle Paul as a shining example of one who absolutely took Jesus Christ seriously, serving his Lord and humanity with wonderful abandon, and he urged his hearers to emulate Paul's example.

The men were genuinely impressed by the earnest message. Next Friday, Dr. Marshall, of Connecticut college, will deliver his second talk of the series, and will continue through the series which will close on Good Friday.

RING AROUND THE MOON WAS FOLLOWED BY SNOW

For once at least a time honored sign with the weather sharps has proved itself. Early Friday morning from 2 to 3.30 o'clock, the moon had a large hazy ring around it which was said to be the forerunner of snow. This turned out to be the case as snow started to fall about 9 o'clock Friday morning, continued through the day and night and was still falling at 2.30 this (Saturday) morning with indications that it would continue for a number of hours longer.

By early this (Saturday) morning the total fall was probably over four inches and those who remembered the blizzard, March 11 and 12, 1888, were wondering whether the 40th anniversary was promising another such visitation of the worst that the storm king can provide.

CAPT. ANDREWS WITNESS AT LONG-FIFE WEDDING

Capt. Adolphus Andrews, commandant at the Submarine base, was a witness at the marriage of Rear Admiral Andrew T. Long, U. S. N., and Mrs. Viola Vetter Fife, in New York last Saturday. The announcement of the marriage caused considerable surprise in naval circles.

Mrs. Fife, who is 37, is the daughter of C. Ernest Vetter, and was divorced three years ago from George Buchanan Fife, a New York newspaperman.

Admiral Long, who is nearly 62, is a former commander of the European fleet. He was associated with Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones in representing the United States at the Geneva conference for the control of international traffic in arms in 1925, and has represented this country in several other international conferences.

TROUBLE FACING BRITISH GOV'T IN ARABIA AND EGYPT

A "Holy War" is Impending in Arabia—Desert Tribesmen Have Invaded Transjordania and Are Reported to Be Planning Incursions Into Irak and Koweit—The British Are Charged With Having Violated Treaties—Britain Has Sent a Note to the Egyptian Government Objecting to Recent Legislation Which Tended to Weaken British Authority.

By OSCAR WATSON
(The Associated Press.)

Arabia, a desert land, a land of roaming tribes, of sheiks and the romance of mystery, looms now as a potential threat to the British empire. In the million mile area, Abdul Aziz Ibn Saud, king of the Hedjaz, sultan of Nejd, and erstwhile pensioner of the British government, stands out as the central figure. Upon him depends the proclamation of a "holy war," as was predicted in some of the dispatches last week—whether arms are to be taken up against Great Britain, which holds the mandate over Irak, Transjordania and Koweit, or whether Ibn Saud will continue to partake of Britain's bounty and assist in placating the war-like tribes.

There were reports that the Wahabi warriors, fresh from their recent conquests, had invaded Transjordania and were planning similar incursions into Irak and Koweit. Ibn Saud was said to have already thrown down the gauntlet to his neighbors and to have called upon Islam to rise in defense of the Koran.

The trouble between the British government and Ibn Saud, if trouble there is, probably arises out of the pre-emption of watering places and wells along the border for military purposes and the construction of forts. The treaties signed between the two governments made provision against this, and the British are charged with having violated the treaties in this respect.

Ibn Saud's rise to power and fame reads like a tale of the Arabian Nights. With him war has been a habit since 1901, when he was but 20 years of age.

He fought successfully against the Turks; then mastered his own people after six years of hard internecine warfare, and today rules as undisputed king and sultan over some 7,000,000 followers.

Great Britain has been paying Ibn Saud a large annuity, partly for his assistance in the great war and partly in return for his promise to respect the boundaries of Irak and Transjordania, both of which countries are of the utmost strategical importance in keeping open the road to India, as well as safeguarding Palestine.

Egypt also presented a problem for the British government to solve. The Egyptian parliament rejected the proposed treaty negotiated by Sarwat Pasha, the premier, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign minister. Then Sarwat Pasha resigned his office for "reasons of health."

The British high commissioner, Lord Lloyd, next presented a note to the Egyptian government, setting forth British objections to recent legislation, which, it was stated, tended to weaken British authority.

In May, 1910, Theodore Roosevelt, returning from his South African trip, bearded the British lion in his Guildhall. He lectured England on her policy in Egypt. In effect, he said: "Govern or get out."

The British government has followed his advice, as far as possible, in an endeavor to keep order in Egypt and establish that country on a firm basis.

The Anglo-Egyptian treaty, which was rejected on the ground that it did not accord Egypt full independence or meet her aspirations, provides for the maintenance in Egypt of British troops; control of the Egyptian police and maintenance also of the existing British personnel in the Egyptian army. British determination on two points has been made manifest that the British government will not tolerate any legislation antagonistic to British interests and that British troops will be kept in Egypt for the protection of the Suez canal and other purposes.

LONDON, March 11—(AP)—The London Express prints a dispatch from Jerusalem saying that Emir Abdullah of Transjordania has sent an emissary to Lord Plumer, high commissioner of Palestine, imploring the British to take defensive measures against a contemplated attack by 10,000 Wahabis of Nedj which are concentrated at Tebuk.

THREE BODIES FOUND IN A SUBMERGED AUTOMOBILE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 11—(AP)—The bodies of three persons were found today in a submerged automobile in the barge canal at Jacks Reefs, 12 miles west of Syracuse. The victims were identified as George Knapp, his wife, Mrs. Rosalie Knapp, and his sister, Miss Flora G. Armbruster, all residents of Auburn. A fourth person who was in the car last night when it left Fulton for Auburn, George W. Davison, New York, is missing and authorities believe he was drowned and his body washed away. The automobile crashed through the guard rails and plunged into the canal between 9 and 10 o'clock, last night, watches on the victims indicated. Knapp and Davison were inspectors in the state labor department.

Davison was believed to have been at the wheel of the car, when it knocked down the guard rail and two nine-inch concrete posts and landed in water 18 feet deep.

Besides their father, Carl Armbruster of Auburn, Mrs. Knapp and Miss Armgbruster are survived by two sisters, Mrs. George Mathers of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Mollie Madison of Bennington, Vt., and two brothers, Prof. Adolph Armbruster, a member of the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh, and Carl Armbruster, Jr., of Montezuma.

Knapp is survived by a father and brother residing in Vermont.

Further tests of the plane will be made next Tuesday, when it is planned to fly to Lake Champlain. There skis will replace the landing wheels in take-offs from the snow.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., March 11—(AP)—Still baffled by the unusual deaths of four-year-old Richard Bohle and his sister, Orvilla, and the peculiar illness of their uncle, William Sims, physicians attending the man today clung to the belief poison was responsible.

PARIS, March 11.—(AP)—The pilot and mechanic of a French Paris-to-London air liner were drowned this afternoon when a violent storm forced the plane down in the English channel five kilometers off the French coast. NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—Unemployment is temporarily in excess of normal, but is not acute or critical Magnus Alexander, president of the National Industrial Conference board, said tonight in an address before the Fortnightly Forum.

Available information showed that employment conditions had been improving for more than a month, he said, when in late January public attention was suddenly focused on the unemployment situation by the New York state investigation.

"We have definite indications," Alexander said, "that there has been a decline in employment in 1927, but there are also indications that employment since December, 1927, has again been slightly increasing and the increase has continued up to the present time.

"The presumption is that with the coming of the warmer season, resumption of building construction, agricultural and other open-air activities will absorb many of the now unemployed persons in the United States."

Alexander said that a general misunderstanding exists that up-to-date mechanical devices cause unemployment. He pointed out that other industries, especially new ones, absorb those who may lose their jobs through efficiency of machinery, while increased productivity also demands more men.

Two weeks ago, she said, immigration authorities arrested her and took her to Ellis Island, where she was held until bail was furnished. FORDS ARE EXPERIMENTING WITH METAL DIRIGIBLES

ATLANTA, March 11—(AP)—The Atlanta Journal said today in an interview with Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company that the Fords as a private experiment, are investigating metal dirigibles and their possible use for ocean passenger service in the belief that planes would not be feasible for that purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford are at Warm Springs, Ga., the guests of Detroit friends who reside there in winter.

As for "Flivver" planes of the type which dropped into the ocean with Harry Brooks, Ford chief pilot, off the coast of Florida two weeks ago, ending the promising career of that flier, Mr. Ford was quoted by the Journal staff correspondent as saying the Ford company never intended the "Flivver" plane for mass production.

FAULTY COMPASS CAUSED GROUNDING OF STEAMER

Severe Weather and Snow in the Pilot House Caused the Compass to Change—Statement Made by Captain Robinson of the Steamer Robert E. Lee—The Steamer Ran Aground on Massachusetts Coast Friday Night—Passengers and Crew Have Been Taken Off, But the Steamer Remains Firmly on the Rocks—Three Coast Guardsmen Lost Their Lives When Their Boat Capsized.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., March 11.—(AP)—A faulty compass was the principal reason for the steamer Robert E. Lee left her course and ran aground without warning on Mary Ann rocks on her way from Boston to New York Friday night, her master, Captain Harland W. Robinson said today. Severe weather and the fact that there was snow in the pilot house were ascribed by him to have been the cause for the compass changing.

Meanwhile, the Robert E. Lee, from which its passengers and crew were removed safely yesterday, remained firmly on the rocks a mile off Manomet Point while an examinaation was made to determine the damage. Three tugs owned by a wrecking company arrived early in the day and stood by the stranded ship. Tentative plans of the Eastern Steamship company, owners of the boat, were to repair the damage to the hull and pull her off the rocks at high tide. Some doubt was expressed as to how successful this plan would be.

Thousands of people flocked to Plymouth today to see the liner. State police blocked the road to Manomet Point and sightseers were forced to walk two miles to get a view of the Lee.

Captain Robinson said that the Robert E. Lee was going at full speed when she struck the rocks. He said he was on the bridge at the time and had not seen the coston signal which the Manomet coast guard station sent up a short time before the ship grounded.

"The windows of the pilot house were covered with snow," the captain said. "Visibility was about a mile and a quarter. We were watching for the buoy off Mary Ann Rocks, but did not see it. Neither did we see the coston signal.

"We were going at full speed when suddenly we struck a rock. We cleared it but struck four more in rapid succession and we started to ship water on our starboard side. By that time we were firmly on the rocks.

"We were able to see the heliograph signals from the coast guard station but we could not answer them because our emergency generator was unable to supply our signal light. Our blinker also failed to work.

"Undoubtedly the accident was caused by a faulty compass, due to severe weather conditions and the snow inside the pilot house.

"At that, had it been high tide we would have cleared the rocks and have come ashore at Indian Head," this about three miles down the coast from Manomet.

At the Jordan hospital two of the life guard crew from the Manomet station who were thrown into the water when the boat capsized were reported to be recovering rapidly. The body of Walter Griswold, one of three who perished, had not been found, although a search was made again today.

Captain Arthur Young, who was on sick leave last week, returned to his post today with a complement of men from the Gurnet and Sandwich stations.

TESTIMONIALS ARE TO BE GIVEN RADIO OPERATORS

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—The radio operators who flashed the SOS from the Robert E. Lee and remained at their keys sending over 20,000 words in messages to rescuers and relatives of those on board, are to be honored by the Veteran Wireless Operators' association.

The two radio operators, Maurice Holland and John Smith, "lived up to the best traditions of their profession" when their ship was wrecked on a reef near the Cape Cod canal Friday night, J. F. J. Maher, president of the association said today.

Testimonials, he said, will be presented to the operators at the organization's third annual banquet to be held April 12.

TALE OF DEGRADATION IN THE PENN. COAL FIELDS

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP)—Tales of horror, degradation and poverty in the Pittsburgh and central Pennsylvania coal regions are related in the report made to the senate interstate commerce committee today by its sub-committee which recently inspected that area.

A "reign of terror" was found at the Broughton, Pa., mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal corporation, said the report. Women were found by the committee to be "still nervous from the shooting up of their homes." Miners' wives at Bruceton, Pa., testified that their homes had been "shot up."

Mrs. Clarissa Englert, of Broughton, Pa., "told the story of the iron and coal police shooting into a group of school children," the report continued, "and the brutality of the coal and iron police shocked every member of the committee."

Joe Lubresky, of Harmarville, Pa., is quoted in the report as testifying that he and his wife had been evicted from their home owned by the Pittsburgh Coal company when both were ill, being forced to move into union barracks, which were unheated at the time, and that his wife died six days later.

"Men and women were running wild," in Pricedale, said the report, in condemning the authorities for not seeking to curb the "demoralized" conditions. Members of the coal and iron police there were accused by witnesses before the sub-committee of taking young girls away from their homes and attacking them.

OLD TIMERS RECALL BLIZZARD OF 1888

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 11—On the eve of March 12, the 40th anniversary of the memorable blizzard of 1888, this city was shaking itself free from the worst snowstorm of the year which lasted from Friday morning until Saturday morning at three o'clock. The severity of the recent storm, although incomparable with that of the big blizzard, resulted in numerable inconveniences, however, caused mainly because of the present day use of the automobile. A strong sun and light March breeze Saturday served well to thaw away the snow and many cars that had to be abandoned on highways and country roads for lack of tire chains to assist in getting through drifts, were driven away during the late forenoon. At one time Hampton Hill was cluttered up with about a dozen stalled machines. On Carey Hill in Scotland, three cars were helpless. The average depth of the snow early Saturday was nine inches and a number of drifts were two or more feet high. Traveling conditions were rapidly restored to normalcy on hard surfaced streets and highways where snows had removed most of the snow, but country roads became badly rutted and several were virtually impassable today. Street Superintendent E. O. Sumner had his men out plowing the streets Saturday forenoon and the trucks were occupied Saturday afternoon and today carting off the snow from the gutters.

MANSFIELD TOWN MEETING PROVES TO BE TAME AFFAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 11—It is believed that a timely explanation of an apparent discrepancy between the town report and the town accounts forestalled expected fireworks at the special meeting of the town of Mansfield held in the hall at Spring Hill Saturday afternoon. It was stated that the report showed assets on September 16, last, exceeding the town accounts by something like $1,000 but that the amount, while properly listed as an asset, was not actually received until October, it being a sum paid from the state aid fund. It so transpired that the meeting went off quietly and the townspeople voted a tax of 20 mills on the grand list of $1,695,000. One mill is to be applied to defray the cost of constructing the new concrete bridge which replaces the old twin bridges over the Fenton river on the Mansfield Center-Warrenville road. The town's budget for the year is approximately $38,000.

Rufus C. Haskins, 56, died at his home in Scotland Saturday morning at 8.30 o'clock. He had been ill for some time. He leaves his mother who resides in Mansfield Center; a brother, L. O. Haskins of Scotland; and three sisters, Mrs. Jessie A. Inman of Mansfield, Mrs. Flora Knickerbocker of Springdale and Mrs. Edith A. Bowen of Springfield, Mass.

The local branch of the W. C. T. U. held a Due day meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Friday with Mrs. Ida M. T. Pegrum, president, in charge. Stebbins reviewed some of the accomplishments of the W. C. T. U. locally, naming the installation of a drinking fountain the corner of Main and Railroad streets, the placing of a savings bank system in the Natchaug school and furnishing of supplies, the placing of a dental chair in the public schools and establishment of a dental clinic and the furnishing of free milk to under-nourished children at the Windham street school. The trustees of the purchasing club are John Polek, John Zwirecki and Mike Malaga.

A difference of opinion as to where the state aid road building fund should be applied this year resulted in the largest attendance on record for a town meeting in Hampton. Some 130 voters turned out Saturday afternoon to have a voice in the matter. The opening contest was for the position of moderator, Judge Oliver of Clark's Corner winning the honor over two other candidates. There were three outstanding opinions as to which town should be linked with Hampton in the construction of a new stretch of highway under the state aid method. Some were for a new road to the Scotland town line, others to Pomfret and still others to Chaplin. Wallace N. Jewett made a forceful speech in favor of linking up with Scotland. Three ballots had to be taken and in the final upshot Scotland won. The vote was Scotland 66, Pomfret 52, and Chaplin 12. The meeting then voted $100 to the Legion to carry out Memorial day exercises.

LEGIONNAIRES' BIG TIME ON VISIT TO MONTVILLE

Several Legionnaires of the village went by auto to Montville Friday evening. It was some ride, and they got lost twice and had to get out and shovel, the snow was so deep. A trolley track shot the auto across the road and only the quick work of Harry Scott at the wheel saved it from tipping over. They got in Montville at 9:15, taking two hours to make the trip. In the Community house the Fifth district of the Legion met and although it was a bad night, 75 women and men braved the beautiful snow, coming from Taftville, Baltic and Norwich. District Commander Fatty Peck, from Lyme, who weighs 350 pounds, had the mallet, ready for business. Chaplain Tom Sears read the prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read. It was stated that the money in the treasury was low and the officials wanted to know how to raise some more. Charles Wicks of Niantic was there; he is the man who has made over 1,000 laugh. He told the Legionnaires that he would put on a show for them which would put money in that tin box; and if any of the posts of the district wanted his show, let him know two weeks ahead. Comrade Peck said the next district meeting will be held in Lyme next month. After Color Bearer McKnight marched out with the colors, the members of the Montville post served some of them Palmertown sugar doughnuts, with cheese and coconnut cake; also good coffee. Neil Walker's Smiling Five orchestra from New London played for dancing. A Paul Jones was first to be put on, so all the fellows could meet a girl, then a good old-fashioned fox trot. Some young lady from Jewett City wanted a leap year dance, where the girls ask the young men for a dance, but the young fellows were not keen for this. A square dance came next and four sets were on the floor, with Prof. Ted Jackson calling off. The gallery had a big laugh when Stretch Morrison fell over his No. 9's and hit the floor and broke a wheel in his watch. At a late hour the crowd sang, "We had a good time in Montville if it did snow hard."

The snow storm Friday was the worst storm in two years. A young blizzard came from the northeast, the snow being about eight inches deep. On Fort hill, 30 automobiles and several trucks were caught without chains, making it hard for cars to go by; for three hours there was a blockade. Mode Wilbur was coming home from the ship and engine plant in Groton at 5 o'clock with several workmen in his auto. He got to Fort hill and could not make the hill for over two hours. A friend came along and towed the car into the village at 8 o'clock. Wreckers were busy taking cars away, and Dan Burns, an old-time resident, said this snow storm recalled the big blizzard of 40 years ago, March 12, 1888. He said: "I owned a large farm and had 800 sheep and let them out before the storm. It caught them all and I hunted three weeks before I found them in a big drift, all dead. I never will forget that 12th day of March! My uncle, Jesse Stark, was on a train for five days, coming from New York to Noank."

EMPIRE STATE DEMOCRAT HAPPENS ON SEVERE WEATHER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, March 11—P. N. Krug, New York state politician and chairman of the democratic organization of Nassau county, Long Island, who may have been proselyting for Al. Smith in Rhode Island, experienced quite a spell of weather Friday when he came to Westerly by automobile, accompanied by erstwhile Mineola, L. I. mayor, David J. Helme, a former Westerly boy. Ex-Mayor Helme, retired plumbing contractor, in spite of his preferment in the Empire state continues to have a warm spot in his heart for his boyhood home and returns every summer to pass at least the week ends at his summer place at Pleasant View beach. The past week end he was accompanied by New York Committeeman Krug and both left home with promise of pleasant weather; but when Bridgeport was reached the snowstorm was encountered and it grew in intensity until long after their Pleasant View arrival. Swirling snowflakes blotted out the yellow-blue and green picture promised by the former Westerly boy to the New Yorker, yet on Saturday Watch Hill was visited by them on their return trip and a favorable impression was made on the visitor.

Mr. Krug was a member of a party of six New York politicians who returned recently from a junket to Havana, by way of Key West and Miami, to New York. He will be a New York state democratic delegate to the national democratic convention at Houston, Texas.

Trucks with ploughs passed over the principal highways to scrape the surface and late Saturday afternoon the country highways were cleared.

At the grammar school one evening recently the three classes of the evening school for non-English speaking adults jointly celebrated the close of the term.

The school session which began in October extended over a period of seventy-five nights. The thirty-five pupils registered, practically all of whom are French Canadians, made up in fidelity and enthusiasm for the lack of numbers, so that Plainfield ranks high among the evening schools of the state in its per cent. of attendance as well as in results obtained along the lines of citizenship work. The elementary class, which has been under the instruction of Miss Mildred F. Healey, showed splendid progress. The picture study booklets of famous Americans compiled by the pupils under Miss Healey's guidance are most attractive and show a comprehension of the language which is remarkable, when one considers that the members of this class could not understand one word of English at the beginning of the term. Miss Cecelia A. Ellis, of Jewett City has been in charge of the intermediate class. That the pupils profited by Miss Ellis' diligent efforts in their behalf was evident by their fluency in the language. An interesting project which this class carried out in connection with their newspaper work was the compilation of current events, books containing clippings and pictures from newspapers. The members of the advanced class under the instruction of Miss Catherine P. Dodd of Norwich put their efforts into a program of civics and business English during the term and from this they derived practical benefit. Much praise was given Miss Dodd for the marked improvement and progress shown by her pupils. In the presence of John L. Chapman, superintendent of schools, Miss Annie Tillinghast, who represented Deborah Avery Putnam chapter, D. A. R., and many interested friends, the pupils presented a patriotic program which showed the results of their diligent work during the past few months. Miss Ellis opened the program with a few words of welcome which was followed by the singing of America and the flag salute by the class. Supt. Chapman addressed the pupils with enthusiastic words of encouragement and expressed his pleasure at the result of their efforts. Miss Tillinghast, in behalf of the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution congratulated the pupils and presented each member who had a record of perfect attendance during the entire term, a certificate of accomplishment and a gold pin bearing the name of the D. A. R. The remainder of the program, which was in the hands of the pupils themselves, was as follows: Creed, Mrs. Ebon Anderson; reading, Miss Lebreque and Miss Vezina; song, Columbia the Gem of the Ocean, school; recitation, Albert Fournier; reading, Miss Bernier and Miss Vezina; community songs, school; recitation, Mrs. Lillian Bergeron; recitation, the Old Flag Forever, Miss Gilbert Bernier; closing song, school.

The Woman's club held a meeting recently at the Community house with eighteen members present. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Edna Mathewson, the vice president, Mrs. Lottie Gallup presided. The next meeting will be held March 16, with Mrs. John Bradfrod and Mrs. John Gallup hostesses.

Blaisdell, Miss Natalie Gridley and Mrs. Mabelle Chapman, vocal solos by Miss Lillian Sawyer Mrs. John B. Home and Miss Brooks; a piano solo by Miss Edna Paton; selections by Brooks' orchestra; and the feature of the evening, a mock wedding symbolizing the wedding of Rebekah to the Order of Odd Fellows Miss Irene M. Blaisdell was charming as the bride and Frank Mitchell, Jr., as the groom carried out his part in a like manner. The quaint costumes of the relatives and friends of the bridal party played no small part in the evening's entertainment. The characters were introduced by Mrs. J. Y. Miller who, with her assistants, worked hard to make the evening the success it proved. After the entertainment, refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served followed by square and round dancing. John B. Home proved an efficient prompter for the square dances.

There were 24 members and friends of the Ladies' Aid society in attendance at the meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. J. Huggard at Quaker Hill. DANIELSON

INSPECTION OF SERVICE BATTERY THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 1—This afternoon Capt. F. O. Armington, the commanding officer, said that the public is invited to be present at the state armory Monday evening at 8 o'clock when the annual inspection of the Service battery will take place. Major William McCleve, U. S. A., of the Allston armory at Boston will be the inspecting officer.

Captain Armington is particularly interested to have the public largely represented at the inspection. The event will afford the average person an opportunity to see the local military organization at its best. The battery has a splendid personnel and is a source of pride to the community. There is encouragement, too, for the officers and men in having the public exhibit interest in the battery and the work with which it is engaged.

Today probably as much had been done as will be done to clear walks of snow and to make paths for getting about comfortably from place to place. It appears that the snowfall that ended during the early hours of Saturday morning left from 8 to 10 inches of the beautiful, the variation depending on localities, and gave the snow shovel brigades more work to do than any other storm of the winter has forced upon them. However, the snow was light and moving it about did not entail any degree of bone-bending labor. State highway crews turned in an exceptionally fine accomplishment in clearing up the trunk line highways, and traffic moved over them throughout Saturday with the greatest ease. At no time was the storm allowed to gain on the crews traveling steadily up and down the route assigned to them for the storm period. The storm brought the heaviest deposit of snow falling here at one time this winter.

Saturday at 11 o'clock funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Burdick were conducted at her home at Killingly Center by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Baptist church, numbers of relatives and friends attending. The body was taken to North Stonington for burial, L. E. Kennedy being in charge of the funeral arrangements. Relatives acted as bearers.

ARRESTED AFTER CAR CRASHES INTO POLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 11—Michael Molinski, Elmville resident, drove his automobile into a pole near St. James' church about 10 o'clock Saturday night and started a series of incidents that led to his arrest. Today he was at liberty under bonds of $500, and is to face charges of operating a motor vehicle while he was intoxicated and with transporting liquor. State Officer Elton Nolan of the Danielson barracks, on his way home in his car after having been to a physicianu for treatment, the officer having recently undergone a minor surgical operation, passed by where the Molinski car hit the pole shortly after the accident. Investigating he found that Molinski was in an intoxicated state and that two jugs in the car contained about five gallons of moonshine, so placed the man under arrest. The case will be disposed of in the Killingly town court.

Monday evening the citizens of Killingly will have their opportunity to discuss the town budget for the present financial year. The cost figures have been prepared with painstaking care by the selectmen, who have held all estimates as low as they feel they can do with safety. The proposed tax rate is 24 1-2 mills. While all budget items are subject to revision by the meeting, it is not likely that any major changes will be made, at least there was no indication here at the week end of that possibility.

An interesting result of the use of new giant locomotives on the New Haven road through Danielson, hauling such amazingly long trains is its effect on highway traffic at grade crossings here. Numbers of these trains have been so long as to block three grade crossings simulaneously—the Main street crosing, the Franklin street crossing and the Hutchins street crossing. This really works no great hardship, for the passage of even the longest of the trains is made in comparatively short time. It is surprising, though, how many cars will accumulate at the Main and Franklin street crossings even in the short time one of the long trains is getting over them. The Hutchins street crossing is so little used as to count little in this consideration.

Though there was an unusual amount of skidding and sliding around by automobiles here Saturday and today, no accident of any consequence had been reported up to late this afternoon in this territory. The latest snow storm produced travel conditions more than ordinarily dangerous and difficult, almost as bad as a sleet storm. Off the state highways cars stalled or just failed to move away under power if blocked by even a minor obstruction.

An arrangement very similar to a fire alarm box has been built for William Sangster for use in Brooklyn. It is to house a key to unlock the Unitarian church in fire emergencies, that the bell of the church may be rung as an alarm. The box has a glass front that is to be broken out in case the key is needed. The front is to be sealed, so that thee key cannot be taken out without breaking the glass.

As to the origin of the name Dark Lantern hill there has been considerable speculation of late. One tradition is that the name harks back to the days when the old Providence-Hartford stage coach route came into Killingly on about what is now the trunk line highway from the Rhode Island border into Danielson and up this very hill. It is said that the countryside thereabouts was lonesome and forbidding nights back in those days and that some holduups were carried out there, the robbers using the old type of so-called dark lantern. The version here given is believed by a considerable number of people still resident hereabouts to be a true one, and tell of hearing their forebears relate that the hill got its peculiar name from the use of the old style dark, or burglars, lanterns, in the manner mentioned.

Saturday evening in the palm room at the Nathan Hale hotel in Willimantic Miss Emma Covert, daughter of Mrs. Homer Covert of Hampton, and Jerome Cranston Keech, son of Mrs. Herbert C. Keech of Danielson were united in marriage by Rev. Frederick C. Williams of Willimantic in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. Following the marriage a banquet was served for a party of fourteen. Attending the wedding from Danielson were the mother of the groom and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keech. The newly married couple left during the evening on their wedding trip, going first to Hartford, and are to be in New York for several days. Upon their return they will make their home in Hampton. Mr. Keech is with the Quinebaug Lake Ice company, a business established here by his father years ago.

This morning's mail brought to friends of the couple announcements of the marriage of Miss Corinne Hammett Mitchell and Elliott William Keach, at Webster, Mass., on Saturday.

Mrs. Clara Nadeau of School street is in New York for a few days on a business trip.

In honor of her guest, Mrs. Arthur Rougeau of Marlboro, Mass., Mrs. Frank J. Gorman of School street entertained at bridge.

Saturday afternoon the funeral of Edmond O'Connell, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Connell, was held from the family home near Alexander's lake. The body was entombed at St. Joseph's cemetery in Dayville. L. E. Kennedy had charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Mary Shea and Miss Dora Gilhooley of Hawkins street were visitors in Providence today.

It is anticipated that numbers of children who have been excluded from school because of illness or exposure to illness will be allowed to resume their studies during the current week.

Tuesday afternoon in the ladies' parlor of the Westfield Congregational church the Ladies' Prayer circle is to hold a meeting in conjunction with the W. C. T. U.

Miss Carrie Fellows will have the members of the Ladies' Reading circle with her for a meeting Monday afternoon.

Charles Nadeau has a sprained wrist, an injury received when he slipped and fell while at work in a mill at Moosup.

A sharp drop in the mercury Saturday evening paved the way for a 12 above minimum for this morning in Danielson.

The forecast seems to be that Danielson will return to daylight saving time late in April, following last year's arrangements, which was very general in the industrial centers of eastern Connecticut.

A benefit from the storm was the creation for the most lively demand of the winter for rubber footwear on Saturday, and merchants made material reductions in stocks.

A possibility of the week is that a decision may be reached as to building the proposed hotel-theater building in Danielson.

PUTNAM

FORMER THOMPSON MAN ON WAY TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 11—Worcester police authorities have received notice the John Kroll, alias Mathiew Kroll of Worcester, formerly of Thompson, now in Warsaw, Poland will be brought back to Worcester to stand trial for the murder of his wife in that city.

After an argument with his wife Kroll stabbed her to death with a butcher knife in the summer of 1926. Kroll successfully eluded the Worcester police. The Worcester police were notified in January that he had been arrested and identified in Warsaw, and was being held there for them. Lieutenant Robert T. Hardy of Worcester was sent to bring Kroll back to this country. The Worcester papers carried a story Saturday, stating that Lieutenant Hardy had reached Poland and had taken his prisoner into custody. The article stated that he would be in Worcester by April 8. The trip across is to take longer than it was expected, as the officer stated in his telegram that he was to avoid travelling through Germany, as in that country there is danger of losing his prisoner by reason of the absence of treaty provisions between the United States and Germany.

People of Putnam and vicinity have been interested in the whereabouts of Kroll as he was a farmer in Thompson and later a resident of Webster, Mass. The local papers carried a story a few months ago stating that Kroll was to be released by the Polish police authorities on February 15. If the Worcester police did not reach there before that date to claim him.

Kroll will be in Worcester in time to be tried at the criminal session of the Worcester superior court.

A mission for the French speaking people of St. Mary's church opened Sunday. The mission is being conducted by the Redemtrist fathers from Montreal, Canada. At the 10:30 o'clock mass Sunday the sermon was delivered by one of the missionaries who will have charge of the ceremonies.

Rev. U. O. Bellerose pastor of the church announced at all the masses Sunday that a mission for the English speaking members of the parish will open on May 1. Dominican fathers from New York will conduct the mission.

A. H. CUTLER DIES AFTER ILLNESS OF FOUR DAYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 11—Augustus H. Cutler, a life long resident of Putnam died at his home on Bellevue street Saturday evening at seven o'clock. Mr. Cutler succombed to a paralytic stroke of anoplexy that he suffered Tuesday afternoon while at his work at the Belding-Hemingway silk company where he was employed.

Augustus H. Cutler was born in Putnam on August 8, 1880, the son of Horace and Marcia (Herendeen) Cutler. He attended the public schools in Putnam and later entered the employ of the Shore Line Railway company and worked as an electrical engineer in the sub-power station in Putnam. Later he entered the employ of the Eureka plant of the Hammond-Knowlton silk company as an engineer. Mr. Cutler worked at that plant for seventeen years and when the Hammond-Knowlton became the Belding-Hemingway Silk Co., the new company purchased the Powhatton mill on Providence street and combined the two silk plants into one. Mr. Cutler went there to work. He was employed there as an engineer until he was taken sick.

Mr. Cutler was married on November 15, 1918 to Miss Gertrude Joslin of Putnam. Two children were born of their marriage, a daughter Frances, who is nine years old and a son Donald who is six years of age. He is survived by his wife and two children and a brother Harry Cutler of Putnam.

Fraternally Mr. Cutler was member of the A. Wilder Merriam post of United Spanish War veterans, a member of the Quinebaug lodge of A. F. & A. M., and a member of the Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows.

Mr. Cutler's life long residence in Putnam and his pleasing personality made for him a large circle of friends and acquaintances in this locality.

Saturday morning Putnam arose to find itself buried under a six inch snowfall. Friday snow started to fall and continued until about four o'clock Saturday morning. Although Friday's storm was the worst Putnam has had this winter, there was no tie-up or delay in traffic.

The state highway kept the roads opened all during the storm and bus service was maintained without delays. Trains arrived and left Putnom on schedule time. During the night signal maintainers were kept busy keeping the train signals and interlocking machinery free from the snow.

Snow in the downtown section was cleared away by the city street department, during Saturday and Sunday. Other streets throughout the city were cleared of the snow by city snow plows.

Julien Carlson of Walnut street was taken to the Day Kimball hospital Saturday afternoon to be treated for an injured hand. Mr. Carlson was chopping wod near his home, when an axe that he was using became entangled in a clothes line and slipped and inflicted a serious gash in his hand. No fingers were severed by the blow of the axe. Mr. Carlson remains a patient at the hospital.

Boy Scouts of St. Mary's church are now organizing a band to go with the newly organized troops. Instruments have been purchased and instructions will be taken up at once. Rev. U. O. Bellerose of St. Mary's church stated Sunday that he recalled the many times that he came to Putnam as a boy, on state occasions to hear the old St. Mary's band, that was famous for its playing. Father Bellerose said that since he has been in Putnam as pastor of the church he has found many of the youths that belong to the new Boy Scout troops. "That are chips off the old blocks," as the pastor termed them, and that is what inspired him to organize the band for the boys. Father Bellerose stated that as many of the boys are musicians, he hopes to have them organized well enough to take part in the Memorial day parade that is being planned now by the American Legion and other patriotic organizations.

There was a large attendance at the "Friendly Evening" service, held last evening at the Congregational church. The motion picture, "Forever After" was shown. The movie was vivid tale of the late war, and the attendance enjoyed the thrilling scenes that portrayed the American doughboys under fire in France.

As the weekly Sunday evening entertainment at the church is drawing to a close, Rev. James E. English announced that he has been pleased with the manner in which the congregation has accepted the "friendly evening" programmes and that much effort will be exercised to arrange for another series of motion pictures to be presented next year. Next Sunday evening the church will present another motion picture, "White Flannels."

The regular weekly card tournament between the Masons and the Elks clubs will be played this evening at the Elks club. The Masons are planning to rally this week to bring about a defeat to the Elks, as many moons have passed since the Masons have had a victory chalked up to their credit.

Thomas L. Taylor the last surviving member of the crew of the original Monitor, that defeated the Merrimac, in one of the foremost naval battles of the Civil war, quitely passed the sixty-sixth anniversary of that famous engagement Friday at his home on Oak hill.

Mr. Taylor now in his eighties enjoys himself in the care of his home in Putnam. A detailed account of the battle told to a Bulletin representative appeared in Saturday's edition of The Bulletin.

The short calendar term of the superior court will be opened again at Putnam on Friday, March 16, when cases that have been laid over for reassignment will be heard. Court was opened Friday, but many of the cases that were set for hearing on that date were unprepared and were held over until next Friday by request of the lawyers.

Amateur boxing bouts that were scheduled to be held in Putnam on March 2, under the auspices of the Putnam Sporting club were postponed until Friday, March 16, on account of injuries to the pugilists who were to appear in the ring. Manager Daniel Trudeau of the club has announced that the shows will be held on that date. Fighters from Norwich, Danielson, Worcester and Putnam will appear on the bills to give the local fans a treat.

Kenneth Rawley, a student at Suffield Academy, Suffield, Conn., spent Saturday and Sunday the guest of his parents Mr. and Mrs. George A. Rawley of Pleasant street.

The 5 Great Hazards

"It has been in this house fifty years. You can't find another piece like it. This, ladies and gentlemen, is genuine! What am I offered for it? These old treasures are going for a song. Give me a bid."

—As the auctioneer rattles on, the neighbors think of the old days of entertainment and open hospitality in that house. They wonder how long the proud and lonely mistress has been fighting off the inevitable.

WHILE presenting our Annual Statement showing Assets of $2,388,647,636—2 Billion, 388 Million Dollars—representing savings and investments of 25 million people in the United States and Canada, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company desires to make clear what a life insurance company can do, what it should do and what, so far, it has been unable to do toward meeting what have been called the five great hazards of life:

Death

Accident
always sudden and often causing lessened earning power.

Sickness
which may cause want as well as suffering.

Dependent Old Age
which must seek charity if self-support is no longer possible.

Unemployment
which may bring distress to others in addition to the one unemployed.

* * *

Annuities for old age, protection in case of death, accident or sickness—almost every financial requirement can now be met by insurance. Only one problem is still unsolved—unemployment insurance—and that only because legislation permitting it has so far been refused. The day must come when every family can and will plan to meet every one of the five great hazards so that none of its members will ever face the need of charity.

* * *

The United States and Canada pay higher wages than other countries. Nearly all their workers earn enough to provide for both present and future needs. If they will but plan ahead they may have in their years of retirement, not merely bare existence, but real comfort.

* *

Thousands of those interested in life insurance have asked how the family income should be expended. Send for our Home Budget Booklet which tells how much should be spent for necessities—food, housing, clothing, fuel—and how much should be laid aside for protection. It will be mailed free.

AUTOMATIC SIGNALS

Inasmuch as Naugatuck has decided to establish overhead traffic signals for the automatic handling of its vehicular traffic, the Waterbury American considers it time to offer advice based upon action and experience in that city. It calls attention to the fact that everything is lovely there if consideration is given only to the mechanical operation of the suspended signals, the respect and obedience shown by the public and the removal of policemen from traffic service, but it proceeds to add that "despite a liberal use of these lights in Waterbury there has been no reduction in the standing police force and no decrease in the number of accidents involving automobiles and pedestrians. And, if you please, the automatic signals have resulted in a total loss of time to motorists greatly in excess of anything ever imagined under the old system. * * * and once more be it said that the most effective regulator of traffic possible is a wide-awake, energetic, level-headed policeman."

Except at points where there is a constant flow of traffic in all directions the observation that traffic is slowed up by the automatic signal is apparent in other cities than Waterbury. Frequently it is the case here that traffic is checked when there is nothing whatever to justify it. It stalls traffic instead of moving it along, especially since Shetucket street is forced to handle both its own and the east bound traffic diverted from the one way section of Main street.

Where automatic signals are used, however, it is believed that there is an advantage in the suspended type. That makes it possible for drivers of all cars in the line to see the changes. Frequently it is the case now that those in a line of cars are guided entirely by the action of the cars ahead and even approach the signal back of a truck without being able to see whether they should stop or keep going. With signal lights in the air this would be overcome, although it would not necessarily mean the elimination of the quite important standard underneath about which traffic must pass.

Many have become convinced that the automatic signal encourages racing for the green light in order not to be held up.

STOPPING ALIENS

Whether this session of congress will accomplish anything in the way of further restriction of immigration is as yet uncertain. There is a desire to place a curb upon those coming into the country from Canada, Mexico and other countries in the western hemisphere. This would be by means of establishing a quota for these countries, which in some instances would be so high as not to interfere with the usual yearly immigration. But there is objection to applying such a law to neighbors. It is contrary to past practices and while there may be no need for any such restriction in certain instances it is felt that there is in others.

There is the feeling voiced that any such move would be against the spirit of good will which has been set forth within recent weeks.

It is also maintained that it would be an injustice upon certain sections of the country which need and depend upon help from Mexico during a part of the year by the agricultural interests.

The thought of placing a quota upon the countries of the western hemisphere has been due to the fact that there are so many aliens getting admittance to the United States through them who could not be admitted under the existing immigration law. The belief is held that this could be checked by the quota arrangement. It is also maintained that it could be done by better policing of the borders and it is perfectly obvious that the solution also exists in the registration of all aliens. Congress always deals with a two-sided question when it undertakes to make changes in the immigration laws.

THE FARM RELIEF BILL

When President Coolidge at the last session of congress vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill he did so in such a convincing manner as to show up the undesirable points of the measure. Even the supporters of the bill were obliged to admit the mistakes that were pointed out in the proposed legislation. If this was not shown in any other way it has been brought to attention by the manner in which the supporters of such a bill have given heed to it in revising the measure.

The senate committee on agriculture has been giving consideration to the farm relief bill and has made a report in favor of it. During the study and the remodeling, the bill hasn't undergone any change in name, but it is pointed out that there have been eliminated nine of the features which the president found objectionable. This indicates a desire to remove the unwise provisions in order to get the support not only of the necessary number of congressmen but the approval of the president. The aim is to escape the damaging effect of a veto.

Whether the measure has been whipped into such shape as to accomplish the object sought is questioned. Although nine of the criticized features have been eliminated there still remains the equalization fee, the most objectionable of all the things the president found fault with. The fee would be employed only as an alternative and in case the farm agencies do not succeed in bringing about an orderly marketing of surplus crops by means of the revolving fund advanced by the government.

Just how it is figured that the president would be willing to accept a provision which he has so carefully pointed out as being grossly unjust is hard to understand. Possibly the belief is held that because of the changes there will be a sufficient number in congress who will not only give their support for political purposes but will be willing to override a veto in the event of the president refusing to sign. However if the equalization fee would work an injustice before it would still hold that threat over the people of the country if approved in the new bill. By its elimination along with the other features the much sought farm relief measure will be greatly helped in its passage.

KEEPING DOWN EXPENDITURES

When London announced that it would not carry out its plans for naval construction and would reduce the number of cruisers by two, it was interpreted by some as meaning that it was trying to make up for the responsibility that was placed upon it for the fizzle at the limitation conference at Geneva.

By others it was held to be a move for the purpose of avoiding an undesirable competition in auxiliary warship construction. The decision to reduce the year's quota by two did not mean a great deal to the British but it did indicate a move in the right direction. Two cruisers would neither make nor break its naval strength, but the decision to refrain from building these ships was bound to have a much more pleasing effect upon other countries.

Now the announcement has been made in London that there would be a reduction in the expenditures for its fighting service for 1928 so that they will be lower by two million pounds than they were during 1927. This doesn't involve the navy alone and two million pounds doesn't mean as much as the cost of two cruisers, but when it is indicated that the total outlay for army, navy and air service will be less than it was last year it is an announcement that will be well received for it doesn't appear that 1927 showed abnormal expenditures for these same fighting services by the British.

It is to be expected that there will be a better statement concerning the decision, but if the decision not to build two of the cruisers which had been decided upon was for the purpose of making a better impression upon other countries the more recent declaration must be viewed as following in the same channel and in sympathy with the demands for curbing warfare expenditures during peacetime. Certainly there is nothing in the action or statements that gives encouragement to the big navy advocates in this country. The curb which has been applied to the expenditures for the construction of capital ships is apparently being self administered in other directions.

MEETING FILIPINO PROBLEMS

There are Filipino leaders who oppose practically anything that is urged at Washington concerning the islands on general principles unless they have had a hand in its advocacy. They have persistently refused that cooperation with the governor general which would do so much toward bettering conditions in the Philippines and have offered all possible obstacles.

It is to such that Governor General Stimson appeals when he asks that they refrain from offering opposition to the Kiess bill now in congress that would provide for the appointment of investigation agents in the islands through which he could keep in touch with the manner in which the various departments were operating and thereby determine what is needed. These agents are referred to as "eyes and ears" and would be temporary appointments with the employment of Filipinos where such could be done efficiently.

It seems hardly probable that the opposition displayed by the political leaders in the islands could have such an effect as to prevent the adoption of the legislation, which must be looked upon as desirable, but it is preferable that there should be eliminated any antagonism which might be created through the method of determining what is being done and what is most needed to meet the problems now existing in the islands. When the islanders declare that they are even supporting such a policy in their own legislature they indicate the weakness of the opposition which they are displaying to the measure in congress, or rather withholding the cooperation which they ought to be giving to the new governor general unless they can have things their own way.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Wash colored goods in bran water and they will not fade.

If bread puddings are baked slowly the milk and eggs will not curdle.

Chop the apples fine and pies will bake much more quickly.

Dry bran rubbed on wallpaper will absorb much of the dirt and grease.

Any cold boiled vegetables left over will add variety to salads.

Have enough smoking hot fat to completely cover the food to be fried.

Large toys are best for children, as the exercise they afford helps develop muscle.

Fat may be removed from soup by pouring it through a cloth which has been soaked in cold water.

Tokay grapes and pecans on lettuce make a pleasing salad.

When making a garment, pin the straight seams together on the edge and stitch inside the pins.

Use a fine, new paint brush for dusting fine furniture instead of soft cloths. The fine bristles get into furniture crevices and corners.

Cast-off curtain rods may be used as shoe racks by nailing them on the baseboard inside the clothes closet. The heel of the shoe hangs on the rod.

To lengthen the life of cut flowers, slit the bottom of the stem with a knife about two inches.

A teaspoon of castor oil applied to the roots of your ferns and palms every three months will stimulate their growth.

TO SHAVE SOAP QUICKLY

A suggestion for shaving soap quickly is to cut each bar into four pieces and then put through meat grinder. By adding boiling water to these shavings a liquid soap is quickly and efficiently made.

TO CLEAN WAFFLE IRON

Once a month clean your waffle iron with a thick paste made of three tablespoons of baking powder and two teaspoons of water, using one of those 10-cent nail brushes.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Barley water for children should be made with one teaspoon of prepared barley to one and a half cups of water.

Don't let visitors come in at bedtime and play hard with baby, getting him laughing and excited. You will pay up for it later when baby spends a restless, fretful night.

If you use your eyes a great deal during the daytime, a soothing lotion should be used before retiring. A mild solution of boracic acid and water, Epsom salts and water and plain salt and water are all very economical and yet very soothing when used in an eye cup.

WATCH THE NECK

The neck requires as careful grooming as the face. In the winter, especially, when a fur collar muffles it, perspiration combines dust and dyes into a dusky film.

Give your neck a thorough cleansing every night with soap and water, applied with a flesh brush or a rough wash cloth.

You may wish to precede this with a good cleansing cream, but be sure to finish it off with washing and a cold rinse.

MIRROR-TOPPED TABLE

Quite in the modern manner is a new table, which is designed to place at the side of a davenport. It is painted black and silver and the round base somewhat resembles the petals of a flower. The top is also round and covered with a mirror.

SHOE PROTECTION

The modern shoe is much too fragile and attractive to risk ruining in a sudden shower. So the wise woman carries in her bag a pair of very thin rubber tips in either black or brown. These come in a small colored rubber case.

ROSE QUARTZ BEADS

A choker composed of carved rose quartz round beads is relieved by alternating cylindrical beads of jade the same theme is carried out in another choker which is diversified, however, by a ring of seeed pearls between each bead.

PEEL POTATOES THIN

Do not take too thick a paring off potatoes. The best part of the potato is near the skin. On the other hand, parings from turnips should be thick. The turnip has an outer part that destroys the flavor of the whole if not thoroughly removed.

BOUDOIR PILLOWS

Pillows of net, embroidered in all-over patterns, look more fragile than they are. They come both heart-shaped and round, and are finished with a ruffle of the plain net.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Instead of the usual flower ornament, one of the shops is showing funny little parrots made of bright feathers.

Nothing exceeds the black coat in smartness this year, particularly when it is trimmed with a lavish expanse of dark fur.

New fox scarfs are small—usually one skin that is no longer than will comfortably go around the shoulders and meet in front.

Ubiquitous is the jacket this spring. A white silk frock banded in red and gold has an embroidered red and gold jacket of hip-length.

A fascinating little frock is made of white mull embroidered in tiny colored sprigs. There is a dear little hat of shirred mull to go with the dress.

Silver heads the list of metals that smart costume jewelry is fashioned from this year. One set has silver triangles for earrings, elbow bracelet and neckline.

An intriguing new hat for southern wear is very large and made of a straw composed of flat strands of navy blue and cream straw woven together to form large squares.

A smart little costume for southern wear consists of a blouse and short coat of hand-blocked silk, with a black background and design of peach blossoms. The skirt is of black pleated silk.

The ideal frock for in-between wear is made of very sheer metallic lace, either gold or silver, and depends upon the beauty of the material for its charm. It can be worn for dinner or dance.

A knitted frock dress, which could be worn either in the north or south, is a three-piece affair of sky blue, with a border on the coat and skirt of deeper blue outlined with a tiny white stripe. The sleeveless sweater has many stripes.

EIGHT NEW SUMMER COLORS.

Eight colors were introduced in a recent style exhibit in New York as leaders for the summer. These are sun-glint, a lovely yellow partaking of the characteristics of canary and maize; lapis-aura, a green blue; heather-green, a soft green; leaf-green, a yellow green; hazel-tan, a pink toned beige; beach-tan, a beige with a yellow cast; orchid-gray, a gray with a more distinct orchid shade than has previously appeared in the color field. There is also thistle-gray, a light gray with a very faint lavender tone.

PATENT LEATHER.

The bootmakers are pinning their faith for the spring season on the patent leathers. These are kid or light calf in small allover patterns in geometrical designs—triangles and squares in light colors. Fawn is an outstanding shade in spring footwear. Blue shoes are coming in with the April weather.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

Waxed paper wrappings may be utilized to rub hot irons on.

Pull stockings into shape while still damp; they last longer if they are not ironed.

Rain spots on clothes can be removed by placing a clean damp cloth on the material and pressing it with a moderately warm iron.

Stains on white silk can usually be removed by soaking with gasoline and then rubbing in lump magnesia. As much should be rubbed in as the gasoline will absorb.

Before washing a sweater, measure it and write down the dimensions. After it is washed and rinsed, spread it, back side down, with sleeves outstretched, on several flat thicknesses of clear, soft material. Shape it according to its original dimensions. Turn occasionally until dry.

TO REMOVE GREASE SPOTS.

Spread out the stained material on a clean cloth on al ktchen table. Put a piece of white muslin, folded several times, underneath the stain. Pour some petrol, which is inflammable and must not be used near a naked light, into a saucer, dip a clean white cloth into it and make a ring of petrol right around the outside of the stain on the dress. Then carefully rub round and round towards the centre till the material is dry. This prevents the stain from spreading farther. Repeat till the stain is removed, then hang in the open air to dry.

USES FOR AN OLD FELT HAT.

Cut out a pair of soles from an old felt hat and slip them into boots—they are so warm and cosy. Cover an old broom head with a clean cloth and stitch on top a square of the felt. The result is a cheap and handy floor polisher. Cut out little squares or rounds of felt and glue them on the ends of chair and table legs that otherwise would scrape noisily over the floor. A square of felt covered with soft material makes an excellent iron or kettle holder.

TO REMOVE MILDEW STAINS.

Mildew stains can be removed from white materials by wetting the affected parts with lemon juice, after which they should be put in the sun for several hours and afterwards washed in the usual manner. This method cannot be used for colored fabrics, but if lard is used instead of lemon juice the result is quite satisfactory. Lard should be well rubbed into the spots and the garments should be put in the open air daily for a week. They can then be washed as usual.

ENSEMBLES FOR THE BED.

The color note in the house furnishings is now so definitely established that it is possible to follow out the most delightful schemes. For instance, a bed may have blue cotton sheets and pillow-slips, a blue blanket of the exact shade, and a beautifully quilted comfortable of the same toned satin.

CONCERNING WOMEN

There are 45 women in the German legislature.

The city attorney of Piggott, Ark., has the added distinction of being the mayor's wife.

The Nurses' club of Brooklyn is to have a 12 story clubhouse.

The superintendent of schools in Stockholm, Sweden, is a woman.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-eight is the silver jubilee year of the Catholic Daughters of America—a society that has grown from a membership of 60 to 200,000.

Miss Elizabeth Livingston is pursuing a four-year course in the college of agriculture of Maine university, while Miss Katherine Jackson has entered upon a four-year course in chemical engineering.

The British Fatigue Research board has found from more than 4000 examinations that the average factory woman is two inches taller, 17 pounds better off in weight and has a stronger grip and pull than the unemployed woman. Only the college girl is her physical superior.

DUST COLLECTORS

All fluted dishes and molds should be put away upside down. When dust settles in their grooves it means a good washing, not just a dusting, to remove it before using.

STAINED MARBLE

Diluted hydrochloric acid or vinegar will remove stains from marble. Rinse with cold water.

Don't neglect to have a clean cloth dampened with turpentine right by you to wipe up the spilled drops as soon as they are spilled.

RECIPES

Fillet of Sole au Gratin With Spinach: Cook 2 pounds of spinach, chopped very fine; add a teaspoon of butter and one of cream, season to taste. Into an open baking dish, preferably oval or oblong in shape, pour 1 cupful of white sauce. Lay in this four fillet of sole, cover them with the puree of spinach; pour over this one half cupful of white sauce. Grate cheese over the top and bake until brown.

Caramel Rice Pudding: 1-4 cup sugar, 3 eggs, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 cups milk, 1 cup cooked rice, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup seedless raisins. Place 1-4 cup sugar in frying pan over a low flame and let it brown a golden color; then pour this caramel syrup into a baking dish or cassarole. Slightly beat eggs, add 2 tablespoons sugar and milk and beat thoroughly. Add cooked rice, vanilla and raisins and mix well. Pour over caramel syrup and bake one hour.

"RELIGION AND THE PRODUCTIVE LIFE"

Monday

"The Enrichment of Life"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "This is life eternal, that they should know thee, the only true God, and him whom thou didst send" (John 17:3).

Read: Psalm 104.

MEDITATION: Religion enlarges one's world without and within. It makes all nature incomparably more beautiful, if behind and within it we see intelligence, purpose and good will than if we see in it only the working out of hard mechanical forces. The heavens are filled with more radiance if they "declare the glory of God" than if they are only filled with flaming hydrogen. The thought that there is a God, to whom one's spirit is akin, crowns life with a dignity that it could not otherwise possess. Men believe in God because life would be too poor and sterile without Him.

PRAYER: O God, the Light of all that is true, the Strength of all that is good, the Glory of all that is beautiful, Thou has so formed our hearts that they turn to Thee. Inspire, uplift and strengthen us this day by the sense of Thy presence. Through Jesus Christ, our Saviour. Amen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Augmenting Panama

Mr. Editor: It is surprising, at this late date, to hear that the French engineer, Colonel Bunau-Varilla, is still advocating a sea level canal.

To the uninitiated, such a plan may seem more practicable. The reason no one could state the cost, is because of the diversion of the Chagres river. The French were planning to build a series of diversion canals to divert the waters of the Chagres. These would have cost more than the canal itself.

Also as the tides on the Atlantic coast rise only two feet and on the Pacific coast the rise is 30 feet, locks would be necessary even when building a so-called sea level canal.

Instead of diverting the waters of the Chagres, the American engineers welcomed its mighty flow in creating the Gatun lake as part of the canal and harnessed a spillway that furnishes cheap electricity for power and lighting.

The Gatun lake saved tremendous costs of digging in the canal proper and gave an inland waterway of great advantage to passing ships.

The Cucaracha slide (meaning cockroach in Spanish, because it moves in the night) is still giving dredges plenty of work. How much greater would be the delay to ships if the canal was 80 feet deeper to make it sea level!

YOUR HEALTH

The Story of the Appendix

By Cornelius Van Zwalenburg, M. D., Riverside, Calif., Member Gorgas Memorial.

Acute appendicitis begins with an obstruction in the appendix which, as a result, becomes distended with fluid and the inside is soon a real abscess.

The appendix is the remains of a very useful organ of digestion. In many animals, especially the herbivora, it is larger than the stomach. As a result of it being a denegerating organ it takes on various irregularities. It is frequently curled and kinked and has narrowed places in its interior. The contents of the intestines pass freely into and out of it in the normal state. The more kinks and obstructions, the more difficult is this flow. Sooner or later the appendix which has these constrictions will have something forced into it which cannot get out. This foreign material forms a real ball valve, sometimes as hard as stone. As soon as this obstruction takes place fluid accumulates behind it and distends the organ. Very soon pressure from this accumulated fluid is sufficient to stop the flow of fluid in the veins of the inside, which means more and faster accumulation of fluid, because the arteries have a pressure of approximately five feet. The veins cannot carry the fluid away, consequently the appendix balloons just exactly as an abscess does. In abscesses this same pressure on the blood vessel takes place.

The always present disease germs cause inflammation when this distention with arrested circulation occurs. If the accumulated pressure upon this constriction, plus the contraction of the appendix muscle, forces the plug out into the intestines, the patient is at once relieved. His pain may stop promptly and immediately he is on the high road to recovery. If this plug is not driven out, the accumulation of fluid goes on until all the circulation is arrested and the disease germs which are always present produce death or local gangrene. Rupture occurs, as a rule, approximately 48 hours after the closing of the constriction, but it may occur as early as 24 hours or even after 72 hours—rarely beyond these limits. This is why surgery in the first 24 hours is so necessary.

The beginning of the attack is marked by sharp pain in the abdomen, which may stop as promptly as it comes, by the escape of the plug into the intestines. Again the pain may gradually ease up after 24 to 36 hours on account of the numbing effect of the pressure and death of the local nerves. This easing of pain often gives the patient a false security and even the doctor may be deceived. This is when both doctor and patient need all the tests that modern science can give to decide between the false security of impending gangrene and rupture, or the driving out of the plug which means prompt recovery of the patient.

When the appendix ruptures the real danger period begins—that is peritonitis. If only a small part of the appendix is involved, and only a few drops of pus of very low virulence escape, nature may be able to control its spread by making a localized abscess. If a large amount of fluid is suddenly discharged freely into the abdominal cavity, and especially if a very virulent germ is present, the danger to the patient immediately becomes extreme.

Whitefoot's House is Scorned

That which you like another may Regard in quite another way.
—Mother West Wind.

Little Mrs. Whitefoot was quite out of breath when at last she reached the hiding place in the old stone wall where she had left her four babies while she went back for the fifth. She had carried this baby by the skin of the back of the neck. She had had to hold her head very high and even then his hind legs had dragged on the ground. It was a very great strain to hold him so and she was a very tired little mother when she at last dropped him with his brothers and sisters. She was too tired to go any farther then. She just lay there and panted while the five babies snuggled up to her. She heard a noise outside. Had she peeped out she would have been greatly surprised. It was Farmer Brown's Boy and he was putting her nest from the beehive on the old stone wall, where he had seen her disappear between the stones.

"Oh, dear!" panted Mrs. Whitefoot to herself. "I ought to find a place for these babies where they will be warm and dry and comfortable. But I am too tired to move just now. I wonder how far it is to that little house where Whitefoot is staying? I guess I shall have to wait until night. I just don't dare go on now. Anyway, I am too tired to do any more moving."

But after she had rested somewhat Mrs. Whitefoot climbed up for a peep outside. Almost at once she discovered that old nest of hers. She didn't stop to wonder how it happened to be there. It was enough for her that it was there. She promptly began tugging and pulling it down in between the stones of the old wall. She had to tear it to pieces, but that didn't matter. Then, down there under the stones, she rebuilt that nest and in it she put her babies. Such a load as there was off her mind when she had them all safe and sound and snug in that old nest.

When the Black Shadows came creeping out from the Purple Hills across the Green Mountains, from which the snow had disappeared, and finally reached the Old Orchard, Mrs. Whitefoot charged the babies not to leave that nest and then climbed out on the old stone wall to go look for Whitefoot. She knew that the house he was now living in was somewhere near the old stone wall. But before she had fairly started Whitefoot himself came along. He was on his way for his nightly visit to their winter home in the beehive.

"What are you doing over here, my dear?" he exclaimed. "Where are the babies?"

"What are you doing here, my dear?" he exclaimed.

"The babies are perfectly safe," squeaked Mrs. Whitefoot. "They are in bed right down below in the old stone wall. We had to move sooner than we planned." Then she told Whitefoot all about what had happened. She wound up by demanding that he take to that little house he had told her about.

"Certainly," replied Whitefoot, "just follow me. You are going to like that little house. It is a perfectly splendid little house. Jenny Wren would love it if she had the chance to use it. You'll say it is just the place you are looking for."

Whitefoot led the way and Mrs. Whitefoot followed. Along the old stone wall they ran until they came to a certain old apple tree which overhung the old wall. Whitefoot ran across to the foot of the tree and up the trunk, Mrs. Whitefoot right at his heels. Up he ran until he reached a little wrenhouse which Farmer Brown's Boy had, you will remember, put there especially for him.

"There, my dear, what do you think of this?" inquired Whitefoot.

Mrs. Whitefoot didn't even go inside the house. She just took one good quick look all around, then started down the tree.

"Where are you going, my dear?" cried Whitefoot annxiously.

"I'm going to look for a suitable place to bring a family up in," squeaked Mrs. Whitefoot. "This house may do for you, but it won't do for the children at all."

PROPERTY REPRESENTING 9 MILLION IN GRAND LIST IS TO BE MAPPED YET

The estimate has been made that the portion of the city which has been mapped in anticipation of re-valuation of property for the grand list, about five square miles in the congested business center of the city, represents a valuation on the grand list of about 14 million dollars, leaving about one million dollars worth of property in the city limits which is yet to be mapped. There is also still to be mapped all the property in the town outside of the city limits. As the total town grand list is about 23 millions and the city grand list 15 millions, this makes a total of about nine millions in property yet to be mapped in order to facilitate the job of revaluation.

The maps which have already been prepared, covering five square miles of the 27 square miles within town and city limits, are declared to be highly satisfactory, but it has been estimated that it would take two years to complete the mapping of the balance of the town area by the same method as has been followed so far, and that this would be at a cost of $16,000.

The proposition of the Manufacturers Appraisal company to do the revaluation, which has the endorsement of the chamber of commerce, aims to use airplane maps in covering this unmapped portion of the town, and to follow up the taking of the airplane maps by a certain amount of necessary ground work, all of which, it is claimed, can be done within a very short time, and the price quoted for this combined service of $7,500.

Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce has recently received from State Tax Commissioner W. H. Blodgett a letter commending the progress which Norwich is making towards property re-valuation. In this letter Mr. Blodgett says: "I have before me your comprehensive letter showing the keen interest of the citizens of Norwich in the proposal to revalue property there and bring the same into line with the statutes in order that justice may be done to the taxpayers of the community. You seem to be making very excellent headway. This is the usual occurrence in such cases. As the people have had opportunity to think it over and better understand their own situation and the means which may be employed to correct the evils of it, they bring themselves, and naturally, to see that something, ultimately, must be done with regard to this difficult question of raising public revenue. The impetus which you have given to this problem of course has advanced it. I think you are doing a very wonderful job of it from all appearances."

WILL LET CONTRACTS FOR MORE NEW ROAD WORK

One of the largest contract lettings in some time was announced Saturday by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald, the contracts offered for bid covering work on about 43 miles of Connecticut highway. This 43 miles of road work supplements the already extraordinarily large program of highway reconstruction for the coming spring and summer months. In addition to the paving, the construction of one bridge over the Hoppe river in Seymour is to be let on contract. All contracts will be received in the customary sealed form at the highway office in Hartford on March 20.

The largest contract in the group of 16 offered calls for the laying of 43,967 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Canaan-Salisbury and the Salisbury-Great Barrington roads in the town of Salisbury. The other contracts will cover 21,636 feet, waterbound macadam on the Bethel-Redding road; 16,467 feet, bituminoid macadam on the Coventry-Mansfield Depot road; 4,215 feet, concrete on the Danbury-Newtown road; 28,601 feet, concrete on the Boston Post road in East Lyme, Old Lyme and Waterford; 17,838 feet, concrete on the Middletown-Saybrook road; 4,660 feet, trap rock macadam on Rock Landing road, Haddam; 11,888 feet, native stone macadam on the Hamburg-North Plains road, Lyme and East Haddam; 1,550 feet, gravel surface on the Hatch Corner road, New Fairfield; 28,042 feet, concrete on the Danbury road, New Milford, 8,008 feet, bituminous macadam on Route 135, North Branford and Guilford; 5,130 feet and 2,870 feet, waterbound macadam on the Sharon-Millerton road and 860 feet on the Sharon-Lakeville road (one contract); 12,948 feet, bituminous macadam on First avenue and Beach street, West Haven; 7,350 feet, waterbound macadam on the Hotchkissville road, Woodbury; 6,450 feet, waterbound macadam on the Georgetown road in Redding; and 25,200 feet, grading and drainage on the new location of the Hartford-Middletown road.

Each motorist during 1927 used an average of 550.9 gallons of gasoline and traveled an average of 7,437 miles, according to figures just announced by the national headquarters of the American Motorists association.

The averages are based on a total gasoline consumption in the United States totaling 11,563,490,000 gallons—an increase of 12.4 per cent. over the gasoline consumption by the motorists of the country during 1926. Eliminating all re-registration figures, the U. S. bureau of public roads places the total motor vehicle registration as of July 1, 1927 at 20,991,333.

The mileage traveled is based on an average of 13.5 miles per gallon of gasoline. Using this figure, the association places the total number of miles traveled by the 20,991,333 cars and trucks during 1927 at 1,561,071,150,000 miles.

One of the interesting things shown by the survey of gasoline consumption is the wide variation in the amounts consumed per automobile capita. For instance, the highest per capita consumption was in Georgia, the 260,079 vehicles averaging 739 gallons during the year, while the lowest was in Minnesota, the 607,725 vehicles using an average of but 359 gallons, or slightly less than half the per vehicle consumption in Georgia. Following Georgia, Louisiana ranks second with 721 gallons and Alabama third with 697 gallons.

"Many things contribute toward the wide variation in the amount of gasoline used per vehicle in the various states," according to J. Borton Weeks, president of the association. "In the wide difference between the amount consumed by the average motorists in Minnesota and Georgia, the primary reason is climatic conditions. In Georgia automobiles are used the year around, while in Minnesota they are restricted. Again roads in Georgia are not as good as those in the northern states and hence the gasoline consumption is higher."

Buddington will appear in the city court.

What the decision of the selectmen will be awaited with much interest, as it is understood there has been no lack of candidates for the appointment for this office, which like that of tax collector, is considered one of the rich plums to be plucked from the political tree.

Fined in North Stonington

Seven Norwich young men who were arrested here Saturday night on the charge of breach of the peace at a dance in North Stonington were fined $5 each when presented Sunday afternoon before a justice of the peace in that town. They were represented by Attorney Thomas M. Shields and took an appeal to the common pleas court.

The young men were arrested in this city by Officers Allen and Quinn who were watching for them on Preston bridge. A telephone message from Constable Main stated that they had gotten away from him and he asked the Norwich police to round them up.

Our forefathers often placed horses' skulls under the floorboards of their music rooms in superstitious belief that this improved the acoustics.

GIVES LENTEN MESSAGE AT VESPER SERVICE

Appealing to his large congregation at St. Patrick's church Sunday night at the special lenten vesper service not to scourge Jesus anew by yielding to sins of impurity and sensuality, Rev. Conran Kane from the Passionist monastery at West Springfield, Mass., held the close attention of his hearers in his earnest discourse. He spoke from the text, And then Pilate took Jesus and scourged Him.

This torture, the preacher said, was punishment reserved by the Romans for prisoners of war and for slaves, and he asked his hearers to consider and learn to hate the terrible sin that had brought this suffering and agony to the Son of God. The sins which sent Him to this agony were the sins of sensuality and impurity. What is this sensuality for which the suffering of Jesus atoned? It can be seen in inordinate affection for the things of our animal nature. We pervert the things we eat and drink; are willing to barter our souls for the sake of intemperance. Self-denial and self-abasement are scorned. They are all right for a few fanatics, you will hear people say, but not to be followed in the present day. Men and women are willing to let Christ be scourged again and again so that they may give way to their inordinate desires, may grovel in the mire and pervert their natures.

Be not like those who have no hope, the preacher urged in closing. Though your sins be as scarlet, I will make them white as snow, Jesus says. Go to Him and ask Him what He would have you do. Break away from these sins of sensuality and impurity and thus be true to Christ and live in His love and friendship.

Mercadante's vespers were rendered with fine effect by the choir, the soloists being Miss Sadie A. Driscoll, Mrs. Bernard Coyle, Walter LaFontaine and William Shannon. Miss Driscoll was in excellent voice and her solo work was notable. O Salutaris was sung by Horace Corning, and Veni Creator by Henry LaFontaine. The service closed with benediction.

JACK SHARKEY ENTERS RING 2 TO 1 FAVORITE OVER JOHNNY RISKO TONIGHT

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—Two heavyweights, never before considered sluggers, will race the opportunity of a fistic lifetime tomorrow night in a setting just made to order for a paralyzing puncher. And from a seat at the ringside of Madison Square Garden will rise the mental prayer of Tex Rickard for a knockout.

A sudden, devastating display of power that may be hidden in the arms and shoulders of Jack Sharkey or new snap and crackle to Johnny Risko's left hook alone can save the promoter's heavyweight elimination tournament designed to locate a June opponent for Gene Tunney. Otherwise the 15 round engagement of the Australian doughnut maker from Cleveland and the subdued sailor of Boston in the garden arena tomorrow night will set the scene for an order of pugilistic rebash.

Puncher Will Set Call.

In another seat at the garden, Tom Heeney, burley blacksmith of New Zealand, will giue his attention on a match that will provide him an opportunity if it goes to a decision, but which will leave him only the consolation prize if the unexpected knockout takes place. Tom, an unseeded entry, worked his way through the lower half of the draw, beat Jack Delaney by decision in the semi-finals, and awaits a further call for his services. The call won't come, Tex Rickard says, if he can uncover an out-and-out puncher Monday night.

With Jack Dempsey firm in his decision to retire from the ring and bound by a $1,000,000 contract with Gene Tunney, Tex Rickard craves color and the magnetism of a socker who can contribute real drawing power to a title match.

If Sharkey wins a decision over Risko, there is only the prospect of another match with Heeney to determine the champion's challenger. That match was fought months ago and ended in a colorless draw. If Risko "grabs the duke" he can only repeat with Heeney the lifeless affair that Detroit saw many weeks ago.

Risko Only Kayoed Once.

More serious than in recent matches and down to the low weight of his best fights, Sharkey has been made a 2 to 1 favorite over the former pretzel twister. His main reliance will be a right hand battery that bowled over Jimmy Maloney and started bees to buzzing in Jack Dempsey's head for a round one summer night last June. Risko, however, had "fought 'em all and made 'em like it." Only the venerable Chuck Wiggins, a light heavyweight, ever knocked him out. While Wiggins is credited with a knockout victory over Risko in the official records, Risko actually was not counted out but refused to continue pleading a foul in the fifth round of a bout at Indianapolis on Sept. 4, 1925.

Risko's left hook, his best weapon, is considered hardly potent enough to dent Sharkey's hide. Johnny plans to force the fight from the start. Pouring that fist into the gob's body until he cries enough. But Sharkey has been flattened only by Jack Dempsey and Romero Rojas.

PRINCETON AND PENN FINISH SEASON IN TIE

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—For the second successive year, Princeton hoopsters have been thrust into a playoff out of season for the premier honors of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league.

The Tiger chased the University of Pennsylvania basketeers into a deadlock in the windup of the regular season's schedule at Philadelphia last night by crashing out with a 29 to 12 victory over the Quakers. Incidentally, it was the worst experience for the Penn quintet in the campaign.

Princeton and Penn concluded the schedule with seven games won and three lost apiece, thereby forcing another battle for the loop championship. Last year, the Tigers was placed in a like situation and lost the hunting to Dartmouth in the playoff.

The Hanoverians tucked away third place in the standing of the clubs by whipping Cornell at Hanover by 41 to 29. Yale and Columbia trailed the Ithacans in order.

While Joey Schaaf, star sophomore guard of the Penn team, easily finished at the top of the individual scorers with 125 points, he failed by a narrow margin of creating a new field goal record. Schaaf had a total of 40 field baskets before the fray last night requiring only three to tie the standard set by Orson Kinney of Yale in 1919.

Schaaf was so closely guarded by Eddie Wittmer, Princeton guard, last night that he was unable to register a single basket from the floor. He made three from the foul line. The Penn brilliant had an advantage of 38 points over his nearest scoring rival, Nassau of Yale. Langdell of Dartmouth was third with 83 points. Foot of Princeton, fourth, with 78, and Heep of Dartmouth, next with 68.

DAVIS CUP TALENT TO BE CONCENTRATED IN ONE TEAM

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—The Davis cup talent of the United States will not be split into two teams but will be concentrated in an effort to win the American zone matches and thus qualify for the inter-zone final in Paris, the United States Lawn Tennis association announced today.

This action was the result of a week end session of the U. S. L. T. A. Davis cup committee at the Racquet and Tennis club here. Practically the entire personnel of the committee attended and the decision was unanimous.

ACADEMY PLAYS COAST GUARDS FRIDAY NIGHT

The Academy closes its regular season Friday night at the Y gym, meeting the Coast Guard Academy junior varsity from New London. This team won by two points in the first game of the series at New London.

There is prospect of a game here Saturday night although no definite arrangements had been made Sunday night by Coach Courtland Whitney.

HAHN TO TRY RECORD MILE WEDNESDAY AT N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 11—(AP)—Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A., the sensation on the indoor track this winter, will endeavor to attain a new record for the mile distance in his farewell appearance here at the Manhattan college games Wednesday night in the event he fails to set a new standard for the Jasper three-quarter mile feature.

According to an announcement today by the Manhattan college officials, Hahn will try to better his own mark of 3:03 2-5 for the three-quarter mile set three years ago, but in the event he fails will continue to the mile distance.

To aid Hahn's performance, the flat track at the 102nd Engineers armory will be washed with a special mixture of hot water, rosin and paste, which will supply a fast surface of grayish white color.

The conditions will be similar to the Buffalo track where Paavo Nurmi, the Phantom Finn, established the world's indoor record of 4:12 for the mile in 1925. The track will be without banks and will not permit the use of spikes. Nurmi's mark was equalled within a few weeks of the Finn runner's feat by Joie Ray at the old Madison Square Garden.

Hahn will race against three other athletes in the Jasper three-quarter, Schuyler Enck, former Penn State flyer, winner in 1924 of both the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. indoor and outdoor mile championships, John J. Theobald of the New York A. C., and Murray Goldfish of the Millrose A. A.

Hahn has won 14 out of 15 races on the boards this season. His lone defeat was by Ray Conger in Kansas City. The fast clip being set by the Boston star was capped only several days ago when he ran the fastest half mile on record, 1:51 2-5, which was three and one-fifth seconds better than the world's indoor mark of 24 years standing and a fifth of a second faster than the world's outdoor standard made by Dr. Otto Peltzer in 1926 over Douglas Lowe of England.

In conquering Dr. Peltzer and Conger in the classic "mile of the century" in the Knights of Columbus meet, Hahn ran the distance in 4:13, which was one-fifth of a second slower than the world mark.

Titterton to Run

Leo Lermond, club mate of Hahn, who has won ten out of 11 races this season, will start from scratch in a two-mile handicap event. Running against Lermond will be a large field including Russell Payne of the Illinois A. C., Mel Dalton, Seton Hall college, Frank Titterton, Harry Werbin, Andry Craw and Willie Ruckel of the Millrose A. A.

KID KAPLAN, WORKING FOR DAY BOUT, DENIES RIFT

Trainer Denny McMahon announced Kaplan would resume boxing here tomorrow. A cut over his left eye has forced the former featherweight champion to confine his training to routine gymnasium exercises.

Rumors of a rift between Kaplan and McMahon were effectively spiked when both announced they knew nothing of a contemplated change in their working agreement. McMahon sold his managerial interest in Kaplan to Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, in August, 1926, and has continued working with Kaplan as trainer since that time.

AROUND THE RING

By Charles W. Dunkley
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, March 11—(AP)—The rush for the prized world's lightweight championship match between Sammy Mandell, the titleholder and Jimmy McLarnin, the baby faced boy with the soft boiled eyes and adult sock, has simmered down to the conversational stage, with Mandell holding the key to the situation.

If Mandell keeps his word, and he has a reputation for doing just that, this match will be staged in Chicago probably in July, under the direction of Promoter Jim Mullen. Tex Rickard, however, believes that he has landed the match, or least will eventually get it for New York. Mullen has the contract with Mandell, and Rickard holds McLarnin's signature for a battle May 4.

Mandell says he will box for Mullen who, he says, is responsible for his development.

"At no time have either Eddie Kane my manager or myself, thought of boxing for anyone else except Mullen," Mandell says. "Mullen started me when he was promoting fights at Aurora, and gave me my important matches on the way to the championship. I won the title under his promotion and I am going to defend it with him."

The controversy may reach a settlement stage before the first of April with the appearance of "Pop" Foster, McLarnin's manager in Chicago on his way west. Foster has promised Mullen that he will give his decision at that time. If Mullen lands the match he plans to stage it in Soldier field, scene of the Tunney-Dempsey heavyweight championship battle last September.

If Mullen fails to ensnare McLarnin, he proposes lining up other outstanding challengers, among them Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express and Freddie Mueller, a Buffalo lightweight who has not lost a match in two years. Mullen has Petrolle's contract on file with the Illinois state athletic commission, and also has Mueller tied up.

Pinky Mitchell, elongated Milwaukee boxer, once holder of the mythical junior welterweight title, has cast his lot with the middleweights. He craves a match with Mickey Walker and has deposited $2,500 with the Illinois state athletic commission in the hope that it may line up a match with the 158-pound king.

Mitchell, a brother of the famous Richie Mitchell, fought with varied success as a welterweight. He has taken on weight rapidly within the last year, after finding it difficult to make 147 pounds. He believes that, with the added weight, he will be able to get some place mingling with the middleweights.

Mique Malloy is the biggest boxing promoter in Chicago—at least in weight. He scales just 260 pounds and requires two ringside seats to support his massive bulk. Before joining the ranks of promoters, Mallow made a reputation as a scout for the Chicago Cubs.

Harry Forbes, one-time holder of the world's bantamweight championship, is back in the game that brought him fame. He has become connected with a gymnasium in Chicago interested in the development of amateur boxers.

SATRE LOSES OUT TO JANSEN IN SALISBURY MEET

SALISBURY, Conn., March 11—(AP)—Magnus Satre, of the Salisbury Outing club, present U. S. ten mile cross country speed champion, suffered his first setback of the season here today before a crowd of 2,500, in the Connecticut state ski championship when he was forced to take second honors to Martin Jansen, of the Norsemen's Ski club, Brooklyn, N. Y. Jansen's winning time was 1.01.28; Satre's was 1.01.50.

John and Olaf Satre, brothers of the champion, finished in third and fourth place, respectively.

S. Otto Jansen, of the Norway Ski club, of White Plains, N. Y., won the jumping event with a leap of 103 feet. C. P. Graff, of the Norsemen's Ski club was second with 105 feet. R. C. Coombs, of the Brattleboro, Vt., Ski club, was third and A. C. Hermanson, of the Norsemen's Ski club was fourth.

PENN-PRINCETON PLAYOFF AT PALESTRA, MARCH 19 OR 20

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—(AP)—Pennsylvania and Princeton, tied for first place in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league standing, will play an extra game next week to decide the championship. The game, it was announced tonight, will be played at the Palestra in this city, and the date will be March 19 or 20. Decision as to the date will be reached at a meeting of Princeton's basketball representatives tomorrow.

Princeton readily agreed to the play-off here not only because of the large seating capacity of the Palestra but also because in the play-off of a tie in 1922 Pennsylvania went to Princeton.

The Tigers tied Pennsylvania for the league leadership by defeating the Quakers Saturday night, 29 to 12. Penn's team was held to a single foul goal in the second half.

CROSBY HIGH FALLS BEFORE RUGGED ATTACK OF ACADEMY QUINTET, 20 TO 16

The Academy flashed plenty of power at critical times Saturday night at the Y gym and for their trouble got a win over Crosby High of Waterbury. The score was 20 to 16 and it was the local third victory in as many nights.

The locals were once again the team that they can be and for which their rooters have been watching most of the season. Crosby took the floor a pretty heavy pre-game favorite but the locals sailed right in and outplayed them for most of the way.

Locals Get Early Lead

The Red and White had the lead for nine-tenths of the way, yielding it but once and then for but a few moments. Although their offense was not the very best, still the Whitneymen had enough baskets in stock to match Crosby's bids.

An early lead gave the locals a big edge though trying moments in the latter part of the struggle. Especially did the Brass City crew threaten in the last part of the second quarter and nearly all of the last quarter.

The Academy had a better defense than their guests. They formed quicker and took care of their opportunities with fair regularity. The visitors, man for man, had it on the locals in weight and probably in height, so that LaCroix, Jarvis and Kelly were at a slight disadvantage. LaCroix played his usual hard game but paid for it with some pretty hard knocks. Both teams made the game a very businesslike affair, there being little of the slowness evident in Friday's night's game. There were far less fouls, 13 personals being called, ten of them on the vistors. There was plenty of scuffling, etc., but it happened so quick and was so unintentional that the free throw line wasn't heavily loaded.

Pingros in Form

Les Pingree was back in the nearest to his early season form that he has shown since returning to the lineup. He sank nine points, three in each column, and on the floor made himself particularly useful in the pinches. Jarvis, with six points, was right at his heels in scoring and also gave a nice floor game. In fact, the whole team did well in winning although they made a few mistakes now and then, that fortunately, did not result in anything disastrous.

The Academy shot into the lead on Joe Viau's basket very early in the game and, with both teams missing easy shots, were there at the quarter by a 5 to 2 margin. The second period was of much the same basketball with the defenses tightening a bit. The Academy led at half time by 8 to 5.

Both teams came out of their scoring letharby sonn after the whistle in third quarter, and made it fairly interesting during this period. The score stayed at about the same level throughout the period, with each team matching the other's scoring effort, although the baskets were by no means coming fast and furious.

Crosby Leads

Crosby shot ahead for the first time early in the last quarter, leading by 13 to 12, but didn't get a chance to stay there long, for Pingree sank a foul and tied things up and then he, Jarvis and Viau soon made it safe with field goals and a foul, the latter by Pingree. A field goal from the visitors late in the period tightened the game and fearful Academy rooters' brows up a bit, but nothing more happened for it would have taken a wonder-team to get victory from the Academy at this time, and Crosby was not a wonder-team.

The crowd, practically 100 per cent Academy, wanted the locals to freeze it in the last minute, but as the boys took possession of the ball and before they had a chance to show whether they would attempt this sort of game, the whistle blew.

Last Scholastic Game

This was the Red and White's last scholastic tilt for the season. Against high school teams they have won 7 and lost 10. Another defeat is chalked up against the locals, that by the Coast Guard academy Jr. Varsity, whom they meet here Friday night.

PLAINFIELD-TAFTVILLE SERIES OPENS WEDNESDAY

The first game of the Plainfield-Taftville series for the eastern Connecticut basketball title will be played Wednesday night at the Plainfield Community house, it was announced Sunday night. The Crescents won the right to meet the Pros by beating the Danielson town team in a two out of three game series, which finished last Friday.

This is the second year in succession that a Taftville outfit has qualified for the series with the Community Housers. Last year, the Taftville Celtics lost the two straight games.

The Taftville lineup will be singled out from Morley, Martin, Kiley, Brown and Harris. Normandin and Dissenger, who played with the Crescents in the Danielson series, will return to their first loves, Plainfield.

The Plainfield lineup has not been divulged as yet but it will probably be the same as that which had little trouble with the Bristol Endees last week, Normandin and Kasper at the forwards, Bernot at centre and Dissenger and Benson at guards with Madden and Brusso in reserve.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

Three in a row is good but three in three nights, especially after so much "not-so-good" work is better.

The Academy ought to beat the Coast Guards Friday night and run their winning streak to four. This team won by two points in the meet at New London.

The C. F. C. stepped out near the end of the tilt Saturday night and won by a safe margin from Joe Belair's team.

The C. F. C. is angling for a game with the New London Secony club in the near future.

Over 6,000 saw Naugatuck beat Wilby at Waterbury Saturday night.

The Renaissance Big Five, which has beaten the Plainfield Pros twice this year is not having such good fortune with other teams in the state. After getting two beatings from New Britain in the last two months the Harlem outfit lost in Bristol Saturday night.

The Academy had a big crowd Saturday night in contrast to the very small turnout Friday evening.

The Red and White had plenty of supporters although, little in the way of a cheering section was in evidence.

The scoreboard Saturday night had Joe Belair's team from Westerly while others had it from Stonington and still others from Mystic.

Anyway, they put up a fast game and the margin of victory was not as wide as the score would show.

Joe Viau came out with his left eye under wraps but once the game started he discarded the shade.

Randy Whaples despite his diminutive stature usually does a good job of tossing up the ball, even with big fellows but Saturday with Jarvis and a Crosby player equal in size, Randy tossed the pill up and it landed several inches off to the side. The Crosby player managed to graze it with his hand as both made the try so that the play was legal.

The Danielson Towners closed their season with Friday night's game at Plainfield, in which they lost the series to the Taftville Crescents.

BIG BOY BURLAP TACKLES TOUGH BOY

Will "Big Boy" Burlap's long string of victories be broken at the state armory tomorrow night or will Harry Bell, hard hitting Hartford heavyweight, be just another victim of the bullike rushes of the big Westerly colored boy? Everywhere, this subject is discussed as the fans eagerly wait for the Duwell show which

JOE BRUNO

Although the Westerly heavyweight has always had a cinch whenever he has appeared in a Norwich ring, his work is cut out for him this trip Bell, tips the scales at 185 pounds, 15 pounds less than Burlap, but the difference of weight is offset by speed and endurance for which the Hartford lad is noted.

Possessing a wallop in either hand, Bell has bowled over the best around Hartford, and is conceded an even chance with the newly added member of the Duwell squad. For months local fandom has cried for a Burlap bout and tomorrow night its desire will finally be rewarded, as the colored boy will fight, in fact will have to fight as he never has before.

In addition to the heavyweight clash there will be several middleweight and welterweight scraps judging from the entry lists which closed Sunday night. Joe Bruno, Westerly mauler, Manuel Rose, Stonington bruiser, who made his debut at the last Duwell show, Mike Cronin, also of Stonington, Benny Dempski, Jewett City favorite, George Herr, Danielson light heavyweight and Pasty Ferra of Norwich are just a few of the many big boys listed. At least half the card tomorrow night will be in classes over 145 pounds.

The entry of Patsy Ferra is a pleasant surprise in local boxing circles as fandom had just begun to figure him through. Patsy suddenly dropped out of the picture last fall when he was going good and since was content to do the heavy looking on. With the same suddenness that he hung up the gloves he finally decided to get back into the thick of it. After having trained faithfully for at least three weeks, Ferra is again ready to meet the best of them. Frankie Adams, Al Koziol, Rhode Island lightweight champ, who tonight fights for the New England championship at Boston and Artie Ward, New London sensation, are a few more of the Duwell boxers that will occupy the limelight with the classy field of scrappers that includes the Charter Oak team of Hartford. Ward, a new addition to the Duwell outfit, is a sweet looking welterweight that should go a long way towards the state championships to be decided in New Haven next month. He hits hard, shoots straight, and is strong.

The Duwell club members put in a busy day at the armory yesterday getting things lined up for what looks like a banner show. The seating capacity of the arena is to be increased to 1400, so that everyone that attends the show will enjoy it in comfort. At the last show it was estimated that there were at least 400 women, and according to present prospects it is expected that this number will be increased considerably Tuesday. The ladies are beginning to find boxing as interesting as any of the other branches of sport and are getting as much amusement out of the bouts as the members of the opposite sex.

CRONICK, CANADIAN, WINS EIGHTH LAP OF MARATHON

NEEDLES, Calif., March 11—(AP)—Making a strong finish, John Cronick, stout-hearted son of Canada, won the eighth lap today of the Los Angeles-to-New York marathon.

When he crossed the finish line here, the entrant from Saskatoon, Sask., had covered the 57 miles from Danby in 8 hours, 44 minutes, 20 seconds, an average of nearly seven miles an hour. His elapsed time for the 296.4 miles of the 3,400-mile foot race stood tonight at 51:28:25.

Midway on the desert stretch, Cronick passed Nestor Erickson, Finnish runner from New York, who had led the field since the start at 4:59 this morning. At one time Erickson held a six-mile lead over the next runner, but as the sun's rays began to beat down on him his pace slowed to a walk.

Cronick carried on over the best highway encountered since the huge field of runners headed into the Mojave three days ago. Clouds of dust raised by passing automobiles distressed him somewhat but his pace never slackened.

Arthur Newton, winner of the preceding three laps and leader in elapsed time, checked in 5 minutes and 10 seconds behind Cronick. The 44-year-old speedster from Rhodesia, South Africa, had passed Erickson en route and slowly but surely cut down the distance between him and the leader.

Andrew Payne, of Claremore, Okla., one of the dark horses of the contest, which holds out $48,500 in prizes to the first ten in total time, finished third today. He plugged along without a stop to end with a time of 9:35:30.

LEWIS MATCH TONIGHT DIVIDES ILLS COMMISSION

CHICAGO, March 11. —(AP)—"Stranger" Lewis, generally accepted heavyweight wrestling champion, is scheduled to meet Alex Garkawienko here tomorrow night in a finish match, which has caused a split in the Illinois athletic commission. The match, if held, will mark the first appearance of Lewis in a Chicago ring since heavyweight wrestling, as done in Chicago, was investigated by the state legislature a year ago.

The permit, issued by Chairman Paul Prehn of the Illinois athletic commission, was the crux of a factional dispute within the commission. Samuel P. Luzzo, the other commissioner, voted a vigorous "no," and has declared he will use every effort to prevent the match.

Luzzo has announced no course of action and Chairman Prehn and Promoter Joe Coffey are continuing with plans to hold the match tomorrow.

N. L. COUNTY Y TEAM WINS AT MIDDLETOWN

At Middletown Saturday the New London Y. M. C. A. quintet won its first game in the state Y basketball tournament, trimming Bridgeport, 51 to 20.

National League Hockey

'BOUT SPORTS

It seems rather funny for the Yale tournament to be minus two such strong state high school teams as Windham and Naugatuck this year. Windham, the only high school in eastern Connecticut that has had what can be called a successful year, lost but two scholastic tilts, to Bulkeley of Hartford and Torrington. Each of these teams, however, was beaten in the other game of the series.

The Rockville-Windham argument concerning their first game early in the season was to come up for discussion Saturday afternoon at the meeting, when the eight teams were selected for the tourney but no reports have been received here on the confab. It is said that three other high schools also entered protests against Windham but who they are or whether this is a fact is not known.

Frank Titterton, who won the Duwell five mile race, is to run against Leo Lermond in one of the features at the Manhattan college games Wednesday night.

YANKS ONLY TEAM SET ON STARTING LINEUP

ATLANTA, Ga., March 11.—(AP)—Major league baseball teams started the fourth week of training in Dixie today with uncertainty reigning in many camps in regard to starting lineups a month from today when the campaigns actually get under way.

Probably the New York Yankees had less troubles of this nature to worry over than an other. Miller Huggins expecting to send the identical combination to the season's starting "post" that won the 1927 world series.

As for the other 13 clubs conditioning in the south, all admittedly had many "breaks" likely to occur that would make the starting lineups problematical. Most of the clubs however, continued exhibition games today, a process through which managerial eyes were observing the situation in realistic regular season fashion.

Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, training at West Palm Beach, was confronted with no less than a half dozen additions from other American league clubs and twice that many recruits to build his 1928 team from. Three recruits from Tulsa of the Western association, Sturdy, Brannon and Kress all are admittedly making impressive showings in the Brown infield work outs.

Washington's Senators at Tampa have three places still undecided, first base, shortstop and centerfield. Sisler and Judge are the problem at first. Hayes, Gillis and Reeves at short and Sammy West competing with several others for center field.

The Brooklyn Robins at Clearwater have three new stars to make room for—Bancroft from the Braves; Ricconda from Milwaukee; and Biesonette Buffalo.

As for Connie Mack's principal "if" at Fort Myers, Fla., he has expressed the belief that it has passed with the display of form shown by Hauser, first sacker attempting a comeback.

The Philadelphia Nationals at Winter Haven, Fla., were watching five new comers, including Schulte, catcher and Kelley, first baseman, in the hopes that they will strengthen the club.

FARRELL AND SARAZEN MAKE SEMI-FINAL AT MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., March 11—(AP)—Johnny Farrell, New York, and Gene Sarazen, former American open golf champion, went into the semi-final round of the annual international four ball golf match here today by defeating Joe Kirkwood, Albany, Ga., and Henry Cuici, Bridgeport, Conn., 3 and 2.

Tommy Armour, national open champion, paired with Bobby Cruickshank, of New York, also turned in a victory, beating Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City, 4 and 3.

Harry Cooper, Buffalo, and Al Espinosa, Chicago, won from Willie Dow, Fargo, N. D., and Jim Brophy, Cincinnati, in an easy 8 and 7 victory.

MacDonald Smith, Great Neck, N. Y., and Bill Mehlhorn, Pittsburgh, won the other semi-finalist position, beating Charles Mayo, Flushing, L. I., and Wilfred Reid, Detroit, 7 and 6.

SPORT SLANTS

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

Apparently if the bunions don't get the cross-country marathon runners first fallen arches will.

Swollen arches have put a number of the favorites out of C. C. Pyle's traveling circus before it has passed the California limits, among them the famous Finn, Willie Kolehmainen.

At the rate the athletes have been droping out of the "bunion derby" there wil be scarcely a handful for the final dash into the Yankee stadium.

It isn't strange, however, to find Arthur Newton, the British veteran, among the hardiest of the competitors so far, well up in the vanguard. Newton has spent a good share of his career running about South Africa and England, hanging up long distance records. He considers a little jaunt of 100 miles just a warm-up.

OBSERVERS FIND THAT BUSINESS GRADUALLY IMPROVED LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—The view of general business in America last week was somewhat more optimistic, but most observers agreed that the improvement was rather gradual. In some quarters there were moderate advances, and in others the week's developments were confined to consolidations of recent gains.

The steel trade showed little change from the preceding week. The industry was reported holding its own, but a letting down of buying for immediate consumption in recent weeks was reflected in a checking of the steady expansion which has been evident since the first weeks of the year. The U. S. Steel corporation was reported operating at about 90 per cent. of capacity, and the industry as a whole around 80 per cent.

The poor business done by the petroleum industry last year continued to be reflected by annual reports of low earnings. That the danger of overproduction of crude is not yet past, was indicated by an agreement by California producers to curtail production in their fields.

Little variation was shown by the automobile trade. Indeed the actual operations of motor car makers was over-shadowed in the public interest by the sensational performance of General Motors common stock on the New York stock market. In six days the price of this stock climbed more than $20 a share, while there was a turnover in that time of around 2,592,000 shares.

Inevitably such a spectacular advance was regarded as an augury of good business, particularly for the one corporation. The semi-official announcement that 200,000 shares had been taken by the holding company comprised of company officials also received much notice as significant. On the other hand, the maker of automobiles who has been considered the closest rival of General Motors, has been slow in expanding production, a fact which was in large part responsible for the appreciation in value of the corporation's stock.

The one really weak spot in the business field was the rubber industry. Prices of rubber futures collapsed badly entailing heavy additions to losses already sustained by manufacturers of the American "rubber pool." This loss since the pool was formed now is estimated at as much as $23,000,000.

Credit conditions were virtually unchanged throughout the week. There were heavy exports of gold to South America and European markets, and $11,900,000 of the French earmarked gold was removed from New York to Paris. A reduction of $26,000,000 in brokers' loans, however, was hailed as a favorable sign, and treasuryq March 15 financing in the form of short term notes at 3 1-4 and 3 3-8 per cent. was interpreted as quite in line with the current condition of the money market. The fact that the treasury did not include a new offer for the exchange of third Liberties, which are due in September, was viewed by many financial observers as an indication that the treasury looks forward to more favorable monetary conditions in the near future.

"SAVING $10.00 per ton in buying materials for home mixing" frequently runs into an actual loss of up to $20.00 by using it. ALBERT JOHNSON COMMITTED TO NORWICH FOR OBSERVATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 11—Albert Johnson, 242 Ledyard street, was committed to Norwich State hospital, Saturday, after he had been examined by physicians to determine his sanity. Johnson's commitment is for purpose of observation and is not permanent, unless his condition becomes such as to warrant indefinite restraint. Johnson was arrested Friday evening by Traffic Officer Frank Linehan, who was summoned to a state street pharmacy when Johnson attempted to purchase a quantity of lysol and carbolic acid, and when he was unable to give a reasonable excuse for purchasing the deadly poisons. It was afterwards ascertained that Johnson had caused a disturbance at his home, where he resided with his mother and during the row Johnson did damage to a piano. Johnson was arrested about three weeks ago charged with indecent assault, but he escaped prosecution by being turned over to the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

RUMORED NEW HAVEN R. R. PURCHASE LACKS FOUNDATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 11—For several days a rumor has been in circulation in New London that the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad had acquired two valuable realties and that the railroad intended to immediately cause an increase of trackage facilities on the sites, but inquiry at the offices of the railroad at New Haven brought the information that neither rumor had any foundation—in fact that the railroad had not negotiated for the acquisition of either site and was not interested in their purchase. One of the buildings mentioned as having been purchased by the railroad was the three-story brick structure on Water street, owned by the Connecticut Power company and once owned by the C. D. Boss company, former cracker manufacturers. It was rumored that the railroad would utilize this property by raising the building and causing additional tracks to be located on the site. The other site reported as having been acquired is the three-story brick structure on Pequot avenue occupied by the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company.

Chapell, Springfield, Mass.; a daughter, Mrs. Emma Thorpe, and a sister, Mrs. Jane Green, both of Waterford. Mrs. Chapell was born in Salem, Dec. 7, 1837, but had resided in Waterford practically her entire life. She was a member of the First Baptist church of this city for 70 years. She had been confined to her bed about six years, because of a fractured hip.

Mr. Barnes, pastor of the Salem Baptist church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Pleasant View cemetery, Hamburg.

Patrolman George Labous in making his rounds on Bank street late Friday night discovered an attempt having been made to burglarize the store of Harry Sheriff, at 470. The thief had gone to the rear of the store and had lowered a window by which means he believed that entrance could be gained, but wooden shutters on the inside, which were locked, frustrated the attempt of the crook. Sheriff was notified of the attempted break and went to the store where he secured the lowered window.

Walter Williams, 14 East street, drove his automobile to Woodbridge street Saturday morning and when he returned for it at 9:30 o'clock it was missing. Williams reported to the police that the automobile had been stolen and the state police at Groton and Centerbrook and the police of Norwich, Westerly, Hartford, New Haven and Middletown were asked to mail a watch for the machine. Two hours afterwards, Williams in walking through Bank street, found the auto parked beside the curb.

But few arrests were made by the police over Saturday night, in fact but three men, who stepped from the straight and narrow path got into the clutches of the law. Two arrested were charged with intoxication and the third is charged with vagrancy. He went to police headquarters and sought lodging. He is Jerry St. Germain, 60, a laborer, who has been a frequent applicant for lodging at police headquarters.

The snow storm of Friday caused heads of the street department to assign the full force of trucks and workers as well as about 50 unemployed men to the task of removing the snow from the streets, especially those streets in the center of the city. Yesterday and today every available truck owned by the city was put into service and today privately owned trucks were pressed into service. The shovelers were first assigned to the removal of the snow from State, Main, and Bank streets, the first named street having been relieved of the snow by nightfall yesterday. Today the snow was taken from Main and Bank streets, as well as from many of the intersecting streets. Crawn Golden Reach Masonic Church

Swashbuckling gallants, dastardly villains, brave men and fair women, in a dazzling, sure-fire, swift-moving romance of feudal Spain, credit Samuel Goldwyn with another one hundred per cent. success with "The Night of Love" and definitely place George Fitzmaurice as one of the ten best directors of the year.

The picture, which opened at the Breed theatre last night makes another "knockout" for Samuel Goldwyn's famous team, Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky. Colman never looked more handsome than he does as the brave and romantic Spanish bandit seeking revenge against the dastardly duke for the murder of his childhood sweetheart.

The story opens with a marvelously beautiful gypsy wedding sequence wherein Ronald Colman as a gypsy prince, returned from wanderings in far countries, is about to take unto himself a bride of his people. The ceremony is most impressive, and the denouement when the duke kidnaps the little bride had the audience fairly trembling with emotion. Miss Leska Winter was beautiful as the gypsy bride, giving true pathos to the scenes where she kills herself rather than return to her own people an outraged woman. Hardened and obsessed by a desire for vengeance, Colman turns bandit and with a heart of hate harries the duke.

The final punch of the story with the gypsy bandit facing death at the stake and the miracle which saves his life had the audience nearly standing on their seats with excitement.

Altogether the play has everything which goes to make up a perfect photoplay and even the comedy moments injected by Hyman and the grotesque little jester serve to round out its perfection.

Palace Theatre.

Douglas Fairbanks as The Gaucho, which opened at the Palace theatre last night, is a story designed for the motion picture audiences of the world, according to the statement of the star himself.

In appearing in his fourth role of a robber chief, Doug performs with his usual bravado and daring. He has chosen one of the most picturesque parts of the world for his scenes, and a colorful character in the gaucho rider of the Andean border.

There is the rich flavor of romance in Douglas Fairbanks as The Gaucho and one gets vivid impressions of adventurous pampas life. The story is one of rivalry between a bandit chief (Fairbanks) and a dictator (von Seyffertitz) with his commandante (Vavitch) to seize the riches of a city grown about a shrine where miracles of healing occur. The bandit falls under the spell of a wild village girl (Lupe Velez) and later a fair pilgrim of the shrine (Eve Southern). His treacherous lieutenant (Charlie Stevens) has his force dismissed, and a series of adventures leading to the capture and escape of Doug, and the wild ride of his dusky hordes led by the madcap, and the saving of the shrine girl and her padre protector from the scaffold, contribute toward a real evening's entertainment.

The picture has been directed by F. Richard Jones. The story comes from Fairbanks himself, who got the idea of the shrine when visiting Our Lady of Lourdes in France.

Packard Auto

The Packard Motor Car company has announced a complete new line of its eight cylinder cars to be known as the Packard Standard Eight. Information of the new car's advent March 1 was given a short time in advance to distributors and dealers who, foreseeing the great possibilities it offered, placed orders with the factory in such numbers that the scheduled production had to be doubled in an effort to meet them.

Many thousands of persons, Packard executives believe, want the maximum in power and comfort obtainable through the Packard Eight but at the same time do not desire the super-luxuries of custom bodies. It is for these car owners, they explain, that the new Packard Standard Eight has been introduced.

The new car is said to have everything in performance, comfort and ease of driving that have placed the Packard Custom Eight on a pinnacle among the fine cars of the world. It is being offered in a wide selection of colors and with upholstering, fittings and all other refinements up to Packard's thirty-year-old standard.

Packard men say the addition of the new line of beautiful standard eights makes possible the widest choice among fine automobiles. Packard cars are now available in 53 different body types, including the long and short wheelbase Packard Six, the Packard Custom Eight, the Individual Custom Eight and the new Standard Eight.

The new cars fill a most desirable place in rounding out the complete Packard selection in the fine car field. They close a gap by fulfilling the wants of the growing number of people who use their automobiles for travelling. Trips covering hundreds of miles are the rule now rather than the exception with motor cars on the open road. Because of this the large car is taking on added importance among those who want the maximum in both mental and physical ease.

Prices on the new Packard Standard Eight range from $3450 for the four-passenger runabout and the five-passenger phaeton to $3850 for the seven-passenger sedan limousine.

If deliveries for the months of January and February are any indication, the popularity of the Packard car during 1928 bids fair to exceed that of any previous year. The Packard Motor Car company of New York report a phenomenal increase of 70 per cent for January and 101 per cent for February over those of the first two months of 1927.

POETRY

Take Time to Pray

"Pray ye."—Matt. 6:9. "Men ought always to pray."—Luke 18:1. "Pray without ceasing."—2 Thess. 5:17.

Take time to pray; take time to talk with God;
Take time to ponder o'er His Holy Word;
Take time the Spirit's "still, small voice" to hear;
Take time to learn life's waving course to steer.

Take time to pray, in close communion sweet;
Take time to sit and learn at Jesus' feet;
Take time to pause, and lay your burdens down;
Take time to lift the cross, and win the crown.

Take time at morning, noon and night to pray,
As hour speeds after hour and day on day—
How strange it is that we should dare to run
Alone one single hour from sun to sun!

Oft we oft "come apart and rest a while,"
Refreshment would be sure; the Master's smile
Would cheer each moment and would strength impart,
And calm the stress and strain of every heart.

Take time to tell Him, then, your grief and fears;
Take time to thank Him for the joy that cheers;
Take time to "wait on Him," and He will share
Each joy, each grief, each burden and each care.

Take time to pray; take time to holy be;
Take time to talk with God, in secrecy;
Take time to listen to His voice today;
Take time to seek His face; take time to pray.

A Song From the Suds

Queen of my tub, I merrily sing,
While the white foam rises high;
And sturdily wash and rinse and wring,
And fasten the clothes to dry;
Then out in the free fresh air they swing,
Under the sunny sky.

"I wish we could wash from our hearts and souls
The stains of the week away,
And let water and air by their magic make Ourselves as pure as they;
Then on the earth there would be indeed
A glorious washing-day!

"Along the path of a useful life
Will heart's-ease ever bloom;
The busy mind has no time to think
Of sorrow or care or gloom;
And anxious thoughts may be swept away,
As we bravely wield a broom.

"I am glad a task to me is given,
To labor at day by day;
For it brings me health and strength and hope,
And I cheerfully learn to say:
'Head, you may think; Heart, you may feel,
But, Hand, you shall work away!'"

—Louisa M. Alcott

WELL DIGGING SUIT HEARD BY JUDGE WALLER

Judge Charles B. Waller took the papers and reserved decision in the $150 damage suit brought by Thomas W. Kenn against John Radzwilovicz, both of Uncasville, which was tried in the court of common pleas in New London Saturday.

The plaintiff sued for services rendered in excavating a well for the defendant in the summer of 1925 by the use of dynamite.

The witnesses were Thomas W. Kenn, Stanley Kenn and Frank Anderson for the plaintiff and John Radzwilovicz, John Przylnig and Kenneth H. Holmes.

BIG MASS MEETING CONGREGATION HEARS ADDRESS BY MISS SLATTERY

Miss Margaret Slattery, widely known speaker, addressed a congregation of one thousand people at the Central Baptist church Sunday evening under the auspices of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. Seldom has the church held such a large congregation. The service was scheduled to open at 7:30 o'clock but by 7:15 o'clock every seat in the main auditorium and the gallery was filled and it was necessary to throw open the sliding doors between the auditorium and Bushnell chapel in order to accommodate the overflow and all available chairs in the chapel were pressed into service. It was Miss Slattery's second address here Sunday, as during the afternoon she spoke before a gathering of 500 or 600 young people at the Sunday school rooms of the United Congregational church.

Herbert W. Carey, acting president of the Norwich Y. M. C. A., was the leader at the evening service. Rev David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the church, led the responsive reading and also offered the prayer. Following the offertory and the singing of a hymn, President Cary introduced Miss Slattery who has been heard in Norwich under Y. M. C. A. auspices annually for several years past. She spoke on the subject, Time and an Hour, and throughout her address held the close attention of all. God has time, said Miss Slattery. I have not. If I had time there would be so many things I could do. She said that almost all of us accept time as a matter of course, but that we do not stop to think that many races do not reckon time as we do.

I think one of the most interesting things of life is the moment in your life when you really know that you don't know. Why should we hate each other? Why should we misunderstand each other? I don't think we are a hard, wicked and materialistic people, she said.

With reference to the presence of United States marines in Nicaragua, Miss Slattery said: If a group of men have the right to send marines to Nicaragua to supervise elections, I do wish they would send some of them out to Illinois. What would happen if a group of marines were sent to Chicago to superise elections? Have we the right to send marines to other countries to supervise elections when we don't dare to supervise, by force, elections within our own boders?

After speaking of a personal traffic light incident in Malden when a red light, set against her, detained her, despite the fact that there was no traffic to interfere with her progress, when she was in a hurry, Miss Slattery predicted that the time is coming when "blinking, winking red and green lights" will be in the air as well as on the ground. No individual has the right to so act that his acts will be a menace to any other living soul, she said. That is the univyersal law.

Miss Slattery said that there will come a day when man will be free of disease. There is no question about it, she said. We know the slums are going very fast. She spoke of a number of interesting experiences she had while at the Lausanne conference.

I think the people who believe that when they die, it is the end, haven't started to live, said the speaker. You have to do some things you don't want to and you have to let go some of the things you want to keep. The people who do things never run around telling what they have done. That takes too much time. If you hear a person telling everybody what they have done or are going to do you can make up your mind that the things are not very important.

After speaking of the many new inventions, the great strides in science, etc., Miss Slattery said that sometime we are going to become so overcrowded with religious interpretations that we will have to leave out some of the unessentials so that we will have time to see what God says.

Afternoon Meeting

The afternoon meeting was held at 4 o'clock in the rooms of the Sunday school of the United Congregational church. This was a meeting for young people and the attendance was between 500 and 600. The large attendance was largely the result of the activity of the Norwich Girls council, Mrs. A. C. Freeman, president, who through a team contest, spread the word through the various churches that Miss Slattery was to speak to the young people at a special service and the response of the young people was very gratifying. Every church but one represented on the two teams was represented, as the roll call showed. There were 363 council members present in the audience.

Miss Slattery spoke in a most interesting and very instructive manner on the topic, The Tide, taken from Shakespeare. Miss Viola Hill presided at the piano for the meeting. At the close of the meeting the young people adjourned to Bushnell chapel at the Central Baptistic hurch, for refreshments, after which they remained for the evening service at that church.

Refreshments of sandwiches, home made cake and punch, were served to over 350 young people by the Central Baptist social committee, Ledlie Pitt chairman. Mrs. Jennie Davis, Mrs. Willis Hill, Mrs. E. W. Phillips, Miss Nellie Howie, and 25 girls prepared the refreshments.

After the refreshments were served the young people sang gospel hymns and Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve exhibited the friendship doll ambassador from Japan and told the story connected with the doll ambassador. Rev. Dr. Pitt led an instructive and interesting discussion. Dwight Richardson presided at the piano, for the singing of the hymns.

HOPPE IS RECOVERING FROM BULLET WOUND

Stephen Hoppe, alias George F. Bersig, who was shot through the lung in Hartford by Policeman Daniel J. Hurley when he attempted to escape arrest there on Feb. 20, is now able to eat solid foods and is also able to sit up a little and read, it was said at the Hartford county jail Saturday afternoon. "He likes to read stories in the magazines," it was said. He was recently removed from St. Francis hospital to the jail hospital when it was feared by the police that he might make his escape from the former institution. When he was first admitted to the institution he was reported in a dying condition.

Hoppe, who is wanted for breaking out of prisons in Maine and Vermont and for a series of burglaries in Connecticut and elsewhere since "leaving" these prisons, is to be given a hearing in the Hartford police court March 16. It was said that he may be able to leave his cell at the jail this week for arraignment in court. It is possible that a bench warrant may be requested for Hoppe's appearance in the superior criminal court to plead. The charge against him in Hartford is having burglar tools in his possession and it is planned to present him as an habitual criminal. The police of Quincy, Mass., are also endeavoring to link Hoppe with the murder of a police officer in that city.

Hoppe was caught when a Hartford policeman saw in his automobile a number of rolls of money which had been stolen from the safe of the Palace theatre in this city.

RESERVES DECISION IN $1,000 SUIT OVER HEATER

Judge Charles B. Waller in the court of common pleas at New London Saturday, took the papers and reserved decision in the $1,000 damage suit brought by Elizabeth Warner of that city against Louis and Bessie Cohen.

The suit arose over the installation and sale of an oil-burning heating system at 32 Walden avenue when the plaintiff, then doing business as the F. L. Warner Manufacturing Co., and the defendants entered into a contract whereby the system was to be put in and the defendants were to pay $600, $50 down, $50 at the time of installation, $100 on Oct. 1, 1926, and three payments of $100 each thereafter.

At the time of the contract the defendants were not married and Louis Cohen made the agreement, acting for Bessie. They have since been married. The plaintiff claims that but $200 has been paid.

The defendants set up that the system was defective, and that they were obliged to spend large sums of money for repairs, finally being obliged to buy a new heater. The defendants asked for $500 in a counter claim.

TAFTVILLE

The funeral of Mrs. Beatrice Chamberlain Chaput was held Saturday morning from the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Bonin of Norwich avenue, at 9.15 followed by a solemn high mass of requiem at Sacred Heart church at 9.45. Rev. Omer T. Mandier was celebrant of the mass, Rev. Frederick R. DesEurseault was deacon and Rev. Henri T. Cragnon was sub-deacon. Miss Alice Frechette presided at the organ and friends of the deceased acted as bearers. Burial was in the family lot at St. Mary's cemetery in Lisbon where Rev. Father Chagnon read the committal service. Undertaker George G. Grant was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Funeral services for Miss Mathilde Stapfer, for 28 years a teacher at the Wequonnoc school, were held Sunday afternoon at 2.30 at the Taftville Congregational church, with Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church officiating. The church was filled with sorrowing friends of Miss Stapfer, many of her former pupils being present. Beautiful floral forms were grouped about the casket. Miss Nellie S. Howie, organist at the church was at the organ. The bearers were Alexander Miller, Albert J. Aberg, George N. Beardow, Clarence J. Nagle, Bryan Hanlon and George H. Young. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where Rev. Mr. Ricketts read the committal. Undertaker George G. Grant had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Old timers of the village noted Sunday that it was just 40 years ago that the villagers experienced the famous blizzard of '88. The storm began at 11 o'clock on the night of the 11th, which in that year, as in this, was Sunday. At first there was a light rain which quickly changed to snow. The snow continued with increasing severity all night and all day on the 12th. The storm was driven by a fierce wind that made it dangerous even to try to walk on the streets. Drifts reached as high as 15 feet. In those days, the textile plants shut down for the day at 6.15, and when the Ponemah mills stopped for the day on the 12th, the employes had quite a problem to reach their homes. Many of them, although residing only a short distance from the mill gates, lost their sense of direction entirely because of the blinding storm, and following along Norwich avenue continued walking until they reached Taft's station where they were obliged to spend the night around the station's big hospitable stove.

The mission in French which has been conducted by two missioners at Sacred Heart church for the past two weeks came to an end Sunday. The first week was preaching for the women and girls of the parish, the second week being for the men and boys. Large congregations have attended each service which closed each evening with benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

With Scoutmaster Victor H. Davis presiding, the regular weekly meeting of the members of Troop 3 ,Boy Scouts was held Friday evening in the recreation rooms in the basement of the Taftville Congregational church.

Friends in the village are receiving cards from Mrs. Ernest Gottlieb Stranz of London, the former Miss Elsie Seddon of this town, who is now at Lucerne, Switzerland, enjoying the winter sports in the Alps. After visits to Geneva and Lausanne, Mr. and Mrs. Strang are to return to their home in England.

Harold E. Lindstrom of Providence street and Earle M. Wood of North Third avenue were in Providence on Thursday evening to attend a dinner given at the Hotel Providence-Biltmore by George F. Lewis of Newport.

Slippery snows made post office hill a scene of excitement Friday afternoon when cars and trucks of all descriptions were balked in their attempts to make the grade. State highway scrapers had the main thoroughfares of the town open for travel Saturday morning and the plows of the Ponemah company had all the sidewalks of the village cleared.

A letter for Fred LaPlante, unknown to the postmaster is being held at the local post office.

HOUSE VOTES TO ALLOCATE BROADCASTING STATIONS

Passed Senate Bill to Extend For One Year the Life of the Radio Commission, With an Amendment Providing For Equal Distribution of Stations Among the States Upon the Basis of Population—Measure Now Goes Back to the Senate For Consideration of the House Revision.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—With an amendment proposing a drastic change in existing broadcasting system—an equal distribution of stations among the states and territories upon the basis of population—the house passed a senate bill today to extend for one year the life of the federal radio commission.

The measure now must go back to the senate for consideration of the house revision. Under its present grant, the commission will cease to exist Thursday.

Just before final passage, the house approved the amendment by a vote of 226 to 133. This vote found the membership split in a general way along "country" and "city" lines, the former supporting the proposal to distribute stations according to population.

For two days a stormy debate has been waged over the amendment and the final vote today was preceded by an unsuccessful effort of opponents to eliminate the proposal, on the ground that it raised an issue not covered by the bill's enacting clause—extension of the commission's life.

Representative Chindblom, republican, presiding, sustained this contention, but an appeal from his decision immediately was noted by Crisp, a Georgia democrat, who after a brief speech, demanded a vote and succeeded in reversing the decision, 168 to 140.

The extended debate touched upon virtually all uses of the radio, including a reference to that made by politicians. Representative La Guardia, republican, New York, one of the few members representing city districts who supported the proposal, urged his New York democrats to take a "national viewpoint when the eyes of the nation are turned to our state," presumably referring to Governor Smith.

Supporters of the amendment, which was sponsored by Representative Davis, democrat, Tennessee, charged the concentration of the radio stations in New York and other large cities was to benefit an alleged monopoly in the industry which they cited consisted of the General Electric, the American Telephone and Telegraph, and Westinghouse companies, and the Radio corporation.

In addition to the Davis proposal, two other changes to the senate bill were adopted. They would provide for the reduction of the term of broadcasting licenses from six to three months, and other stations from one year to six months and elimination of a provision whereby the commission could be continued by appointment of its members.

The house, however, discarded by parliamentary maneuvering three other proposed amendments. One by La Guardia sought to limit advertising over the radio to six minutes out of every hour; another by Griffin, democrat, New York, suggested equal allocation of stations by population "as far as practicable," while a third by Cellar, another New York democrat, proposed that the federal government compensate any radio stations that might be closed up as a result of the Davis amendment.

The main contention of the proponents of the Davis amendment was that the present arrangement of broadcasting stations prevented development of the science and "infant industry" in other sections than the large centers of population. They claimed that the radio commission was inclined to consider more favorably the applications for power from the large cities than from the rural sections of the country.

Davis said, during the debate, that of the five broadcasting zones into which the country is divided the first zone including New York, New England and other North Atlantic states with a population of about 23,000,000 has a power allotment of 202,400 watts distributed among 95 stations. He said that the south or third zone with 25,000,000 population had 88 stations and 45,570 watts.

He asserted that New York received the "lion's share of the power of the country while the south and other sections had expressed their interest in the industry by making "two times as many applications for stations as New York." He also claimed that the "large stations operated by the radio monopoly" had the best channels of the air and "hetrodyned" or interfered with the smaller stations' programs.

Chairman White of the merchant marine committee which handled the legislation, together with Davis, bore the brunt of the advocacy of the proposal. White argued that the existing system meant broadcasting service for one section alone and also stressed that the concentration of the power in the east placed "a major share of the nations facilities in the hands of the monopoly."

Gifford of Massachusetts and Clancy of Michigan, two republicans of the committee, opposed the amendment. Clancy declared that it would upset the existing system and asserted that the proposal was "wild and fantastic" and was given only hasty consideration without hearings by the committee.

Bloom and Boylan, two New York democrats, argued for the large cities' stations, declared that they could give the country the "best musical talent and entertainment" whereas the smaller communities could not command noted performers.

CHAUFFEUR ADMITS SLAYING THREE MEMBERS OF FAMILY

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex., March 12—(AP)—Admission that he slew three members of the family by whom he had been employed as a chauffeur for four years was made today by Newton Byrnes, 24.

The bodies of Mrs. J. E. Juergens, her daughter, Myra, 13, and Mrs. Juergen's mother, Mrs. Rosa Schirra, were found in San Angelo yesterday at the family residence, more than a week after they had been struck down and killed with a hatchet.

Within a few hours after the finding of the victims, Byrnes was arrested on suspicion by authorities of Sulphur Springs. He signed a statement today confessing the crime. A quarrel about a check to which Byrnes said he had signed the names of one of his victims preceded the triple slaying on March 3, said the statement.

Mrs. Juergens was slain first, he asserted. Her daughter, who was in the room at the time, was next struck down and Mrs. Schirra was killed when she entered, the statement to the officers said.

After the killings, Byrnes spent the night in a San Angelo hotel and before leaving the city returned to the Juergens home and ransacked it, taking $40 and some jewelry, he admitted.

Byrnes, was taken from the city by officers tonight. Their destination was believed to be Fort Worth, where the hatchet used in the slaying had been taken for photographing of finger-prints.

District Attorney J. Sutton of San Angelo said a special term of court would be called there to dispose of the case.

OFFER OF AIRPORT ON THE MORTON F. PLANT ESTATE

HARTFORD, March 12—(AP)—Connecticut's bid for New London as the American terminal of the proposed four-day trans-Atlantic steamship service has been increased by the offer of an airport site in Groton, on the former Morton F. Plant estate, it was learned today. The state board of finance and control, at the instance of Governor Trumbull, has authorized the taking of an option on the property, and the governor has demonstrated the advantages of the site to officials of the Brown-Boveri corportion which will operate the steamship line, by displaying maps of the site at two conferences he has had with the corporation's officials.

MOUNT SERRAT LANDSLIDES STILL MENACE RESIDENTS

SANTOS, Brazil, March 12—(AP)—Mount errat, which towers to the right of the port of Santos, still menaces the residents many of whom have withdrawn from the section where additional landslides may occur.

Hundreds of thousands of cubic yards of the mountain swept down upon the lower section of the city Saturday overwhelming homes and burying, it is feared, 200 persons. Up to noon today 72 bodies had been recovered—49 adults and 23 children. At that time 2,000 volunteers were engaged in the work of removing the vast accumulation of debris, in what is considered now an almost futile attempt to rescue many wounded who may be beneath the wreckage.

The great slide was due to recent rains, which loosened the earth.

ROOMING HOUSE MISTRESS KILLED; NIECE WOUNDED

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—A rooming house mistress was fatally shot and her niece and nephew wounded tonight by a man said by police to have been the niece's estranged husband.

The woman, Mrs. Elsie Walkley, 32, was shot through the heart and killed instantly. Her niece, Hazel de Rosa, 27, was seriously wounded in the head. The nephew, Theodore Walkley, escaped with wounds in the leg and thigh.

Police said that Ernest de Rosa, 23, the younger woman's husband, was ejected from the upper West Side rooming house one night last week by a patrolman summoned by the aunt. Tonight, Walkley said, De Rosa entered the basement with a pass key, shot the three, and escaped.

MAY ENTER LOWDEN IN MARYLAND PRIMARIES

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Supporters of Frank O. Lowden are considering the advisability of entering him in the republican presidential primarie sin Maryland. If this should be done it would result in a test of strength between the former Illinois governor and Herbert Hoover, whose name already has been filed.

Clarence F. Buck of Chicago, in charge of the Lowden for president movement, conferred here today with various members of congress, who lean toward Lowden; and also talked over the Maryland situation with some leaders from that state, among them Thomas Parran, a former member of congress.

Cardinal Mundelein carried with him a check for $1,500,000 from American donors for the removal of the college of propaganda to a less congested section of Rome. This he presented to the pope, who asked him to convey a special blessing on all those who had contributed.

The cardinal was received at the entrance to the vatican with military honors rendered by a detachment of the Swiss guard.

Villages in Southern Section of England Cut Off From the Outside World.

LONDON, March 12—(AP)—Britain is experiencing a s[illegible] arctic weather, and for the se[illegible] this winter a number of [illegible] in the southern section of [illegible] have been cut off from the [illegible] world by snowdrifts.

The streets of London are covered with snow and ice. A bus slid sideways several yards down a hill and twice turned completely around.

Railway traffic has not been interfered with much by the storm. When the snowfall began special trains were sent out to keep the tracks clear.

Masters of channel vessels report that snow has fallen all along the English coast, the land resembling one immense field of snow. Decks of channel lightships are covered with snow up to the gunwales.

The heaviest snowfall of the year occurred in the lake district, where six inches fell this morning. Snow is more than a foot deep in the mountains which now look like an Alpine snow-capped range.

The North Sea is being swept by frequent snow squalls. The Belgian steamship Kabolo out of Antwerp went aground in the blizzard near Rye, Kent, early this morning but got off under her own power and continued her voyage.

"Walsh is expected to take the Montana delegation with him ao the convention and while I would like to see him win, there is no use talking of such a dubious circumstance. Smith has the northwest solid. The issue is not prohibition, but liberalization. This is the keynote of democracy and includes a change in the eighteenth amendment and relief to the farmers. If the party does these things it will win."

Charges Against the Penn. Railroad Co.

Statement Made by the General Manager of the Roseville, Ohio, Coal Company.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Confining its attention to charges by the United Mine Workers that the railroads are in conspiracy to break unionism in the coal fields, the senate committee investigating the bituminous industry today obtained the first testimony aimed to support that allegation.

Thomas Sagle, general manager of the Roseville, Ohio, Coal company, declared the Pennsylvania railroad "wilfully and maliciously" sought to put his concern out of business by withdrawing a siding near its mine and discontinuing purchases of its fuel mined by union labor. These actions occurred, he said, after he had been told by Henry Owens, purchasing agent, that the railroad "would not pay any price for coal to any operator which would make possible paying salaries in accordance with the Jacksonville agreement."

Chester Penrod, Crooksville, Ohio, president of the Robinson Coal company, testified that Owens had notified him by telegraph from Chicago that no coal mined by his firm would be purchased by the Pennsylvania railroad unless notices were posted at the mine "that the United Mine Workers would be recognized in no way."

Frank J. Bender, union officer at Zanesville, Ohio, then detailed the situation in the Crooksville district, declaring that several coal companies there had signed agreements with the union in the hope of renewing operations after the strike called on April 1, 1927.

"When they tried to have their Pennsylvania railroad fuel contracts renewed," he added, "they were either informed by the railroad company or the broker who sold their coal for them that the United Miners could not get fuel contracts from the Pennsylvania Railroad company."

Other coal companies in the Crooksville district operating on the New York Central Border continued, "were furnishing this railroad with fuel orders, and the price was cut so low that the coal companies were compelled to close their mines because they could not meet the low price set by the railroad company."

"These mines," he said, "are not equipped to load other than run of mine coal which is the grade mostly used by the railroads for their fuel.

"Other concerns do not want this grade of coal, therefore the operators of these mines had no other alternative but to close their mines."

SIMPLE FUNERAL RITES FOR RODMAN WANAMAKER

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—(AP)—Rodman Wanamaker, son of the late John Wanamaker, was buried today.

Simple services were held in St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal church and at the grave side in the cemetery of St. James the Less. A large throng attended the services, including delegations from many cities of which the largest was that which came from New York in a special train.

Admission to the church was by card and a large crowd without tickets was unable to gain admission.

The body of Mr. Wanamaker, who died at his Atlantic City villa last Friday, was brought to the church from Lindenhurst, his suburban home in Jenkintown. Personal or business associates acted as active pall bearers. At St. Mark's the body was met by a large body of honorary pall bearers.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Frank L. Vernon, rector of the church, and were simple in keeping with the wishes of Mr. Wanamaker. Included in the music was the hymn "Peace" the music for which had been composed by Mr. Wanamaker.

All the members of the family were present with the exception of Mrs. Gurnee Munn, a daughter, who is in Egypt.

Mr. Wanamaker was buried by the side of his father and mother.

"BABY FACED BANDIT" WAS EXECUTED IN CHARLESTOWN

BOSTON, March 13—(AP)—Herbert J. Gleason, known as the "Baby Faced Bandit," was executed in the electric chair at the state prison in Charlestown shortly after midnight this morning for the murder of James A. Monagle, a Medford storekeeper, during an attempted holdup.

The 20-year old youth was calm as he went to the chair and displayed no more emotion than when he heard the death sentence pronounced on him two months ago. In a statement just before he was taken into the death chamber he said he was ready to die and asked forgiveness of all whom he might have injured.

MELLON TO APPEAR BEFORE TEAPOT DOME COMMITTEE

Secretary of the Treasury Has Accepted the Committee's Call and Will Submit Himself For Questioning—W. M. Butler, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, Will Appear Before the Senate Lands Committee in in Its Investigation of Campaign Contributions and Their Connection With the Teapot Dome Oil Transactions.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—Spreading the nets of its inquiry, the senate Teapot Dome committee tomorrow will reach into President Coolidge's cabinet for a witness for the first time since Edwin Denby, then secretary of the navy, was called in 1923.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, accepted the committee's call today and will submit himself to questioning as to why he declined to use the $50,000 of Continental Trading company Liberty bonds sent to him by Will H. Hays in 1923 for employment in helping to extinguish the republican national committee deficit.

Moreover, the committee will ask the treasury secretary why he did not volunteer information as to this transaction with Hays, who is also under committee call, his third summons from the oil investigators.

A third witness placed under summons is William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, chairman of the republican national committee, and manager of President Coolidge's campaign in 1924. Butler has informed the committee by telegraph that he never received any political contributions from either Hays or Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, who turned over $260,000 in Liberty bonds to Hays in 1923 for use in securing the debt of the republican party.

Secretary Mellon already has informed the committee by letter of the physical aspects of his refusal to accept the Sinclair bonds sent to him by Hays as security for his own contribution of $50,000 toward extinguishing the party deficit.

What the committee desires now to know is details of the conversation which Mellon had with Hays and after which the treasury secretary declined to make use of the bonds as Hays had suggested.

Chairman Nye said the investigators would insist upon knowing Mellon's reason for that rejection and whether Hays had in any way indicated that these particular bonds figured in ahe Teapot Dome oil lease to Sinclair. Hays has testified that when he solicited the huge contribution from Sinclair he had no knowledge as to the Continental Trading company, some of the bonds of which Sinclair previously had delivered to Albert B. Fall, interior secretary at the time Teapot Dome was leased.

Besides the half million dollars in Continental bonds which Sinclair is now known to have handled, the committee has traced $800,000 to Harry M. Blackmer and $700,000 to James E. O'Neil, wealthy American oil men, who are self-exiled from the United States and under court and committee subpoena in connection with the oil cases.

At the moment, however, the committee is pursuing that aspect of the trail of the Continental bonds which ramifies in and out of the republican national committee deficit settlement in 1923 in advance of the presidential campaign of 1924.

Secretary Mellon will be the first witness at the opening of the hearing tomorrow. He probably will be followed by Hays, who was chairman of the republican committee during the Harding campaign in 1920, and then Butler, the present chairman, will be called.

BUTLER TO APPEAR BEFORE SENATE LOANS COMMITTEE

BOSTON, March 12—(AP)—William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, left for Washington tonight to appear before the senate lands committee in its investigation of campaign contributions and their connection with the Teapot Dome oil transactions.

Butler had no statement to make regarding his connection with the matter, beyond that contained in a telegram to Senator Walsh in which he denied receiving any bonds or contributions from Will H. Hays or Harry F. Sinclair.

"I prefer to say nothing until I testify before the committee," Butler said.

LETTER WRITTEN BORAH BY CHAIRMAN BUTLER

BOSTON, March 12—(AP)—William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, tonight made the text of a letter which he wrote to Senator Borah declaring that neither he nor the committee, had, during his incumbency, received securities or money mentioned in the senate lands committee Teapot Dome investigation. Mr. Butler left for Washington tonight to appear before the senate committee.

"Senator Borah's statement issued yesterday in Washington is a one-sided affair," he said. "He produced a copy of certain portions of a letter which he wrote to met, but did not give my letter to the press, as he had a perfect right to do and as he should have done if he was going to publish his own letter.

"Mr. Borah says this letter is unsatisfactory. It may be from his point of view but not from mine. I prefer to be deliberate, well informed as to the facts, and just, rather than injudicious, and precipitate."

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP)—Charles E. Hughes and other counsel, representing the state of Connecticut, New York and Massachusetts, appeared in the United States supreme court today to argue a case involving the right of one state to impose an inheritance or succession tax upon intangible property in another state.

The question arose in the administration of the estate of Robert B. Hirsch, a citizen of Connecticut who died there leaving a large estate, most of it located in New York city.

Connecticut imposed an inheritance tax upon it, and was sustained by the courts of that state so far as the intangible property was concerned, but was denied the right to tax certain tangible property consisting of United States bonds and treasury certificates.

TELEPHONE CO. TO SPEND $97,000 ON LOCAL PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 12—The Southern New England Telephone company makes the announcement that about $97,000 will be expended during the year for extensions and improvements on the local plant. The plans call for providing facilities to meet the increasing telephone service demands for a number of years. The announcement made through Exchange Manager John C. Frazier itemized the proposed constructions as follows: Additions to the central office equipment which will provide facilities for an expected large increase in the number of subscribers, cost about $27,000; exchange aerial and underground cable to cost $32,000; subscribers' station equipment to cost $15,000 and poles, wire and miscellaneous small jobs at an estimated cost of $23,000. The expenditures do not include the maintenance expenses for the current year for the existing plant. In advancing the belief that telephone development is a splendid barometer of the business activities of a community, Manager Frazier said: "How Willimantic has grown in the past ten years is evidenced by the increase in the number of telephones in use in this exchange during that period. At the end of 1927 there were 4,050 telephones serving subscribers in this exchange. This is a net gain of about 100 per cent in ten years and reflects on the growing business of the city. The expected net gain in telephones during 1928 is 175. On an average day there are about 19,000 originating calls in the local exchange."

TOWN MEETING LAYS TAX OF 14 MILLS; LOWER THAN 1927

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 12—At a largely attended special town meeting held tonight in the town hall the 14 mill tax rate was levied on the grand list of 1927. The motion for that rate was made by Robert O. Snow, who presented figures to show that the town administration would have sufficient funds to work with that rate. The grand list has been placed at $17,771,201, which is between $300,000 and $400,000 lower than 1926, the reduction being caused by the decrease in stock of the industrial plants. The tax rate last year was 14 1-3 mills, the half mill being used to purchase five acres of land from the American Thread company known as the Oak Grove for school purposes. The budget for this year calls for $319,000. A 14 mill tax will bring in something like $250,000. There are, however, other sources of income including school tuition from the outside towns, state enumeration grant, personal taxes, dog licenses, etc., which bring in about $62,000. It was planned this year to pay $38,000 for the mill property at the corner of Bank and Valley streets for a trade school. Another matter which was scheduled to be taken up at the special meeting in response to a petition of 20 voters was to devise ways and means and take proper steps to bring about a revaluation of the town property. Dr. George E. Wilcox, a former assessor, arose on this point and moved that no steps be taken for a revaluation at this time owing to the unstability of the industries in the city which would forbid a reliable report by a committee. The matter was squelched. First Selectman Ernest P. Chesebro presided, and Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, who has just returned from a stay in Florida read the warning.

The Fightingest Oil that ever tamed heat

—announcing the new line of super heat-resisting Veedol Motor Oils

THE new high-speed, high-compression motors present a new and difficult problem in lubrication. To solve that problem Tide Water has re-formulated the entire line of Veedol Motor Oils. These new oils are heavier, tougher, longer-lived. They not only lubricate the new type motors safely and correctly but they are better oils for any motor.

These new Veedol oils give:

1 Greater motor protection (heavier body and added heat resistance).

2 Greater mileage (being heavier, they last longer).

3 Greater economy (they cut operating costs and reduce wear, tear and repair on the engine).

Let the new Veedol oils prove those claims. Stop today at the first orange and black Veedol sign you see. Have your crankcase drained and refilled with Veedol. Then watch results. Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, 11 Broadway, New York City.

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY LAYS TAX OF 24 1-2 MILLS ON LIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 12—Only about 50 came out tonight for the adjourned annual town meeting in the town hall for the purpose of passing on the budget as compiled by the selectmen and fixing the tax rate for the present year. Because the budget has been printed in different newspapers the reading of it was waived and on motion of Attorney E. L. Darbie it was adopted without opposition and the motion that followed fixing the tax rate at 24 1-2 mills also was passed unopposed. The third Monday in April was specified as the time when the tax is due and collectible. Attorney Harry E. Back was chairman of the meeting and Frank T. Preston, clerk. The meeting was in session less than five minutes.

On Friday of this week the quarterly meeting of the poultry division of the Windham County Farmers' association is to be held at Grange hall in Brooklyn. There are to be morning and afternoon sessions and particularly valuable programs for both.

An outstanding feature of this meeting is to be the lectures given by F. L. Hannaford of Manchester, N. H., a man with a real practical knowledge of poultry feeds and poultry feeding. He has supervised numerous feeding experiments for poultry, and has established a wide-spread reputation.

At the opening of the meeting at 10.15 a. m., Roy E. Jones, poultry specialist at Storrs, is to talk on the Care and Management of Young Stock. He will be followed by Mr. Hannaford, whose morning session subject will be Choosing Proper Ingredients for the Feed Mixture. The closing period in the morning will be taken up by County Agent F. L. Davis, whose subject will be a summary of the "Grow Healthy Chicks Plan."

The noon hour will be given over to the enjoyment of box lunches.

Opening of the afternoon session at one o'clock will bring a unique feature of this poultrymen's meeting. It is to consist of judging and discussion of the exhibits of feed hoppers adaptable for different aged chicks. Those attending the meeting are to bring hoppers they are using for entry and discussion.

At 2 o'clock Mr. Hannaford will speak again, his subject Practical Poultry Feeding.

The Poultry Business in North New England and Canada, an address presented with slides, will be given by Mr. Jones. During the closing session there is to be a special feature question box, and a list of questions will be passed out to all in attendance.

Comes another version of how the name Dark Lantern happens to be affixed to a long hill in the eastern section of the town near the Rhode Island border. It is altogether different than the one given in this column this morning. According to information made available this morning, spiritualistic meetings used to be held 70 or 80 years ago in a building at the hill. It appears that the gatherings of the spiritualists were noted by the iconoclastic youth of that period, and it was their practice to disturb the meetings with a bombardment of the building in which they were being held, stones, vegetables and what not entering into the fusilades. That, it is said, brought about the fitting of the building with wooden shutters through which openings something like the lighted shape of the moon in its first quarter were cut, and through these openings the light from within gleamed—suggesting the dark lantern of olden times. This version comes indirectly from a man now 85 years of age and who in his early years was a teacher at what was for a long time known as Dark Lantern hill school. Possibly there are other versions as to the origin of the name, a matter about which there appears to be quite general interest just now.

Major William McCleve, U. S. A., spent this afternoon checking over records at the state armory as a preliminary feature of the annual inspection of the Service battery this evening. His afternoon work also included inspection of the motor trucks kept in the armory garage.

This evening the officers and members of the Service battery assembled as for a regular drill and later were inspected as a company. Major Cleve including in his inspection work a number of questions as to the special duties of the men. The Service battery rates one of the most efficient organizations in the 192d Field Artillery.

Nature was engaged today in clearing Main street through a part of the business section of the piles of snow shoved out to the street edge by the plows working during Friday night and Saturday morning. These accumulations of snow banks after each heavy snow storm never fail to create more or less annoyance and are a source of danger because they narrow down the traveled way. Main street happens to be part of a trunk line. It is under the control of the state, for which fact about everyone is grateful excepting when heavy snows come. The snow was disappearing so rapidly today that it will cause little more inconvenience.

At poultry farms near Danielson fresh eggs were quoted today as low as 40 cents per dozen. A survey of where all the thousands of dozens of eggs being produced in this territory go to would no doubt reveal that the bulk of them are either taken out by producers, shipped out or collected by dealers that come here from various southern New England cities, and some of the eggs are sold in New York. However, the local demand is always very good, and is another outlet for the poultrymen.

Among the fishermen there is being born again the hope that they may catch some of the brown trout released in streams in the county a few years ago. It is estimated that these trout must have reached a weight of two to three pounds by this time, and anticipated that they will furnish exciting moments for any angler that happens to hook them.

When Danielson's Cleanup week comes in the early days of May it is hoped to be one of the most effective ever carried out here. Last year the public generally failed to respond to the appeal made for a general tidying up of the community. This year a committee of the chamber of commerce has been appointed to devise ways and means of getting better results. It is being pointed out that the clean-up is in the interest of the community as a whole, and is not a desire to get a great many people to do a very considerable of work just for the sake of keeping them busy. Today a clean, spic and span town is more of an asset than ever before. It is in a measure an indication of what a town's attitude is toward progress and orderliness; it is indicative of a progressive spirit. It often helps a town in unsuspected ways and may be the means of attracting to it people and enterprises well worth having.

The matter of a general revaluation of the property of the town of Killingly is kept a keenly alive subject by reason of the fact that so many other communities are discussing in or are going through with the work at the present time. It seems unlikely that any revaluation can be completed in Killingly in time for the filing of the next tax lists in October, although some citizens would like to see that done. Killingly has as yet done no more than informally discuss the subject. The town has taken no official action. In view of these facts it seems unlikely that a general revaluation can be completed this year, and at the earliest the new valuations would not likely be ready until the October, 1929 lists are being filed. The big issue in Killingly, as in many other Connecticut towns, is as to whether local appraisers should make the revaluations or whether the work should be entrusted to outside parties. One hears many arguments and discussions as to this, and a very considerable division of opinion. The appearance here next month of Tax Commissioner Blodgett, who is to address the chamber of commerce, is expected to definitely fix public opinion on various phases of the revaluation problem.

Why Join a Church? will be the subject discussed when Rev. Harding W. Gaylord's class on Christianity and Church Membership meets for study Wednesday evening.

The case of Michael Molinski of Elmville, charged with operating a car while he was intoxicated and for having liquor in his car, has been continued until next Saturday in the town court.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Westfield Congregational church has an all-day meeting scheduled for Wednesday.

The Wakititina Camp Fire girls report a successful outcome of their Tag day effort on Saturday.

Joseph Natorski, owner and landlord, has practically completed the work of remodeling and redecorating the interior of the Danielson inn, after several months of work.

Making it also serve as a mid-Lenten respite from self-denial, next Saturday is to be observed as a time for social events of various kinds as well as St. Patrick's day.

At her home on L'Homme street Mrs. Betsey Pepler entertained over the week end in honor of her brother, John Gregson, of St. Stephen's college, Annandale-on - the - Hudson. Friends of Mr. Gregson were present from Central Village, Plainfield, Danielson, Wauregan and Providence.

Members of Putnam grange had members of Brooklyn grange as their guests this evening.

Where sidewalks remained uncleaned today there was plenty of slush for pedestrians to wade through, a condition that has brought about agitation for a borough by-law fixing a penalty for such negligence.

Members of the Service battery are to participate in amateur boxing bouts to be staged Tuesday evening by the Duwell club at Norwich.

George A. Valencourt of New Bedford returned to his home today after spending a week with friends in Danielson.

It may save someone considerable difficulty to again remind that the time limit for filing income tax returns is Thursday of this week.

Benjamin L. Kennedy and Albert Misch of Nrowich visited on Sunday with Mr. Kennedy's mother, Mrs. C. P. Kennedy of Furnace street.

Dr. and Mrs. George M. Burroughs and their daughter, Vivian, who have been in Florida since early December, are expected to return here about April 1.

PUTNAM

CHARLES McIVOR SENT TO HOSPITAL FOR OBSERVATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 12—Captain William J. Jarvis of the Putnam police was called to the City hotel Monday afternoon to take into his custody a man thought to be insane. The man was Charles McIvor, a member of the Western Union line gang that is now installing telephone service on the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad. The linemen have been rooming at the hotel since they started work in Putnam in January.

McIvor had been in a clear state of mind until Monday afternoon when he started to break windows and began breaking up furniture in the room. When Captain Jarvis and Officer Sponcey arrived McIvir had become dangerous and he gave the officers some trouble in getting him to the police station.

Arriving at the station, he was locked up in one of the cells and Dr. Edward F. Perry was called to give the man an examination. Dr. Perry examined McIvor thoroughly and told the police authorities that he was suffering from a mental trouble and that he should be taken to the State hospital in Norwich for treatment.

THEOPHILE ROBAITAILLE IS FOUND DEAD AT HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 12—Officer Alpherie Sponcey was called to the home of Theophile Robaitaille of Church street to investigate the man's death. Mr. Robaitaille lives alone and he had not been seen about since Friday. Neighbors, becoming alarmed and wondering at his whereabouts, went to his home and found him dead.

The police called Medical Examiner F. A. Morrell, who pronounced death due to a shock that Mr. Robaitaille had suffered. Mr. Robaitaille was 72 years of age. He was born in Canada. He is survived by two sons, Fred and Arthur Robaitaille, both of Putnam.

Children of the schools of Putnam were admiring the Japanese doll, "the ambassador of goodwill," sent to this country by the children of Japan, as it was exhibited in the elementary schools Monday morning. The little Japanee was attired in the richest of silks that are made in that country, and is valued at over $200. The dolls were sent to this country by the children of Japan in recognition of the 1200 dolls sent there by American children in 1926.

After its day in the Putnam schools yesterday it was sent to Hartford to be exhibited there.

Saturday the doll attracted the attention of the grown-ups while it was being shown in the community rooms of the Putnam Savings bank.

The monthly meeting of the Elizabeth Porter chapter of D. A. R. was held Monday afternoon in the Odd Fellows hall. This meeting was conducted jointly with the C. A. R., and the program in charge of Mrs. Martin B. Robertson was presented. "March of the Toys," by the kinderband of the Israel Putnam school, under the direction of Miss Gertrude C. Warner. This was followed by a farce, "A Proposal in Grandma's Day," the characters in this number being, Charity, Alice Perry; David, Harry Thayer; Ma Allen, Judith Sabin; Pa Allen, Ellis Haines. Silas Wheelock, Jr., gave a short talk on citizenship. This was followed by a song in costume, entitled "Hats of Other Days." The characters taking part were Phyllis Tatem, Alice Perry, Edna Kent, Nadey Nahfbowitz, Lucy Carpenter, Elinor Richardson, Miss Watson and Eva Jane Covell. This number was followed by a tableau, Patriotic Scenes, Old and New. The characters taking part were Columbia, Dorothy Whitehouse; Uncle Sam, Jerome Tourtellotte; Spirit of '76, Serles Bradford represented the old man, the young man's part was taken by Brooks Jenkins and youth was represented by Dana Champlain, Betsy Ross was portrayed by Margret Duffy and the friends were Barbra Fox and Nancy Covell. Liberty was represented by Miss Madelyn Houghton. Pauline Rawley took the part of Barbara Freitchie. The spirit of 1917 had two characters in it, Arthur Tourtellotte was the soldier and Dorothy Bradford was the nurse.

An agricultural tableau was presented next and the three farmerettes were the Ross twins and Martha Thayer.

The last number on the program was a medley of dances. The first was a Swedish dance by Muriel Johnson and Elenor Mann. Janet MacIntyre did the Highland fling. A Dutch dance was presented by Gertrude Ash and Tillie Kubuska. Carolyn Morse presented a Bohemian dance number. Rita Wolchesky and Priscilla Elliott presented an Italian tarentella. Dorothy Mansfield took the part of a Spanish maiden and danced a folk dance of that country. An Irish jig was presented by John Greene. Janet English and Frances Sharpe presented two oriental numbers, portraying a Japanese lady and the other a Chinese maiden.

After the program, refreshments were served by the committee. Mrs. William H. Mansfield assisted Mrs. Martin B. Robertson with the program.

The "bridge widows" were entertained Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Eva Thayer of Ring street.

The weekly tournament between the Elks and the Masons was played Monday evening at the Elks club on Main street.

Julien Carlson of Walnut street, who closely escaped the loss of his right hand when an axe that he was using Saturday slipped, remains at the Day-Kimball hospital. Mr. Carlson cut nearly every tendon in his hand and severed two finger joints.

While engaged in a snowball fight Saturday afternoon, near his home, Harold Nichols, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nichols of Chassey street, received a severe gash in his hip, when he slipped on a broken bottle. The youngster was taken to the Day-Kimball hospital, where eight stitches were used to draw the open wound together. After the operation had been performed the boy was allowed to go to his home.

Omer Aubin of Providence street and for many years a resident of Putnam, died at his home Sunday after a long sickness.

Mr. Aubin was born in Granby, Canada, on June 5, 1862. He lived, during his younger years, in his birth town in Canada, attending schools there. He came to the United States as a young man and became engaged as a textile worker in mills in and about Putnam.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters and two sons.

Carl E. Gilbert, an employe of the New Haven railroad and for many years station agent and telegraph operator at Pomfret station, now in Florida recovering from a recent illness that forced him to temporarily give up his work, has been contributing many highly interesting articles on life in that famous southern state, to "Along the Line," a little publication issued by the employes of the road.

Mr. Gilbert was one of the eyewitnesses of the fatal crash of the Ford flivver plane at Melbourne Beach, in which the pilot of the plane lost his life. Other very interesting articles have appeared in the railroad publication by the convalescing station agent from Pomfret, now enjoying the mild winter climate in Florida.

Friday's blizzard snow slowly diminished throughout the city Monday as mercury slowly climbed 65 degrees, and the streets were clogged with water and slush from the fast melting snow. Early Sunday evening an extra quantity of flakes started to fall. After a few minutes the atmosphere was filled with rain, that froze on the streets, making travel on the highways dangerous. No accidents were reported to the police station during the night.

Tuesday was a real springlike day and the conversational topic of the blizzard of '88 was stored away, not to be taken out again until another seven or eight inch snow falls.

Fifty-nine per cent. of the pupils who enter high school do not reach graduation.

CREOMULSION

FOR THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Mother! Do You Know the Danger of that Cough or Cold?

Mother, if the youngsters play hard and "take cold," if for any of a dozen other reasons they get "sick with a cold," stop it as fast as you can. Don't let it hang on. Colds that stay and stay, too often lead into pneumonia or further chronic bronchial trouble. Too often a cold leads into a fatal complication.

If any of your youngsters develop a cough or a cold that hangs on, use sensible precautions immediately and give them Creomulsion. Help their strong, youthful bodies to fight coughs and colds with Creomulsion. It is pleasant, easy to take.

Creomulsion is an old remedy now. Millions know its merits and like it. We guarantee that it will relieve stubborn coughs and colds, if you follow directions, or we'll refund your money.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING ON REVALUATION

The citizens of Norwich should bear in mind that the special town meeting for the purpose of determining whether any action shall be taken relative to obtaining outside help to aid the board of assessors in making a revaluation of the taxable property of the town has been called for tomorrow (Wednesday) night. That means of course that all who are able to do so should be in attendance.

Revaluation is required by the state law. Norwich has not come up to requirements in this respect and it has gotten to the point where the town must act on its own initiative or the state will step in and see that it is done.

After a careful study of the situation and the need for some action being taken, the directors of the chamber of commerce gave their endorsement to a revaluation. They regarded it as desirable and they also felt that it should be done by impartial and experienced men—an outside company that could measure up to requirements and could do the work speedily and efficiently.

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce are all well known, substantial and public spirited citizens, deeply concerned in the welfare of Norwich. They include Nelson J. Ayling, Arthur M. Brown, Herbert B. Cary, Max Hanover, Harold D. Larrabee, Walter F. Lester, Henry S. Lyon, Archibald Mitchell, Ernest E. Rodier, F. Russell Smith, Charles W. Taggart, John R. Tarrant, Charles J. Twist. The judgment of these men, that there should be a revaluation, has been strongly ratified by the membership of the chamber, only a very few declining to give their approval.

Having brought the matter to a point where it is presented to the citizens to determine what is to be done, it is time for the townspeople to turn out in large numbers and not only to get any additional information, if such is desired, but to meet the situation and overcome a condition which has too long prevailed. This will be changed by others at our expense, if we do not proceed to deal with the problem ourselves, but we want neither that undesirable burden nor reputation.

It is a time for a display of confidence by the people of the town in the judgment of those who have voluntarily dug into the details of this revaluation problem.

THE HOSPITAL APPEAL

Through the efforts of the Woman's auxiliary of the Backus hospital an effort is being made this week to raise the sum of $5,000 for the purpose of establishing an up-to-date X-ray department in that institution.

The importance of having such an institution equipped with the proper facilities for furnishing the full advantages of the X-ray must be thoroughly understood. Every community should be interested in keeping up to a high standard those institutions upon which the sick and injured are so dependent.

There is no good reason why the Backus hospital should not be so equipped that it can render any X-ray service required. That is the aim of the auxiliary in its present endeavor and its appeal is one that ought to get a ready response from those who can give large amounts and those who can give small.

The hospital is a community affair. The better its facilities the greater the service it can render and it should be the desire of each and every one that that service should be of the best. By supplying deficiencies where they are known to exist marked improvements have been provided within the past few years. There is an opportunity for meeting the need in regard to the X-ray department, which it is confidently believed the people of Norwich will be eager to embrace, and the success of the effort now underway will be the means of making the invaluable Backus hospital still more valuable. That is a goal in which all Norwich and vicinity should be deeply interested.

READY TO SERVE

All is not play and all is not fair weather for those who are on duty at coast guard stations. They are there for the protection of human life and they act with little thought of self when conditions demand.

This was well illustrated by the response that was made by the life savers at the Manomet station who launched their craft in the face of a high wind and an angry sea for the purpose of rendering such aid as was within their power. It can be seen now that had they remained ashore all would have been well, for those aboard the stranded vessel were not in grave peril and were removed safely on the following morning.

It was not the inclination of the life savers to shirk their duty. Their help might be required. It might mean the saving of life if they got there quickly. It called for courage but because there was danger they were not disposed to think of their own safety before that of others. They were intent upon doing what they could, but in that doing their boat was capsized and three of the gallant crew lost their lives.

It will always be pointed out that if they had remained ashore there would have been no loss of life, but there have been plenty of other instances where life was not saved because no attempt was made to get to the vessel in distress. All honor is due those who made the great sacrifice.

Fortunately it is not often that life saving crews are called upon to risk their lives in efforts to save others, but when they are it has been repeatedly shown that they do it as if it were an every day event. There is peril for those who go down to the sea in ships but there is equally grave peril for those who stand ready to render whatever assistance is possible, whether it is done by means of the coast guard vessels or whether it means the launching of a small boat for a hard battle with the waves. It is a calling that furnishes plenty of hazard during hard weather conditions for they must be ready to serve at all times.

CANADA'S ADVANTAGES

All the efforts in behalf of the St. Lawrence waterway are not being made in this country. While there has been a disposition in Canada to oppose it because of the feeling that there would not be sufficient advantages for the dominion, there are those who have grown enthusiastic as the result of the study they have given it. They want it because of the benefit it will be to Canada. They not only see advantages from increased use of the St. Lawrence but they are giving heed to the large horsepower that will be available and can see where it will be quickly put to use.

Chairman McDougald of the Montreal harbor commission was recently quoted as urging the project. Another advocate is W. W. Goforth, assistant professor of economics at McGill university who points out that the power generated at the dams to be built on the St. Lawrence could be absorbed by Canada within a period of ten years and in his opinion the waterway would make a greater port than ever of Montreal.

These views should have much influence in crystallizing opinion in Canada. They cannot fail to stimulate thought, especially when Professor Goforth says there is an imminent shortage of cheap power in Ontario in which province probably a million additional horsepower could probably be used while industry, electrified railways and domestic requirements would take care of three million more.

One of the reasons for opposition is the claim that it will have a detrimental effect upon the port of Montreal. The fear is that the through traffic will remove much of the business that now centers at Montreal, but because of the removal of the obstructions between the lakes and that port it is the opinion of Professor Goforth that more grain than ever will be moved by water to Montreal while any effect upon the railroads through loss of grain will be more than made up by the general business improvement.

Canada hasn't ended what are regarded as cold water douches but the objections which are being raised there are being talked down by some of its own leading authorities. The benefits to Canada are coming in for their share of attention.

TALKING ADJOURNMENT

It is some distance away yet, but the date for the adjournment of congress is already being talked.

President Coolidge thinks that it is possible for congress to dispose of the business and end the session by the middle of May. Without a doubt he is right, but it is a question whether he believes that such will be accomplished. He knows full well that there have been just as good opportunities for an early adjournment in the past only to result in the keeping at it right up to the last minute.

Because of the uncertainties of congress there are those among the leaders who are inclined to think that it will be nearer the first of June before adjournment is taken. That means two weeks longer than the president thinks is really necessary, but even that would be earlier than was the case in 1924 just previous to the holding of the national conventions.

Congress hasn't as yet got down to the adoption of some of its important measures. They are still hanging fire and in addition there are the appropriation bills which must be taken care of. If there could be an elimination of much of the waste time each day in congress there could be a speeding up of activities, but because there is a chance to do this doesn't mean that it will be done.

Congress gives the impression that it prefers to waste rather than to save time. That is, there are those among its numbers who are so determined to have their own way or throw a monkey wrench into the machinery, and the present control is such that difficulties lie in the way of trying to speed up action. Thus while there is plenty of time in which to do what is required there is good promise that there will be the usual jam when the closing days come.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, March 12—Congressman Merritt seldom makes a speech in the house, but when he does he says things that carry weight. His brief speech against the "lame duck" bill was one of the best opposing arguments made during the week's debate. As a member of the interstate commerce committee Mr. Merritt has opportunity to be very watchful of New England's commercial interests, and he neglects none.

Congressman Freeman likewise seldom speaks from the floor, unless a matter of strictly Connecticut interest, or a measure from his important committee rivers and harbors, demands he should do so. That may be a New England trait, for Mr. Freeman is much like Senator Keyes of New Hampshire in believing his work in the committee is of primary importance. Keyes and Freeman are regarded as indefatigable committee workers, and both acknowledge that such work is "their specialty."

On the other hand there are a few representatives from New England in both senate and house who divide their time into committee work and speaking from the floor, without detriment to either. Two notable instances are Senators Bingham of Connecticut and Moses of New Hampshire, both of whom are ardent committee workers and equally ardent debaters, on the floor.

Congressman Tilson, was a fine example of speaker from the floor and leader in committee work, but his position as floor leader automatically debars him from committee work, as there is an unwritten law of the house that no man shall hold those dual positions.

The Connecticut delegation has been active all the past week, and all were present and voted on the proposed so-called lame duck amendment, which would have changed the Constitution, regarding sessions of congress, manner of vice presidential succession to the presidency and other notable and radical changes in the constitution. With the exception of Mr. Freeman, who voted in favor of the change, all other Connecticut members voted against it, the opposition in the house being led by Floor Leader John Q. Tilson, who believed such radical changes undesirable at this time.

Senator Bingham has been active in aviation and protective measures. His high position on the military affairs committee coupled with his membership on the appropriation committee and chairmanship of sub-committees of importance, place him in the foremost ranks of influential senators.

Congressman Tilson gave a remarkably sound talk over the radio along the lines of party responsibility and what the republican party stands for in the coming campaign. It was widely broadcast and was followed by a similar talk from the democratic floor leader Finis Garrett. Col. Tilson is regarded as one of the best broadcasters in congress. He don't mind "facing Mike" and is so accustomed to holding the house in order, either as leader or presiding officer that his unseen audience brings him no terrors.

Tilson has a voice that carries well, with, or without artificial aid. We all recall the house chamber was equipped with an amplifier a few years ago. It had special connection with the press gallery. One day Tilson made a speech that rang through the house. In a minute every correspondent in the gallery was on his feet shouting to have "that thing turned off—" as they clapped their hands over their ears. And no one enjoyed the S. O. S. call for shutting off the amplifier, more than did Col. Tilson.

The Fenn bill for a 1930 census on which the new apportionment shall be based, will undoubtedly pass congress at this session, in order that work on the census shall not be delayed.

There seems but little doubt at this moment but what the membership of the national house will remain at 435. All talk of increase in order that no state shall lose a district, is met with the argument that to increase membership to keep pace with the ever increasing population of the country, would result in making a house of unwieldy proportions and that now is the best time to call a halt. Under the Fenn bill it is expected Connecticut will gain a member, and it certainly will not lose one, even though through amendment the bill may be changed in some ways.

Diplomatic Washington, and persons interested in the far east and its customs, are much interested in the approaching marriage of the 17 year old daughter of the Japanese ambassador to the heir to the Japanese throne. Little Setzu Matsudaira had the unusual privilege of knowing and meeting her bethrothed before the wedding, which was a great concession to American customs, and it is said both Prince Chichibu and the bride soon-to-be are very happy in the approaching marriage.

Negotiations for the marriage were begun many months ago through Baron Penjiro Lamalawa. The ambassador, however, is said to have at first declined to have his daughter enter into the alliance, on the ground that the prince should marry only a member of the royal family. Later the ambassador yielded, and now preparations for the marriage are being conducted in Japan. Both the prince and the young girl speak English fluently.

Washington weather has been fair, but Washington politics have been stormy during the past week. Congressional controversies have run all the way from what shall be done with Muscle Shoals to whether or not the Washington chief of police has been remiss in smelling out illicit sales. What Blanton of Texas has not stirred up in the house, his running mate, Heflin, has messed up in the senate. Neither of these irrepressible gentlemen has produced results, but they have succeeded in having wasted much valuable time that otherwise would have been devoted to the accomplishment of national and important legislation. Thus far their accusations remain entirely unproved.

Unless the favorite son epidemic in the senate wanes at an early date there won't be enough senators left who are not presidential candidates, to make a quorum. Some are declared already and some merely announced as receptive, but the presidential bees have swarmed—and struck congress hard. The bee has not stung any of the New England senators. They continue to attend to their senatorial duties of trying to make wise and just laws.

SUMMER RESORT COQUETRY

"H'm!" she sniffed. "Chivalry! I'm telling you there isn't any such thing! Don't I know!"

"Was it up at the lake?" demanded her friend in the new fall suit.

"Some girls," burst out the owner of the sunburn, walking on very fast, "would stop at nothing to edge out another girl, but, thank heaven, I'm not like that! I guess there are enough men in the world to go around and it is the farthest thing from my thoughts to worry over whether one of them pays any attention to me or not!

"Of course, there's the principle of the thing, and if a girl has any spirit at all she is not going to sit down idly and see somebody else walk away with what's hers!

"Why, from the time I appeared at Two-Lakes Inn I simply couldn't breathe without Edgar Bellows being beside me to help me do it! Somehow, as soon as we met I knew that we were on the same plane, and naturally it does add to the pleasure of a vacation to know that the nicest man around the place is devoted to you!

"If the other girls could have got into the kitchen, I'll bet I'd have had powdered glass and ground strychnine in my food generously about three times a day! They were utterly green, the rest of 'em just sitting around hoping for something to happen.

"And then when a girl called Lilly Appleflake and her mother arrived at the inn, the whole thing was upset. She didn't seem to realize at all that Edgar wasn't interested in any one but me, and of course, being polite, he couldn't very well say 'no' when she gurgled over his canoe, said she simply adored canoeing, but was so afraid, and he looked so strong and capable and would he take her out?

"I know he was just bored to death because when they came back and walked into the hotel he was saying quite firmly and shortly to her, no, no, her idea of handling a paddle was all wrong! You see, being accustomed to my expertness in the canoe, he expected every girl to do as well.

"That girl seemed perfectly possessed to learn how to canoe and in the next three days I saw Edgar only once at a hotel dance and then Lilly cut in gayly and took him away! I saw that it was up to me to do something to help him out, and, besides, the other girls were beginning to make sassy little remarks whenever they found me sitting around.

"At breakfast I overheard Lilly saying that she and Edgar were going to canoe up through the channel into the lower lake to an island and take a picnic lunch, and my heart ached for that boy marooned a whole day with anyone as silly as Lilly!

"I took a book and another boat and right after breakfast went off by myself, and after a time I was surprised to see Edgar's canoe approaching the channel where I was floated up against a half-submerged dead tree.

"You know when you are terribly sorry for a person you just don't stop to think—and I was so concerned over poor Edgar that I must have moved too quickly or something, because as they went by, over spilled my canoe and in I went. I was not worried because, of course, I knew Edgar would rush to the rescue, but when I came up with my mouth full of water their boat had slid by and his back was toward me.

"Lilly was looking right at me and at the same instant she let out a gale of her silly laughter and kept it up until she had seen me crawl safely up on to the tree trunk in the water. By the time I had caught my breath they were too far on for Edgar to hear me call, strangled as I was, and anyhow I scorned to be rescued by anyone so selfish as he was!

"Why, he should have felt my presence if he hadn't been so absorbed in that girl's antics. Oh, yes, I stayed up on the tree trunk for five mortal hours until old Joe, a musty fisherman, came along and took me off.

"We never did find my paddles. I tipped him well, but the old idiot told everyone how he'd found me sitting out in the water, and I'm too sensitive to endure misunderstanding, so I left. Edgar and Lilly had nothing to do with my coming away, for I had completely lost interest in a man who——"

"We all do," soothed her friend in the new fall outfit. "I don't know anything that will more rapidly cause a girl to see a man as he really is than to have him meet a girl he likes better!"—Chicago News.

Fellowship of Prayer

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

"RELIGION AND THE PRODUCTIVE LIFE"

"The Contribution of Prayer"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "If any of you lacketh wisdom let him ask of God who giveth to all men liberally." (James 1:5).

Read: Matthew 7:7-12.

MEDITATION: The heart of religion is prayer. Prayer is a creative act. Whatever else prayer may or may not accomplish, it is the testimony of those who pray that it elevates and ennobles life. It stimulates the mind, sensitizes the spirit and purifies one's thoughts and motives. John Stuart Mill remarked: "One wise man in a room makes the whole room wise." If good fellowship makes life rich, fellowship with God makes it richer. Prayer is friendly contact and communion with God. In prayer the divine spirit is allowed to flow into one's open mind and waiting will. Prayer is exposing one's spirit to the vision of God. Professor Brown says of prayer: "It can furnish us with supplies of energy which will reinforce our limited powers and make us adequate to meet whatever strain the day may bring."

PRAYER: Fill us, O Lord, with the spirit of Thy kingdom. Enable us and all Thy people faithfully to discharge the duties of our place and calling that the coming of the day of brotherhood and peace may be hastened upon the earth. In Jesus' name. Amen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Apostle Paul's "Personal" Opinion

Mr. Editor: In the first epistle of the Apostle Paul to Timothy, second chapter, 11th and 12th verses, we read:

Let the woman learn in silence with all subjection. But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence.

Change of subject. If the millenium does not come until women have a share in making the laws or acting as judges, it is to be feared that the millenium is a long way off yet. The times are not ripe, yet, that men will allow women to have a hand in making laws or acting as judges.

A New Deal on Racial Origin

Mr. Editor: It is to be hoped that the corrected apportionment of immigrant quotas under the recent study made by the administration will leave that matter where it now stands under the law, and that it will be put in force by the president.

The principle of using the national origins of our entire population as a basis for apportioning quotas among the various nations has been bitterly attacked by parties who have always been identified with opposition to all restriction. They have sought to prejudice the public against an apportionment of immigrant quotas according to racial stocks as now existing in this country, on the ground that it is impossible to determine quotas exactly on that basis. As a matter of fact the determination can be made within a very small margin of error, and, under the corrected apportionment, these nations which were most cut down have, as a rule, been given the full benefit of any possible doubt. It has been impossible to dispute the absolute fairness of the principle involved, and the only substitute seriously considered has been the arbitrary apportionment under the 1890 census, which is at present in use as a temporary expedient. This apportionment has one or two quotas that are little less than preposterous, and the character of its support causes suspicion that weakening the law, rather than the pursuit of justice, is the chief motive of most of its advocates.

There is one valid criticism, however, of the whole quota business. We are now carrying a standing army of unused labor costing in waste and burden from three to five billions. The immigration that we are now taking in is not needed in the American industrial system, and will add at least half a billion more to that burden. If we are going to change the law it will be better to cut down this immigration till quotas cease to count.

INCOME TAX TIPS

In claiming a deduction for depreciation several fundamental principles must be observed. The deduction must be confined to property actually used in trade, business, profession, or vocation. In general, it applies to the taxpayers' capital assets—buildings, machinery, etc.—the cost of which can not be deducted as a business expenee. A building or machine gradually becomes old and worn out. On account of this depreciation the value of such assets is decreased. A loss is thereby sustained, for which ther taxpayer is entitled to recognition in making his return of income.

Depreciation may be claimed on all business property, which includes not only buildings and machinery of a permanent character, but automobiles, farm tractors, mine and mill equipment, office furniture, and books.

YOUR HEALTH

Pioneering Adventures of Children

By Alice G. Bryant, M. D., Boston Mass., Member Gorgas Memorial

The pioneering adventures of children are full of achievements. They have no competition when it comes to acquiring foreign bodies in the nose, ear, air passages and food passages. Physicians treating diseases of the ear and throat have recovered many objects from these tracts, such as beads, cherry stones, collar buttons, pennies, buttons, hooks and eyes, pins and safety pins, tacks, glass, paper clips, peas and beans. Occasionally an examination of the nose may find a foreign body, no definite symptoms indicating its presence. The child may be too young to note; he may have forgotten the incident; or the fear of parental punishment may silence him.

The nose is the most favored place for these objects. They can be easily removed, provided home treatments have not injured the membranes and caused a swelling. A one-sided nasal secretion might mean a foreign body.

The ear is a less favored region for foreign bodies. Home treatment might wedge them in the canal or push them near the drum. Both might be injured and removal is difficult. Beans and peas swell in a secreting and syringed ear.

When objects are in the air and food passages, avoid home treatments, as finger manipulations and emetics. Injuries follow. The objects seek lower levels. Call the doctor, for live-saving moments in these conditions are precious.

The X-ray and its photograph locate foreign bodies. Cylindrical tubes carrying electric lights descend into the hidden and darkened food and air passages. The object is sighted and through these tubes an instrument descends to recover it. An open safety pin might descend with point end up. It can be closed and recovered. Older removal methods might have punctured or torn the tissues or required an operation. Imagine the percentage of injury in the early days "in the case of bodies in the bronchi left to themselves the mortality used to be 58 per cent." Chevalier Jackson states that the percentage of recoveries in these patients has been raised to 94 per cent. These figures are convincing. There is today no burrowing like a mole in the dark.

The careless distribution in the home of small objects that might be inserted into the nose, ear, air and throat passages by children from the cradle stage to the creeping, toddling and walking age is a misfortune in more ways than one. Save the helpless little people from suffering by being careful not to leave small objects where they can be easily reached. Let us have insight and understanding for these problems.

MATERNITY CENTER ADVISES THIS CARE OF BABY GARMENTS

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Famous throughout the United States, the Maternity Center Association of New York teaches thousands of mothers the best methods of infant care.

"Many soaps contain alkalis harmful to a baby's skin, if the soap remains in the garment," these experts say. "Analysis has shown that Lux contains no harmful alkali.

"Lux is also a truly sanitary form of soap for use with a little baby's things. Unlike cake soap, the same Lux is never used twice."

The makers of Lux take pride in making the tissue-thin Lux diamonds just a little purer and finer than anything else, so that baby's things, as well as mother's, are safely, easily washed in the instant, sparkling Lux suds.

JOHNNIE MURPHY IN THEATRICAL PRODUCERS' RANKS

Johnnie Murphy, a Norwich boy who for some years past has been on the stage in New York in dancing acts, has advanced to the ranks of the producers, his most recent work being in collaboration with Gertrude Lang in presenting a musical revue entitled "The Melting Pot." This was given last Friday evening at Hunt's Point Palace, Southern Boulevard and 163rd street, by Talented Children of America, Inc. The lyrics are by Mr. Murphy and Miss Lang, and the children who take part in the revue range in age from 14 years to three years. Further interest in the production from a Norwich standpoint is added by the fact that Talented Children of America was organized about nine years ago by Philip Thompson, a former Norwich boy who was then engaged in newspaper work in New York city.

WOMEN'S CIVIC GROUP IS GIVEN INFORMATIVE TALK ON REVALUATION

The civics group of the Woman's City club had an address upon "Revaluation of Property" for its round table meeting Monday evening at the Wauregan hotel with Walter Pollock, president of the Manufacturer's Appraisal company of Philadelphia, as the speaker. As this is the company which has been recommended by the chamber of commerce for the town to engage to give assistance of the assessors in revaluation of Norwich taxable property, Mr. Pollock's talk gave much information about the methods which they would propose to follow.

President Pollock was introduced by Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, chairman of the civics group. Inequality in assessment was not a peculiarity to Norwich, he said, but wherever it existed it was an injustice as it gave some people an advantage over their neighbors.

In past years when changes in conditions were not so frequent or so many it was not so hard to know values, but we are living in a different time, when there are developments and complications which make changes in value that are beyond the powers of the ordinary man to assess. Value is not so easy to ascertain, every parcel must be compared with every other, there must be a comparison of streets and consideration of the relative importance of locations. Mr. Pollock pointed out that population supplied something of a basis to figure on as at present to total land value would be from $750 to $1,000 per capita. Under a new valuation it would probably be brought to from $1,500 to $2,000 per capita.

Full value, he said, was the only way to get accurate valuation. The plan of his company would be to assist a committee of local property owners first establishing a unit value by finding out the most valuable main business location and marking that 100 per cent. All other locations would be marked down from that in proportion. In the same way the most valuable cross-street would be found and there must be comparison of street opportunity or street usefulness. Lots will also vary as to their enhancing elements, but when once you have established your unit of measurement all the rest is mathematical. The staple streets are appraised by the unit foot (one foot front by 100 feet deep) and their depth percentage formulae and corner lot and enhancing element formulae to be applied to reach the assessed valuation.

The maximum value of a building, he said, was the cost to reproduce and the expert appraiser examines the building, secures a complete description of it, which is tabulated on a card which remains as a permanent record in the assessors' office and enables these officials to show a property owner just how and why the assessment figure on his property is reached.

The advantage of this method of assessment, Mr. Pollock said, was that it enabled every property owner to pay his fair and exact share based on a scientific method of valuation. Most people want to pay their fair share, but don't want to pay somebody else's share. Most people are satisfied with the revaluation, when it is concluded, he said, and he believed that it would please 98 per cent of the community.

At the conclusion of his talk he offered to answer questions which might be asked him and he was asked about what help his company employed in the work. Mr. Pollock answered that they would furnish only two or three men of their own staff. The rest would all be local non-experts. Probably 20 or 25 would be employed for the work here and from one-half to two-thirds of the cost of the work would be expended in compensation for clerical and other non-expert help.

He was asked about other places in which his company had done appraisal work and he mentioned places in Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Maryland, Amhert, Mass., Perth Amboy, N. J., New London, Saybrook, Winchester, Stratford, and Putnam in this state. They have contracts now in Southington and Plainville. The work can be done quickly, intelligently and in a way to please everybody who really wants a re-valuation, he declared.

JUDGE LIBBY PRESIDES IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Judge Arthur F. Libby presided at the session of the common pleas court in this city Monday morning, sitting instead of Judge C. B. Waller, and heard the matters coming up on the motion list.

He reserved decision on the motion for damages in the suit of Harry Rosoff of this city doing business as the Motor Mart, against A. E. Noble of Boston, Mass. Default having been entered the case come up on a motion for damages. The suit was brought on a claim for $600 because of damage sustained by a new Oakland coupe which was about to be driven from Hartford by an employe of the Motor Mart and which was hit in a traffic jam by a car owned by the Boston man. Rosoff claimed a repair bill of $256.26 and depreciation of $245.

In an appeal taken by the White Star company from a decision of Justice H. H. Pettis which gave Max Rabinovitch a judgment of $32.50, the judge continued the case till a week from Friday.

The plaintiff, Max Rabinovitch, is one of the owners of the building at 147-153 Main street, occupied by the White Star Co. He owns a store adjacent to that company. The plaintiff claimed that under the terms of a lease, the White Star Co. is liable for the outside plumbing, while the defense contends that the lease only specifies inside plumbing. The papers set forth that as the result of the defendant failing and neglecting to repair an outside drain pipe on the building, water leaked from the drain pipe into the plaintiff's (Max Rabinovitch) store, with the result that shirts and other merchandise to the value of $32.50 were damaged.

Motion for more specific statement was ordered within one week in the case of William C. Noyes against William F. J. Aston.

The motion for judgment on default entered in the case of Robert Goldstein against Isadore Fishbone was postponed.

Disclosure of defense or judgment within ten days was ordered in the case of the H. L. Handy Co. vs. James P. Counihan and others.

Pleading were ordered made within two weeks in the case of Joseph Sigal against Frank Hertz.

The following motions went off the list: Annin and Co., vs. N. L. Daily Globe, judgment on sworn bill of particulars; Henry W. Kaiser vs. Minnie G. Buckley, judgment on sworn bill of particulars; Edgar Derrick vs. Bradford Lake, et al., hearing on motion to set aside verdict; Louis Gingras vs. Conn. Granite Co., disclosure of defense or judgment; Sabina M. Conkey vs. Frank Denison, default for failure to plead; Gusta Leino vs. John A. Henninen, et al., judgment by default for failure to plead; Louis Schwartz vs. J. D. Rockefeller, et al., disclosure of defense or judgment.

STAMFORD IS LEADER IN BOY SCOUT WORK

Stamford leads the cities of the state in per capita enrollment of Boy Scouts for every 10,000 residents, according to the 17th annual report of the National Council Boy Scouts of America to the congress of the United States.

In per capita enrollment the New London council is rated as having 108 scouts for every 10,000 residents, being exceeded only by Stamford, which is rated with 111 scouts for every 10,000 residents.

According to the report compiled for the year 1927, New London had 582 scouts and Norwich 161.

Another interesting feature of the report is listings of the annual cost per scout for the respective cities. In this respect New London council ranks as the fourth lowest, the cost being estimated at $14.78 per scout. Hartford, with 1,610 scouts; Bridgeport, with 1,198 scouts, and Meriden, with 555 scouts, have lower costs than New London, while nine other Connecticut cities, including Norwich, Middletown, New Britain, Stamford, and Waterbury and New Haven, have higher costs per scout. The lowest cost per scout is maintained by Bridgeport, at $6.62 per scout, and the highest is maintained by Naugatuck, at $32.25.

The cost per scout in Norwich is listed at $21.89, as compared with the $14.78 cost in New London.

Especial mention should be made of the excellence of the "Portrait of a Young Man," and "Adieu Mon Eufance" both posed by Mrs. Eastman.

The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Fred W. Lester, Mrs. Frank Hempstead, Mrs. Leonard Hough, Miss Audrey Gernon, Mrs. Flint Brayton, Miss Mary Richards, Miss Harriet Trumbull.

WHITE HOUSE COFFEE

The Flavor is Roasted In!

Preferred!

If you can't decide whether you like blondes or brunettes best, here's a bit of evidence that's help you make up your mind. Artists love to paint her blonde beauty and theatre-goers rave over it. She's Elsa Cover, of 650 West 173rd St., New York City.

"When people tell me how much they admire my hair," she says, "I'm always happy to tell them what I do to keep it soft and gleamy. It's really no trouble. All I do is put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That's the way nearly every really smart girl I know is doing hers. My hair doesn't need shampooing more than once a month, now. My scalp feels better than it ever has felt. It has gotten rid of all my dandruff, and it makes my hair easy to dress and holds it in position."

Danderine is not oily. It removes the oily film from each strand and restores the natural color and lustre. It dissolves dandruff, cleanses and invigorates the scalp. It is delightfully fragranced. The big bottles are just 35c at all drug stores. Smooth, gleaming, healthy hair for a few cents.

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty five cent bottles any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

JOHNNY RISKO WINS DECISIVELY OVER JACK SHARKEY IN FISTIC UPSET

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

While a crowd of barely 10,000 looked on, mildly interested and occasionally bored, the big rough and tumble man from Cleveland battered Sharkey out of the heavyweight elimination tournament with an awkward but nevertheless tireless and frequently effective attack.

Sharkey Down Once

It was a battle of no particular thrills and only one spill—that one experienced by Sharkey when he took a count of three in the tenth round, half from the effects of a left hook and half from slipping feet. It was a wrestling, mauling, hit-and-miss battle most of the way, too drab and unexciting to add any lustre to an already somewhat listless and lifeless heavyweight elimination tournament.

Risko won because of his aggressiveness, but he also outpunched and outgamed the big Boston sailor. Jumping Johnny, at least, appeared anxious and willing to make a fight of it, but Sharkey, except for a few flashes, either backpaddled or missed like the veriest tyro.

Risko Nine, Sharkey Six

There was no doubt of Risko's margin. On the Associated Press score sheet Risko was credited with nine rounds and Sharkey with the remaining six.

Johnny staggered Jack with vicious left swings and hooks in the second, eighth, ninth, tenth and 13th rounds.

From the viewpoint of the crowd the most exciting prospect occurred in the first few moments of the tenth round when Sharkey, backed into a corner, went down to one knee after taking two stinging lefts to the head and slipping as he tried to dodge. A third left delivered by Risko landed as the sailor was on his knee but it was an unintentional blow and did no particular damage. Sharkey, as a matter of fact, was up and fighting back with one of his few aggressive spurts, winning the round as he poked and cuffed Johnny around the ring.

Sharkey Better Boxer

Sharkey was much the better boxer of the two. In the few rounds he won, notably the tenth, 11th and 12th, he had Risko missing wildly. Johnny had to grin foolishly himself as he lunged and swung, only to miss his target by sometimes as much as a foot. But the big sailor seldom sustained his efforts. His legs acted as though they had lead in them. He moved slowly in any direction he pursued and it was chiefly backward.

Sharkey had his big moments in the fourth and 15th rounds. In both of these he doubled Johnny up with smashing rights, landing just under the heart, and shook the baker boy with sharp wallops to the head. Durability, however, is one of Johnny's chief assets. The bounding one shook off Sharkey's punches like a duck sheds water and plunged back in.

Risko was always bucking Sharkey, ripping and tearing with both fists. He was frequently as wild and awkward as a Texas steer, but, on the other hand, he also located his target frequently. Johnny's sweeping left was his big weapon. He either missed with it by a foot or connected with force enough to jar the sailor to his toes.

Sharkey Big Favorite

Sharkey was a big favorite, considered a 3 to 1 shot a few days ago, but the odds narrowed sharply at the ringside.

The outcome of the bout leaves Risko and Tom Heeney, conqueror of Jack Delaney last week, as the survivors of the semi-finals of the widely ballyhooed but equally disappointing heavyweight elimination tournament. Despite Risko's decisive victory there was little enthusiasm among the ringside experts over his prospects as a contender for Gene Tunney's crown. Tex Rickard, promoter of the tournament, who has been looking in vain for an outstanding challenger, peered at the fight for 14 rounds with a frown on his face, then departed hastily without looking at the last round.

The crowd, smallest that has witnessed any big indoor heavyweight bout since the new Garden was opened in 1925, numbered 10,943 in paid admissions. The "gate" was $100,901.

Preliminaries

George Larocco, indestructible New York heavyweight, gave away 13 pounds and a licking to Johnny Grosso, of Mt. Vernon, in a gory eight rounder. Grosso dropped Larocco for the count of four in the first round, but held toward the close. The New York state athletic commission today ordered decisions against "holders" in all close bouts. Grosso scaled 197 pounds. Larocco 184. The fans booed this decision lustily for several minutes.

The first scheduled eight was just a yawn for the early birds, trained to strenuous punishment, when Arthur De Kuh, gigantic New York Italian, copped Ace Clark, 232 pound Negro of Tampa, Fla., on the chin with a right hand quietus in the third round. There was litte action until the finishing punch. De Kuh weighed 230.

Action was decidedly limited in the opening four rounder where Dick Fullum, of New York, outpointed Jeff Baulknight, Cleveland Negro and a sparring partner of Johnny Risko. Fullum weighed 168, Baulknight 173.

Sharkey entered the arena bundled in his bathrobe, and perched by the ringside to watch his stablemate, Joe Monte, of Brockton, Mass., a close second eight round semi-final to Paul Swiderski, of New York. The weights were Monte 180 1-2, Swiderski 175.

Breaks Alley Record

E. Peckham broke the alley record at the Aetna for three high consecutive strings last Saturday. He rolled 132—135, 146 and 151.

SEVERAL KNOCKOUTS ON STONINGTON AMATEUR CARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STONINGTON, March 12.—In a bout jammed full of action that had the fans on their feet from the opening bell, "Shagger" Santos, a strong, hard-hitting featherweight from the home town won the decision over Tony Maretti of Westerly in the feature bout on the Stonington A. C. card here tonight. "Shagger" won by virtue of a technality which says that a decision must be rendered after a bout. At the end of the third round the judges called it a draw, and Tony wouldn't go on for a fourth. Working a nice left hook all through the fight the Westerly lad sent Santos back on his heels, but the latter kept boring in. There wasn't a dull minute in the bout. It was a great go and will mage a good rematch. "Shagger" weighed 120, Tony 116 pounds.

Kid Switch of Jewett City won a decision over Jos. Wojik of Westerly in a rather tame opener. The Westerly lad was swinging rather wild, while Switch waited for him to come to him. Switch weighed 133 and Wojik three pounds more.

George Cross, 138 pounds, of Jewett City, won a technical K. O. from Johnny Maxson, 136, of Stonington, when the towel was tossed into the ring in the first while Johnny was about ready to drop again after being down twice from Cross' hard blows.

Frank Fragulio of Westerly, had Fritz Clemens of Stonington all in in the second round of their bout and the towel gave him the fight on a technical K. O. Fragulio weighed 119 and Clemens 117.

Happy Bontempo, the hard hitting Jewett City lightweight, made short work of Young Grills of Westerly for the second time, when he K. O.'d him with a hard right to the solar plexus in a fast mixup in the first round. At the last show Happy did the same thing in the first. Grills, however, put up a fairly good show for the few minutes he was in there.

CANTWELL AND CHAPLIN PITCH GIANTS TO WIN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 12—(AP)—Effective pitching by Ben Cantwell and "Tiny" Chaplin gave the New York Giants a four to nothing victory over Jacksonville, champions of the Southeastern league, in an exhibition game here today.

Cantwell, ace of the Jacksonville mound staff last year, gave his one-time teammates but three scattered hits in five innnings. Chaplin turned in a fine performance as Cantwell's successor, granting only two hits.

Bill Terry was the big gun in the Giants' attack, with a double and two singles.

Score by innings:
New York (N) ...000 010 201—4 11 1
Jacksonville .....000 000 000—0 5 2

Bellaire Tourney Postponed

BELLAIRE, Fla., March 12—(AP)—Rains today necessitated the postponement of the start in the annual Bellaire women's golf tournament. The opening round will begin tomorrow.

Fifty women players are entered.

'BOUT SPORTS

Windham and Naugatuck, the two state high schools who many thought would surely be Yale tournament entries but who were not given that chance by the state interscholastic committee Saturday, intend to meet either in a single game or in a home and home series. The first tilt is expected to be played Friday at Willimantic. This series should attract many to the box-office. The added publicity given the two participants by the doings down at New Haven Saturday should make the contests real drawing cards.

Naugatuck, it seems was not allowed in the tourney because she had not played enough state high school teams while Windham, winning 15 of 15 scholastic clashes, all with state high schools, was dropped because of ineligibility in her ranks.

LATE BASEBALL NEWS

Cubs

AVALON, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs returned at noon today from a successful exhibition series on the mainland, jumped into their spring training uniforms and ran through a light workout consisting of batting and a little mound work.

The squad returned intact from the trip to hte mainland. It had been rumored that Manager Joe McCarthy might leave a couple of players behind.

A workout wil be held tomorrow morning, followed by a practice game in the afternoon.

Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—A long batting practice this afternoon and a morning workout devoted to polishing off intricate defensive stuff gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a busy and profitable day at their camp here.

Because of fog, the morning workout was not strenuous. The afternoon workout was varied by having the regulars each run the bases, sliding into second and third after their turns at bat.

Ray Kremer, star pitcher, convalescing from the grippe, sunned himself on the benches today and expects to be in uniform tomorrow.

YANKS LOSE FIRST START TO BRAVES, 3 TO 1

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Making their first start in an exhibition game this season, the world's champion New York Yankees bowed to the Boston Braves today, 3 to 1, in a five-inning game cut short by rain.

The Yankees made only two hits off three Braves' pitchers. They filled the bases, however, on three successive walks in the first half of the sixth inning when the game was called.

The champions bunched their hits in the fourth inning when a double by Koenig and a single by Ruth scored their lone tally.

Ruth made three trips to the plate fanning the first time, then getting his single and finally a walk. His home-run companion, Lou Gehrig, rolled weakly to the infield and hit into a double play on his two appearances at the plate. Rogers Hornsby, playing second base for the Braves, got a sacrifice and a single and then fanned.

All the Braves' runs and hits were made off George Pipgras.

Score by innings:
New York (A) ....0 0 0 0 1 0—1 2 0
Boston (N) .....2 0 1 0 0—3 6 0
(Called first half sixth, rain.)

Pipgras, Johnson and Collins; Genewich, Edwards, Hearn and Taylor.

NEWTON SWINGS BACK INTO LEAD IN MARATHON

OATMAN, Ariz., March 12.—(AP)—Arthur Newton, the Gaunt Rhodesia road runner, after ferrying across the Colorado River into the state of Arizona, today broke into his machine-like stride to win the ninth lap of the Coast-to-Coast footrace. The ninth stretch started from Needles, Cal., 29.5 miles distant.

Newton completed the day's lap in four hours, 43 minutes and 30 seconds, to bring his elapsed running time since shoving off on the transcontinental jaunt from Los Angeles to 49 hours and 32 minutes.

Eddie Gardner, Seattle Negro racer, came in second, covering the distance in five hours, three minutes and 30 seconds. His total elapsed time became 55 hours, 35 minutes and 36 seconds.

David Davies of Sandwich, Canada finished third, in 5:17; Nester Erickson, finnish runner of Port Chester, N. Y., fourth, in 5:21, and Peter Gavuzzi of Southampton, England, fifth with a time of 5:22:20.

TWO FAST GAMES AT TAFTVILLE THIS EVENING

Two games are listed on an all-star program of basketball tonight at Parish hall, Taftville.

In the absence of the Taftville Crescents from the village for the rest of the year (for they play the rest of their games this season at Plainfield against the Pros) the Taftville Celtics will provide the basketball. Tonight they will meet the Baltic team in what promises to be one of the fastest games in some time on the Parish hall court. The Celtics have three Norwich players who teamed with Taftville boys should put up a strong game throughout.

The Taftville Whirlwinds will meet the Norwich Crescents in the other game on the evening's program.

Interscholastic Sports

Stonington beat Tourtellotte Friday night at Stonington.

Bulkeley's court team in New London is still floundering around and it looks like they will have to go without a single scholastic victory this year.

It was a real blow to Windham not to be eligible for the Yale tourney.

With two such strong teams as Windham and Naugatuck absent, the meet down at New Haven won't carry quite so much significance and the ultimate winner will find some doubting his worth as a state champion.

A Windham-Naugatuck series would go nice.

HARTFORD TEAM FEATURES DUWELL AMATEUR BOUTS TONIGHT AT ARMORY

Featured by the appearance of six different teams of boxers, several local boys, two R. I. state champs and a flock of welterweights and middleweights the second Duwell indoors amateur boxing show will be staged at the armory here tonight. In addition to the above attractions "Big Boy" Burlap, Westerly colored heavyweight will make his long awaited re-appearance here after an absence of over four months.

The entry list which closed Sunday night with over 40 athletes registered, represents practically every city and town in eastern Conn., in addition to Hartford and Westerly.

The entry list follows:

110 Pound Class

Sidney Nichols and Joseph Bishop, Danielson, Willie Lizie, Westerly.

115 Pound Class

Mickey Rome, Hartford, Frankie Visigilio, Westerly, Tony Morrette, Stonington.

125 Pound Class

Charles Goulet, Jack Bronlay, Danielson, Steve Golish, John Switch and Benny Slonski, Jewett City, Samuel Alonzo, Stonington.

130 Pound Class

135 Pound Class

Lucian Brouillard, Francis Souquet, Danielson, William Minta, Jewett City, Charles Chape, Westerly.

145 Pound Class

150 Pound Class

Benny Dempsky, Jewett City, Frankie Ferra, Ralph Bargnisi, Norwich, John Troy, George Anderson and Kenneth Powers, Stonington.

165 Pound Class

George Herr, Danielson, Manuel Rose, Stonington, Edward Cronin, Stonington, Harry Stanley, Hartford.

Heavyweight Division

Although both the names of Benny Slonski and Al Koziol are included in the above list there is a probability that neither of the two boys will be able to perform as each is on the shelf with injuries received at the last minute. However, a glance through the entry, shows that there are a flock of "naturals" in spite of the last minute loss of the two favorites. A last minute entry which no doubt will drag out a big following from the West side is that of Ralph Bargnisi, hard hitting welterweight who is representing the Smoke Shop.

The recently re-organized Duwell team composed of Koziol, Adams, Ward, Ferra, Bruno, Russo, Champlain, Chape, Viceligio, and Luzie will be on hand for its initial appearance as a body. The Service Battery team under the guidance of Young De Forrest will make its debut in the boxing world. Chape and Ferra will make their return to active ring warfare and other numerous features are all crowded into the bill which it is expected will draw the largest crowd ever to witness a boxing show in Norwich, either indoor or outdoor. The seating capacity at the armory has been increased from 1,000 to 1,400 in view of the expected banner crowd.

The gates will be thrown open at 7 o'clock and the Duwell 10 piece orchestra will play for an hour before the first bout goes on at 8:15 o'clock.

WILLIMANTIC ELKS WIN FROM NEW LONDON LODGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 12.—Willimantic Elks won all four points from their New London brethren last night at the local club and clinched, for a year at least, the beautiful silver loving cup purchased jointly by the Norwich, New London and Willimantic Elks. The score was 1740 to 1573, the local bowlers setting a new mark for the alleys by shoving a total of 1,740 pins into the pit.

HELLER INELIGIBLE AND WINDHAM IS BARRED

ROCKVILLE, Conn., March 12.—(AP)—Following the selections of the teams to compete for the state interscholastic basketball championship Coach Tom Callaghan and Max Heller of the Windham high team of Willimantic, claimed that they had received no reason from the state league officials as to why it was they were not selected for the competition after they had won 12 of their 15 games.

During the season Windham high playing at Rockville, had challenged the eligibility of Luther Alley, of the Rockville team Coach Callaghan saying that Alley had played half a game as sub for the Wheel club, a semi-pro organization. This left but two regular players on the Rockville team as two others had been taken off for playing with the Wheel club. Windham won 28 to 22.

Information was sought from Dr. A. G. Ireland, secretary of the Connecticut Interscholastic league at a meeting held Friday. Dr. Ireland ruled that Alley was eligible to play at the time as he had only played as a sub.

Dr. Ireland stated further that the reason Windham high was not selected to play for the championship was that Max Heller had played prior to the school season with the Heller Brothers Five with his brothers and that the committee as a result had ruled out all the games he had played in as not counting in the league.

HOCKEY PIRATES WILL NOT BE MOVED FROM PITTSBURGH

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—The board of governors of the National Hockey league today declined to permit transfer of the franchise of the Pittsburgh Pirates to either New Haven or Philadelphia where separate interests have been dickering for the franchise.

The board simply announced its refusal to permit the transfer and issued no statement explaining this action.

CHICAGO, March 12—(AP)—Wrestling under the protection of a court injunctino, Ed "Strangler" Lewis tonight tossed Alex Garkawienko, Giant Russian, twice in a little more than 30 minutes, in the first heavyweight wrestling match permitted here in more than a year.

DEVINE AND PETERSON WIN FIGHTS AT BOSTON

BOSTON, March 12—(AP)—Harry Devine, Worcester, 126 pounder, won his way into the final bout in this class by decisively outpointing Mike Tradugno, of Lawrence in three fast rounds.

Glimpses of Sports of Other Days

BARNEY KEENAN AND JIMMY GAFFNEY DRAW

One cannot fail to see reflected in the ripping, tearing and glove-slinging style of Al Koziol, local amateur lightweight, the style of his tutor, Barney Keenan. In his heyday Barney Keenan was as tough a nut as most any boxer wanted to tackle. Barney had that real old fighting Irish spirit that feared neither hell nor high water, and it was a good man that stood up against Barney in those days. Personally we saw Barney in action just once, that was in 1901, when Barney boxed the late Austin Rice of New London, at the Sachem park grounds. But those who remember Barney's memorable battle of 1895 tell us that we saw nothing at all.

We cornered Barney the other afternoon and managed to get the story of that fight out of the old warrior. Here it is:

"I had been fighting off and on around Norwich and other places since I had returned from a trip down to New York, where I had worked for a couple of years. Down in New York I had learned a lot about the fighting game and I was anxious to pick up a little extra money. I had been in Norwich many weeks before Thomas Donohue, present state athletic commissioner, who was matchmaker for the Atlantic club, came up and wanted to know if I would fight Jim Gaffney, who had been training with some of the New York boys. Now Gaffney weighed about 150, while I was at the time about 162, my best fighting weight being around 155 at the lowest. Donohue insisted that I must make 150 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and the fight was only 13 days off. I told Donohue it was impossible to get down to that weight, but he said he'd get somebody else to fight if I didn't want to, so I took the match, and the forfeit money was posted.

"Well, for the next 13 days I did some tall training and when the afternoon of the fight came I was down to weight. Some 300 or 400 fans from Norwich went with me to New London. When I stepped on the scales the beam just quivered around the 150 mark. Gaffney was also just at the right weight. Well, I went to a room in a hotel and went to bed for a rest and to pick up weight. That night when I climbed through the ropes there was a wild cheering from the Norwich boys, and Gaffney was given as big a welcome from the New London crowd. Gaffney was the favorite and although the Norwich boys were with me they had to have odds in the betting. New London gave me no chance at all.

"I have forgotten who the referee was, but I don't think he was favorable to me. We had no bandages on our hands, only the gloves. Then came the gong and I rushed to meet Gaffney coming out. We battled through that round, the next and the next, with things getting hotter and hotter all the way. Gaffney floored me a couple of times and I caught him some good ones. Then came the sixth round and as I rushed to meet the New London man I caught him flush on the jaw and he rocked but recovered. Toward the latter part of the round I caught him again and he went down. His seconds threw water on him and the referee helped him to his feet, while his seconds held him up with me pasting at him. Then the bell, and the seconds let him drop back into his chair. The Norwich boys had left the hall, thinking the fight was over. Down in the saloon they were rejoicing over my victory until someone told them I was still fighting. After the sixth round it was one of the bloodiest battles ever seen. My nose was twisted half around my face, my eyes were almost closed and my lips swollen, but I was still on my feet at the bell. Gaffney was in no better shape, his eyes were closed and several teeth loose. The spectators around the ring were all spattered with blood, for every time a glove would land the blood would spatter. The referee was blood from head to foot. But it was a good fight just the same, and I think I should have won in that sixth round just the same."

The account of this battle as published in The Bulletin of Nov. 14, 1895, is as follows:

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 12.—About 600 people saw Barney Keenan of Norwich and James Gaffney of New London fight fifteen rounds to a draw at the Atlantic club rooms this evening, six carloads of sports coming from Norwich to witness the contest. Gaffney was so pronounced a favorite before the fight that money offered on his winning found no takers.

During five rounds the contest was a lively one, Gaffney being a superior sparrer and hitting his opponent some fierce blows and escaping punishment himself by clever dodging. Claims of foul were made against Keenan several times, but the referee would not stop the contest. The sixth round was terrific.

Keenan hit Gaffney a powerful blow below the ribs, following it with slugging on the left jaw that dazed Gaffney, and then fought him to a standstill. Gaffney was in his corner and dropped into a chair when the round ended. He pulled himself together, though, and the fight went on to the end. The men were barely able to stand when the contest was finished and the fiercest fight ever witnessed before the club was ended.

Nearly half the crowd left the hall at the end of the sixth round, confident that Gaffney would never respond to the call in the seventh. He did, though, and the last half of the fight was most terrific.

Austin Rice of New London knocked out Young Peck of Providence.

About ten years ago at the state police convention which was held at Richard's grove we had the pleasure of seeing Barney and Gaffney in action again. This time there was no doubt about who was the winner. Barney plastered Gaffney to a fare-thee-well. In fact, Gaffney was so well plastered by Barney that he was forced to remain at home for several days. Barney all through his life has kept in beautiful physical condition and today could give many of the boys half his age a mighty tough battle.

ACADEMY-C. F. C. IN CITY TITLE SERIES

The Academy and C. F. C. will open their annual city title series Saturday night at the Y gym, it was announced Monday evening. It will be a two out of three game affair. The dates for the other game or games have not been definitely decided upon as yet but it is expected that they will come on Thursday, March 22 and Saturday, March 24.

This is the second year that these teams will meet with the championship of the city at stake. Last season, the C. F. C. played the Academy in the latter's first game at basketball and won by a close margin.

This year, the teams are more evenly matched although the C. F. C. goes into the siries wearing the favorite's colors by a fairly wide margin.

The Baptists have had a highly successful season, winning 16 and losing but three while the schoolboys have won seven and lost 11 games. However, the Red and White has improved by leaps and bounds in the last week or so.

Both lineups will be the same as have played all season, the schoolboys using but eligible players in these non-scholastic clashes while the C. F. C. will use the same lineup as has won so many games for them in the past five or six seasons.

J. G. PHELPS STOKES LOSES CASE AGAINST R. A. KAMM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 12—Not guilty of the theft of 1800 sticks of dynamite, the property of J. G. Phelps Stokes, of New York from his summer home at Charlestown, R. I., was the verdict returned in favor of Robert A. Kamm, Monday afternoon, by the jury of which Joseph H. Rockwell of North Kingstown was foreman. Trial of the case was begun in Washingham county superior court last Friday before Judge Arthur P. Sumner Monday morning Attorney Roche made his plea for the plaintiff which was followed by the judges' charge. The jury returned to the courtroom at 12.07 after being out a half hour.

A jury was empaneled as follows to try the suit for $5,000 damages brought by Anthony H. Bliss of Providence vs. Carrie J. Brucker of Westerly. The defendant is alleged to have entered upon premises under lease near Rhode Island state college Kingston and seized the premises known as "The Coffee Shop," claiming the provisions of the lease to have been broken. The jury is Gorton T. Lippitt, foreman and Joseph H. Rockwell, North Kingstown; William H. Kennedy, South Kingstown; Ray B. Kenyon, Fred Raithel, William Riddell, Nathan Saunders and Thomas Wills, Westerly; John F. Palmer, Hopkinton; Charles E. Brooks, Richmond, John F. Perkins, Exeter and William P. Briggs of Narragansett.

Spare jurors were excused until afternoon. Then when it was found that their services would not be needed further, they were paid off and discharged for the remainder of the term.

The case of Salvatore Palidino vs. Thomas Gacione was reported settled.

Cases previously marked ready and Monday morning marked passed were: Angelo Silvestri vs. Luigi Federico, et ux; Salvator Paldino vs. Andrew S. Lowe; Louis Leone vs. John C. Kebablan; Louis Leon evs. Horace E. Burdick and Anna Jones vs. William P. DeMayo.

Stipulation is to be filed in Susan J. Butler vs. Harold Flood.

When court adjourned Monday afternoon the plaintiff Anthony H. Bliss was on the stand. Following his cross-examination by Attorney H. W. Rathbun for the defendants his re-direct examination had been concluded by his attorney, Mr. Roche.

Soon after the introduction of the signed lease as evidence, it was testified that an oral agreement had been entered into for the payment of lease money after it had become due, and not in advance as per the written document. Submission of such testimony was objected to by Judge Rathbun with the jury withdrawn and ended with its admission with certain proofs being allowed by Judge Sumner. The petition of Attorney Roche to raise the damages from $5,000 to $10,000 was denied by Judge Sumner.

The lease was dated July 23, 1924 and on the land on College road the Coffee shop was built and completed in August 1924. This was burned in 1925 and a new building built for 1926 and 1927 in which year in February Mr. Brucker entered upon the premises and posted no trespassing signs and then let the place to Ned Holland. The purchase of the old Tucker house for dormitory purposes by Mr. Bliss, it was testified by him, had taken money from his business.

FIRE IN KITCHEN STOVE IS BLAMED FOR BLAZE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, March 12—The whistle fire alarm of Pawcatuck fire district was sounded at 3.15 p. m. from Box No. 54 by a passing laundryman, for a fire in the house at 10 Morgan street, Pawcatuck, owned by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Webster and occupied by Raymond E. Allen. With no one at home at the time, the fire apparently had its start at the rear of the kitchen stove, in which a fire had been left. The truck of the P. S. Barber Hose company responded and the contents of a chemical tank kept the fire down at first. Two hydrant lines were laid and one was used to drown out the blaze which had gotten into a partition and was stopped at the second floor. Damage from fire, smoke and water will amount to from $500 to $800. The recall was sounded about 4 p. m.

Architect George Ernest Robinson of Boston, who is supervising the construction of the Westerly central fire station was a Westerly visitor Monday. Very little rivetting remains to be done to have the heavy central steel framework completed and ready for the work to proceed in the construction of the outer walls. The heavy granite course for a water table will next be placed in position, on this will be built the brick and tile side walls with the steel framework to carry the central weight of second floor and roof.

The following transfer has been recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk: March 12. Westerly Real Estate company to John Adamo, lot No 17 Charles Fontana plot at Weekapaug.

A special Westerly financial town meetnig is to be held this (Tuesday) evening at which will be considered the management of Westerly highways, the session having been called by the fair play organization. Nearly 300 qualified voters recently signed a petition for such a meeting. Taxpayers of the town will be asked to take action on the fair play organization's plan to repeal the highway commission act and return, the care of highways to the town council. The fair play faction also will put before taxpayers a proposal to amend the law concerning election of the town council. Instead of having seven members elected at large, as at present, the fair play organization seeks to have the law amended so that three councilmen would be elected from each district and one would be chosen from the town as a whole.

HUMANE CAT RESCUES A FROZEN BIRD IN STORM

A tiger cat named Snowball is owned by Rollin Rathbun. When the snow was coming fast a winter bird had to give up on account of the storm and could not get anything to eat. Along came Snowball bound for home and came across the bird, picking it up in his mouth and reaching the door of his house. Mr. Rathbun saw that the cat had a bird and wondered what the tiger cat was going to do with it, for his master thought the bird was dead. The wise cat put the bird near the stove, also lay down to be near his prize and to see that no one hurt him. About an hour afterward the bird showed some life kicking his feet a little as the heat brought it back to life. Rollin gave it some bread soaked in milk. While the bird ate it the cat stood watching every move. Keeping the bird around for awhile. Mr. Rathbun made sure it was all right to let it go into the open air. One cat in the fishing village saw a bird down and out with no home to go to and had a heart. Snowball can do tricks and if a dog came near the house he is right around to send him away. Mr. Rathbun has been offered money for his cat but money cannot buy him. The cat is some lifesaver, to rescue a bird in a snowstorm.

William Plumstead has returned from Newark, N. Y., after a short visit.

John Bentely and Charles Patterson, champion pinochle players of the Mechanic lodge played for an oyster stew and the championship of the lodge, these two opponents being Roy Scaplen and Sam Fish, who played 3,000 points before 75 brother lodge members who crowded the room. Hastedt Brown was referee. Playing along for three hours Scaplan and Fish were trying hard to be the next champions but "Don't let them pass!" was the cry that came from the cheering squad on the right side of the room. The last hand was being played and the champions had everything in a pack of cards. Scaplan and Fish went down fighting hard but had to bow to the champs, Patterson and Bentley. The score, Bentley and Patterson 3,000 Scaplan and Fish 2900. Steward Maxson Langworthy had the oyster stew all hot and with his kitchen aides dressed up with aprons and white caps waited on 80 who sat down at the long table. Three cheers were given the players. The radio was going strong and there was singing of songs of 25 years ago by O. W. Beebe.

Speed . . .
U. S. Royal Cords will take all the speed any car can make—and stand up under it.

Easy Riding . . .
U. S. Royal Cords cushion the rough spots. Detours have no terrors for the car with Royal Cords.

Cool Tires . . .
Tires that run cool, run longer. Internal friction is reduced in U. S. Royal Cords. They stay cool.

Long Life . . .
The mileage that is built into U. S. Royal Cords is one of the principal reasons for their choice by the designers of sixteen fine American cars.

No matter what make of car you drive, your tires should be ROYAL CORDS.

RADIO CORPORATION COMMON STOCK WAS FEATURE OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP)—Radio Corporation of America common stock, soaring 18 points to a new peak price of 138 1-2 on rumors of a "technical corner" in that issue, featured today's stock market, which broke all records for a single day's volume with a turnover of 3,909,100 shares. Speculation for the advance also continued at a brisk pace in a number of other specialties, at least a dozen closing at net gains of 5 points or more, although a wave of profit-taking at the close reduced many of the early gains, and sent a few issues below Saturday's final quotations.

Despite the rapid run-up in radio last week, the "short interest" has been maintained at large proportions, elimination of some "bear" accounts being replaced by others created in the belief that the stock was selling too high for a non-dividend payer.

Radio opened unchanged at 120 1-2, but quickly began the climb which sent it to its peak price in the last few minutes of trading as harassed shorts struggled to extricate themselves from an uncomfortable position.

General Electric, which has large Radio holdings, soared more than 7 points to a new peak at 140 1-4, closing within a fraction of the top. Westinghouse Electric, also a large stockholder in radio, touched a new peak at 105 1-2, broke to 100 1-2 on realizing, and rallied to 103, where it was off 1 1-2 points net on the day.

Although little attention was paid generally to week end trade developments, the buying of U. S. Steel common, which soared was influenced by the unexpectedly large increase of more than 120,000 tons of unfilled orders last month. Gains in the independent steels were relatively small.

General Motors again changed hands in large volume, closing 1 1-4 points net lower at 156 1-2 after absorbing large profit taking sales between 156 1-8 and 158 3-4. Hupp, Chrysler and Packard Motors, all reached new high ground.

A jump of more than 7 points in American Linseed to a new peak at 85 was accompanied by rumors of a resumption of dividends on the preferred stock at Wednesday's meeting of the board of directors. Net gains of 5 points or more also were recorded by Adams Express, Baldwin, General Cable A, Gold Dust, International Harvester, International Nickel, Wright Aeronautical and Woolworth.

Rails, which had been lagging behind the general market, took a more prominent part in today's rise. Canadian Pacific ran up nearly 5 points to $15 1-8 but lost half of the gain on profit taking. Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio, and Erie were among the issues to advance a point or more.

The principal commodity markets recorded slight changes. Cotton was steady at 7 to 11 points higher, and sugar prices were virtually unchanged. Wheat futures were 3-4 to 7-8 of a cent higher, but coffee prices were off 7 to 12 points.

Aside from an 8-points jump in Spanish pesetas to 16.88 cents, variations were nominal in the foreign exchange market. Sterling cables ruled slightly lower around $4.87 29-32, and French francs were unchanged.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged from Saturday. The call money renewal rate was advanced from 4 1-4 to 4 1-2 per cent, presumably because of the heavy demands for currency in anticipation of federal income tax payments.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

Busy As a Beaver.

Oh, a busy lad is the beaver bold
As he chews at the mountain ash.
He works around and around its base
Till down it comes with a crash.

He says to the saucy mountain stream:
"I think I'll make me a lake.
I'll pile the limbs in a big brush-heap
And use my claws as a rake.

'My feet are webbed and my teeth are sharp
And a useful thing is my tail.
It's now a rudder and now a stool
And now turned into a flail.

'The baby weavers will find my pond
And race and wrestle with glee
Or sun themselves on the fallen log
Or sip mountain water for tea.

'So I bring the limbs of the cottonwood
And the twigs of the aspern, too,
And take a bit of the slippery elm
To make me some slippery stew."

George F. Paul.

The Song Sparrow.

When, like the magic notes of Pan,
You hear his pean, sweet and clear,
Come bubbling up from alder-bush
And brake, you know that Spring is here.

You never, never see him come.
'Tis like a genie he appears:
Some morning you awake and lo—
His song is trilling in your ears.

And somehow you are glad, and long
To catch a peep at his dull coat
And speckled breast, and hear again
The song came rippling from his throat.

Elmo B. Stevens

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

The wild bison of Europe was originally black or deep brown, and, although England's cattle are white by gradual evolution, it is noted that a calf is now and again born like its prehistoric ancestors, of a black, or again, a deep brown hue.

The habits of those animals are still of the wilderness and its ceaseless dangers. During the daytime they lie in the more secluded parts, and begin to feed and move around when nightfall approaches. Even then the bisons' movements show they are on the alert and very, very wary.

They are born suspicious—cautious. When a calf, hidden as is the way, invariably, in a thicket by its mother, is surprised, it does not try to flee—as the farm-bred calf does—but drops like a plummet. It lies low, crouching among the branches and tall bracken like a hare. Step to it and it sets its head for butting in defence, yet it is still so feeble as to fall over with the exertion. Cunningly does the mother hide her youngling in a secret place, changing it often. As it grows older it develops the craftiness of the most crafty untamed beast far from the haunts of man. A young bull, getting worsted in a fight, feils and shams death—just the same, as the weasel does when enticing you to free it of snare or trap. Then, as soon as the victor ambles away, the other gets up and begins to graze again, but all on the watch for a fresh attack.

Only when hunger compels are these wild bison at all tame and responsive to human approaches. When the frost goes some five or six inches into the ground and the snow lies deep—weather which the Cheviot country more often experiences than any other part of the British Isles—and the herds can find no food for themselves, loads of hay and turnips are wedged up to the parks by the keepers. Then the aurochs instinctly fall into file behind the supplies as they are being taken to the feeding places—at first, they follow at a considerable distance in the rear, but, as the journeys are repeated, the animals gradually come closer and closer. And in this way plans are satisfactorily carried out when it is necessary to nature any of the cattle.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

The Crusaders

Dear Uncle Jed: I am now going to write about the Crusaders. In the early days of Christianity it was the custom of the people to make journies to the Holy Land and worship the place where Christ had lived and died. So they started, and it was a long, tedious journey. Often they perished from hunger and sickness. In the north, Peter the Hermit began to win followers to go to the Holy Land also.

He went from town to town and told the people that they needed a crusade. As he journeyed, people began to follow him. They almost worshipped him.

Instead of waiting for the real armies which were to start later, a host of common people went forth in two separate bands. But many perished in Bulgaria and only the stranglers reached Constantinople.

There they waited for Peter. Peter also had trouble in passing Bulgaria and Hungary and lost many of his men. The rest joined Walter the Penniless at Constantinople in 1096.

The two leaders, with the remnants of their bands, crossed over to Civitot, a coast city of Asia Minor. But here they were entrapped by the Turkish sultan, David, and only a few escaped.

Among the ones who perished was Walter the Penniless. Other bands also started out but lost their lives on account of lawless behavior. As Jerusalem was surrounded by a high wall, the Crusaders were not strong enough to take it by storm.

So they surrounded it and began a siege. Thirst and hunger attacked them. Close by was a little spring which bubbled up every second day.

Here men and animals were trampled to death in their eagerness to get water. Soon ships came and brought food. While the leaders were quarreling Peter the Hermit had a dream in which he was told if they would march around the city barefoot for nine days the city would fall.

Then the whole army set out to march. But of course this method of capturing the city did not succeed. They had almost given up hope when a horseman was seen on Mt. Olivet waving a shield.

One of the leaders cried "St. George the Martyr has come to help us!" At this the men took new courage and soon won the city, in July, 1099. We have recently been studying about the Crusades, and I hope the Wide-Awakes will like it.

Longfellow's Life

Dear Uncle Jed and Wide-Awake Circle: My, how the time flies! I keep thinking I'll write a letter now, and put it off. It's been a long time since I wrote one.

Today is Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's birthday. I'm going to write about his life. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born in Portland, Me., on Feb. 27, 1807. He was a poet. At the age of 15 he went to Bowdoin college at Brunswick, Me. Two years later he graduated. He studied law but liked literature much better. After a few months at home he went to Europe to study for it. He traveled in other countries, France, Spain, and Italy. He learned many different languages.

He returned home and wrote sketches and poems. He married Mary Potter and started back to Europe. He learned other languages. In Holland Mrs. Longfellow died. This did not stop his work. He visited the rest of the country and came back to America. He taught at Harvard university.

Later he bought a house in Massachusetts and married Miss Frances Appleton. This is where he spent the most of his life.

Mrs. Longfellow died in 1861. Longfellow's death occurred on March 24, 1882. He was buried in Mount Auburn cemetery at Cambridge.

My Visit to Plainfield

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing you a little letter about my visit to Plainfield at my grandmother's. I rode in the car with my father and helped him peddle cream and apples. Then I walked to my grandmother's. My grandmother and aunt were home but my grandfather was in Canterbury. I had lunch and then waited for my father and talked with my aunt and grandmother.

ELIZABETH WIBBERLY, Age 7.
Canterbury.

Caught a Skunk

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide-Awakes. I would like to tell them of my first trapping experience.

One day as I was walking out in the woods with my brother we came to a hole which my brother said looked like a newly made one. So we went right back home and got two traps and set them at the hole. The next morning we went to look at them and what do you think was in one? There was a skunk. We were both very much pleased. I took it home and skinned it myself. When my father came home at night from work I showed him the skin. He was surprised but said that I did very good with it.

DEXTER COLBURN, Age 10.

My Trip To The Woods.

My Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am nine years old and in the fourth grade at school. But I am going to tell you about my trip to the woods with my father, sister and brother.

One day this winter I asked my father to go to the woods and so he did.

When we got down there we had to cross a brook so my brother and I got across all right but when it was my sister's turn she had to be carried over it, so my father carried her to the middle when he slipped and most fell in. But anyway we had a nice time.

MARY WATERS, age 9.
Norwich Town.

Sliding

Dear Uncle Jed:—I am going to tell you how I learned a good lesson. One day I took my sled and went sliding. It was a very steep hill and my runners were not very sharp.

After sliding a little while they were sharp again. After sliding for a half an hour I thought I would go home because I was cold and wet so I said to myself "I will take one more and then I will go home." I took a long run and started to go very fast. Suddenly my steerer didn't work. I was going very fast. Just then I struck a stump of a tree. I broke my steerer in two, bent my runners, and sprained my foot. From that day on if I make up my mind to go home I never say "Just once more."

The History of Cochester

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my third letter to you. This time I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes about the history of Colchester.

Colchester is in New London county. It was founded in 1699 by Nathaniel Foote. Nathaniel Foote got his land from an Indian chief of the Mohegan tribe. He distributed the land among the people keeping 50 acres for himself. He built a house on his land but he died before he moved into it. His widow and a large family of children moved into the house prepared for them. Foote named Colchester for his grandfather's home in England. Foote's 50 acre lot was on the west side of what is now Broadway. The frame of Mr. Foote's house, built in 1702, now stands near the Ranson school. It is used by the D. A. R. (Daughters of the American Revolution) as a chapter house. The first white children were born in Colchester in 1700 and 1701. Mr. Loomis and Mr. Skinner were the fathers of the first white children born here. The first settlement was made on the property now owned by Mrs. Wallis. The first church was built near or at the corner of Broadway. Michael Taintor was Colchester's first town clerk. He served the town for 30 years. The first selectmen were Deacon Loomis, Joseph Chamlain and Michael Taintor. The first church was built in 1706. It was used for eight years.

A Surprise Gift

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a surprise. My sister has a sport wrist watch and whenever I get a chance to, I wear it. Not always does she let me wear it. That is the reason I wanted one of my own. One day when I came home from school, and forgot that it was my birthday, my sister asked me if I wanted to wear her watch. Of course I was more than glad. She told me to go up in her bedroom and I would find her watch on the dresser. I did as I was told but could not find her watch. I almost gave up hope. Soon my eye caught sight of a neatly tied box and on it was written "to brother from sister—many wishes for a happy birthday." I opened the box and found the most beautiful sport watch I had ever seen.

A Story About Greece

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you for a long time, so I thought I would write about the Greeks. The Greeks were the first people to become civilized. Their home land is in the southeastern corner of Europe, and is a little country about half as large as New York or Pennsylvania. Greece is a very mountainous country and it has many valleys. In each valley grew up a little state.

Greece is not a fertile country. It grows a little wheat and barley, many grape vines and olive trees.

Greece has delightful climate. It is cool and clear. The Greek merchants bought silver, gold, copper and other minerals from the countries north of the Aegean sea. At first the Greeks made everything themselves that they needed in the fields or in the house.

Homer was the earliest Greek poet. The merchants had 50 house maids. They also had beautiful gardens about their homes and two fountains in front of their homes.

Although Greeks at first were ruled by kings or chief men, they gradually won the right to govern themselves.

In this way they developed a government like our own, which the people rule. Such a government is called democracy. To the Greeks belong the glory of being the founders of government by the people in Europe.

George Washington

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and I hope you will enjoy my story. When we came in Tuesday afternoon after our teacher told us that there wasn't going to be any school on Washington's birthday, we were all glad to hear of that. That noon we had a program and had a party. We sang a song and did many other things. We enjoyed ourselves very much. After it was time for dismissal we took our books and were ready for the teacher to dismiss us. I enjoyed that day very much. Send my regards to the Wide Awakes and Uncle Jed.

A Brook

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. On the outskirts of the village not far from the main road where the rugged pine grows in its lonely pride, runs a low and pure murmuring brook whose water softly gleams through the woodland shade.

As one approaches this brooklet he can hear the rippling sound of the dashing water which flows over the rough stones and pebbles. At the foot of this flowing stream a large, old, lanky birch tree grows that swings to and fro when the cold, rough, wind blows in the autumn breeze.

Peggy The Milkmaid

Dear Uncle Jed: Peggy, a pretty milkmaid, was carrying a pail of milk on her head. As she tripped along she was busily thinking of all the fine things she would buy when she had sold all her milk. Said she, "I'll buy some eggs. They'll soon hatch out into fine chicks. These I'll sell at a good price, and then I'll buy myself the prettiest gown and hat in the village. The next time I go to the market all the young men will come out to meet me! Reuben Allen will see them come. How jealous he will be! But I'll not care, not I! I'll just toss my head, so!" As she thought of Reuben, she tossed her head and down went the pail to the ground.

When poor Peggy's mistress heard what had happened she said, "Ah, foolish girl, don't count your chickens before they are hatched."

An Old Fashioned Farmhouse

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. On the outskirts of the village, on a rough country road stands an old-fashioned farm house. It is constructed of large gray bricks. Opening the door one may catch a glimpse of an old, snug chimney corner with two colonial seats and a small carpet on the hearth. In another corner stands an old hand-made dresser on which some bright plates and crockery ware are displayed. An old walnut table and a few chairs make up the remainder of the furniture of the room.

My Visit.

Dear Uncle Jed:—I'm going to write you and the Wide Awake about the beautiful dam I visited during my vacation in Clinton Mass. The dam itself is as pretty a scenery as you could see anywhere. It is about a quarter of a mile long. You can walk all over the dam.

On one side is a large body of water. The shores are laid out with rocks and surrounded by fur and Christmas trees.

The other side of the dam is very beautiful but is in a little valley. There are two big lawns on both sides, also surrounded by trees.

In the center is a very beautiful fountain. Around the fountain are gold fish and a few statues and there is a big stone building with machinery in it.

The machinery refines the water for the people that live in the cities of Boston, Warcester, Clinton and the surrunding small towns.

It is called the "Woochusett Reservoir."

The Forgetful Boy

Dear Uncle Jed:—This is the first time I have written to you, I hope you and the Wide Awakes will like my story about a forgetful boy.

One day when I was buying some eggs, a boy came in, to buy some butter. But he forgot to say butter, but said, "Give me a lb of that stuff that you put on bread." The man knew what he wanted, but made believe that he did not know and said, "Do you want peanut butter?" The boy said, "No!" The man said, "Do you want lard?" The boy said "No!" Then he saw a man buy some butter and said, "This is what I want," (pointing to the butter on the counter). Then the man said, "Why didn't you say "butter" in the first place?" The boy said "I forgot." The man said, "Next time dont forget, what you came for." All the people began to laugh.

MISSING HUSBAND BACK—WILL NOT SUPPORT FAMILY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, March 12—John Godek was in the Griswold town court at 9 this morning, charged with non-support. Judge John T. Barry, heard from Prosecuting Attorney J. Dudkowski, the story concerning the case, which is mainly summed up in these two facts. Five years ago John Godek left Jewett City, where he was living with his wife and family. All efforts on the part of the police to locate him proved futile. Now, of his own free will he comes back, and stands voluntarily for prosecution. Judge Barry gave him a 60-day suspended jail sentence jail sentence, provided he pay $15 dollars a week for a year toward the support of his wife and family. Attorney Thomas M. Shields appeared for the defendant. Godek appealed the case, and under $1,500 furnished by Frank Minski will await action of the higher court.

Mrs. Godek, when it came to her having to take up the burden of caring for herself and family on her own resource, made good, and has established with a steady trade, a fine line of small business.

Finn's tonight, last chance to see—Cat and the Canary.—Adv.

Horned larks have been reported from several sections nearby. Strangely, it seems, the place local observers will be apt to get a sight at this transient visitor is to the open roads leading into the borough.

With the temperature Monday at 50 degrees, all the middle of the day, the heavy fall of snow that came last week, is rapidly on the move. Country roads were reported full of slush and in the fields every depression had a snow water pond. A visitor to the nearby woods Sunday, found many tracks criss-crossing all about, telling of the activity of the woods folks.

At the meeting of the firemen, scheduled for next Wednesday evening, Warden E. J. Jodoin and Fire Marshall G. H. Prior, will present a number of facts relative to the borough's urgent need of adequate fire-fighting equipment.

A talk with the warden today and with John F. Barnett, treasurer of the borough, settles the fact that there is absolutely no contemplation by the board of borough governments, either to raise the borough tax, or to negotiate temporary loans, as there is no financial need for either.

There is conceded that no town in the state of Connecticut has more willing and determined ability in fire menace control, than the A. A. Young Jr. Hose company No. 1.

One man said today, "We must not handicap the boys by insisting that they use obsolete apparatus." A check-up on opinions today seems to find some disfavor relative to the purchase of a pumper, for the fact that a large per cent of the borough hydrants have slightly over 100 pounds pressure.

Insurance underwriters will watch the meeting's action with much interest.

Mrs. William E. Perry of Sylvandale, Lisbon, has a remarkable species of cactus. For eight years, although carefully tended, the plant has refused to blossom. Two weeks ago a bud appeared, a slender stem, was sent straight up to a height of 24 inches. Hiscox's window on Main street.

The New Nursery

At home, at play and when they feed,
Mothers know what babies need.
—Old Mother Nature.

That little saying is quite true. Mothers know when fathers don't. Whitefoot couldn't for the life of him see anything wrong with that little house he was living in in the apple tree. He had thought it a wonderful little house. He had been sure that Mrs. Whitefoot would be simply delighted with it. So, when she didn't even take the trouble to look inside, Whitefoot was quite upset.

"What's the matter with that house?" he cried, following Mrs. Whitefoot down to the old stone wall.

"Oh, I guess that the house is all right," replied Mrs. Whitefoot.

"But what are you going to look somewhere else for?" demanded Whitefoot.

Whitefoot thought this over. He scratched his nose, first with one hand and then with the other. But all this scratching didn't enlighten him any. Finally Mrs. Whitefoot came to his relief.

"It isn't the house," said she; "it is the place it is in. The house is in the wrong place. It is too far for the children to go to reach the ground."

"I hadn't thought of that," said Whitefoot.

"Well, hereafter you might do a little thinking; it won't hurt you any," snapped Mrs. Whitefoot, who was cross because she was worried. Worried folk almost always are cross. Worrying and crossness go together.

"Well, my dear, what are you going to do about it?" inquired Whitefoot.

Mr. Whitefoot didn't reply. She was running along the old stone wall and Whitefoot ran after her. Presently she stopped and looked up. In the bushes just a few feet above her was a nest. It was an old nest, built the summer before by Kitty the Catbird. Mrs. Whitefoot ran up to that nest. In it were a lot of dead leaves. She pulled these out. She looked it all over, outside and in. It was a very good nest. It was an unusually well built nest for Kitty the Catbird. Mrs. Whitefoot looked down at Whitefoot. "It will do," said she.

Whitefoot blinked at her. "What'll do?" he demanded.

"This nest," said she. "We'll put a good roof over it. We'll enlarge it a little and make a little entrance from underneath. When we get through with it we'll have a real home. It will be just the place to bring up the children. They will have the old stone wall for a playground and that is full of hiding places. Yes, sir, this is just the thing I was looking for."

Mrs. Whitefoot wasted no time. She first thoroughly cleaned out that nest. Then, while Whitefoot helped by bringing material, she built up the sides of that nest and finally put a roof on it. She took a great deal of pains with that roof. Yes, indeed, she took a great deal of pains. She wanted that home to be warm and dry. Of course, she didn't do it all in a minute. In fact, the new home wasn't completed when she moved the babies there. She wanted some of the material of the old nest. Besides, she couldn't be building that new house and watching the babies at the same time when they were at a distance.

"It is better to have them where I can keep an eye on them," she explained to Whitefoot. And, as is his way, Whitefoot agreed. He had found by experience that it is easier to agree than to disagree with Mrs. Whitefoot. It was easier and a lot more comfortable. He saw, of course, that there would be no room for him there, so he kept his home in the little wren-house in the apple tree, which was only a short distance away.

POETRY

The Height of the Ridiculous

I wrote some lines once on a time
In wondrous merry mood,
And thought, as usual, men would say
They were exceeding good.

They were so queer, so very queer,
I laughed as I would die;
Albeit, in the general way,
A sober man am I.

I called my servant, and he came;
How kind it was of him
To mind a slender man like me,
He of the mighty limb!

"These to the printer," I exclaimed,
And, in my humorous way,
I added (as a trifling jest):
"There'll be the devil to pay."

He took the paper, and I watched,
And saw him peep within;
At the first line he read, his face
Was all upon the grin.

He read the next; the grin grew broad,
And shot from ear to ear;
He read the third; a chuckling noise
I now began to hear.

The fourth; he broke into a roar;
The fifth; his waistband split;
The sixth; he burst five buttons off,
And tumbled in a fit.

Ten days and nights, with sleepless eye,
I watched that wretched man,
And, since, I never dare to write
As funny as I can.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Frost

A frosty cloud is on the breath, tears bead
The lash and light is needle pointed. Here
Is quick decisive action, here you read
Of winter's consummation; black and drear
The stiff weeds chatter, and underfoot I break
A brittle crust, then crack the hard clothes from
The line and grotesque arms and bodies creak
Resentfully. The well is a crystal drum
Of ice and I will shatter it and draw
Enough and slam the door with hands like fire.
The wash melts and the fragrant smell of thaw
Hovers at the oven softly to expire.
A sorrow that was frozen in my heart
Is healed and I am left without a smart.

"It is great news," was his only comment.

The Chinese reverence for the printed word is profound. Throughout the international settlement in Shanghai are thousands of small wooden boxes or cloth bags attached to poles. Foreigners generally ignore these receptacles for refuse, but not so with the Chinese. It is no uncommon sight to see respectable, well-dressed Chinese pick up bits of paper from the street and place them in the receptacles. This is especially true of old newspapers or any paper on which words are printed. As a result of this the streets of the settlement are remarkably free from waste paper.

Almost 8,000,000 Chinese are residents of foreign countries, according to figures compiled by the foreign office at Peking and based on the last reports from China's consulates and legations abroad. One-third of the total are emigrants from the restless areas, including Canton and Amoy. About 150,000 in the United States and Hawaii together, with 50,000 or more in the Philippines, make a total of 200,000 Chinese living under the American flag. Only 3,000, says the survey, have migrated to Japan. The Dutch Indies have attracted the largest number, 2,825,000, most of whom are keepers of small retail shops.
